When the Chiropractor, by scientific adjustment removes the pressure from the nerves and helps Nature to restore Health the operation seems a simple one. Yet the knowledge is one that is gained only after a great deal of investigation, for Chiropractic is just as much a science and profession that has to be learned as any other Health method.

Knowledge of Spine and Nerves

The Chiropractor must intimately know the body. He must know what nerves feed every organ and just where these nerves branch out from the spine, so that he can place his finger right on the point of pressure that is causing trouble in certain parts of the body.

Because of this expert knowledge of why he adjusts, where and how to do it, the Chiropractor can, by examining the spine, tell what the trouble is without a patient telling him anything. The spine is the key. Spinal pressure on a certain nerve leads to weakness and disease in a certain organ That's why the Chiropractor adjusts a certain part of the spine to relieve headaches and another part of the spine for stomach or abdominal troubles, etc. In

PERFORM HAIR RAISING STUNTS ON PLANE WINGS

Onata Stopple of this city, has performed a feat that few ladies in the state have mustered up courage to attempt and which few men have attempted.

On Wednesday of this week a trip was made into the clouds in the aeroplane driven by Lieut. Alton, of Grand Forks, and while in the air about eight hundred feet, Miss Stopple stepped out of her seat and proceeded to walk all over the plane, stepping from one wing to another and otherwise performing feats that are only attempted by skilled and daring aviators.

On Monday a flight was taken with the aviator and the clouds explored. On alighting the conversation turned to the many hair raising stunts performed by the aviators now exhibiting at the fairs and the chances they took. Miss Stopple made the remark that she would not be afraid to attempt the same stunts and on a dare by the lieutenant she made arrangements to go up the next day and perform the unusual. The trip was made without mishap and Miss Stopple climbed all over the plane, standing upright on the wings and otherwise conducting herself in such a manner as to cause the pilot to almost lose control of machine from heart failure.

The stunt performed by Miss Stopple is unusual in the extreme and so far as we know has never been attempted by any other person in the state. The pilot in charge of the plane stated it was the most daring stunt he had ever witnessed and was certain the like had never been equaled before, especially by a passenger making the second trip.

Here From Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conner drove in from Colorado Saturday for a few days' stay at home. They have been spending a very enjoyable time in Colorado for several months in their car. John has been selling stock in a large farmers' co-operative company and with fine success. The business he is engaged in has given him an opportunity to see practically all the north half of the state, making headquarters in the larger towns, including several weeks in Denver. John will do business wherever he goes. We are glad to see him doing so well and in pleasant surroundings as his liking. Mr. and Mrs. Conner are quality people and they are always loyal to Thief River Falls.

Reception for Teachers.

On Friday evening next, the Methodists are to extend a welcome to all the teachers of the public schools. These admirable people many of whom have come from far, deserve the best the city can give them and should from the first be made to feel perfectly at home in our midst. This they will do if the well known hospitality of our people can accomplish it!

Threshing Nears End.

Threshing operations in Pennington county are fast nearing an end and the result is all that could be expected or asked for. The yield if small grain, with the exception of wheat, is far above the average and the farmers generally are well pleased with the yield. A great many have been compelled to stack their grain for the present as they were unable to get threshing rigs at the time, and will thresh later in the year. Flax oats, barley and all small grain is far above the average, which is a condition that can be borne easily by the entire county and which is highly gratifying to all.

To Make This City Their Home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Briggs, of Clarion, Iowa, arrived in the city yesterday morning and will make this city their future home. Mr. Briggs has purchased an interest in the Tri Tire and will hereafter be actively identified in the capacity of superintendent of the mechanical department. Mr. Briggs is a high class man having been in the employ of Rand-McNally, Chicago, for twelve years and is to have complete charge of the mechanical department and will see that all work is turned out on time and in a satisfactory manner.

Moves to Plummer.

Louise Kruse left on Thursday for Plummer where he will make his future home. Mr. Kruse has purchased a small tract of land near the city and will try the life of a truck gardener for awhile.

Improving Church

The trustees of the Methodist church, aided by the Ladies' Aid, are improving and beautifying the church and parsonage property. Paint, paper, shingles and a new furnace will all do their part in this work and worshippers with the Methodists will have comfort and satisfaction during the winter months, while the pastor is rejoicing in an up to date, modern home in the very best condition. The Methodists are to be congratulated on the enterprise and generosity of their people.

WOOL GROWERS THREATEN TO MANUFACTURE

CLAIM THAT EARLY ADJUSTMENT OF WOOL MARKET MUST BE MADE.

Minnesota sheep raisers are threatening to engage in the clothing business unless the wool market soon shows some sign of life and prices for the product start to return to normal.

Paradoxical as this statement may seem, the fact was disclosed in reports from a number of counties to the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul, for its weekly review of business conditions in every county in Minnesota. In substance, wool growers are threatening to have their product manufactured into blankets, cloth and clothing materials rather than sell it at present prices.

Practically no improvement was noted in the wool situation and more shipments were made to Chicago. The past week has been one of exposition county fairs and county exhibits at the greatest agricultural exposition in the world—the Minnesota state fair. Heavy purchases of pure bred cattle were made by farmers and cattlemen's associations in many counties and indications are that despite the slump in prices for beef cattle, the pure bred industry will be greatly developed in Minnesota this year.

So far as grain crops are concerned, reports received during the past week did not show any marked changes. Harvesting and threshing evidently proceeded with unusual speed. Several county agents reported that threshing on large farms was completed ahead of schedule. Plowing demonstrations by tractors are quite general in the central and the southern counties. Determination of many farmers to hold their grain crops has threatened to complicate the freight car situation. Judging from a number of reports farmers are disposing of their grain in concert and railroad officials have been urging them to market it gradually.

The car supply generally has been very irregular but railroad executives apparently are making vigorous efforts to supply the farmers. A majority of the more than two-thirds of the counties heard from—reported a sufficient car supply. Less than a dozen reports indicated a shortage.

Census of vehicle traffic on leading county roads is being taken throughout the state. Most of the counts have been completed and preliminary figures have confirmed the belief that the automobile travel has been historic this summer. Reports available from 26 states had been checked and the list includes cars from New England, California, Florida, Texas and Virginia.

It is very probable that a new industry will be developed next summer in many cities. Hundreds of automobile parties, visiting Chambers of Commerce of tourist headquarters have disclosed the fact that many of the tourists are wealthy farmers from other states who were combining business with pleasure—inspecting farm lands as they motored along the fine cement trail or other highways. Already a number of Minnesota cities have opened tourist headquarters and have installed farm and city property information booths in these headquarters. The headquarters next year also will probably advertise summer resort attractions for the respective localities, along more comprehensive lines.

Hayy rains checked the peat fires in Roseau and Beltrami counties, but these blazes have not entirely been extinguished. Michigan farmers continued to inspect lands in northern counties, while more farm land sales to Illinois and Iowa farmers were reported from southern Minnesota. Kansas and Missouri farmers are becoming interested in counties, but these blazes have not entirely been extinguished. Michigan farmers continued to inspect lands in northern counties, while more farm land sales to Illinois and Iowa farmers were reported from southern Minnesota. Kansas and Missouri farmers are becoming interested in counties, but

The weekly report prepared by the Merchants National Bank is now being mailed to a selected list of business men and business organizations affiliated with agriculture, in a considerable number of states.

FINE PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR BIG MEETING

MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION WILL BE A VERY INTERESTING MEETING.

The meeting of the Merchants' Association next Tuesday evening which is to start the fall activities of the association is to be held at the Polk Hotel and will be in the nature of a banquet and get-together meeting. The local members of the association hope for a good attendance at this meeting is to be a hummer and it is to be full of interest to everyone present.

As mentioned before, H. P. Mann, a merchant of Devil's Lake, N. D., and well known to a great many people make the principal address of the evening, and those who are best acquainted with Mr. Mann say the address is sure to be full of excellent ideas and will be well worth hearing. The association wishes every member to get the date of the meeting firmly fixed in his mind and to let nothing short of an earthquake keep him from attending. From all reports this is to be the banner meeting of the association and plans are under way to make this meetig long to be remembered.

Recovers From Accident.

Erling Gerdts, of Duluth, who went thru the fence in the automobile races at the fair grounds last Monday afternoon, quickly recovered from his accident and was up and around the next day. Aside from a slight injury to his back Gerdts came thru the ordeal in good shape and is fortunate indeed that he is not numbered among those missing. His car which was completely smashed, is being overhauled at a local garage. Gerdts returned to his home at Duluth as soon as he was able to travel. A purse of fifty dollars, which was made up by the local post and the Central Labor Union, was given him in appreciation of his nerviness in his participation in the events and to help out for the hard luck he had experienced in being unable to finish in any event.

Entertain at Picnic.

Last Friday afternoon, thirty of the former pupils of Miss Blanche Johnson held a party at her home in her honor. Games of various kinds were enjoyed by the guests until the supper hour, when a delicious picnic supper, which had been brought by the guests, was served on the lawn. As a token of their esteem the young people presented Miss Johnson with a beautiful gift of silverware in the pattrican design. The party was chaperoned by Meadames Geo. Nicholson, H. O. Loken, J. Q. Cronkhite and Hermanson.

Fourteen Points on Going to Church

We quote from Howell Davis, Newton, N. J., in the "New Era Magazine," the following fourteen reasons why men should go to church:

1. It gives men a chance to hear something good.

2. It brings them in contact with men who are trying to improve their lives.

3. It sets a good example to others not in the habit of going to church.

4. It is the best preparation for the work of the week.

5. It makes a man a better citizen.

6. It purifies and sweetens the home life.

7. It endorses a good cause.

8. It promotes the spirit of brotherhood.

9. It will help the workman to put his conscience into his work and the employer to be more just in deciding rate of his workmen. The golden rule works both ways.

10. It leaves a pleasant memory to cheer us in later years.

11. It fits a man for death and the hereafter.

12. Consistency requires that men go to church if they go to church.

13. It encourages the preacher. For more enjoyable and profitable it is to preach to living men than to empty and unresponsive pews.

14. It is obligatory on all men to keep holy the Sabbath day.

R. L. Barackman.

Entertain Music Class.

Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. O. Erickson delightfully entertained the members of her music class at a picnic held at the O. Erickson cottage on the Thief River. Following the afternoon spent in playing games and at the close of a delicious supper was served by the hostess. A delightful time is reported, all having the pleasure of

INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE ON LAKE OUTLET

CLAIM MADE THAT OUTLET IS CLOSED, PREVENTING FISH FROM GETTING THRU

The Commercial Club is looking into a matter that will be of interest to every resident of this city and surrounding territory concerning the fact that the Red river, which finds its source in Red Lake, is being shut off so that it is impossible for the fish from the lake to come down the river and to get down this way where the local fishermen may have a chance to hook the finny tribe.

The complaint has been made by several people who have visited the Red Lakes recently that the outlet is screened over and that there is no chance for fish to get out of the lake, but that they are held right there and are allowed to get into the river. This is of course rather disagreeable and has riled some of the citizens in this part of the woods considerably with the unfairness of the situation. As a result the Commercial Club has been notified and steps are being taken to determine if this be true and if found true why it is allowed to exist any longer.

Local fishermen have noticed this season that it was pretty hard to snag a good fish and could not figure out why there were not more fish in the river. If the statement be true that the outlet of the Red Lakes is close, the shortage of fish in this vicinity can readily be understood and while it can be tolerated for a time, it is especially disconcerting to lovers of the sport and is causing much dissatisfaction among them. If found to be true the Commercial Club will push the matter to a finish and will see that the outlet is opened and that the fish are allowed to come down the river.

Selling Out Sandum Stock.

Swede and Company, who purchased the Gilbert Sandum store last week have decided to close the stock out and are going after the job in whole hog fashion. They are going to disperse of the stock, fixtures and building in the shortest time possible and are circularizing the country broadcast to clean up the stock quickly. See their large ad. in today's issue of the Tribune which sets forth some of the many bargains they are offering.

Extra Fine Weather.

The weather that this section of Minnesota has enjoyed for the past several months has been far above that of any other part of the state. The days have been ideal and the nights just right for sleeping with both sheets on. It has been an ideal summer from every standpoint and few spots have been favored with such ideal weather or such bountiful crops Pennington county has much to be thankful for this year.

Curfew Law Enforced.

The curfew law adopted last winter by the city council is now in force and children under sixteen years of age are to be in not later than nine o'clock. The curfew is ring each night and the police state that it is their intention to see that the law is enforced, especially so during the school months.

Mr. and Mrs. Proteller Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Proteller of this city were hosts to twenty of their friends at a pavilion party which was held in Tindolph park on Sunday afternoon. Those having the pleasure of the affair were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Akre, Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Mellby, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lampert, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mogenson, Mr. and Mrs. John Bratrud, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Boreen, Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Schutt.

Aaland-Olson.

Tuesday evening at six o'clock at the Aaland home on LaBree avenue occurred the marriage of Thales E. Aaland and Miss Lillian Olson, both of Thief River Falls. The bridal party were attended by Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Johnson. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the relatives and immediate friends present and the happy couple left the same evening for Minneapolis, where they will spend a brief honeymoon.

The Blue Birds of the Presbyterian Sunday School are having a sale of home made candy Saturday afternoon September 11, at Loken's Department Store.

FIRST MEETING OF COMMERCIAL LAST EVENING

WILL START SERVING NOONDAY LUNCHES ON THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23.

At a meeting of the Commercial Club held last evening, which was the first of the season, and at which there was a very small attendance the matter of serving noonday lunches each week was the principal question under discussion and in a very short time little matter was finally disposed of and the date set for the first luncheon of the season. It was decided at the meeting that the first luncheon should be served Thursday noon, Sept. 23 and the secretary was instructed to get in touch with someone who would undertake the task of serving the lunches, the club to withstand all expense and to pay them for the labor expended in the work. The equipment for the serving of the lunches has already been installed and with very little work this feature of the club can be made into one for the strongest and one which will do more to increase interest than any other measure the club can adopt at this time. It is the purpose of the club to hold the noonday lunches every Thursday if possible, and there will be held until interest in the proposition drags and it can be handled no longer. The serving of these lunches is in no manner a money making scheme but is rather to help get members of the club together and to discuss measures and ways of boosting the city in general and promoting the welfare of the club. It is more than likely the lunches will be served weekly straight thru in case interest holds up and the members show they are appreciative of the plan and are on hand when the dinner bell is rung each Thursday. It was planned to put the first lunch next Thursday, but it was pointed out that this was the opening of the hunting season and for that reason it was decided that if the members would be in the field hunting and the opening lunch might have a slim attendance. For this reason the lunches are to be held over until September 23rd, when the opening of the club activities will start in full swing.

Another item that was slightly discussed at the meeting lost evening and one which no doubt will interest every citizen of the county is whether or not the club should get behind the movement to have a speaker sent out by the State Highway Improvement Association, and in case it is, to get a speaker from the association it is first necessary that the county subscribe an amount somewhere equal to the expenses undergone by the association to keep this county supplied with speakers and to explain all phases of the amendment before the election in November. A committee on this has been appointed and they will start at once to raise sufficient funds to take care of this expense and to see that the county is as well represented along this line as our nighboring counties.

Auto Collision.

A head-on collision between two automobiles on the Jefferson Highway west of the city last Saturday evening came very near resulting in a serious accident and as it is both cars are badly damaged and the Ford, which was hit by a Buick, is in such a shape that there is some question as to whether it can be repaired. The attempt to avert a collision he shut off the machine off and was at a complete standstill when the other machine crashed into him. None of the party were seriously injured other than a bump on the head received by Honreth in the Buick.

Send Children to Owatonna.

The three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Amundson, residing on Duluth avenue north, went sent to the state home for childre at Owatonna Wednesday morning by Judge of Probate Richardson, after hearing the testimony of neighbors and other who knew the manner in which the children were being reared. The two older children are making an effort to shift for themselves and will be left here as long as they are able to take care of themselves or are taken care of by responsible parties. The children were taken to the state home the same evening.

BIG SPEAKERS TO BE AT TRI COUNTY FAIR

SOME OF THE BIG MEN OF THE STATE ARE TO APPEAR AT GOODRIDGE FAIR

Arrangements for the Tri-County Fair to be held at Goodridge on September 21 and 22 are moving rapidly to completion and a splendid program is to be given the attending public. Several speakers of note have already signified their willingness to be present and will deliver addresses on both days of the fair.

On the first day there will be one of the chief grain inspectors from the state deportment to explain the system employed by the state in the inspection of grain and to answer any and all questions relative to this work. The department had a man at the Pennington county fair and this proved to be one of the main attractions. The work is very interesting and especially to those interested in the growing of grain.

Senator D. F. O'Neill will be there on the first day also to talk on the Babcock road amendment which is to come before the voters on November 2 and in conjunction with Senator Schmeckel, of Renville county, sent out by the state highway improvement association, will explain the Babcock system in all its details and will answer any and all questions that may be asked at the time.

Commissioner J. H. Hay, former school superintendent at this place, will be at the fair on the second day and an effort is being made to secure Mike Dolwing, but at this time no definite assurance has been received of his coming. It is thought that he will accept the invitation to be present and deliver an address on one of the two days.

The fair promises much this year and this city will no doubt turn out in full force to see that the second annuel event in the life of the three counties participating proves to be all that is expected and much more.

NARROW ESCAPE WHEN AUTO HITS TRAIN TUESDAY

JOSEPH ALTHOFF, DRIVING A FORD, HITS GREAT NORTHERN PASSENGER TRAIN.

An accident that looked for a time as the it would terminate fatally for the principal participant occurred on Tuesday afternoon when the Great Northern passenger train pulled into town and hit the Ford car driven by Joseph Althoff, an employe of the V. C. Nopar farm west of the city.

Mr. Althoff was coming to town in the car and did not notice the train until he was fairly upon it and rather than hit the train he turned the car sideways and attempted to get clear of the track, but his action was not soon enough and the train hit the car a sidewipe that sent it skeltering to the four winds of heaven. The car was struck by the baggage car and was literally torn to pieces. The train was nearing the station and was not going so very fast, which enabled the crew to stop the train and pick up the injured man. He was taken on to the station and taken from there to the hospital, where his injuries were attended to and it was found that while it was feared the injuries might prove fatal, but shortly after being taken to the hospital Althoff regained consciousness is now steadily on the road to recovery. It was hard to tell just how badly he was injured at the time, as he was bleeding profusely and seemed to be injured about the head. In a short time, however, it was determined that he was not injured as badly as it appeared and would soon pull through.

The car, which had been used as a delivery truck in the distribution of milk about the city, is a goner. It is torn to tiny bits and not enough is left of the car to even resemble a Ford

The outcome is decidedly lucky for Althoff and it is fortunate that he escaped such a close call with such minor injuries.

The bridge on the Jefferson Highway south of the city, and across the big ditch is in a precarious and dangerous condition. Some one will have a bill for damages to pay, if this grade and bridge is not fixed.

RE-ROUTING JEFFERSON HIGHWAY.

The towns of Steiner, Holt, Middle River, Strathcona, Greenbush and Pelan have an organization and will present their claims in due time to the Jefferson Highway Association for consideration. The re-routing of the Jefferson Highway from Thief River Falls north to Hallock, as we have recited in these columns before, is inevitable. Under the new Babcock Road Law, a paved road will be built from Thief River Falls to Warren, where the road will connect with the Kings Trail from Crookston via Warren to Hallock. A paved road will also be built from Thief River Falls north to Steiner, Holt, Middle, River, Strathcona, Greenbush, and from Greenbush two ways: north to Roseau and Warroad and west to Hallock. The present route of the Jefferson highway positively will be abandoned. It was a make shift route in the beginning and has served its purpose well, but now it is out of date and inadequate in every way. It is fifty miles north from Thief River Falls to a town; the road as now located has no friends and more than a dozen towns on two sides oppose the present location. The present route under the new law will not and cannot be paved. The other two routes will be paved. One of these routes will be adopted by the Jefferson. We point to Thief River Falls business men, merchants, bankers, hotel men, auto men, all business men, that this road is going to be changed. The Jefferson Highway is a big asset to our city, worth more to us than another railroad would be, much more. The road is going via the north route or by Warren, where the Kings Trail will swallow it up. We have no hesitancy in saying that the north route is one hundred times the best route in every respect so far as roads are concerned. If the road goes north, we add more than a dozen towns, with an empire of trade territory and thousands of friends. It the road goes to Warren we put up a trade barrier at the Pembina ridge and possibly be shut the route good-bye entirely. Just as soon as Warren gets the road established via their town to Hallock, we will begin to hear from Crookston, with the possible loss of the road entirely. Wake up right now. Let's put in all we have and let's put it in at the front end where it will do some good.

"A PROPHET IS NOT WITHOUT HONOR, SAVE IN HIS OWN COUNTRY."

Now, there is Prof. Hay. The Lord knows he would not put in words what he thinks about certain of matters and things. We are proud indeed to see him in an exalted, honorable and profitable position. We are glad and proud to see this capable, clean and honorable man accepted in official life in Minnesota. Glad to see him in a position of influence; his aid and counsel sought and accepted by the big men and women of the state. We are glad to see him stand upright in the high place in Minnesota, able to look and act the part, if he does not put it in words: "I am a man."

Hon. Daniel P. O'Neill.

Mr. O'Neil loves his friends and knows his enemies. "He could a tale unfold." But will he? We fear not. For while the genial Dan has had occasion to sip the wormwood and gall, so also has he tasted of the milk of human kindness and it is proverbial that the exalted, who sit on cushioned divans and collect, are prone to forget the dark days and dank, of political vicissitude. Mr. O'Neill is secure for some years to come in a position to his liking and made to order, almost, for him. He is the highest authority; the man at the top; the man with the last word in the greatest grain inspection bureau in the world, and he is big enough for the job. Hon. D. P. O'Neill, of Thief River Falls. We knew him well. Good for Dan, we are glad he is there.

MR. COX'S CHARGES

Governor Cox, the Democratic presidential candidate, has been repeating his charges concerning campaign contributions. In his Wheeling speech, the first after his speech of acceptance, he charged, as reported, that certain interests were banded together to buy the presidency and that millions had been contributed to the campaign fund of the Republican party with sinister intent. In his subsequent speeches he has charged that a vast corruption fund is being gathered by financiers for use in the Republican campaign, that the Republicans are raising a fifteen-million dollar campaign fund, and that a ring of corporations and "greedy interests" is contributing largely to this fund, etc.

Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, declared, as reported, that the Republican campaign fund would exceed thirty million dollars, adding that "such a sum could not be honestly expended."

Mr. Hays chairman of the Republican National Committee, has replied to Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt as follows:

"Both these men know that the Republican National Committee has adopted a plan, which I announced more than a year ago, for financing the campaign by a method of decentralized giving, securing small contributions from a great many, with a limit of one thousand dollars as a maximum for any contribution; that Mr. Harding had publicly approved the plan, and that the committee had readopted it after he was nominated.

"By reason of the enlarged electorate and the greatly increased cost of all things, we figure that there will be required a total of about three million dollars, an average of about ten cents per voter. . . . If this attempt should fail to produce the required sum, we shall so state publicly, increase the maximum and seek additional contributions."

There has been no intimation, so far as we know, by either Mr. Cox or Mr. Roosevelt, that the Democrats have declined to receive the largest contributions possible. Mr. Hays said handsomely that no criticism of the Democrats for seeking the largest obtainable contributions would be offered. He added:

"Now that we, in resentful emulation of the positive charges of the Democratic candidates, so much as intimate that their responsible officers will use any part of their fund corruptly. Frankly and squarely, as between mutual respecting citizens, we don't believe they will, or would if they could."—Outlook.

COX-WILSON PROGRAM WOULD ENSLAVE HALF THE WORLD

Every day conditions grow worse and more bloody in poor Ireland. Every day over the oppressed little island the clouds of uncivilizing civil war grow darker.

In a larger, if not the larger, part of the country the government is practically a revolutionary government, and the population obeys revolutionary rather than the regularly constituted tribunals.

The upheaval is complete and the courage and determination of the Irish people and the capacity of their leads seem to make it probable that these despirite conditions will prevail indefinitely until the English Tories yield to the greater humanity and the higher principles of the organized British workmen or to the pressure of the outside world.

The greatest hope for peace in Ireland is, of course, from outside pressure upon the imperialistic Tories. But Mr. Wilson's impressistic, un-American, undemocratic league of nations provides that if any member of the league is threatened with the loss of any territory by outside attack all the other members shall come to her rescue.

Hence, if the United States were in the league of nations, the Tories of Great Britain would understand that no matter what war she was engaged in, and no matter how desperate her situation with her enemies might be, the United States would be bound not only not to encourage the Irish people in their struggle for liberty, but actually to use all her military powers to prevent Great Britain's enemy from freeing Ireland. The infamy of this provision can only be realized when we consider that it is only through that means that every small country has been freed from its oppressor in the last two centuries.

This evil feature of the league of nations has been so thoroughly discussed and so thoroughly repudiated that there would not now be sufficient danger from it to merit further discussion if it were not for the fact that the great international bankers and Mr. Cox, the Democratic nominee whom these bankers are supporting for president, are fighting for the adoption of the league of nations.

If Mr. Cox is elected while continuing to advocate article ten, the hope of Ireland, Egypt, Shantung, Korea and Persia and all other little nations now being oppressed by the victorious allies, whose imperialism was as great as Germany's, but only better concealed, will be buried under the gigantic power of the United States.

Moreover the people of Irish blood in America will have the melancholy reflection that they helped to crush the hope of their race by helping to save England from the defeat which she would have suffered but for the intervention of the United States.

No liberty loving American of Irish descent, no liberty loving American of whatever descent, can afford to vote for an undemocratic, un-American program that would enslave half the world to an imperialistic league of spoilers and which would put American men and money back of an international policy of aggression and oppression.

ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT

Chicago Tribune: Franklin D. Roosevelt was taken to fill in the Democratic national ticket because his name was Roosevelt. If it had been anything else he probably would not have been thought of. He says he is out after the progressive Republicans who were Roosevelt Republicans. That is his job in the campaign. He is to put the honey of a name on the trap of a ticket. Franklin D. Roosevelt is fifth cousin to Theodore Roosevelt and his relationship is the closest degree of intimacy he can claim. The last time Theodore Roosevelt headed a national ticket Franklin Roosevelt was working for one of his opponents, Woodrow Wilson. Because Franklin's name is Roosevelt, because he was in the New York legislature and because he is assistant secretary of the navy, he is put forward as another Theodore. If he is, then Billy Sunday is a Mormon. Franklin is as much like Theodore as a clam is like a bear cat. Franklin is one of the fifty-fifty fleet men, fifty for Pacific votes, fifty for Atlantic votes and none for the enemy. If he is Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root is Gene Debs and Bryan is a brewer.

ANOTHER DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Billy Sunday, the justly popular and original evangelist, has recently been in the northern part of the state, fishing and recuperating. The citizens of a village near where he was encamped called on him and asked him for a talk on Sunday afternoon. Billy acquiesced. On arriving at the little park where the talk was to be given, it was found that no platform or anything had been provided for the speaker to stand on, so two or three fellows hurried across the street, took possession of a manure spreader and dragged it into the park. Billy mounted and opene by saying that he had talked from nearly all elaborate and beautiful platforms in the country, but frankly acknowledged that this was the first time he ever spoke from a Democratic platform.—Ex.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

The booster crowd next Thursday are requested to notice the roads from Thief River Falls to Warroad. This 103 miles of road is the best long road out of Thief River Falls, and has been the best all summer. On this road are Steiner, Holt, Middle River, Strathcona, Greenbush and the Roseau county towns. The Jefferson Highway should follow this route at least as far as Greenbush. We will have a paved road (under the Babcock law) on this route in a very short time, under the same law we will have a paved road to Warren on the north. We will never have a paved road on the present Jefferson Highway location across Marshall county. The towns above named are our natural friends. Let's get to working with them. They can and will help us much more than we can help them. Study this Jefferson Highway proposition and be prepared to talk on your trip. There is no way you can render your own town a greater service. Instead of asking these people for something offer them something, offer them your co-operation in the matter of re-locating this road where they want it and where it will do us the most good.—Thief River Falls Tribune.

The above from the Modern Highway, the official publication of the Jefferson Highway, issued September 20th, shows that the head officials of the Highway Association desire information and light on what is going on. Just now, at the most intensive period of Jefferson Highway history, when paved roads four ways from Thief River Falls are about to be planned, when a paved road to the Lake of the Woods, 103 miles north of this city, onyl lacks to confirmation of the voters at the polls, where the interests of the neighbor towns in our trade territory are treating this Jefferson Highway and paved road to the north as the most important thing that has been up for consideration in ten years for them and us. Headquarters aska, "How about this?" Is some one in official authority holding back information? "How about this?" Mr. Clarkson and the officials of the highway at headquarters at St. Joseph, Missouri, are impartial, capable, honest men. Their interest in new things for the Jefferson Highway will not be for us or against us. What is best for the Jefferson will count with them. All these matters will finally be determined on their merits. Send your Jefferson Highway troubles to Mr. Clarkson, the General Manager. He will be glad to hear from you. We are going to send him a map. The Tribune will tell him the rest.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop, as one of the official party, accompanied the Harding train from Chicago to Minneapolis. Later she was in the receiving line at the Curtis Hotel, where a reception was tendered Mrs. Harding. Mrs. Bishop is occupying the biggest official position in the Republican organization in Minnesota, Mrs. Fossem's place alone excepted. She not only occupies it, but fills it, and is complimented by prominent men and women of the state for her ability, tact, grace and diplomacy. We at home knew it all the time. We are glad indeed to see the judgment of the state leaders confirm the local estimate of our most worthy townswoman. We are certainly proud of Mrs. Bishop.

The Samson Model M Tractor

When you buy your tractor you want heavy draft horsepower, both for the draw bar and belt, but at the right price in first cost and upkeep cost as well. This is what the designers, engineers and producers had in mind when they developed the Samson Model M. You want a tractor that will take the place of and perform the duty of a barn-full of expensive horses, without costing you a small fortune to buy or a big part of your crop to maintain. That's exactly the kind of a tractor you get in the Samson Model M.

The Samson Model M is the last word in modern tractor construction. It is not like the average I-beam and channel steel frame tractor that weighs so much it takes a large per cent of its own power for self propulsion—it is a coupled power unit all by itself from radiator to rear wheels. Every working part is enclosed and protected against dust, mud and rain.

The even distribution of weight, compact design and low center of gravity give to the Samson perfect traction, great stability and insures its hugging the ground under all conditions.

It has no lost motion for it is built and lubricated throughout like a high priced automobile, insuring great efficiency, ease of operation, maximum length of life and service and the price is right.

NEWS FROM VILLAGE OF ROSEWOOD

Consolidation Plat O. K'd by State.

According to information received from County Superintendent Gheen, the plan of Warren and Johnson of Thief River Falls, the plat drawn up by these men and submitted for the approval of the state department of education concerning the consolidation of the Willowdale, Rosebank, Busy Bee and Prichard school districts has been returned with the department's approval and the districts may now proceed with the necessary details for the materialization of the plan. The first step necessary is the securing of at least 25 per cent of the signatures of the freeholders within each district and upon presentation of which the county superintendent will call special elections in each district to vote upon the matter. At this election all persons eligible to vote at the regular school meetings will have an opportunity to cast their votes. Petitions to secure the bona fide signatures are at present being circulated by different men in the districts and without doubt the necessary number will be had in a few days and the public will then be called upon to determine whether the one room school houses shall still exist for some time o rif the more modern and without gainsay for the coming generation more advantageous consolidated school plan shall be inaugurated.

Women's Clothes Have Style Or They Haven't

There is no middle ground. And happily, that group of women who recognize this fact and who wish to express themselves through apparel of real distinction is getting larger and larger. It is the demands of this eager and enthusiastic patronage that inspire us to avoid the commonplace and to show only apparel of genuine merit. And best of all we are enabled to price this type of apparel within the reach of the woman with a limited income. In fact, our prices are no higher than one would expect to pay for the ordinary sort. A trip through Sapero's tomorrow will serve as conclusive evidence.

A Home Made Refrigerator or Fireless Cooker.

For those doing light housekeeping, or wishing it only temporarily, or who cannot afford a "regular" fireless cooker or refrigerator or the ice it takes to run one, an inexpensive little refrigerator or fireless cooker may be made at home. The same contrivance may serve in either capacity on demand.

To make such a convenience one needs a covered lard can, 6 pail deep enough to hold milk bottles and ice broken up around them. This sits inside another pail a trifle larger and deeper. The smaller can or pail may be removed and cleaned at will but the larger one is stationary. This sits in a still larger container—a wooden box is good for this, or a very large lard can or butter firkin—filled with sawdust around the middle can or pail. The sawdust keeps the air from changing the temperature of the inside containers, which may be used either as ice-box or fireless cooker. The principle of both is the same. Objects set inside this secluded spot will remain practically at the same temperature they were when placed therein, depending on the thoroughness of the exclusion of the outer air.

A sawdust cushion to fit, or a fitted pad of fifty layers of newspapers should cover the outer can the protect the top as the sawdust protects the sides from the air. All covers and fittings should be as tight and close as possible.

If this is used as a fireless cooker, the fewer times it is opened during use the better; as each time will let heat escape. It is an improvement to use a hot radiator, as the round soapstones for this use are called. With this the food contents may be kept actually at the boiling point for a long time.

AGE OF PRESIDENTS

Roosevelt Was Youngest Man to Head Nation.

Of the twenty-five presidents of the United States who have died only twelve reached the age alloted to man by the Psalmist. Only one, John Quincy Adams, reached the four score and ten, an no president since John Quicy Adams has lived to be 80. The three oldest presidets were the immediate successors of Washington and it so happened that from that great man's death on December 14, 1799, to July 4, 1826—in the administration of the sixth president—a day when both John Adams and Thomas Jefferson expired, the nation was not grieved by the passing of a former chief executive. There was no national mourning from 1826, when Tnylor died, until 1862, a year which saw the earthly end of both Tyler and Van Buren; and none from the death of Cleveland in 1908 until the present days of grief.

Taken according to longevity, the table of our departed presidents offers an interesting sequence.

| | Age when inaugurate | Age at death |
| John Adams | 61 | 90 |
| Thomas Jefferson | 57 | 83 |
| J. Q. Adams | 57 | 80 |
| Martin Van Buren | 54 | 79 |
| Andrew Jackson | 61 | 78 |
| James Monroe | 58 | 73 |
| John Tyler | 51 | 71 |
| Grover Cleveland | 47 | 71 |
| R. B. Hayes | 54 | 70 |
| W. H. Harrison | 68 | 68 |
| George Washington | 57 | 67 |
| Benjamin Harrison | 55 | 67 |
| Franklin Pierce | 48 | 64 |
| U. S. Grant | 46 | 63 |
| William McKinley | 54 | 58 |
| Abraham Lincoln | 52 | 56 |
| C. A. Arthur | 50 | 56 |
| James A. Garfield | 49 | 49 |

The average age nt which the presidents took office was 55, and the average period of their lives after that was 15 years. So, in a way, the psalmist scores after all, for the average age of these upright men was 70.

The first Harrison was the oldest American to be elected president and the most brief in service. Roosevelt was the youngest to enter the white house and of the five who died younger than he, three were the victims of assassins. Looking back upon his unquenchable youth of spirit it seems almost impossible to realize that his years were longer than those of Lincoln and McKinley.

While in St. Paul, Senator and Mrs. Harding were entertained at the home of R. Fritz Meyers. Mrs. Harding is a cousin to Fritz. Harding should not be blamed for this. He probably did not know it in time.

VIKING

Death of John Lindquist.

A deep gloom was cast over this community Sunday morning when the sad news was flashed over the wire that John Lindquist of Minneapolis had passed away at 10 o'clock Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Lindquist made their home on a farm in Viking some 16 years until last spring, when they sold their farm and bought a home in Minneapolis, where their daughter, Mrs. H. Loge, resides. Mr. Lindquist had been in poor health for some time, but no one, not even his nearest realized that he was so soon to leave them. Little do we realize when we meet our friends that it may be the last time; such undoubtedly was the case with Mr. Lindquist when he bade good bye to his many relatives and friends and together with his wife left for Minneapolis last spring. Mr. Lindquist underwent an operation Tuesday, August 31, and word was received that he was getting along fine, thus the news that he had passed away came like a icy winter blast to his friends. Mr. Lindquist was born in Smaland, Sweden, Dec. 16, 1860. He emigrated to America in 1883, soon after which he was united in marriage to Miss Ida Davidson. This union was blessed with three children, Dr. Lindquist of Viking, Mrs. H. Loge, of Minneapolis, and Elmer, a soldier who died in Germany April 19, 1919. Mr. Lindquist was a good Christian man, and without him the home can never be the same. The Lord gave and the Lord took away. He has gone to that better land where sorrow and suffering are no more. He is mourned by his wife two children, his mother, a brother, Pete Lindquist, a sister, Mrs. E. Tangquist, two grandchildren, several other relatives and a large circle of friends. The entire community extends sympathy to the sorrowing ones in their hour of grief. The funeral was attended by the following Viking people: Mrs. C. Styrlund, Mrs. E. Tangquist, Pete Lindquist, Dr. and Mrs. Lindquist and Mrs. Lindell.

The Standard Oil Company's station here is now nearing completion. A crew of men has been working here for some time. One huge tank, with a capacity of 18,000 gallons, is already in place and oil for the same is expected daily. Owing to the shortage of matrial the company has not been able to complete the work as early as intended. It certainly is a nice improvement to this village as it is put up in the very latest style. Each tank is placed on three piers, ten feet from the ground, and painted white. The engine house and warehouse are painted red and nothing has been spared to make it most modern and complete plant. The agent for the company, Mr. Forslund, has for some time been a very busy man as he had to haul his oil from Newfolden, this being the nearest point where the company has a station. The people of this village and surrounding country are certainly fortunate in getting this plant established, as it will mean a great saving in transportation. As soon as completed in every detail Mr. Forslund has promised that a picture of the plant will be seen in this paper.

Frances Lench was a Warren visitor last Saturday, arranging for a place to stay while she attends high school this fall.

The G. F. Peterson family of Warren were Viking visitors last Sunday.

Monday being Labor Day, everything in town was closed up in the afternoon between 12 ad 6 o'clock.

A movement is on foot to have an electric light plant built here this fall. This would be a most desirable and badly needs improvement to the village as far as the cost of light is concerned we do not think it would be more than anybody can afford. We wish good luck to those who have started and earnestly hope

SEED CORN TIME IN STATE BEGINS ON NEXT FRIDAY

Seed Corn Time for Minnesota begins next Friday, Sept. 10, and ends Monday, Sept. 20. This is the time when the farmers of Minnesota are urged to select and store their seed corn.

The reason for choosing this period is that it gives farmers a chance to get their corn in before the time for killing frosts and a chance to get their seed corn well cured and dry before freezing weather comes, thus putting it out of danger of injury.

That it pays to select and store seed corn in seed corn time is shown by the experience of certain counties in southern Minesota last spring. The farmers in the counties referred to postponed the picking of seed corn in seed corn time last fall. The finally made their selection of seed ears at husking time. Meanwhile there had been a hard freeze. The result was that when they came to test their seed corn last spring much of it would not germinate and they had to buy supplies at high prices. The postponement of seed corn selection therefore proved costly.

Methods of Profiteering.

Raising the prices of goods on account of the increased freight rates is a process that doesn't hold water. According to the statement of one of the big railroad companies, flour shipped in carload lots from Minneapolis to Philadelphia, on which the 40 per cent increase is paid, will amount to 33 cents a barrel of 200 pounds. On a 24-pound sack of flour this will be just a little less than four cents. The increased freight on a pair of shoes shipped from Boston to Philadelphia would amount to five mills; on a crate of thirty dozen eggs from Chicago to Philadelphia, twenty cents or three-fourths of a cent per dozen; on a bushel of potatoes from Exmore, Virginia, to Philadelphia, 5.5 cents. These representative instances indicate that the dealers who attempt to raise prices on account of the increased freight" are pretty apt to be found doing an inartistic piece of profiteering.

Agricultural School Opens Oct. 5.

Tuesday, October 5, is the opening date of the Northwest School of Agriculture according to information received from the school authorities by the Pioneer. The people of Middle River farming community are interested in the school. Many of its graduates live in our midst. During its 14 years of existence over 1500 students have been enrolled and about 400 are graduates. It can accommodate 250 in the dormitories provided, although by crowding 3 and 4 in the rooms 301 students were enrolled last year. The preliminary enrollment this fall is reported to be the heaviest in the history of the school.

Do not fail to attend the exercises to be held at the school on October 5, when the new dining hall, the paved roadway and the soldiers' and sailors' memorial are dedicated.

RAISING CERTIFIED SEED POTATOES

There are just two plots of certified seed potatoes being raised in Roseau county this year, and these are just a start, as the growers will undoubtedly use all the crop for seed next year. The certified seed plots are on the Jalmer Nord farm near Wannaska and on the Emil Schaller farm west of Greenbush.

Those raised on the Nord farm are of the Early Ohio variety. Although this has been a very dry season for potatoes this field has a dandy yield of fine uniform potatoes which will be exceptionally good for seed. It is worth anyone's time, who is interested in potato raising, to take a look at this field just to see what it means both for yield and the value of a better potato for the market to plant pure seed free of disease. Samples can be seen at H. C. Habstritt's office in Roseau.

Just what certified seed potatoes mean may be gathered from the fact that fields planted to such seed receive two inspections during the summer by a potato expert. Some of the requirements are that the variety planted must be pure. At the first inspection all foreign varieties found in the field must be removed and if the foreign varieties exceed two per cent the field will not be certified. The field must have strong plants while the tubers must run true to type. Any plants bearing marks of disease must be removed; while if the field exceeds a certain per cent combined of any or all of the potato diseases the crop will not be certified. Showing beyond a certain small amount of such diseases (the plants of which of course must be removed before the final inspection) as follows will disqualify: vine diseases, leaf roll, curly dwarf, mosaic, blackleg and blight; tuber diseases like brown ring, discoloration of fusorium wilt, powdery scab, common scab, rhizoctonin and late blight rot.—Roseau Times-Region.

When the Chiropractor, by scientific adjustment removes the pressure from the nerves and helps Nature to restore Health the operation seems a simple one. Yet the knowledge is one that is gained only after a great deal of investigation, for Chiropractic is just as much a science and profession that has to be learned as any other Health method.

Knowledge of Spine and Nerves

The Chiropractor must intimately know the body. He must know what nerves feed every organ and just where these nerves branch out from the spine, so that he can place his finger right on the point of pressure that is causing trouble in certain parts of the body.

Because of this expert knowledge of why he adjusts, where and how to do it, the Chiropractor can, by examining the spine, tell what the trouble is without a patient telling him anything. The spine is the key. Spinal pressure on a certain nerve leads to weakness and disease in a certain organ That's why the Chiropractor adjusts a certain part of the spine to relieve headaches and another part of the spine for stomach or abdominal troubles, etc. In no drugs or knife are used. If you are not as well as you should be, have your spine adjusted and the cause of your troubles removed, so Nature can make you strong and healthy again. Information, or a spinal analysis given without obligation. Investigate.

ALLIE BAA'S LETTER.

"Allie Baa," said Daddy, "is a reg doll you have both heard of before."

"Oh, yes," said Nancy, "and I know that her real name is a terrifically long one. What is it now, Daddy? I've just forgotten for the moment."

"Her real name," said Daddy, "is Alice Gustava Ariel Star Jewel Bright Carol Carmen Cucumber-Green.

"Mrs. Cucumber-Green is her mother's make-believe name, or I should say it was her mother's make-believe name.

"Her mother is a grown-up lady now, but still she has kept Allie Baa, and when little girls go to call on her she brings out Allie Baa and Allie at once makes friends.

She Told Allie.

"Now, this summer Allie's mother went to the sea shore. She left Allie in charge of the city apartment. She told Allie to keep watch over the apartment and to see that all was safe. Allie was the name she was always called by for short, as you know.

"Now, when Allie's great aunt's birthday came she wanted to send her a present as she had always done. So she sent some pillows for the porch where her great aunt loved to sit.

"On the day of the birthday in the excitement Allie's great aunt did not see the little card which said:

"'To Dear Great Aunt Mary, with love and many happy returns from Allie Baa.'

"But the next day when Allie's great aunt was looking over her presents she found the little card and knew then that it was to have gone with the present of the pillows which she had opened and which she had thought some one else had given to her.

"Well, she sat right down and she wrote Allie Baa this letter and sent it to be given to Allie Baa, care of Allie's mother, who was at the sea shore, as I have told you.

"This was the letter Allie received, and because she thought it was such a nice letter she wanted to let Nick and Nancy and their friends hear it, too.

"'My Dear Allie Boo,' the letter commenced.

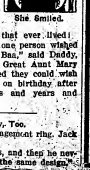
"'I find this morning on sending over my birthday cards that the pillows are from you, so will you please accept my thanks for your sensible, most useful, pretty gift. When I received my presents yesterday it was a distinct loss not to find a gift from you, and I thought perhaps you were too hot to shop or had some other good reason. But I am glad I thought wrongly and you did remember me as of old.

"'I shall think of you as I lie, sit, or "back up" against these pillows.

"'I suppose you are in the city this summer, as I have not heard of any "ocean dips" on your part.

"'Perhaps salt water might not agree with you. It is well to be cautious, which means careful, and run no risks! You might feel a responsibility with guarding the apartment, but you have a calm, brave, quiet nature which will keep you from a nervous breakdown, I feel sure.

"'With love and thanks,



"'Affectionately,

"'GREAT AUNT MARY.'

"Wasn't that a nice letter? Well, Allie's mother, on a trip up to town took the letter to Allie, for she couldn't very well go to the door and get it from the postmen if her mother had sent it on by mail. But oh, she was so pleased to have a letter from Great Aunt Mary.

"And she smiled in her rag doll way, and the paint on her face cracked just a little with joy, for she loved Aunt Mary, who had often let her sit near her and draw up close as an affectionate, loving doll likes to do.

"And she told her mother to tell Great Aunt Mary that she was so happy with her letter, and that she hoped Great Aunt Mary would have many, many happy returns of her birthday, for she was the best Great Aunt Mary that ever lived!

She Smiled.

"And more than one person wished the same as Allie Baa," said Daddy, for all who knew Great Aunt Mary loved her and hoped they could wish her happy returns on birthday after birthday for years and years and years!"

TWO MINUTE TALKS TO AMERICANS.

America First Association.

MISLEADING AGITATORS

By A. D. Wilson, Director Agricultural Extension, University of Minnesota.

President Lincoln very tersely and accurately defined Democracy as "Government of the people, by the people, for the people."

We as Americans are pledged to the principles of a democratic form of government. In a democracy the efficiency and stability of the government depends upon the knowledge and judgment of a majority of the people. American people are generally honest and their combined judgments are reliable provided the essential facts are known enough to exercise good judgment in deciding a matter unless he knows the facts.

As standards go, American people are well informed, but questions of government are becoming more and more complex. Therefore, it is plain that if American people are to continue to take an intelligent part in government they must be accurately informed on vital issues.

Education is then essential as a safe foundation for democracy. Necessary education is not all confined to schools. The great vital issues of the day are ever changing and new judgments must be formed based on new facts.

There are in America sufficient means for disseminating necessary information and the average citizen reads enough and attends enough meetings to be reasonably well informed were it not for the fact that too much of what he reads and hears is mis-information that many vote, or otherwise express their judgments without all of the facts.

Many agitators and partisan politicians intentionally and for reasons unAmerican, deliberately aim to mislead and confuse. If America is to continue to be governed by the people and for the people, it is vitally necessary that some reliable, simple direct means be provided for presenting to the press and people the vital issues of the day other than thru the prejudiced statements of partisan politicians and agitators.

Resolutions of Sympathy and Condolence by Young Pine Lodge No. 221, I. O. O. F.

Whereas, In view of the loss that has been sustained by Brother Emil Zeh and his family by the decease of a beloved daughter and sister;

Therefore, be it resolved, that it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her removal from the midst of her family, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regard.

Resolved, that we sincerely condole with our brother and his family on this dispensation with which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them, commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best and whose chastisements are meant in mercy.

Resolved, that this heartfelt testimonial of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to our bereaved brother and his family.

Resolved, that these resolutions be published in the local newspapers and placed upon the minutes of the meeting.

Married.

William Fitzgerald and Miss Marie Erickson were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at the M. E. parsonage on Sept. 3. C. S Ryan of St. Vincent was best man and Miss Bertha Erickson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The officiating minister was Rev. J. B. Smith. The young people will make their future home at Orleans, this state, and are followed by the congratulations of a large circle of friends of the bride, who is well known in this community, having graduated from the Thief River Falls high school in 1911.

Still Need Stenographers.

The United States Civil Service Commission has just issued a notice that stenographers are still urgently needed in the government service at Washington, D. C. There are 300 permanent situations to be filled at once at entrance salaries of $1200 a year with the bonus of $20 a month if services are satisfactory. Examinations are held every Tuesday at a large number of offices in this district and concerning which full information and the required application blank (Form 304) may be secured upon request from the secretary of the Eighth Civil Service District, Postoffice, St. Paul, Minn., or local secretary, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Interesting Meeting.

A meeting that is occasioning considerable interest among the alumni, former and present students of the Northwest School of Agriculture in the vicinity of Thief River Falls is scheduled to be held at Valhalla Hall by Engelstad's farm, four miles southeast of Thief River Falls, on the afternoon of September 19. A member of the Agricultural School from Crookston will be the speaker of the occasion. Arrangements for this event are in charge of a committee of alumni and former students of that school. The gathering is in the nature of a reunion of all former and present students who with their parent and friends will enjoy the afternoon. The addresses will be along educational lines. The general public is cordially invited to attend. As there are nearly 1,500 students of the Northwest School in the north counties of the state it is expected that annual gatherings of this kind will be held in the future.

Johnson-Noper.

Simple yet beautiful to the last degree was the marriage of Miss Blanche Theodora Johnson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, of this city, to Ross Emerson Noper, of Good Hope, Ill., which occurred on Wednesday evening at her parents' home, Burr Oaks Farm south of this city. There were about sixty guests present to witness the ceremony. At 8:30 o'clock the bride's wedding march, which was played by Mrs. Harold Page Miller, a friend of the bride. Rev. R. L. Barackman, of the local Presbyterian church, read the impressive service. Immediately after the service, Mrs. Irma Mallory sang "Beloved, It is Morn," and this was followed by "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning" as sung by Miss Ella Miller.

The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white charmeuse, and wore a veil caught in cap effect. The veil is a possession of Mrs. G. W. Walker and has been worn by seven other brides besides Miss Johnson. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lillies of the valley and wore a beautiful string of pearls a gift from the groom.

During the reception which immediately followed the ceremony, violin and piano selections were rendered by Misses Doris Halvorson, Laura Ferde and Ausilga Sorenson. A sumptuous wedding lunch was served at the close of the evening.

The bride, who has been engaged as instructor of piano in this city for a number of years, is a very talented musician and is a very popular and highly respected young lady. Her many friends offer hearty congratulations and most sincere wishes for a happy future.

Mr. and Mrs. Noper will leave the latter part of the week for Good Hope, Ill., where they will make their future home. The out of town guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller of Crookston; C. H. Chamberlain, also of Crookston; Mrs. Lewis Noper, mother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. James and family, of Good Hope, Ill., and S. McLeod, of Goodridge.

OBJECTIONS TO PAVING OF CITY WITHDRAWN MONDAY AFTERNOON

Historical Society

Free Rein Given City Council in Matter of Paving City and Opposition Now in Line and Boosting Proposition

What will be good news to the boosters for paving in this city is the fact that the opposition to the paving of the city have withdrawn their objections to the paving, the papers in the matter being filed yesterday afternoon.

This means that the city is now free to go ahead with the work of paving and that the entire city is behind them. It certainly takes a big load off the shoulders of the city council and means that instead of being opposed in their work they are to receive the united support of the city.

In filing the dismissal it was stated that the purpose of the action had served its purpose and it was not necessary for the matter to go thru the supreme court and would be dropped at this time without further procedure. It was stated the entire purpose of the action in the first place was to prevent the city from paving this year, as the objectors did not consider the streets in shape for paving and as the action has caused considerable delay in the matter and as it is impossible for the council to do any paving this year before cold weather sets in, the opposition decided it would be wise to withdraw the action at this time and unite in helping the council put the program thru in the early spring. Nothing further to hinder the paving of the city will be undertaken and we feel quite certain the council are considerably relieved over the matter and will breathe a sigh of relief in knowing they have the united support of the city in this progressive step.

In withdrawing the action, another valuable point has been gained for the council and one which has been considered by those opposing the paving at this time. There will be no excuse for the bonding company to refuse the money any longer. It has been withheld because the matter was pending the decision of the courts and they would not advance the money because of this fact. They will now have no reason for withholding the money unless they dig up something themselves that will give them a little leeway in holding back the money.

The council has a mighty fine contract for the money to do this work and the bonding company has been using all means possible to keep from digging up and when the action of local parties was filed opposing the paving, the bonding company were evidently well pleased and felt they were sitting mighty comfortable. Now the case is reversed and in view of the fact that the city has the united support of every citizen in the matter an dall objections have been removed, it is up to the bonding company to either come thru in quick time or else back down completely and be forced to furnish the money for this work.

The news generally will be well received and it is a certainty that the city will have paving in the spring. The contractor for the city who is to install the paving will arrive in a short time and will start the installation of curbing and gutters, leaving the actual paving of the streets until spring. It is a mighty big step forward and means that the city of Thief River Falls is to take her place in the front ranks of progressive cities. It is a big day for the progressive element of the city and from every indication there are nothing else but progressives. Those opposing the paving state that at no time have they ever been opposed to the paving of the city but were much concerned that paving would be laid before the proper sewer installations were made and the streets were in shape for paving. Everything is now working out just right and the city is soon to be listed among Northern Minnesota's high class cities and a place that is destined to double in population in the course of a few years.

Lund-Wood and Hodne-Wood.

On Sunday morning last a double wedding was solemnized in the Presbyterian church when Rev. R. L. Barackman, the pastor, in one ceremony united in wedlock John Lund and Lillian J. Wood and Samuel W. Hodne and Elizabeth A. Wood. The full formal ceremony was used including the plighted troth and the wedding ring.

The young people motored from Middle River accompanied by the family of the two brides who are sisters. After the marriage the young people proceeded south on an extended trip. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Lund will reside in Marshall county and Mr. and Mrs. Hodne will live in Kittson county.

Big Gathering Sunday.

A gathering held under the auspices of the Northwest School of Agriculture graduates, former and present students, is planned for next Sunday afternoon at Valhalla Hall, near Engelstad's farm, Thief River Falls. Prof. A. M. Foker, of the Agricultural School, will give an address. An invitation to attend is extended to everyone, young and old, as the gathering is open to all and is not limited to the agricultural school alumni.

DATES FOR TRI COUNTY FAIR ARE DRAWING NEAR

ENTERTAINMENTS AND AMUSEMENTS GALORE HAVE BEEN SECURED FOR FAIR

The big Tri-County Fair and fall exposition opens at Goodridge on Monday next and will hold forth two days, Monday and Tuesday, September 20 and 21.

The people of the three counties interested in the fair are working hard to make this the best fair so far held by the association. They have gone to great pains to see that the exhibits are the best possible to procure and are certain to have exhibits on display that will open the eyes of all who attend.

Amusement and entertainment galore have been secured and several speakers of note are to be on hand both days to entertain and instruct those in attendance. The program this year far exceeds that of last year, which was a corker itself.

The Tri-County Fair last year was largely attended by the people generally of this city and county and it is certain the attendance this year will be much larger. This is the second fair of the association and it is sincerely hoped the county will get behind the association and help to make this the banner fair of all. Everything that can be done to make this year's fair the best of all is being done and the least this city and the county can do is to show their appreciation of the efforts of the people of the three counties participating in the fair is to attend in good numbers and offer all the encouragement possible. Goodridge and vicinity do not hesitate to turn out to help Thief River Falls in the events held by the county and turn about in this instance is not only logical and fair but is sure to reap results for the entire county that cannot be seen on the surface. The Tri-County fair deserves the united support of every citizen of Thief River Falls and Pennington county and we feel that the attendance from this section on both days will measure up to the expectations of the fair management.

MANY LICENSES FOR HUNTING ARE ISSUED

SEASON THIS YEAR TO SEE MANY NEW DEVOTEES OF THE FIELD SPORT.

The town stands every chance of being deserted on Thursday of this week when the hunting season opens for the bagging of wild ducks.

Every person of sporting inclination can shoulder a gun has started preparing for the event and many plan to leave on Wednesday to be on the job bright and early Thursday morning.

It is stated the country is full of ducks and that the shooting this year promises to be exceptionally fine. Ducks are on every hand and a shot in almost any direction is sure to bring down from one to a hudred ducks.

The county auditor has been rather busy the past few weeks issuing licenses to hunt. Up to this time there have been fifty licenses issued. The sport is fast gaining in favor each year and a great many who have never enjoyed the sport of duck hunting are making preparations to step forth the same as the old timers and try their luck at bagging game. Every store in the city that handles shells were sold out three and four days before the season opened and in order to take care of the demand it was necessary for dealers to send wires for additional shells. If every shell sold brings down a duck there is certainly going to be an awful slaughter and the entire countryside is sure to resemble a Russian revolution.

Here From Woodward.

William Craft, of Woodward, Ia., has been visiting for several days with the Shannon, Gill, Stuber and Rowe families west of town. Mr. Craft owns farm land here. He is highly pleased with conditions and intends to urge others to come here to this country for splendid soil, good crops, excellent climate and cheap land, to make their homes. Mr. Craft has been a merchant in his home town for more than a quarter of a century. All these Woodward people have been his customers, therefore they are his friends. A large gathering of Woodward people called on Mr. Craft at the McColl-Shannon farm Saturday and Sunday.

BIG INSTITUTE WILL BE HELD NEXT MONDAY

TEACHERS OF COUNTY TO BE CALLED IN FOR FIVE DAY MEETING

A county teachers' institute will be held in this city, starting next Monday morning and continuing for five days, or until Friday September 24. The institute will be held in the Lincoln high school gymnasium and County Superintendent Geo. Gundeson is busy mailing out notices to all the teachers of the county.

Short notice of the institute is causing much flurry in the office of the county superintendent and he is very busy perfecting arrangements for the meeting. Notice was not received until the first of the week, thus cutting down the time considerably and making it imperative that quick action be taken if all the teachers of the county are notified in time to be present. Miss Coral Osborne, and Miss Margaret Bierie are to have charge of the institute and will act as instructors throughout the meeting.

The institute applies to all teachers in the county except those teaching in the high or graded schools and means that the teachers of the city will not attend the institute, but only those teaching in the rural schools of the county. The meeting is to start promptly at 9 o'clock on Monday and part of the instructions are to the effect that it shall be the duty of the county superintendent to open the institute when all teachers are present and keep accurate record of all attendance throughout the meeting. It is the desire of the superintendent to see every teacher in the county present at the meeting and every effort is being made to see that all are notified and that a full attendance will result.

Frost Danger Held Unlikely.

Although frosts are predicted for the upper Mississippi valley the latter part of this week by the weather bureau at Washington, U. G. Purnell, federal weatherman at Minneapolis, said Monday he did not believe they would materialize. There is nothing in local weather conditions, he said, to make gardeners worry over the safety of their crops, at least this week.

Big Meeting Tonight.

THE SILVER LINING

NECESSARY TO LOCK DOORS AT SANDUM SALE

CROWDS BLOCKADE STREET IN FRONT OF BUILDING ON SATURDAY

The Flick Sales Company, in charge of the disposal of the Gilbert Sandum stock of merchandise, state they have never had hold of a stock of goods that moved so quickly and never before have they had to turn away customers. On Saturday evening it was necessary for them to lock the doors early in the evening, so thick was the crowd and the building was packed so closely that it was impossible for the clerks to wait on the people. The company in charge of the sale state this has been, one of the most successful sales ever conducted and state that due to newspaper advertising alone do they lay the tremendous attendance at this sale.

The Tribune was the only newspaper used in advertising this sale and there were buyers from all corners of the county and adjoining counties. From the minute the store was opened on Friday until the close Saturday evening the building was packed with buyers and it was next to impossible to get into the building, so dense was the throng. The Flick Sales Company are strong boosters for the pulling power of Tribune advertising and suggest that we send around all our doubting customers for proof. They have done a remarkable business since the opening and feel that this has been one of the smappiest and best sales ever conducted in their experience. The company is running another ad in this issue of the Tribune and hope to finally close ont the entire stock this week. They have many good bargains left which they desire to dispose of at once. Prices are made so the goods will move quickly and the thrifty shopper will do well to look the stock over if in need of anything in this line.

Raises Fine Apples.

Andrew Smith has brought to our office a beautiful bunch of Siberian crabapples, which he raised himself. The apples are clustered together as closely as possible, thirty-three in number. They resemble a large cluster of grapes. Each apple is perfectly developed and fully matured. Mr. Smith is very proud of these apples and has a right to be.

INSTALLATION OF NEW WIRING FOR ELECTROLIERS

CITY ELECTRICIANS TO START SOON ON INSTALLATION OF CABLE.

The city electricians are getting ready to install new cables for the white way system and will start the work of changing over in a short time. All material for this work is on hand and ready for the work of installing and will soon be placed and this important piece of work will be out of the way for all time.

The present system is causing the city department considerable trouble as it is causing shorts in the wiring and means the constant attention of the crew is demanded to keep th city in lights. The new cable that is to be laid is of a material that will not cause short circuits and also will stand up much longer than the present cables and will give much more service. The new system that is to be installed is to take either the present current and the alternating current also in case the city decides to change over. It is felt the changing over of the current must come soon and while the cable is being installed the wiring will be of such construction that changing from the direct current to alternating can be done with little trouble or expense to the city. It is also the desire of the city water and light department to have the cables out o fthe way of installing the curbing and gutters and to have all work of this nature completely out of the way when the paving starts.

SALESMAN IS SHOT SUNDAY EAST OF CITY

WAS COMING TO THIS CITY WHEN HE GETS BULLET THRU SHOULDER

Rambling about the country without the aid of a machine gun is apparently becoming a dangerous practice, according to H. O. Warner, traveling salesman for the Tessem Coumbe Company.

Mr. Warner was returning from Germantown to this city Sunday evening and northeast of Mavie passed a man who was standing to one side of the road, leaning against a bicycle. Shortly after passing the man, Mr. Warner realized that he had been shot and feeling along his right shoulder discovered the man had shot him in the shoulder. Mr. Warner was not dangerously wounded and came on to Thief River Falls where his injury was attened to and the authorities notified. The bullet grazed the fleshy part of the shoulder and passed out the front and did not occasion any serious inconvenience. It was lucky for Warner that the bullet didn't strike lower, as it would undoubtedly have entered the lung and would have been his finish. The bullet was a 22- calibre and was fired from a revolver.

Sheriff J. W. LaBree made a trip into the neighborhood where the shot was fired yesterday afternoon and by maneuvering around finally landed the party who did the shooting. Frank Rohr, a lad of 14 years, was picked up as the guilty party and confessed he was the one who fired the shot and in his explanation stated that he shot just for fun. He stated the car was moving slowly and that he shot at the back of it to make the man driving go faster, which he certainly did accomplish.

The method in which the sheriff traced down the guilty party and the speed with which he was brought to trial is remarkable and shows without question the ability of our present sheriff. In starting out to locate his man the sheriff had no information whatever as to what he looked like or any other information that would help him locate his man. He simply scared the confession out of another lad who was with Rohr at the time of the shooting and was able to go directly to the lad who did the shooting. The lad who was with Rohr, when accused of the shooting, stated that he himself had nothing to do with it, that it was Rohr and that he did not have a gun with him. When cornered young Rohr immediately opened up and was brought to town with the sheriff. A hearing is to be held this afternoon and in view of the fact that Warner, the man shot, does not care to push the case, it is more than possible that a fine will be imposed and young Rohr let free with a severe lecture on how to conduct himself in the future.

It was stated that the only thing that saved the life of Warner was the fact that he was stooping over to turn on the lights when the shot was fired, and had he been sitting up straight in the car no doubt the bullet would have penetrated his lunge, causing death.

Fine Yield.

M. B. Hershey, of Strathcona, reports to the Tribune that he threshed 337 bushels of sweet clover seed from forty acres of land. Mr. Hershey lives on a really model farm 3½ miles north of Strathcona. He is specializing on tame grass, cowsaprotation of crops and cultivation. This kind of farming smothers the weeds, improves the soil, increases land valuations and makes the owner of the farm a proud man. Mr. Hershey is a fine example of high class citizen and a man of real value to a locality in which he lives. Show us a clover farmer and show us a man that we will show you a man with money in the bank, good credit and a forebanded citizen.

School Board Meets.

At the meeting last evening the Tribune was awarded the contract for the publishing of the school proceedings for the year.

WOOL SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS

That there are more than 4,000,000,000 pounds of virgin (new) wool in the world's warehouses, or will be soon, awaiting manufacture, that the textile manufacturers of the United States used 113,000,000 fewer pounds of virgin wool last year than in 1913 and that the drop will probably be greater this year, were some of the statements which Alexander Walker made recently in his annual address as president of the National Sheep and Wool Bureau of America, whose headquarters is at No. 23 East Jackson Boulevard.

The conference was the most important annual meeting in the history of the Bureau. The National Sheep and Wool Bureau of America is an organization of organizations and firms interested in the sheep and wool industry in every part of the United States. For a year, it has been engaged in getting the people of the country together behind the French-Capper Truth in Fabric bill, which was left in the hands of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of both houses of congress at adjournment. If enacted, it would compel textile manufacturers to stamp every yard of their cloth entering into interstate commerce with its content of virgin wool and of wool substitutes, the chief of which is shoddyhoii rage, reworked sometimes as much as eight times. Textile manufacturers consider the measure as revolutionary a sthe pure food law which was fought by the interest for 8 years.

"If the French-Capper Truth in fabric bill is not passed quickly so as to open the eyes of the public to the fact that the textile manufacturers are meeting their demand for virgin wool cloth with reworked rags," remarked Byron Wilson, secretary of the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association, one of the best informed wool men west of the Mississippi river, "there will soon be no wool grown in the United States to supply their demand and on sheep for food purposes either. Sheep men cannot continue to grow sheep if the textile manufacturers will not buy their wool at a living profit."

His remarks were strongly seconded by J. F. Walker of the Fleece Wool States' Association and chairman of the Wool Committee of the America nFarm Bureau Federation. He continued: "I doubt if the manufacturers are allowing the people of the United States three pounds of virgin wool per capita this year. They need twelve yoomds per capita. I remember a short time ago visiting a certain woolen mill. There wasn't a pound of virgin wool on the premises —nothing but shoddy. They were turing out woolen blankets of straight shoddy, which should not have retailed for more than $15 a pair. When I returned to Chicago I found these blankets selling at the leading department store for $45 a pair. A competitor had a special sale of the blankets for $39.50 a pair."

George M. Wilbur, executive committeeman of the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' Association, gave it as his opinion that the sheep industry of America can only be saved by the producers and consumers getting together. He said:

"The people want virgin wool cloth and the people receive reworked rags from the textile manufacturers in its stead. The textile manufacturers can make more money by using reworked rage in their 'all wool' cloth than they could by buying virgin wool from the sheep men at a fair price. I saw an announcement the other day that a steamer had arrived with 1700 tons of rags from Antwerp and 525 bales of rags and cuttings from Germany for the American shoddy mills. I wonder how our people would feel if they knew they were being clothed in reworked German rags."

Alexander Walker, in his annual address, said that the unsold British government colonial woolens amounted to 929,777,280 pounds. The Brit-ish government expects estimate the 1920 wool clip at 2,700,000,000 pounds. The clip in the United States alone amounts to about 265,000,000. These figures do not include reserve supplies in various parts of the world such ss South Africa and South America. Though wool is accumulating, the world produces less than one-third of the wool it needs annually. He estimated that the wool growers had lost $75,000,000 in the drop of 25 cn pound in the prin of raw wool this summer.

All the officers and members of the executive committee and the governing board were re-elected at the the American Farm Bureau Federation, was added to the list of governors meeting. J. R. Howard, president of nors. The officials are: Alexander Hewat & Co., Inc., New York City, president; F. S. King, president of the American Ranbuillot Association, Cheyenne, Wyo., vice president; F. B. Van Sant, Chicago, treasurer, and Howard E. Greene, secretary.

It was decided to appoint two committees to take charge of the work of unifying the efforts of organizations in behalf of the French-Capper Truth in Fabric bill. Dr. J. M. Wilson, president of the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association, was selected to head the committee that will operate west of the Mississippi river. J. E. Walker, president of the Fleece Wool States' Association, was selected to heead the committee that will work to the east of the Mississippi. Both Dr. Wilson and Mr. Walker are governors of the Bureau.

Get a Receipt.

Hereafter when you travel on railroads within the state of Minnesota, get a receipt when you buy your ticket. It may save you money, for if the Minnesota two-cent fare law is upheld by the courts the railroads will have to refund you one cent a mile for every mile you travel after Sept. 1, if you have a receipt for fare paid. But if you fail to get a receipt you'll have a hard time collecting anything. The Minnesota two-cent law has been temporarily enjoined, but Attorney General Hilton succeeded in having inserted in the restraining order a clause under which a passenger purchasing a ticket to transportation on the railroads of Minnesota must be given a receipt if he requests it.

SEN. ROBT. L. OWEN SCORES FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Says He Has Made a Number of Speeches Against Policy

[Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma is so generally recognized as one of the chief factors in the creation of the Federal Reserve Board that whatever he says in regard to the Board is of special interest.]

Shortly after the Board determined to begin the curtailment of credits, Senator Owens vigorously protested in a letter to Governor Harding, of the Board and he followed this with other activities, pointing out the dangers that would inevitably come to the business interest of this country if the Board should continue its credit deflation as then outlined.]

Eight months ago, having heard the Federal Reserve Board contemplated raising the rate of interest on the Reserve Banks I entered a protest against it on the ground that it would have the effect of raising the rates of interest of all bank loans, municipal loans, farm loans and private loans throughout the United States and thereby greatly increases the cost of living; would slow up production and distribution and bring about a period of industrial depression.

My appeal was in vain. The policy was adopted by the Board of raising the rates and advising the banks of the country to "deflate" credits.

Under this policy the confidence of the country has been shaken, a period of depression has taken place in some parts of the country and is threatened in all parts of the country. On the floor of the senate I have made a number of speeches against this policy and have put in the Congressional Record several letters addressed to the president of the United States, showing why this policy was harmful.

The argument of the Reserve Board that credits have been unduly expanded by people speculating in stocks, by people buying commodities for hoarding.

This has a measure of truth, but the remedy for such abuses of credit should be applie dindividually by the banks, requiring large margins for those speculating instocks and requiring gradual liquidation. The same should be a remedy for those buying for monopoly of commodities and profiteering. As a rule the profiteers are not profiteering on credit, but on their own resources. To raise the rates of iqvest and to demand general deflation is not a remedy that should be applied. It is a gross wrong to apply such treatment to legitimate business engaging in actual production and distribution when the world is in such urgent need of increased production. If, for example, the oil men engaged in production are denied credit for production it illminishes production, it diminishes distribution and it diminishes production under the laws of supply an demand and will not lower the price of oil. It will increase it.

Of course the producers in extreme need might temporarily sell his product at a sacrifice to save himself from bankruptcy, but in the long run the policy is false as a means of reducing the price of a commodity. The true way to lower the price of commodities is to stimulate production, and by increasing the production the price under the laws of supply and demand will be automatically reduced.

The effect of the policy of the Board is shown in breaking down the price or the market value of all sorts of securities, especially industrial securities, and not even excepting government bonds.

Municipalities cannot now sell their bonds advantageously and the owners of Liberty bonds face a loss of the best security in the world of from 10 to 15 per cent due to the destruction of credits by this policy.

The normal rates of interest in Europe for 50 years before the war were, where they do not pay interest on deposits, from 3 to 4 per cent, as in Belgium, France and England. In America, where they do pay interest on deposits of from 2 to 3 per cent, the normal rate of interest has been from 5 to 6 per cent.

Under the unwise policy of the Reserve Board commercial paper of the best quality is selling for 8 and 9 per cent, and in reality many business men, whose credits are really good, are paying from 10 to 15 per cent for money through various devices such as commissions and discounts, etc. This raises the cost of commodities necessarily and increases the cost of living.

The Federal Reserve Act was framed by the best opinion of America for the purpose of giving stability to the credit system of America and giving a reasonable and stable rate of interest. The power of the credit system in the hands of the Reserve Banks is normous and is now being employed, not for the purpose of stabilising credits, but for the astounding purpose of deflating credits, breaking down confidence, and it is bringing on an industrial depression that may be extremely harmful unless promptly checked.

The banks cannot be relied upon to take the initiative because they are under the dominance of the Reserve banks and the Reserve Board and they would put themselves in jeopardy if they should dare to assail the policy of the Reserve Board.

The chambers of commerce are differently situated. They are peculiarly the victims of the abusive power and they can create public sentiment by making a demand for a change of this policy.

I therefore believe it would be wise to pass a resolution urging the Federal Reserve Board to restore the interest rates which were in existence before the war, and certainly to lower the rates to what they were during the war and to discontinue the policy of a general deflation of credits.

Banks extend a loan of $10,000 to a citizen. The banks takes proper security, puts the note for $10,000 in the bills receivable account as an asset and the adeposit it to the credit of the citizen in the liability account. The bank demands the payment. The citizen sells his security or his commodity for deposit in the bank, pays his note and cancels $10,000 of deposit. Thus the credit is retired. The bank charges interest for the note for payment for giving the citizen bank credit in exchange for private credit to the extent the banks compel liquidation, then compels the retirement of deposit. This has taken place on a large scale recently. Many banks show a serious loss in deposits because of the action of their own bank or other banks in deflating credits. The transaction is simple.

There is no sense whatever in retiring credits which are employed in production and distribution processes. This is to check business and to stop these processes just to the extent such a policy is carried out.

The banks are thoroughly justified in giving preference to those engaged in production over those engaged in mere speculation, but there is no justification whatever in denying the productive processes the credit essential to entry on the business of the country. To do this necessarily brings on an industrial depression. If this is being done with a design of stopping the business enterprises of the country and making men walk the streets unemployed, as a means of "teaching labor a lesson" it may entry mischievous consequences of a still more serious character. It is of urgent importance that all the people of the United States be employed and to cause them to be thrown out of employment as a means of improving the conditions of the country is not a wise remedy for the abuses which may be charged against labor in exacting too high rates for service rendered it. There are other remedies which do not lie in the hands of te Federal Reserve Board.

Deflation carries with it the implication that there is an inflation of credits. This implication is false.

Inflation means the extension of credit which is unsound. The extension of credit for production and distribution to the extent of the business requirements of the country is not unsound, and the premise upon which the theory of deflation is placed being false, the conclusion expressed in the word deflation must fall.

It is true that the United States expanded its credit for war-making purposes to the extent of billians, but it was not subject to reproach. It was justified expansion and these credits were loaned to the government by individuals for the purpose of preserving the life of the nation cannot therefore, that the policy of deflation is based on a false conception and is already having effect so harmful that any citizen of average intelligence can clearly percieve.

GOLD THREAD

By MYRIA ALICE LITTLE.

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Sally Sue perched herself on the stone wall under the lilac bush with her doll Harriet, whom mother had sent her to watch for the milkman.

Voices drifted out from the dining room window over the new purple balls on the tips of the lilac stems and Sally Sue couldn't help hearing. But some of the things were very perplexing.

That was mother's voice now: "You're my best friend, Harriet Dupmore, and Merton is my favorite brother, and you can't expect me to take sides. But what can have happened to two people who thought as much of each other as you did, is more than I can imagine!"

"I haven't said anything has happened, have I?"

Sally Sue pulled her pink apron down over her fat knees with a jerk. Didn't Aunt Harriet's voice sound queer? All graty and sobby! But Sally Sue mustn't call her "Aunt" Harriet now. She had told Sally Sue that only that very morning."

And now Aunt—Miss Harriet was telling mother she hadn't said anything had happened.

Out from the window floated mother's voice: "Why do you work yourself sick over that enormous centerpiece, Harriet? The colors are lovely, and your work is exquisite, but if you left those autumn shades without all that extra padding and embroidery, and got some fresh air, and got things fixed with Merton, wouldn't you be happier?"

Sally Sue couldn't milerstand the biggest words, but she understood the tone quite well. Then she heard Miss Harriet say clearly: "I shall never be happy again! But there's no sense in my not finishing this thing, is there? I can sell it. I've got to have some gold thread, though.—And you can't get it in this little old town, can you?"

So Aunt Harriet wasn't happy at all.

"Yes' 's soon 's the mailman comes, Harviet, we're goin' off!" confided Sally Sue softly to the doll in her arms. "Course we can get some gold fred in dis ol' town!"

"Here's the mailman," shouted Sally Sue. And mother ran out to the box. There was only one letter this morning, and that was for Aunt—Miss Harriet.

Standing in the doorway, Sally Sue saw all the white come into pretty auntie's face, and she saw her just tear the envelope open.

"He says he's sorry he—didn't understand—and the centerpiece is very pretty," said Aunt Harriet, and then she crumpled all up in mother's arms. "I don't ever want to see Merton living again!" said Miss Harriet distinctly. "But I'm going to finish that centerpiece, if I never do another thing."

Sally Sue tiptoed down the steps. "She said she'd never be happy, and she's got to have some gold fred," she whispered to doll Harriet.

Down the lane trudged Sally Sue, over the hill and did not stop till she reached the big red barn on the edge of the meadow.

"Oo-oo—Uncle Mert," shouted Sally Sue. "Oo-oo," panted Sally Sue, as the big curly-haired man strode in sight. "I've got to have some gold fred. Please, you take me to the little place down your lane where it grows, you know, Uncle Mert. Pretecay white flowers with the teeie gold roots. Aunt—Miss Harwiet says she'll never be happy till she's got some gold fred. Don't pinch my arm like that. You hurt, Uncle Mert!" said Sally Sue.

"She shall have some gold thread, bless her heart!" said Uncle Merton cheerfully, "and we'll take it over to her in the democrat wagon, Sally Sue!"

A very worried mother and a very worried Miss Harriet met them under the lilac bush.

"You give 'i to her," said Sally Sue with marvelous insight, "I can't lift it."

Sally Sue said you wanted some gold thread, and I called that your answer to my note that came to you like our outdoor, good times better than sewing up things, even if they are most as handsome as you, Harriet, beloved."

Sally Sue stared, and found herself gathered into three pairs of arms. And Sally Sue heard the fanciest people die of—"It was gold embroidery thread for the old centerpiece I said I wanted. But I'm going to finish the thing nnembroidered, and be your pal, Mert, dearest. And it was really the flowers I wanted most, after all." Then a man's voice, "The ring—dear girl—here." And mother's voice, "Of all the silly quarrels, because he thought she sewed too much and didn't like to chum around any more, and she thought if he didn't appreciate the centerpiece she was doing for their living room, he wasn't worth looking at." And then, two or three voices—"All quarrels are silly anyway." Then everybody seemed to be kissing everybody else.

"Se-ee—Miss Hirwiet," said Sally Sue suddenly, "Uncle Mert used to bring teeny little cimmonomy balls, and my doll's jest got to have a sister—"

"And you're going to have an Aunt Harriet," laughed everybody all at once.

And the wee lilac buds nodded sagely in the breeze over the gold thread blossoms.

SURE THAT ANIMALS DREAM

Eminent Authorities Have Gone on Record, Though It Has Been Subject of Dispute.

Aristotle's history of animals declares that horses, oxen, sheep, goats, dogs and all viviparous quadrupeds dream. Pliny, in his natural history specifies the same animals. Buffon describes the dreams of animals. Macnish calls attention to the fact that horses neigh and rear in their sleep, and affirms that cows and sheep, especially at the period of rearing their young, dream.

Darwin, in the "Descent of Man," says that "dogs, cats, horses and probably all the higher animals, even birds, as is stated on good authority, have vivid dreams, and this is shown by their movements and voice."

George John Romanes, in his "Mental Evolution in Animals," says that the fact that dogs dream is proverbial, and quotes Seneca and Lucretius, and furnishes proof from Dr. Lauder Lindsay, an eminent authority, that horses dream. Bechstein holds that the bullinch dreams, and gives a case where the dream took on the character of a nightmare, and the bird fell from its perch, and four great authorities say that dreaming becomes so vivid as to lead to somnambulism. Gner gives a case of somnambulistic watch dog which prevailed in search of imaginary strangers or fowls, and exhibited toward them a whole series of pantomimic actions, including barking. Dryden says: "The little birds in dreams the songs repeat."

SHREWD IDEA IN POLITICS

Pictures of Presidential Candidates on Letter Heads Was a Popular Thing in 1840.

Back in the early days of the republic it was considered a fine idea to decorate paper with the portraits of presidential candidates. In this way the letter writer showed not only his preference, but tried to influence his correspondents for his candidate, remarks the New York Sun. A fine example of this sort of political propaganda was unearthed recently in New York. It dates back to 1840, when William Henry Harrison was running for president on the Whig ticket against Martin Van Buren, Democrat.

Under the pictures of the two sides of the medal is a copy of the resolution of congress conferring the medals on General Harrison and Isaac Shelby, "late governor of Kentucky."

Improvised Gun Has Kick.

The Burma government forbids the natives to have guns in their possession, and prohibits trading in arms and ammunition. But the native's ingenuity enables him to get around this. He will find a piece of gaspipe somewhere, fit a rude stock to it and a crude primer and hammer, and will then get powder and shot in lieu of bullet. He cuts off the heads of about two boxes of matches and puts them into the improvised barrel. He then rams his shot home and is ready for business.

And let me tell you, if you never tried to shoot with such a gun, don't ever do so. Why, an express rifle is about as kickless as a .22 caliber Flobert compared with this improvised shotgun! I tried shooting one once upon a time, and the thing almost kicked my shoulder off.—National Geographic Bulletin.

Getting Rid of a Knot.

It is often a difficult business to get rid of knots, especially if there are of long standing. By following the plan indicated it is a simple matter to free the hardest knots, whether these be in straps, harness, rope, cord or anything of a similar nature. As a first step place the knot on some hard surface and give it a good hammering on all sides with a mallet or a thick piece of wood. Now boil up a little water with soap in it sufficient to make rather a cloudy solution. Then soak the knot for five or three minutes in the liquid. At the end of this time it will be found that it can be quite easily untied, often enough with the fingers. The loosening can be done with some sharp implement.

Profitable Companionship.

Among the most curious and interesting of natural phenomena are those pertaining to the mutual relationships of common organisms. Two plants, two animals, or a plant and an animal, may live together for their mutual benefit. Very often one of the partners gets food for the combination, while the other receives protection. This is the arrangement that obtains between tropical plants and certain species of ants which live and feed in their hollow stems, and in return drive away other insects that would do damage.

Real Success.

"Uncle George, what is success in life?" asked the small boy.

Uncle George—It's gettin' ither folk to think an bighy o' you as you think o' yourself.—London Blighty.

POLAND'S MILITARY PROBLEM

St. Paul Pioneer Press: President Pilsudki of Poland says in an interview that it would be impossible for the Poles to halt their present advance on any specified line, because their army is too small to hold a system of trenches 300 miles long and there is not enough barbed wire available to protect any such trenches. He infers the only safe course is to keep the bolsheviki running and give no time to re-form and mass their forces for another drive. In other words, he believes that mobile warfare offers the Poles a better chance.

Without regard to the Curzon line or any other boundary for the new Poland, another consideration is that it is a favorite Russian trick to retreat and draw the enemy away from his communications and supplies. The Poles are now, after driving the Reds back from Warsaw, still 200 miles west of the line they occupied last June. At that time they were in Minsk and Kiev, but even then they had not arrived at the 1772 boundary of Poland. In all the country between the line drawn by the peace conference and the ancient boundary there are millions of people who are not Poles. They would be trouble-making citizens for Poland.

The Polish president and commander-in-chief will have to steer between the danger of giving the Reds a breathing spell and pursuing them too far from Warsaw, the main base of supplies.

IDLENESS

"The teaching that work is a necessary evil calling for constant mitigation is not only economically but morally wrong," says the editor of the Wall Street Journal, "moved to make this comment by the belief that "idleness is the most threatening evil of the day."

Idleness is an evil. But it is as much an evil when the American Woolen Company closes its plant to reduce production as when employes strike. Both, by reducing production, increase the cost to the ultimate consumer. In one instance the idleness increases future profits for the employer; on the other it increases future wages for the employes. When labor decrease idleness it spells losses for capital; when the latter strikes it means losses for the workers. Always it brings losses to the public.

But strikes and the closing of factories play minor roles in what the Journal calls the most threatening evil of the day. There is the matter of "ever shortening hours" and of slowing up by operatives of factries, mines and mills. These do far more to reduce production and increase the cost of living than strikes and closing factories, the Journal declares.—Watertown Public Opinion.

We note Brother Richard H. Ross of the Shaw-McGinn-Ross Timorous Times has apologized to Warren in an effort to cover up the tracks of local politicians (or alternates) who seek to transfer the Jefferson Highway to Warren in barter and trade. Ross hasn't apologized before since the printers' strike and walkout at the Times office in August.

Nothing that the Salvation Army has done or is doing speaks more eloquently of a real service to humanity than the story of its industrial homes for men and its working men's hotels and clubs. In the vernacular of the Salvation Army, "A man may be down but he is never out," and in its industrial homes and hotels a wonderful facility for placing a man back on his feet has been created. The west, particularly Minnesota, is fortunate in having at its service the industrial home in Minneapolis, where 18,200 men were given free lodging in 1919, and the home in St. Paul which furnished 8,701 lodging accommodations last year.

REAL ISSUES BURIED

St. Paul Farmers' Dispatch: The "solemn referendum" on the League of Nations which this presidential campaign was to be, has become, it appears, much less solemn.

It has degraded itself into a referendum to determine which set of party leaders is composed of the biggest liars. The campaign has already become a contest of mudslinging which may be extepected to increase in intensity as November 2 draws near.

If anyone thinks that this election is going to be decided on what the majority of the people think about the League of Nations, war, prohibition, profiteering, compulsory military service or the price of wheat, he has more faith in the ability of the average man to penetrate through the fog of misrepresentation, evasion and even downright lying which is being disseminated the past political history would warrant.

Pettifogging and mud-throwing seem to be an inseparable part of politics in the United States. We write ponderous platforms and get all het up about the "issues" when the national conventions meet. And then we go to the polls and elect the candidate who has been most deft at throwing mud and dodging that thrown from the other side. In the excitement of the contest, the "issues" are land away in mothballs, not to be resurrected until four years later, when it comes time to write another platform.

We have an illustration in the trend of the present campaign of the reason why we do not get better men for political offices—from president down to pound master. Really able men who have a moderate amount of self-respect refuse to enter a contest where they must be subjected to unwarranted abuse and slander from every whippersnapper and blatherskite that comes along, or where they must stoop to such cegregating tactics if they hope to impress the mass of the people sufficiently to win. It seems that political campaigns, by common consent, are open seasons for lying, in which slander and libel can be committed with impunity by all concerned.

Nobody can conscientiously or rightfully assert that either Harding, or Cox, or Christensen, Watkins, or Debs is the best man available for the biggest job in the country. The best men will not befoul themselves in the slime of politics as it is practiced by professional politicians to win either the nomination or the election.

We had a hope that this campaign was going to be different, although it was too much to expect. When Harding began his campaign he avoided personalities. He uncorked no vitriol against President Wilson or Candidate Cox. He called neither a liar or a thief. He did not brand the Democratic party as a corrupt, unscrupulous gang of crooks plotting against the government and the people. He expounded the issues as they had been drawn without malice or venom. Then along came Cox. He has not made one speech as yet in which he did not convey the impression that his opponents were nothing but low-lived scoundrels. It has been a continual stream of epithets about a "senatorial oligarchy" corruption, conspiracy, "sinister influences," and the like ever since Cox got started. And away has gone our hope of a clean-cut campaign on the tremendous issues which wought to be involved.

If both parties and both candidates stuck to the issues, the people might have to work their brains a little and think for themselves. But you don't have to think at all to call somebody else a crook and a liar. That is why so many people get up and yell themselves hoarse over the kind of speech that abuses somebody. It requires no brain effort.

Hon. Jake Preus went down to Marion, Ohio, and favored Candidate Hading by posing with him for a picture in front of the famous porch. Harding is all right and he is there with the poise and grace, but he is up stage and running a poor second with our Jake, who shows a million dollar class in the Marion picture, and a presence all his own.

"His (Cox's) nomination would make the Democratic party the leader of the lawless element of the country and his selection, if such a thing were possible, would turn the White House over to those who defy the government and hold law in contempt. * * * There is no chance of his election if nominated, but why should any Democrat be willing to insult the conscience of the nation?"—William Jennings Bryan, in a statemet issued before the San Francisco convention.

Edna Goodrich in "Sleeping Partners"

Among the announcements of attractions that will play at the Auditorium, on Wednesday evening Sept. 22, none will probably appeal more to the ladies than the announcement that beautiful Edna Goodrich will appear personally at that popular play house in the gay French farce, "Sleeping Partners," by that daring French author, Sacha Guitry. The play was translated from the French by Seymour Hicks, and has enjoyed a year's run in London and an engagement of over seven months at the Bijou Theater, New York.

It is hardly possible that Miss Goodrich has had a role more suitable to her than the French wife in "Sleeping Partners." Wit her wonderful beauty and natural vivisacity, she possesses all the charm of the French ladies of her imagination.

Aside from Miss Goodrich's beauty she has always been accepted as one of the best dressed stage women. Among the many beautiful dresses she wears in "Sleeping Partners" is a handsome afternoon dress conceived and executed by Lady Duff Gordon. The material is of black taffeta and style shows the new silhouette, the tight waist and the distended skirt. The waist is very plain and very tight being entirely of black taffeta. But as seen in all the new frocks this fall the skirt has a daring touch. In the dress worn by Miss Goodrich there is the rather full tunic furnished by very wide black lace which falls over the tight underskirt. With this Miss Goodrich wears a charming little velvet hat trimmed with paradise plumes.

During each of the three acts of "Sleeping Partners" Miss Goodrich will wear some stunningly handsome gowns, all creations of Lady Duff Gordon and Bendil of New York. Miss Goodrich also wears her famous royal ermine coat; this coat was especially made for Miss Goodrich out of the finest pure white ermine at a cost of over $10,000.

"Sleeping Partners" is described as a Garden of Eden episode in three acts. The enangement here is for one evening only, Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Henry Lindberg, 62 years of age, died at his home on LaBree avenue Friday afternoon after a short illness. Mr. Lindberg has just recently purchased the home from Leonard Peterson and had just moved to town from Alavardo and was getting nicely settled when he was taken ill. He was ill but a short time and his death was a severe blow to his relatives and friends of this city. The body was taken to Alvarado Saturday and was buried at that place.

Hermanson Taking It Easy.

J. H. Hermanson, of the Hermanson Hardware Store, is taking life easy these days and is not particularly interested in business. This brief vacation was forced upon Mr. Hermanson when he had his tonsils removed on Monday. It was the intention of Mr. Hermanson to come down to the store as usual after the operation, but he relayed the news to his help that he could not come down as he was terribly sick, so sick he could not drink water, even. He hopes to be back at the store in the next few days attending to business as usual.

SKY FLIGHTS FOR DRY FIGHT, WATKINS' PLAN

Aaron S. Watkins, prohibition candidate for president, will make his flights to carry on his dry fight in his campaign. From German-town O., home of the candidate, to Actahula, O., was the first flight by airplane by Watkins. Only a pilot accompanied the candidate in a privately-owned ship. An extended campaign tour has been planned.

CITY BIRDS.

"Is this the roof, is this the roof?" asked one of the birds.

"Yes, this is it, this is it," said another.

"And do you really think we'll have a banquet?" asked a third.

"I'm sure of it. I've never known it to fail."

"Do you suppose we will have any water to drink? I'm so thirsty," said another bird.

"Yes, you'll have that, too," said a bird who seemed to know about everything.

"Whatever made her do it in the first place, do you suppose?" asked one of the birds who had just come and heard about what was going on.

"It was this way," said the bird who knew all about the banquet, and who had told the other birds about it. "Yes, this is the way I believe it happened.

"Not long ago this elderly lady said she thought that it would be nice to fix up a summer roof for the birds of the city. Of course we have the parks, but many of us find ourselves around the pavements and flying over the high buildings and about where it is very hot.

"She asked all the people who lived in the apartment house where she was to save her their stale bread, and all the scraps and crumbs that were brushed off the table.

"She said that every day she would collect this bread. Then she put it on the roof of the apartment house and put a few bushes growing in big pots up here as you see, and she put some little pans of water and she said she would have a place for the birds who wanted to stop on their flying trips over the city.

"She said this roof would be a resting place for birds. And so every day and every night there is a banquet here, an all-the-time banquet for the birds.

"She hasn't asked any special birds to come. She has just invited all the birds who wanted to stop to partake of the banquet.

"So I've been coming here for some time now, and so have all my friends, and I see that many of my friends and my friends' friends have told many other birds, for there are a number of new ones here.

"The banquet, as I said, is one which lasts all the time—right through the summer. Just now we've all eaten up most of the crumbs and the pieces of bread and we have bathed in the water and had drinks of it.

"But wait, you will see that the banquet goes on and on, for the lady will soon come and bring with her more crumbs."

No sooner had the bird said these words in his chirping voice than the little old lady came along with a big basket filled with bread crumbs. She scattered them over the roof and then she said:

"Here, birds, here I am, with the goodies. I'm sorry you were out of crumbs for a little while, but you'll have a special feast to make up for it.

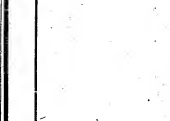
"I went to the flower show today, where I saw orchids and chrysanthemums of all colors. The orchids were of yellow and purple and lavender and green and the chrysanthemums were of the most beautiful colors, they were the very early autumn ones.

"And there were vegetables at the flower show too. They honored the vegetables this year by letting them appear at the show with the flowers, the onion and the tomate and the potato and parsley families. There were some of the grape families and other fruit families there too, and there were some green carnations and yellow carnations—very special ones grown in hot houses—and daisies of every color you can imagine."

"I don't know what she is saying," said the little bird who had been doing all the talking, "but I like to hear her voice, and you see she hasn't forgotten us. She has a good time, but she never forgets her friends, the birds."

And the lady was saying:

"I've been having a happy time, birds, seeing all the flowers, but I wouldn't forget my little birdlings and their friends, for they make so much happiness that we should make them happy, too!"



And she does!

When the Chiropractor, by scientific adjustment removes the pressure from the nerves and helps Nature to restore Health the operation seems a simple one. Yet the knowledge is one that is gained only after a great deal of investigation, for Chiropractic is just as much a science and profession that has to be learned as any other Health method.

Knowledge of Spine and Nerves

The Chiropractor must intimately know the body. He must know what nerves feed every organ and just where these nerves branch out from the spine, so that he can place his finger right on the point of pressure that is causing trouble in certain parts of the body.

Because of this expert knowledge of why he adjusts, where and how to do it, the Chiropractor can, by examining the spine, tell what the trouble is without a patient telling him anything. The spine is the key. Spinal pressure on a certain nerve lends to weakness and disease in a certain organ That's why the Chiropractor adjusts a certain part of the spine to relieve headaches any another part of the spine for stomach or abdominal troubles, etc. In

The New Public Health

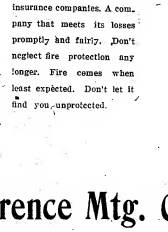
Conducted by the Minnesota Public Health Association

(Letters on health addressed to Dr. H. W. Hill, Shubert Bldg., St. Paul, Minn., with a stamped, self addressed envelope enclosed, will be answered by mail. If of general interest they will b answered in this column, also.)



Question: I was very interested in the public health exhibit at the county fair recently and think that it did a lot of good to bring public health to the attention of the people. Don't you think these exhibits help to inform them what the work really means? Should like to see a public health exhibit at every county fair.

Answer: I am glad the county fair public health exhibit you saw in your county was such a success. People are taking a great interest in the public health now that they see for themselves that it really does accomplish good things. I think we all like to help other people better than anything else, when it comes right down to rock bottom. You are that kind evidently.

Question: An "old friend of the family" told my father when he was a boy that drinking raw cow's blood a glass full at a time, would cure any consumptive, if they did it every day for a month. He says that in the old country, every killing day, the butchers had consumptives waiting around to get the blood.

Answer: Of course there is some nourishment in the blood and for those who could stand it, it might be perhaps as good as a glass of milk, say. But as to any special virtue in the blood, cooked or raw, nothing doing. Meat, eggs, milk are all good; blood pudding of the old style was nourishing, blood sausage too—but no more so than other more ordinary things. There is no "royal road" to recovery from tuberculosis. Rest, good food, fresh air—these are the things. Freak treatments do no more good in the long run and often do harm.

SUGAR PRICES TAKING GREAT DOWNWARD SLIP

Predict That Price Will Drop To 10 Cents Per Pound By Early Spring

Most sugar will sell for as low as 10 or 11 cents per pound is the prediction made by local dealers. Sugar is at present being sold by local retailers for as low as 19 cents per pound, with indications of the price dropping much lower from now on to the middle of winter, says the Grand Forks Herald.

Reports received here contain the information that sugar has already been sold by eastern dealers for as low as 14 cents, while jobbers were offering round lots for 2 or 3 cents per pound less.

The reports say that "Caught in the slump are scores of individuals and concerns who bought up heavily at top prices and are now forced to unload their surplus stock in declining markets. Sugar prices seem likely to drop to lower levels, with the market glutted with stock far beyond the normal demand, according to the prediction of those closely identified with the business in Washington, D. C."

A miscalculation about the effects of prohibition really started the break in sugar prices, it is claimed. A contributing cause is the haste of sugar dealers all over the country, some of whom have never before sought the American market, to rush their supplies here to get the benefit of the high prices.

Big candy and soft drink manufacturers calculated last summer and fall that national prohibition would create a demand never before known in this country. They made a rush for the available sugar supplies and gobbled them up. One result was that for weeks last spring the average individual was informed by his grocer there was no sugar to be had. Refiners naturally took advantage of the demand to boost prices until they reached as high as 25 and 30 cents, virtually prohibitive for many small consumers.

This summer the candy and soft drink manufacturers were rudely awakened by the realization that the public had not gone as crazy over sweet stuff as anticipated. Accordingly they began to unload. At least, that is the information given to local dealers.

RECKLESS WASTE AND SPENDING

By JOHN H. RICH, Prominent Financier, Chairman Federal Reserve Bank, Minneapolis.

With living costs at the highest point since the close of the Civil War, and with the general public indulging in a prolonged period of reckless extravagance; the time has come when sober-minded men must stop thinking in general terms. They must consider the present situation from the standpoint of personal and individual responsibility, if the dangers in the near future that should be readily apparent to every one, are to be avoided.

"Social unrest arises from many causes, but mostly I think from the commonplace fact that it takes about everything the average man can make to keep pace with the outgo. This unrest, which is provocative of labor troubles, the slacking up of individual prodnction, carelessness about money spending, and many other evils, has, I hope, reached its high point. It is easily evident that it cannot spread very much further without great danger to the whole country.

"It has been habitual to associate unrest with the laboring classes and with other classes of the public. Nowhere in the United States is unrest more acute or bitter feeling more prevalent than among the agricultural population in the Ninth Reserve district. Since the beginning of the war farmers have been under heavy pressure to attain the highest possible production. They have been enjoying the highest prices that have prevailed in the Northwest, yet there is widespread dissatisfaction and complaint.

"Part of this is due to vicious propaganda based on false economics which has been spread through all the farming districts. The farmers have been deliberately misled and have not had the benefit of corrective education at the hands of those competent to tell the truth about the economic problems that are serious to the agricultural class. Part of this is due to the feeling of surprise and bitterness upon realizing that while enjoying high prices, their anticipated profits have been cut by rising costs. The two influences combined have made many thousands of men who have ordinarily been clear and level headed in their views, critical and antagonistic toward their government, and bitterly hostile toward business interests at the larger centers which they have been led to believe are antagonistic toward them. A division between country and city would be one of the most unfortunate things that could happen.

"Those who have the confidence of the farmers can do the latter a genuine service and perform a service to their country in annihilating the false doctrine that has been spread about. The causes of complaint should be analyzed and identified, and if they rest upon injustice these should be ruthlessly eliminated. To a certain extent, the farmer, like every one else, must work out his own salvation, but the community, as a whole, is seriously at fault, if it permits the farmer, because of his isolation and his lack of close contact with other sections of the public, to become the victim of either those who are radical propagandists for profit or those who are propagandists because they hate their government, and who are seeking to overturn the very foundation stones upon which the truest and best democracy in the world is founded.

"The general public do not recognize the significance of the warning signs that are apparent in present conditions. there is no way of avoiding a situation which undoubtedly contains elements which simply invite disaster."

"GHEE" MUCH USED IN EAST

Concentrated Form of Butter Fat Employed in Preparation of Almost All Dishes.

Ghee is briefly described as clarified butter. Cow's or buffalo's milk is submitted to a process of churning and boiling which yields a concentrated form of butter fat considered to be entirely free from curd, whey or water. This product keeps better than ordinary butter, bnt has a taste not usually appreciated by Europeans. Although commonly associated with the diet of the British Indian, ghee is used as well throughout the Red sea district by the Arabs, Somalis, British Indians, and other native elements of the population. In a minor way ghee is nsed medicinally and ceremonially; bnt its principal nse is in the preparation of food, and no native meal in this part of the world is truly relished unless ghee is generously nsed in some form or other. It is worked into the dough for native bread, and the bread is fried in ghee; or if ordinary bread is used the pieces broken off to be eaten are first dipped into a cup or vessel of hot ghee. It is fused in the preparation of all meat dishes, and of many vegetable dishes. Some natives, particularly the Arabs, boil it with milk and drink the mixture.

The Beard in History.

The beard, considered a sign of manhood, was stroked for the first time in Paradise by Adam, it tradition is to be believed, and has had a strange part in the world's history of vanity and fashion ever since. History says the kings of Persia plaited their beards with golden thread, and that the winged bulls of Assyria also had beards. Saladin's son, Turkish historians say, wept for fear when he saw the shaven envoys of the Crusaders.

Razors made of flint and oyster shell were used in prehistoric times when man gave way to the first demands of vanity. The greatest benefactor of barbers in the world's history was Alexander the Great, who shaved himself to preserve his youth, and had his army shaved to prevent the enemy seizing their beards. He set a fashion that was followed by the Greeks, the philosophers by profession alone being excepted. This custom adopted by him has come down through the centuries.

Pearl Poachers.

To see the pearl fisher at work there is no need to go to the South seas. In the first fine days of June he may be found by burn or loch in a dozen parts of Scotland, says a correspondent. He is usually of the tinker class, and his outfit is of the simplest—a water telescope made of wood and a bit of common glass, and a cleft stick to pull up the mussels, in any one of which he may find a small fortune. These mussel-pearls from the Tilan and Tatt, and other Scottish streams fetch good prices; one was sold not long ago for fully $250. Pearls are found in Canada (amber also), some of them of considerable value. But in Canada there is little or no private ownership of waters, so that our pearl fishers run no risk, as do the Scots, of being arrested for poaching.—Montreal Herald.

"The Thoughts of Youth."

Little Dolores was quietly eating her lunch one day when all of a sudden she said: "Mother, if I died now, would I get to heaving in time for dinner?"

"And-Daughter."

Signs with the addition "and daughter" can be seen in London almost as often as the older "and son" partnerships.

McCormick Concert Broken Up.

Adelaide, South Australia, Sept. 12. The concert given here Thursday evening by John McCormick, the tenor, was broken up in a demonstration, a part of the audience rising and singing the British national anthem and some of them shouting that McCormick was a Sinn Fiener. Mr. McCormick has cancelled other concerts he was to have given in Adelaide.

The audience, it appeared, resented the omission of the anthem from the program. In explanation the tenor, who is in Australia on a tour of the world, which he started from America, said he understood the anthem was usually sung only when the governor was present.

A FLOWER GARDEN GONE A-WALKING.

New York Sun and Herald: When New York takes its morning downtown canons fill with color. From every office and shop come in their thousands gaily clad girl workers to break for a few minutes their tasks over books or typewriting machine, of those fearsome engines on which efficiency keeps books. They go forth nominally for luncheon, actually for a hurried bite and a leisurely stroll.

Once the business woman was a tailor made woman, trim in straight lines, primly set off with starched cuffs, her crowning glory topped with a derby, if not somber, hat. But the tailor-made woman is seen now only where gather those who do not toil in the market for daily bread and sundaes. Business is decked in flower-like colors. The counting office has ceased to be a dreary spot. It more reminds the visitor of the cover of a popular magazine than of its dingy canvas or law calf book in which journal and ledger conceal their solemn entrees.

At that hour when by polite fiction hunger calls, the huge homes of trade release their people and a flower garden of gay hues goes a-walking in the streets. Whatever of gloom the pavements have shown is hidden. To those who from the heights can watch a tenet of beauty is disclosed. The rainbow is outdone in gorgeousness. The laboratory of the dyemaker gives up its most arresting triumphs. From splendid scarlets and rich purples through the spectrum's manifold gradations all the hues that heaven has used or permitted mankind to use for protection, allurement and adornment gives life and vivacity to streets in which trade has its home.

It is as though some Burbank had given power of locomotion to the flowers of the field, and the blossoms of the hillside and air changing combinations, beyond the imagination of any stage director to reproduce bright gowns, bold headgear, vivid sweaters meet and pass. A poppy delayed so that she must hurry cuts a burning path through the throng zig-zag, toward her desk. A trio, daisy flanked by pink marshmallow and by burning bush, saunter easily. Heliotrope and dahlia approach, hesitate and give way to others.

And in field and meadow Dame Nature puts her pigments side by side without thought of what the formation may think, so her heedless human children may weave themselves into a picture brilliant, engaging, ever changing in the city streets, a flower garden gone a-walking.

How conditions do change! Harting has come down off the perch, as we predicted he would, and is going out among them. Cox has reached the coast and says he is, and always has been, a dry.

OFFICE OF

Superintendent of Schools

PENNINGTON COUNTY

Thief River Falls, Minnesota, September 13, 1920.

To Pennington County Teachers:

After applying for a date for a teachers' institute, the week of September 20-24 has been selected by the State Department of Education as Teachers' Institute Week for Pennington County.

This institute is held in compliance with the school laws, Sec. 1020, and for your information is quoted in full and reads as follows:

"The county superintendent may hold county institutes for teachers in different parts of the county not to exceed two days for each such institute in any one year; or he may hold one annual institute not to exceed five days, and require the attendance of all persons teaching in the county schools except those in high and graded schools at any of such institutes. Teachers who have been in regular attendance during the entire time of such institute designated by the county superintendent shall receive from him a certificate of attendance which shall entitle such teacher to full pay for the time her school has been closed on account of attendance at such institute, and the county commissioners shall allow bills for personal expenses for the county superintendent in holding institutes not to exceed the sum of fifty dollars in any one year."

By reference to this law you will notice that teachers will be allowed full pay for perfect attendance at this institute. As you are all aware, all teachers applications for renewal of teachers certificates has among its numerous questions, this question: "How many teachers' institutes have you attended?" By this question it is implied that your chances for renewal are better with the possession of several Institute Attendance Certificates than without them. This alone is one good reason why you should be present at this institute.

At the time of last year's institute, programs were sent out in advance of the institute. This year I have had no chance to confer with the instructors, Miss Coral Osborne and Miss Margaret Bierie. These instructors plan on having this attended to on Saturday, Sept. 18th, to be in readiness for the opening day, Monday morning, the 20th day of September, at 9 a. m. We are in advance alloted one hour per day to take up reports of the officers of last year's Teachers Patriotic League, discussions of local problems confronting us as rural teachers and to ask any questions regarding our work as such.

The institute will be held at the Lincoln High School Gymnasium at Thief River Falls, Minn. The institute will open promptly at 9 a. m., Monday, September 20th, continuing for five days and closing Friday at 4 p. m.

For your information and observance the following paragraph taken from the Department's announcement to me is given below and reads as follows. "Plan to open the institute when all teachers are present and keep accurate record of attendance throughout. The teachers should feel a decided responsibility in the matter of attendance. Right habits and attitudes in the institute will go far toward getting right habits and attitudes in our schools."

With the hope of seeing every rural teacher in the county in attendance at the Pennington County Institute and that this institute of 1920 may do much for the progress of the rural school work in Pennington County, I am

Very sincerely yours,
GEO. M. GUNDERSON,
County Superintendent of Schools.

REVIEW OF STATE SHOWS MUCH ACTIVITY

Determination of Minnesota farmers to hold their grain for better prices and to leave their notes in the banks until they sell their products, was emphasized in the reports received from every section of Minnesota for the weekly review of business conditions, prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and the First National and First & People's Bank of this city.

Only eight bankers in 86 counties reported that loans are decreasing and deposits were on the increase as a consequence of grain movement. Several reported slight decreases in deposits but said loans either were slightly higher. A great majority of the bankers reported financial conditions practically unchanged, but many expect a decrease in indebtedness shortly.

Successful pooling of wool by farmers' associations has caused grain men in a number of counties to discuss the advisability of organizing co-operative grain shipping associations. Pressure seemingly is being brought to bear upon farmers to make disposition of at least a portion of their grain within the next two weeks, as railroad executives have vision of a serious car shortage if grain is held much longer. Freight car equipment would not be sufficient to provide prompt service if farmers who have been holding their grain and cattle decide to market them simultaneously. South St. Paul bankers have been urging cattlemen to increase their shipments.

One of the interesting phases of reports received during the past week were figures announced in various counties which conducted a road census. Travel o the main highways was unprecedented and in many cases the check of vehicles, especially automobiles, exceeded unofficial estimates. On the average, one car out of every fifteen was from another state. Counts on Sundays were, with few exceptions, higher than on week days. The weekly totals ranged from 1,200 to 4,500.

Records made public by county assessors will also show interesting comparisons affecting automobile ownership. In Pennington couty, for instance the total number of dogs owned wad listed at 1,873 and the number of machines was given as approximately 1,000. (Acouple of weeks ago it was announced that there were more autos than dogs in Houston county.

Minnesota farmers evidently will make fortunes in clover this year Northern counties are referring to their districts as "clover lands." Bumper sugar beet crops may inspire the farmers to greatly increase the acreage in 1921. Rosen rye will also be grown more extensively.

The coal situation has become serious in many counties. Reports from the head of the lakes regruding the adequate supply were not reassuring. Lumber companies are sending men into the woods at unprecedented wages—an average of $75 a month and board. Reports from school districts in 50 counties indicated few shortages of teacher but showed that salaries for teachers even in rural schools have been sharply increased. Most of the salaries ranged from $100 to $125 a month. Practically no shortage of labor was reported from the country.

INTERESTING TALK GIVEN MERCHANTS

H. P. MANN DELIVERS FINE ADDRESS AT MEETING ON TUESDAY EVENING

H. P. Mann, of Devils Lake, N. D., addressed the merchants of the city Tuesday evening of this week and was well received by those present at the meeting. A banquet at the Evelyn Hotel opened the meeting and Mr. Mann was introduced and delivered his talk in a capable manner. He endeavore to show the methods used in the conucting of his establishment at Devils Lake, which is rated as one of the successful stores of the country. In the store a total volume of over $400,000 is to be done this year in gross sales and in a town on larger than Thief River Falls. Mr. Mann maue it very clear that the most direct and simple way to conduct a business or a paying and profitable basis was to give the service and then let the people know you are in business and want their trade.

The talk delivered by Mr. Mann was especially strong for newspaper advertising. He is one of the strongest boosters we have ever had the pleasure of hearing and he left no doubt in the minds of those present that he attributes his success to the fact that he has consistently and persistently stuck to newspaper advertising thru every kind of weather and that it has never failed him yet. A total of two per cent of the gross sales is taken for advertising and he made the remark that it was possible the firm would go even stronger. This will make a total of $13,000 the firm will forget for publicity this year and represents a neat business in itself.

The attendance was not as large as ordinary, but those present declared they received much in the way of helpful instruction and that the session accomplished its purpose several times over. Mr. Mann paid the city of Thief River Falls a very fine compliment and stated he had no idea that such a progressive city with such a large number of remarkably fine business houses and such excellent resources.

POSTMASTER JOHN MORGAN:

John Morgan is postmaster of Thief River Falls and has been for many years past and let us hope he may be for many years to come. If any postoffice in Minnesota, or elsewhere is conducted in a better way and on a more efficient basis than our own Thief River Falls office it has not come to our notice. The office is generally patronized by patrons and the public and is given the highest marking by government officials. Mr. Morgan is proud of his office, as he has a right to be. He is proud of his most efficient, obliging and painstaking office force. He is proud of the record his office makes and we suspect he is proud of his office patrons, for certainly if we all have so much respect for our postmaster, a genial and courteous gentleman like Mr. Morgan, and not John Morgan an admiring public, and Mr. Morgan does respond to this sentiment with most gracious reciprocation and in full measure. John Morgan is a fine type of upstanding American citizen His loyalty and constant and untiring energy during the period of the war will always be remembered by the patriotic citizens of the old home town. Mr. Morgan is a Democrat. His Democracy commences at the sidewalk and extends upward to a place some inches above the dome where red hair once thrived and there it forms a political halo that radiates constancy, intensity and sincerity. Mr. Morgan is so much a Democrat and so completely absorbed in his party convictions that he is sorry for we poor benighted Republicans, and by reason of this charity he is kind to us and tolerates us and we are grateful. Here's hoping John Morgan may go on forever as he deserves to. Such men make the city what it is and it is because of such men that Thief River Falls has a distinctive and permanent high place in the roll of honor cities of the northwest.

When you advertise you go half way. There's a meeting place for the seller and the buyer of real estate. This meeting place is in the classified advertising columns of this paper. ## CROP YIELDS TURNING OUT MIGHTY FINE

MAJORITY OF THRESHING OVER COUNTY IS COMPLETED— SOME STACKING.

Crops in Pennington County this year are up to the standard and a little bit more. The farmers are exceptionally busy just at this time taking care of the large yields and are getting ready for their fall work far in advance of other seasons.

Threshing operations continue over the county and will continue for some time to come. A great many have stacked their grain because they were unable to get threshing rigs at the time, and will thresh later in the fall.

The oats have turned out exceptionally well, as as yet and barley. In some localities the yield has not been as good as it might have been but this was due to hail and other causes beyond the reach of man and do not indicate the condition generally the county over. Flax is turning out fine and it is expected the yield this year will be far above that for many years past.

Corn has done fine and the filling of silos will be an easy task and will man much to the farmer who is holding over a large number of stock.

The outlook the county over is very bright and a splendid crop is assured from all corners of the county.

Hunters Have Good Luck.

With the opening of the hunting season yesterday practically all who could tote a gun and could find time to indulge in the sport left the city to get along as best it could and hit for the tall grass and the marshes. Good luck generally is attending most of the hunters and while a great many have failed to return and make their report those who have returned brought home a nice showing. Arthur Williams, Sig Myrum and Louis Olson returned after being out a few hours and bagged sixteen ducks and four geese. They had three other geese which they were unable to locate in the tall grass. The prevailing opinion is that it will not take long at the present rate to make the number of ducks in the slocality very scarce and hard to get at.

Makes Trip to Hibbing.

S. A. S. Sapero, of the Sapero Company, returned Thursday morning from a business trip to Hibbing, at which place the company have a large store. The firm are just completing the erection of a large store building. The new building has a 75 foot frontage with a large marble front and will be a model of perfection when completed. The entire city of Hibbing is to be moved next fall as the result of the mining company desiring to open mines where the city now stands. This is one o fthe most being erected in the new town and dwellings and large buildings are being moved outright to the new site of the town. The undertaking will run into hundreds of millions and will entail considerable work, but it is being done for the sole purpose of getting at the ore which now underlies the site on which to city of Hibbing now stands. Th is one of the most gigantic propositions ever undertaken in the history of the state and without doubt will establish a precedent in modern financing. Mr. Sapero states the entire city of Hibbing is busy in the task of gettig ready for the big move, which is to take place next fall. It certainly will be a novel undertaking and will attract the attention of the entire country.

PLAN TO ATTEND FAIR FROM THIS CITY IN A BODY

THIEF RIVER FALLS WILL ATTEND TRI-COUNTY FAIR NEXT TUESDAY.

Thief River Falls plans to attend the Tri County Fair at Goodridge next Tuesday in a body and Tuesday evening a committee was appointed to attend to securing a list of those to make the trip and make arrangements to take care of those who wish to attend the fair. It is the intention to have room for everyone who wishes to go and by notifying the chairman of the committee, E. O. Mogenson, a way will be made so that every person in the city who so desires can attend the fair.

The day is to be Thief River Falls day at the fair and we want the people of Goodridge and vicinity to know we are back of them and ready and willing to boost the fair along in every possible way. The band will be taken along if possible and the citizens of the three counties putting on the fair will know that this city is on the job and is ready and willing at all times to boost a worthy proposition to the limit.

It is suggested that those contemplating the trip notify the chairman of arrangements so that an accurate account can be kept and every detail attended to before the last minute. It is the desire of the Commercial Club, under whose auspices the tour is to be made, that every person who possibly can do so should take the day off and attend the fair. It will be a time well spent and will mean much to the people of the three counties who are staging the fair. They certainly turned out royally to the Pennington county fair and are never backward in lending their presence to anything of importance that this city or the county attempts and it is no more than proper and right that the people of Thief River Falls should attend the Tri County Fair in full force and let it be known that we are always ready and willing to do our part when it comes to anything in the boosting line. Make arrangements to attend the fair next Tuesday.

Start Serving Lunches Soon.

The Commercial Club starts the serving of noon day lunches next week, the first lunch to be served on Thursday. It is to be determined later just how often the lunches are to be served and will depend largely on the attendance. It is expected the crowd will increase as colder weather comes on and that before long there will be a large attendance at the luncheons. Arrangements have been perfected whereby the club has engaged the services of a cook to serve the lunches and while they are not to be elaborate in any respect there will be plenty for all and served at a nominal price.

RECEIVES THE APPOINTMENT OF ORGANIZER

G. HOWARD SMITH APPOINTED TO ORGANIZE PREUS-HARDING CLUBS

G. Howard Smith, of this city, hns been appointed chairman of the organization division of the Harding-Preus clubs for northwestern Minnesota. The entire state is handled by six chairmen who attend to all the organization details and see that the sentiment is directed in the right line and for the right men.

The purpose of the organization is to organize clubs in each of the districts to further the work of the campaign and to help push the work along with a view of establishing harmony in the ranks and to see the Republican party thru the campaign. The counties under the direct supervision of Mr. Smith and which are to be organized are Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Beltrami, Roseau and Kittson.

The work of the organization clubs will be done thru the chairman of the Republican state central committee, and will be at all times in harmony with the views of each chairman of the counties in which to organization is to be perfected.

The organization of these clubs and the carrying out of the work along this fine entails no small amount of labor and considerable diplomacy. In selecting Mr. Smith for the work of organizing these clubs remarkable judgment has been shown and without a question this section of the northwest will soon have one of the most active and influential organizations of ay district in the state.

NEXT WEEK IS OPENING OF TRI COUNTY FAIR

ANNUAL EVENT PROMISES TO BE BIG WINNER FOR THIS SECTION.

The Tri County Fair, which opens on Monday of next week and which is to be held for two days, gives every promise of being the best and most successful of fairs held in that section. The three counties participating feel confident that they will be able to put over one of the most successful of fairs and from the encouragement and support received last year when the first fair was held, they have every reason to feel they will be successful in making this year's fair the banner of them all and one of the best small fairs in the northwest.

The exhibits promise to be far superior to those of any fair in this section and the people of the territory embraced are busy preparing high class exhibits and otherwise getting reidy to make the fair a hummer.

A new building for the housing of live stock brought in for exhibition is under way and will be completed in time for the fair. Other improvements are to be made and in a very short time the Tri County Fair will possess a model set of buildings for this purpose and will be on an equal footing with the best and largest of associations.

The attendance last year was gratifying, but the association can look forward to a much larger attendance this year, especially from this end of the county.

Some of the best speakers of the state have promised to be at the fair both days and will entertain and instruct those in attendance. Amusements and entertainments of every nature possible to secure will be found on the job and the fair is certain to eclipse that of last year in a great respects. Plan to attend and remember the place and dates, Goodridge, next Monday and Tuesday, September 20 an 21.

Next Sunday.

Come and hear Harold Smithers in a tenor solo and Mrs. August Holmberg on her violin at the Presbyterian church. "The Kingdom Herald" in the morning; in the evening "A Great Revival Conducted by a Famous General."

ATTRACTIONS OF MERIT ARE COMING SOON

CITY TO ENJOY APPEARANCE OF HIGH CLASS SHOWS NEXT WEEK

Thief River Falls is to enjoy two high class attractions next week due to the fact that the principal theater at Grand Forks is undergoing repairs and will not be open until late in the fall. This is due to the fact that the shows booked for this section of the country find an open date exists because there is no theater in Grand Forks, and naturally the next best town is booked, which happens in this instance to be Thief River Falls.

Manager Henry Froseth, of the Auditorium, has booked "Sleeping Partners for September 22 and 23. "The Million Dollar Dolls" for the 23rd. This will make two high class attractions come very close together, but it is the belief of Manager Froseth that the city will turn out for both shows and that a good house will result even the both are booked on such close dates.

"Sleeping Partners" to be here on next Wednesday evening, is held to be a real attraction and has been giving universal satisfaction in all the larger cities. It come sas a guaranteed attraction and has for its star Edna Goodrich, who is held to be a very fine actress and one capable of displaying great ability on the stage. "The Million Dollar Dolls," which comes the following night, Thursday, September 23, is composed of forty people and is a musical comedy supreme. It is chuck full of laughs and pretty girls and will no doubt draw a full house. Both attractions are high class and this city is fortunate indeed in being able to secure such attractions of merit.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE TO EAT

Turban of Fish.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk with one slice of onion, a blade of mace and a sprig of parsley; remove the seasonings. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the same amount of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne, then add the scalded milk gradually and two well-beaten yolks. Put a layer of fish on a buttered dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add a few drops of lemon juice. Cover with sance, continuing with the fish and sance, shaping in a pyramid form. Cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Macaroni and Cheese in the Fireless Cooker.—Boil one cupful of macaroni fifteen minutes, adding one teaspoonful of salt to a quart of boiling water. Rinse, drain and place in a casserole. Fill the dish with milk, stir in one tablespoonful of flour cooked in two tablespoonfuls of butter long enough to blend it. Add one cupful of grated cheese and sprinkle thickly with paprika. Pack in a cooker between two moderately heated radiators, using one radiator as a cover to the casserole. Bake ons and one-half hours. Do not heat the stones too hot or the dish will be baked hard and dry.

Salmon Box.—Line a bread pan slightly buttered with warm, cooked rice well seasoned, cooking it in broth of milk if possible. Skim milk will do nicely. Fill the center with cold-boiled salmon flaked and seasoned with salt, pepper and a slight grating of nutmeg. Cover with rice and steam one hour. Turn out on a hot platter and surround with an egg sance. The egg sance is a simple drawn butter sance to which the beaten yolks of two eggs are added with a teaspoonful of lemon juice.

Fried Egg Plant.—Pare and cut in thin slices. Pile the slices on a platter, sprinkling each slice with salt, cover with a plate and weight. Let stand one hour, drain, rinse each slice in cold water, dip in beaten egg, then in seasoned crumbs and fry until brown.

The KITCHEN CABINET

August brings the snowy lilies,
Clad in robes of spotless white,
Walking like a queen among them
As she flings them left and right;
Lilies pure and lovely crown her—
And her dress is every fold
Wears the semblance of a lily
In its dream of white and gold.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

For the beginning of a dinner a soup of some kind is always in season; hot or cold, they add to the meal.

Corn and Chicken Soup.—Take six cupfuls of chicken broth and one cupful of corn pulp and half a cupful of cold chicken cut very fine. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Simmer half an hour, then add a tablespoonful of butter and half a cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point and serve. This soup may be thickened with egg yolk, making it more nourishing.

Lamb in Aspic.—Make a highly seasoned soup stock of vegetables, broth or beef extract, using a package of gelatine for each quart of stock. Soak the gelatine and add to the hot stock; stir until dissolved. Rinse a plain mold in cold water and pour in a layer of the aspic jelly, keeping the remainder warm. When the jelly in the mold is congealed but not hard, cover with thin slices of cold roast lamb and sprinkle with mint sauce. Cover with more jelly and repeat when the jelly hardens. Continue until the dish is full, having jelly on top. Set on ice to harden.

Veal Croquettes.—Chop cold cooked veal very fine. Season with salt, pepper, grated onion, paprika and a little tomato catsup. Bind with raw egg or a very little thick cream sance. Shape into croquettes, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Raspberry Charlotte.—Take two cupfuls of fresh raspberries, or canned will do, the juice of half a lemon, four ladyfingers, rolled into crumbs, and the whites of four eggs beaten stiff; mix lightly and pour into a buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes. Serve with a thin custard sance.

Swiss Eggs.—Spread a stoneware platter with butter and lay on it very thin slices of cheese. Sprinkle with nutmeg and salt, then break over this enough eggs to serve the family. Pour over a half cupful of cream, sprinkle with salt and bake until the eggs are firm. Serve from the platter.

Here From Greenbush.

Charley Anderson and family, of Greenbush, were in town for a few hours on Tuesday. Mr. Anderson is one of the live wires of Greenbush, and is doing fine. We suspect his popularity in his home town to some extent comes from the fact that he is the father of Purl Andeson, boy scout, errand boy, clerk, egg candler, savings bank depositor, student par excellence and coming one hudred per cent American citizen. Purl is no doubt proud to have given his father such excellent standing in the community.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

Of all the great industries of the present day, the most remarkable in its vast and speedy growth, its quick transition and unarrested development is the business of manufacturing automobiles. As early as 1916—the year before we entered the war—the automobile industry had already become the third largest industry in the United States and today it is probably the largest. The capitalization of the General Motors Corporation is larger than that of the United States Steel Corporation.

No other business has shown such a uniform record of success. In fact today it is unusual to find an automobile manufacturing company that is not successful.

Marvelous indeed have been the achievements of this young industry, and the amount of money made out of it is almost unbelievable.

The general public is not informed as to the profits made by most of the successful automobile manufacturers.

These figures are startling, but ordinary profits are dwarfed by comparison with those common to the automobile industry.

Here are a few of the actual earnings of some of the automobile manufacturing companies, as actually reported:

The General Motors Corporation averaged net earnings of $328 per share of common stock for a period of six years. In 1919 their stock sold as high as $406 per share. Their net profits for the nine months period ending September 30, 1919, were $46,608,640. The General Motors Corporation owns the Cadillac, Buick, Oakland and several other automobile companies.

Financial statement of the H. H. Franklin Manufacturing Company (building the Franklin car) discloses the fact that during a period of nine years, in addition to dividends on the preferred stock, the company has paid dividends on the common stock amounting to 185 per cent in cash and 100 per cent in stock on an output which had reached a total of only 3,800 cars in 1916. Their later earnings, which are tremendous, are not made public, but in 1919 they made 9173 cars and at the close of business last year their unfilled orders amounted to over 3,000 cars. Their schedule for 1920 is over 15,000 cars. During the present year (1920) they have already declared a 250 per cent stock dividend on $3,000,000 of common stock.

In the short space of four years, the Chandler reached a production of 13,000 cars, on which the company made net profits of $1,715,060. As early as their third business year the Chandler Motor Car Co.'s earnings were sufficient to pay dividends of 100 per cent on its entire common stock, yet this common stock was given away as bonus by them in order to sell their preferred stock and get their business started.

In seven years $500 originally invested in Hupp Motor Car Co. (manufacturer of the Hupmobile) earned $24,000 in cash dividends, besides increasing to $20,000 in stock, making a total of $44,080.

In six years an original $500 invested in Stutz Motor Car Co. earned $10,875 in cash dividends and increased to $1,000 in stock, making a total of $11,875.

In a little over twelve years an original investment of $500 in Reo Motor Car Co. earned $6,425 in cash dividends and the stock increased to $6,000, or a total of $12,425.

In six years an original investment of $500 in Federal Motor Truck Co. earned $6,200 in cash dividends, and increased to $15,000 in stock, thus totalling $21,200.

In the very short period of three years $500 invested in the Paige-Detriot Motor Car Co. increased to $2,700 in stock, besides earning $800 in cash dividends; total $3,500.

In a little over seven years $500 invested in Chalmers Motor Co. earned $4,648 in cash dividends and grew to $8,338 in stock; total $12,986.

And there are many others, but space prevents naming them all.

And so the history of this wonderful fortune making business goes on, recording dividend after dividend, until its profits reach a point that makes us wonder if such opportunities will ever come again.

The above is from an automobile prospectus. A mere automobile user who would suggest a reduction in the price of cars, or a local dealer handling the cars who would suggest a reduction, would be accused of being an L. W. W. Pushed for a logical answer the manufacturer would give the same old song about the "cost of labor." Everything is charged to labor.

Wool is low; wool clothing is high; the American Woolen Mills Company shut down the mills to "stabilize" the price of clothing. We do not notice any claim by any campaign orator to the effect that clothing will be cheaper or wool higher, if either Harding or Cox is elected and for the very good reason that our markets are controlled by both Republican and Democratic grafters at the top. Prices are either the result of supply and demand, or control. When wool is almost worthless as a raw material and wool clothing is almost prohibitive in price, then the market is controlled, and that is the condition now. The farmers and wool growers should control the price of what they produce. Join a farmers' marketing association or some farmers' organization that deals in economic advancement and you will help your cause.

Ornamental Thimbles.

At one time, apart from the shape, which is imperative, thimbles were decorated with all kinds of precious stones at the tip—and these were, of course, designated more for ornament than use, when it was the fashion, as Sheridan remarks, for fine ladies to play "at fine work," according to the Irish World. Ladies in our grandmothers' days, besides seeing to the household and personal linen, generally worked in delicate material in silks and satins, when a smaller thimble was brought into play and used with some of the witchery of the fan.

Romantic Bohemia.

All Bohemia is a land of romance. In the hills and mountains there are picturesque castles perched upon the craggy mountains or concealed cleverly in rocky clefts. The very name Bohemia is associated with wild and wonderful legends of the rude barbaric ages. It has been the battleground of nations. Today it is the land of story and legend, as in the olden days it was the land of loyal knights and robber barons.—Youth's Companion.

The Blighter Blighted.

There is nothing that quite so quickly and so definitely marks a man or a woman as being ill-bred as inciviliby. Being rude, ungracious, impolite, inconsiderate, bad-mannered, is evidence of the grossest ignorance and worse—is evidence of utter contempt of mankind. The uncivil can and do blight the happiness and comfort of people many times, but in the end they themselves are the real victims.—Silent Partner.

Wonderful Asphalt Lake.

The asphalt lake of Trinidad is situated at Brighton, 12 miles west of San Fernando, 37 miles south of Port of Spain and about half a mile from the gulf of Paria. The lake itself is a flat area of approximately 120 acres, forming a basin surrounded by a low hill. The original elevation of the lake surface was 137½ feet above sea level, but mining operations had lowered this elevation to about 130 feet in 1913.

Monkeys Numerous as Birds.

American Y. W. C. A. secretaries in India looking for a camp ground for their girl guides, have been amused at the hundreds of monkeys that chase about their week-end bungalow. "Instead of bird-hunts we can indulge in monkey-hunts," writes one of them. Indian girls, like the American school girls, are fond of week-end tramps with swimming, boating and loafing thrown in.

The Moth and the Flame.

A naturalist asserts that many insects will fly toward a flame for the same reason that a plant seeks the light. But the light must be intense to produce a marked result. Toward a feeble glare the insect moves leisurely, but in the case of a concentrated light travels with great rapidity to its death.

Properly Rebuked.

The father and a friend were enjoying a smoke on the porch and daddy threw the almost finished cigar on the lawn. Junior picked it up, ran to his mother and exclaimed: "Look where daddy threw this, mother! Don't let him get away with that stuff just because he has company."

Practice Diligence.

Let every man that hath a calling be diligent in pursuance of its employment, so as not lightly or without reasonable occasion to neglect it in any of those times which are usually, and by the custom of prudent persons and good husbands, employed in it.—Jeremy Taylor.

Frolicsome Birds and Fishes.

The crane will amuse itself sometimes by running round in circles and throwing small pebbles and bits of wood into the air. Other water-birds can any time be observed at their frolics; cleaving the water or diving after each other.

FARMERS, BEWARE!

Beware of the promoter who approaches syou representing one or another distant organization or company and offers to organize you. Some such promoters have succeeded in organizing groups of potato growers, the farmers signing up shares, the promoters building warehouses and promising to store and do a lot more for the potato growers. The final outcome has been in some places that on top of the original $100 for a share and they still have no house. Instances could easily be cited.

Organization should be done by the farmers themselves locally for a local organization. They might ask for advice from the state department of agriculture and the agricultural extension division or from the officers of the organization they have created themselves. The Minnesota Potato Exchange and its board of directors have not employed any promoters and do not themselves go anywhere but where they are invited by farmers to present the program for marketing farm products.

Teacher Shrotage.

While southern Minnesota's schools are fairly well supplied with teachers for the coming year, many schools in this part of the state are lacking teachers in spite of inducement of higher wages. Many schools are offering over $110 a month and the positions go begging. One northwestern county reports a shortage of over fifty teachers in its rural schools.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

The lowest paid teacher in the Middle River schools receives considerably more than $130 per month.

THE KEY TO HEALTH

When the Chiropractor, by scientific adjustment removes the pressure from the nerves and helps Nature to restore Health the operation seems a simple one. Yet the knowledge is one that is gained only after a great deal of investigation, for Chiropractic is just as much a science and profession that has to be learned as any other Health method.

Knowledge of Spine and Nerves

The Chiropractor must intimately know the body. He must know what nerves feed every organ and just where these nerves branch out from the spine, so that he can place his finger right on the point of pressure that is causing trouble in certain parts of the body.

Because of this expert knowledge of why he adjusts, where and how to do it, the Chiropractor can, by examining the spine, tell what the trouble is without a patient telling him anything. The spine is the key. Spinal pressure on a certain nerve leads to weakness and disease in certain organ That's why the Chiropractor adjusts a certain part of the spine to relieve headaches and another part of the spine for stomach or abdominal troubles, etc. In

When you buy your tractor you want heavy draft horsepower, both for the draw bar and belt, but at the right price in first cost and upkeep cost as well. This is what the designers, engineers and producers had in mind when they developed the Samson Model M. You want a tractor that will take the place of and perform the duty of a barn-full of expensive horses, with out costing you a small fortune to buy or a big part of your crop to maintain. That's exactly the kind of a tractor you get in the Samson Model M.

The Samson Model M is the last word in modern tractor construction. It is not like the average I-beam and channel steel frame tractor that weighs so much it takes a large per cent of its own power for self propulsion—it is a coupled power unit all by itself from radiator to rear wheels. Every working part is enclosed and protected against dust, mud and rain.

The even distribution of weight, compact design and low center of gravity give to the Samson perfect traction, great stability and insures its hugging the ground under all conditions.

It has no lost motion for it is built and lubricated throughout like a high priced automobile, insuring great efficiency, ease of operation, maximum length of life and service, and the price is right.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

While fresh berries are in abundance it is timely to can some for winter use for shortcakes and puddings. Crush the fruit, such as raspberries, blackberries or any small fruit, until smooth. Then add equal measures of sugar. Let stand several hours in a cool place, then can in jars which have been well sterilized and place, covers on, in a cool place or on ice to cool. Fill the jars and seal, place on the cement floor of the fruit closet or in the back part of the ice chest if roomy enough to accommodate a half dozen jars. Such fruit will be rich and just as fresh as when canned.

Rhubarb and Raspberry Conserve.—A most delicious conserve using two parts rhubarb and one part raspberries with equal weights of sugar, all cooked until thick. Any fruit such as strawberries, cherries or blackberries may be used in the same proportion. When one has plenty of pieplant and few berries this method is especially recommended, as the pieplant is usually plentiful and cheap, while the berries are more costly. The product seems to be so largely the berries in flavor that the rhubarb only adds in bulk.

Rhubarb Conserve. — Take five pounds of sugar, five pounds of rhubarb, four oranges, two pounds of raisins. Boil the orange skins until tender, discard the water. Grind the skins and fruit and cook all together until thick.

Strawberry Preserves.—Take two pints of sugar, one small cupful of water, boil until it hairs. Add three pints of berries and boil 15 minutes; pour into an earthen crock and let stand over night. Can cold the next morning. Cherries may be preserved the same way. If allowed to set in the sun for a day, covered with glass, they will be rich in color as well as good in flavor.

DRINKS AND FROZEN DAINTIES.

During the warm weather there is nothing so gratifying as a glass of iced fruit drink, of which there are innumerable varieties.

Mint Julep.—Make a syrup by boiling one quart of water with two cupfuls of sugar 20 minutes. Wash and separate 12 sprigs of mint in pieces and cover with one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water, cover and let stand in a warm place five minutes, strain and add to the syrup. Add two cupfuls of orange juice, one cupful of strawberry juice, the juice of eight lemons. Pour into a punch bowl and just before serving add one pint of charged water with the ice and more chilled water. Serve with fresh mint leaves and whole strawberries.

Cherry Frappe.—Take the juice from a quart can of white cherries; add a pint bottle of apollinaris water and sugar to taste. Strain and freeze as usual.

Orange Frappe.—Boil two cupfuls of water twenty minutes; add the grated rind of one orange and pour it over two cupfuls of blood orange juice; add the juice of one lemon, strain, cool and freeze as directed.

Raspberry and Strawberry Sherbet.—Take one pint of berry juice, one-half of each kind, or unmixed; one pint of sugar, one pint of water, the juice of two lemons, one teaspoonful of gelatin. Soften the gelatin in a little water and add the other ingredients; when well mixed freeze as usual. Preserved or canned fruit may be used, adding one cupful of sugar to a pint of fruit and one quart of water.

Frozen Apricots.—Put one can of apricots through a sieve; add one pint of sugar and one quart of water; stir and when the sugar is dissolved freeze. When partly frozen add one pint of whipped cream and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. For ordinary creams use one part of salt to three parts of finely pounded ice. Use a basin; add three measures of ice in the bottom, then one measure of salt; repeat until the ice comes up well around the freezer. Turn slowly at first, then faster until it is well frozen. Remove the paddle, put a cork in the freezer and cover well with ice and salt. Let stand three hours to ripen.

Worse Than Modern Drill.

In ancient China a man suffering from toothache proceeded in this wise: He repaired to the Chinese doctor, who was armed with a lot of sharp needles of various sizes and lengths, and his method of treatment was and still is known as acupuncture. This operation consisted of the insertion of these needles into various parts of the body, the choice points of selection being 28 for toothache and six others for inflammation of the gums. The depth to which the needles were inserted is said to have been an important point in the operation. This puncturing was associated with cauterization.

Bees Swifter Than Pigeons.

There is a story to the effect that a farmer in Westphalia laid a wager that 12 bees of his, released at a distance of three miles from their hives, would travel as rapidly as a like number of pigeons over the same course. The first bee, properly powdered for purposes of identification, did, as a matter of fact, arrive at its hive a quarter of a minute before the coming of the first pigeon to its cote; and there were three other bees that came in before the second pigeon arrived.

A curious instance of extreme colorblindness recently came to light. A post office clerk could never balance his accounts. Examination proved that he was unable to distinguish between the colors of the stamps he sold.

Musical Comedy's Real Treat Coming

The big, glittering, whirlo, girlie musical comedy of youth and beauty, "The Million Dollar Doll in Paris," is the attraction at the Auditorium for Thursday night, Sept. 23. This is the third edition of the well known "Doll" series and from the many press notices received from the larger cities thruout the country it will be one of the best musical treats of the year, so if you are looking for an evening of real enjoyment you will not go amiss if you secure seats early for this attraction.

It is not only a musical comedy of youth, but is absolutely clean and full of good, rich comedy, sparkling tunes and pretty girls in creation gowns.

Harvey D. Orr is the sponsor for "The Million Dollar Doll in Paris," and has produced a farce with music and girls for civilized playgoers. It is bright and lively enough to catch the favor of any one. Twenty-four catchy tunes are introduced thruout the three big acts and the dance numbers are a revelation.

The Million Dollar Doll in Paris" hands Mr Gloom a knockout wallop and is an utterly different musical comedy, having a real plot, excellent voices, wonderful wardrobe, clever stage settings, and all the latest fads and fancies in the way of society and novelty dancing.

No musical comedy of the Broadway season has achieved the popularity that has been won by "The Million Dollar Doll in Paris;" the music is rollicksome, the costumes are gorgeous and its jokes have become a classic. These are only a few of the reasons why you should be there to see this well known musical treat.

BAD WEATHER BARS CROWDS AT BIG FAIR

TRI COUNTY FAIR HINDERED BY DISAGREEABLE WEATHER THE FIRST DAY.

The first day of the Tri County fair, which opened yesterday, was a cold, wet and dismal day, and few were brave enough to attend the fair from this part of the county. With bright and sunny weather today, however, it is felt there will be a large attendance and in view of the fact that roads are muddy and hard to drive over it has been decided to take a special train over the electric line and as many as possible from this city will attend the fair by train.

Committees were appointed and tickets were sold to everyone who could find it possible to get away for the fair and at one o'clock when the train pulled out there was a large delegation present accompanied by the band. The special train will arrive in this city on the return trip at six p. m. and will make an ideal trip for those who wished to attend the fair but were unable to do so on account of the roads. Without doubt the fair will be a success in spite of the one bad day and it is believed the attendance today will more than make up for the shortage yesterday and that the association will come out of their difficulty with flying colors.

Commissioners to St. Paul.

County Commissioners O C. Peterson and Robert McGinn leave on will today for St. Paul where they will meet with the state board of valuation in an effort to secure a lower valuation for this county in the state taxes recently assessed against real estate and improvements. This county was given a raise of fifteen per cent on the two items over preceding years and the commissioners feel this increase is a trifle too heavy. Accordingly a kick was registered to the state board and a hearing was set for Thursday of this week. The commissioners are undertaking to show where the increase is too heavy and if possible will get it reduced to a point that will be satisfactory to all

Bible Chautauqua.

RECEIVES AN APPOINTMENT ON COMMITTEE

J. W. LA BREE APPOINTED AS MEMBER OF REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE

J. W. LaBree has received an appointment from the State Central Republican Committee which places him on the Central Committe with all the honors and dignity that is attached to the office.

Mr. LaBree received his appointment last Friday by telegram and is busy getting ready for a united drive in perfecting one o fthe strongest organizations in the orther part of the state. The telegram announcing the appointmetn is as follows: "At last meeting of the State Central Republican Committee you were elected a member o fthe State Central Committee. Please accept this as your notification. We hope you may find it possible to accept. We are certainly pleased to have your sterling republicanism thus recommended and ser glad to have you with us."

The selection of Mr. LaBree as a member of the Central Committee is a wise choice indeed and will mean much for the party in this section. Unquestioned loyalty to the Republican party thru thick and thin has given Mr. LaBree the unqualified standing as a stickler and one who is ever ready and willing to do his utmost for the good of the cause. In the appointment of Mr. LaBree the Central committee will have a fearless champion for the cause and a worker. His influence in county politics is tremendous and will be the means of swinging the party into line in quick order.

HARDING-PREUS CLUB FORMED LAST EVENING

OFFICERS ELECTED AND COMMITTEES APPOINTED FOR CAMPAIGN WORK.

A Harding-Preus Club for the city of Thief River Falls was organized at an enthusiastic meeting held evening held at the Brunsund Hotel, officers elected an dcomplete and harmonious organization to perpetuate the principles of the Republican party was perfected.

Howard Smith, organizer for this district, explained the purpose of the clubs, which are to be organized throut the state, and explained the duties and purposes of these organizations. An election of officers was held immediately after a few explanatory remarks and the club launched forth in full dignity and with the proper form of procedure.

The president of the local organization is L. H. Lawrence, first vice president, Oscar C. Smith, second vice president, Harry Boreen, treasurer, W. H. Akre, secretary, George Wernlein. The executive committees selected for each ward are as follows: First ward, R. B. McWilliams; second ward, W. H. Akre; third ward, Harry Roberts; fourth ward, S. S. Coumbe. The executive committee at large is Harold Provencher and H. W. Protzeller.

Following the election, the officers elected presided at the meeting and in a short time the whole organization was moving along in a businesslike method and did credit to the gathering, which consisted mostly of young men. Dues for the balance of the campaign to help carry along the expenses of the local club were set at one dollar and the club is now on its feet in good shape and ready to boost the Republican party straight thru to the white house and if hard and perseverance will accomplish it, the local club will certainly carry their end of the load and will make a very creditable showing at the end of the campaign.

A club room was secured thru the kindness of the First & Peoples State Bank, who donated a room in the basement for the free use of the organization, which will materially cuts down the overhead of the organization and help materially in putting the club on the proper basis.

Senator D. D. O'Neill, who was present at the meeting, was called upon for a few remarks and as usual left much in the way of valuable information. In a few words Mr. O'Neill set forth clearly many principles along party lines that should be remembered and followed by the local club and which are full of good common sense. He complimented the newly organized club on its businesslike method of going after the matter at hand in such veteran like fashion and was certain that Thief River Falls would make a splendid showing in the political analysis thru the efforts of the organization.

The meeting night of the club was set for Tuesday evening of each week and a committee has been appointed to see about the procuring of furniture and getting the room ready for the next meeting night.

Every citizen of Thief River Falls is eligible to join the club and it is hoped as many as possible will enter their names and help in the work Other clubs will be formed in different towns thruout the county and every person in the county of Republican fait hwill be given an opportunity to join and help the work along.

It is the intention to put in two days or more in the county and to do all they can to acquaint the people of the county with the Babcock amendment and what it means to every resident of the state. Such gentlemen as these men in state matters and their appearance in this city will do much to help the favorable sentiment that already exists for the amendment. The letter received by Mr. Show, which is self explanatory, is published in full:

Hon. Daniel Mr. Shaw: Senator H. McGarry and myself are coming up in your part of the state the first two weeks of October to boost the Babcock Amendment No. 1, and we would like to have a mass meeting at Thief River Falls on Tuesday evening, Oct. 12, and a similar meeting at Goodridge on Wednesday evening, October 13. ## VICTORY MEDAL DAY SET FOR SEPTEMBER 24

EVERY RETURNED SERVICE MAN TO RECEIVE VICTORY MEDAL

Monday, September 27th, has been set as "Victory Medal Day" for this city and surrounding territory and every soldier in the county is asked to be in the city on that day and bring his discharge papers along so that the proper steps may be taken in order to secure the medal.

It has been arranged that the banks of the city are to furnish a notary public who will offer their services free to the service men and it is especially to be remembered that this does not only apply to American Legion members but to every service man in the county. It is necessary that all service men bring their discharge papers in order that a complete record may be kept and that the medal goes to the right man, and as there are several different kinds of medals, one for each branch of the service, it is necessary that the war department have a complete record of the service of the men so that the proper medal may be issued. Several of the local men have received their medals and they are a beautiful piece of work and are well worth having.

Relatives of deceased soldiers may secure the medals by bringing in the discharge papers and making application. It is the desire of the department to see that every former service man is given one of these medals and it is the intention to get the number required at once so that they can be distributed in the next few months.

Remember the day, Monday, Sept. 27th, Thief River Falls, and see that every former service man is informed and has the chance to get his Victory medal.

RAMBECK-STONE SECURE EXTRA FINE LOCATION

MOVE INTO PRICHARD BUILDING ON HORACE AVENUE THIS WEEK

The Rambeck Stone Company have completed a deal whereby they become the owners of the north half of the Prichard building on Horace avenue and will start moving their machinery this week and expect to be located in their new home by Saturday of this week.

The purchasing of this building will give the company much needed room and will be a big help to them in the proper handling of their machinery and give them much more room for the former location. The building is especially fitted for this line of business and the company are certainly fortunate in being able to secure such a desirable location.

The new organization, have done remarkably well for their first season here and feel that the outlook is even better for future years to come. They have branched out in good shape since their first opening and by hard work and strict attendance to business have built up a fine business in a very short time.

The moving of the machinery now on hand is under way and in a few days the company will be at home in their new location where they will be ready to receive visitors.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennington County Agricultural Society will be held on Saturday evening, September 25th, in the Commercial Club rooms. The election of officers and the annual report of the secretary will be the principal items to call for attention and in addition the plans for next year's fair are to be discussed and arrangements made to take care of many small items that were postponed this year. One of the main questions to come up for discussion will be the erection of a women's building and as all are practically agreed that this building is an absolute necessity it is more than likely that it will go thru and that the same will be erected in time for next year's fair.

Reception to Teachers.

A public reception to all teachers in the city schools will be held at the Commercial Club rooms next Monday evening, September 27th, and it is hoped everyone who can will be present at this reception. The reception is given each year and while no program has been planned for this year there will be music and a general get-together spirit will prevail. There are fifty-eight teachers in the city schools this year and the school board is desirous that everyone in the city attend this reception and extend to the teachers of the schools the warm hand of fellowship and to assure them of the appreciation of the services they are rendering the city of Thief River Falls.

MUNICIPAL COURT HANDS OUT STIFF FINES

THREE MEN RECEIVE SEVERE JOLT IN COURT LAST SATURDAY

Business in the city court has been rather brisk the past few days and Judge N. W. Tarrant has been busy tacking heavy fines on the offenders of the peace and dignity of the city.

On Saturday last he put the finishing touches to an elaborate "stew party" that had assumed gigantic proportions and in which the flourishing of a revolver played an important part in the proceedings. A call came in from the corner of Arnold and Emil streets by F. L. Comstock conveyed the information that there were three men drunk in that vicinity and were threatening the lives of people in that neighborhood with a revolver. Chief of Police Erickson immediately left for the scene of buttle and succeeded in lodging Charles Thompson, the man who had the gun, and later in the day rounded up the partners, Ed Slatterly and Andy White. Thompson and Slatterly are from Bemidji, and had been out in the Dakotas working in the harvest fields and were on the return trip. Thompson had threatened the lives of several kids in the neighborhood, pointing the gun at them and informing them that he was goin to kill them. He later turned on his two associates and threatened their lives with the gun. About this time the police arrived on the scene and collared the vicious stranger before he had time to actually put any of his threats into action.

When marraigned before the judge, the men appeared to be calmed down considerably and especially so after their fines were announced. Thompson was fined fifty dollars and the other paid ten dollars. Thompson paid his fine and immediately left on the three o'clock train. The other two paid their fines and were also given their liberty. Slatterly informed the judge that he was making a big mistake, as he was not drunk nor had he ever been drunk in his life. He even went farther and informed "hizoner" that he had never taken a drink in his life. In this statement he was backed up by Thompson, who claimed to know. The judge was a trifle loath to take the word of either of the men and insisted that Slatterly pay his fine of spend twenty days in the cooler. The fine was paid and all were allowed to go. The gun of Thompson, a Savage 32-calibre automatic, was retained by the police and will be kept where it will not cause any harm.

Slatterly was found in the city the same evening drunk as a lord and more so if possible than when hailed into court. He was taken to jail and left overnight and on Sunday morning was given another ten dollar soaker by the judge. He finally made up his mind that this was a poor town for a sport of his size and ability and so far as known has shaken the dust of the city from his feet and departed for pastures new.

The mountain of success is steep and rough,
Who gains the summit climbs a weary way;
And, though brave feet grow stronger with rebuff,
The rocky path a coward's steps may stay.

A HOT WEATHER LUNCHEON.

Even in warm weather a hot soup is enjoyed, especially those made of fresh green vegetables, such as peas, spinach, vegetable oysters or celery. Cucumber soup may not be so well known but it is a most appetizing one.

Cream of Cucumber Soup.—Have ready one cupful of stewed cucumber, rubbed through a sieve. Take the liquor in which the cucumber was cooked, reduce it to half a cupful by boiling, and set aside. Put into a saucepan one tablespoonful of butter, season with salt, pepper and, when the butter is blazing hot, stir into it two tablespoonfuls of flour. Stir until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Add three cupfuls of cold milk and stir constantly until it boils. When the mixture is as thick as a thin cream sauce add the cucumber and the half cupful of liquor. Mix thoroughly, boil up once and serve.

Eggs a la Bourgeoise.—Cut slices of bread half an inch thick and trim off the crust; lay on a buttered platter and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Rent eggs enough to cover the bread; season with salt and pepper and grated nutmeg; pour over the bread and bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set.

Creamed Fish With Potato.—Prepare creamed salmon as usual and put a layer of the fish in a baking dish, cover with a layer of cold, mashed potato, then add another layer of fish until the dish is full and the potato on top. Dot with bits of butter, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake brown in a hot oven.

Macaroni With Codfish.—Take one cupful of cold-boiled macaroni, add one cupful of cold-boiled codfish flaked fine. Put into a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt, pepper, grated cheese and sufficient milk to moisten. Bake until brown.

Potato Border.—Make a rim of mashed seasoned potato around a well-buttered platter. Fill the center with creamed fish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until the crumbs are brown.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON.

For a warm weather luncheon, and this means one easy to digest and not too heavy, try a fish dish for the main course, a salad and a light dessert with an iced or a hot drink as one prefers.

Curried Salmon.—Chop a small onion very fine and fry brown in one tablespoonful of butter. Mix one teaspoonful of curry powder with one tablespoonful of flour and a pinch of salt. Stir into the butter. Add slowly one cupful of hot water, stirring briskly. When the sauce is thick add one cupful of flaked salmon and cook until well heated.

Currant Pie.—Make a pastry shell and fill with the following: Mash one cupful of currants with one cupful of sugar, or use the same quantity of fresh currant jam prepared by using crushed currants and sugar in equal measures, or slightly less sugar. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a quarter of a cupful of water; mix well and cook until smooth and thick. Cool, fill the shell and cover with a meringue made from the beaten whites with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven and serve at once.

Peas and Carrots.—Clean and dice enough carrots to make two and one-half cupfuls. Steam until tender; put through a sieve; add butter and flour, one tablespoonful each; one beaten egg, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper, and a grating of nutmeg. Press into a ring mold, cover with greased paper and steam twenty minutes. Fill the center with cooked seasoned peas and garnish with parsley.

Tomato Hors d'Oeuvres.—Arrange slices of tomato cut one-half inch thick on thin rounds of browned cornmeal mush. Cover the tomato with a paste made of cottage cheese mixed with a few chopped nut meats and add a seasoning of chopped chives and radishes. Garnish with radish roses or with olives. Serve at dinner.

Pineapple Sherbet.—Take one can of pineapple, or one pint of fresh fruit, one pint of sugar, one pint of water and one tablespoonful of gelatin. Mix and freeze.

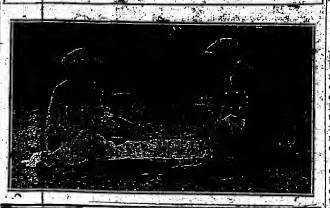
Little Unemployment or Labor Shortage--Farmers are Generally Prosperous

Franklin K. Lane, former secretary of the interior, today issued a statement making public a summary of what he calls "The first comprehensive, carefully made and approximately accurate picture of industrial, agricultural, financial and political conditions thruout the United States."It discovers in the foreground, he says, that both major political parties have overlooked the greatest issue in the public mind, which is the cost of living. It also shows, he states, that the country is on a sound economic basis, with the wave of extravagance subsiding, saving increasing, wholesalers and retailers optimistic over the winter outlook, and a growing disposition for hard work, although the individual productivity of labor is not yet showing much evidence of incerase.



Mr. Lane's statement summarizes a survey made thru 900 field representatives of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland and covers every section of the country. Manufacturs, merchats, chambers of commerce, bankers, lawyers, business men and farmers were questioned in the effort to mirror the immediate ecomic and political situation and obtain a concensus of representative opinion as to the future. The replies from all localities were made simultaneously by felegraph.

In a preface to his analysis of the survey, Mr. Lane says. "With the presidential election but six weeks away and winter rapidly approaching many thoughtful people stand hesitant and undecided, having difficulty because of the general lack of knowledge of business conditions outside of their own locality or interests. The general tendency has been to see what the next man thinks, with the uncomfortable feeling that his guess is no better than another's.I believe, for this reason, that the picture presented in the tabulated analysis made by the Fidelity and Deposit Company is of interest to every business man and voter. While it is not of course perfect in detail and exact in prophecy, it is as clear and valuable a conspectus of present conditions as can be gathered."

Under the heading of industrial conditions Mr. Lane says: "Economically the United States is shown to be better off than any other country in the world. There is no evidence of idleness. Our people have the opportunity to work and are at work.

"There is no shortage of raw materials sufficient to curtail production.

Clara Kimball Young in "Forbidden Woman"

reported from any of the nine geographical districts into which the country was divided for the purpose of the survey. Only in the district including Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Wisconsin is there evidence of lack of orders. New England reports a number of cancellations, but there, as elsewhere, manufacturers are well filled with calls for their product.

"Transportation conditions are improving everywhere and a substantial reduction in the freight car shortage is reported in every district except in the Rocky Mountain states, in the southwest and in the district including Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, although an improvement is noted in the latter district.

"A shortage of coal and the failure of labor to increase individual productivity appear to be the only two unfavorable aspects in the immediate industrial situation. The Rocky Mountain and Pacific states report a sufficient supply of fuel. All other sections of the country are feeling the shortage, but is is apparently least felt in the southern states.

"Although labor is costing still more than it did last year, it apparently is producing no more. Wages have advanced from 10 to 50 per cent in the last twelve months and yet nowhere is there reported increase in productivity per man. I am not expecting that the cost of labor will fall off in every the worst of times to its pre-war stage, for I believe the real differential between directing labor and manual labor will never again be as great as it has been.

"So far as the distribution of labor is concerned, the situation nationally appears to be well equalized. A shortage of labor is found only in the middle Atlantic and south Atlantic states and this is largely of unskilled workers. In the rest of the country the demand and supply appear balanced. Only in some sections of the middle Atlantic states is any unemployment reported and this is in certain of the skilled trades, chiefly the building and shipbuilding trades.

"An important disclosure of the survey is the seriousness of the housing situation. In many of the larger industrial centers where the shortage has been most acute the investigation has disclosed building operations to be decreasing instead of increasing.

"The call for buildings comes loudest from the most essential places of manufacture rather than from the retail centers and is for low price dwellings. Building construction is increasing in New England, but the bulk of the construction is of factories, warehouses and stores. New York, Pennsylvania and most of the other large industrial states of the east and middle west show a falling off in building operations. There is improvement in the housing situation in southern and Pacific coast industrial centers with special emphasis on the erection of workmen's homes.

"In no action of the country did the investigators find sentimet in favor of goverment ownership of the railroads, and everywhere better transportation conditions are reported.

"Agriculture is generally recognized as the backbone of the country, and from no section has an unfavorable report been received. Our farmers appear everywhere to be in too happy a mood to permit the cynicism, 'The farmer is always grumbling.' They are well supplied with funds from the sale of this year's crop, but they are wise in that they know more favorable marketing conditions can be created.

"The recent drop in grain prices is reported to have had no effect except in the Rocky Mountain states. Farmers of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and other central states are withholdig grain.

"In the financial field, money is tight. That may mean several things: First, that the people want money badly to put into producting activities; second, that the banks attempt to get whatever the traffic will bear, shearing close to the skin; third, that there is an inadequate supply of money, or fourth, that those who have money lack confidence. There are other seasons, no doubt, and among them that the dollar now buys less than heretofore, people with money wish to charge more for the service than money gives. No one can accurately say which of these causes is the most important factor but all comprobably contribute to the present situation.

"The telegraphic reports from every section of the country state that the banks are well loaned up, although money is available in the east and central districts at/from 6 to 8 per cent interest. The southwest, Rocky Mountain and Pacific states report the highest interest rates, averaging from 8 to 10 per cent and in the mountain district as high as 12 per cent.

"There is great encouragment, however, to be drawn from the fact that in only one of the nine geographical divisions, the Rocky Mountain, has there been a decrease in bank deposits during the last six months. While the general increase includes corporation deposits, individual savings accounts show a more marked improvement everywhere. This seems to show clearly that the orgy of spending and extravagance is over.

"Discounting of bills by industrial concerns is universally reported. Except in the middle Atlantic, southwestern and Pacific coast states, manufacturers appear to be carrying large amounts of customers' paper.

"The country does not like the present taxation system. The excess profits tax is in bad favor everywhere. Opinion is divided, however, as to a substitute. In the east and central west sentiment runs strongly for a sales tax, but elsewhere opinion as to a substitute is divided.

"We are not yet masters of the art of distribution of product. The fact that the farmers uniformly report a desire for some co-operative method by which their products can be brought to the consumer means that this problem is of the greatest importance. But it is not for the farmers' benefit primarily that such a movement must quickly culminate in action.

"The consumer feels that somewhere between the farmer and himself too much is taken for a service of comparative insignificance in contrast with that which the producer himself renders.

"The farmers apparently are not alone in desiring co-operative action. The survey shows opposition to co-operative movements only in the New England and Pacific coast districts. Sentiment is divided in Ohio, Illinois and the other north central and western states, but favorable in the middle Atlantic, the south central and the southern states.

"Politically the replies indicate it is too early to tell what the outcome of the election will be. Three months ago there was a stronger Republican sentiment than there appears to be now. The trend has been, and is, Republican. What it will be in November these getlemen do not prophesy.

"The large outstanding fact developed by the Fidelity and Deposit Company seems to be that the greatest issue in the public mind is being overlooked by the campaigners—the high cost of living. I think this conclusion will be justified, but the blame should not be cast upon the producer and certainly the farmer has not received his share of the wealth which he creates.

"The cost of living and foreign relations seem to be the main issues. Taxation and industrial relations also occupy a space in the general political thought. Least interest appears to be shown in the railroad policy of the present administration, radical movements and prohibition.

"It is clear that the country is on a sound economic basis and there is generally a spirit of confidence in the future, regardless of the outcome of the election.

"The business outlook appears to be good in every section. Wholesalers and retailers view the fall and winter optimistically. The retailer is looking forward without fear to the winter, and his purchases from the wholesaler are founded upon this optimism. From the simple, toiler up thru the tradesman, to the industry and financier there runs the connected feeling of confidence."

JEFFERSON HIGHWAY SHOULD COME THIS WAY

Middle River Pioneer: It has become common knowledge thru publication in the Thief River Falls and other papers that the Jefferson Highway is to be re-routed between Thief River Falls and Hallock. It was a senseless move in the first place to route it on the Pembina trail, along which for sixty miles the highway traverses the most unproductive and uninviting section in the country and does not pass a town between Thief River Falls and Karlstad. Not a town in Marshall county is on the present route and as a matter of course the people of this county have shown little interest in maintaining the road. The practical route for the highway to take is from Thief River Falls north to Greenbush, thence to Hallock via Halma and Bronson, and possibly Karlstad. By this route the road would thus pass thru a thriving town every few miles all the way from Thief River Falls to Hallock, which would make the people of these towns and their surrounding territory a unit in its support. Moreover, the entire route would be over roads already designated as state roads. The road from Thief River Falls to Greenbush which is considerably over half the mileage of the proposed re-routing, is a section of the prospect Babcock chain of arterial roads, and an already well established state road, graded all the way and a considerable part of it being graveled and a fine road. This road, as well as the road west and north of Greenbush, runs thru a section of country having soil easily made into roads and besides gravel can be procured at several places right on the line of it. Another fact that should not be lost sight of is that by this route the highway would connect at Greenbush with the Scenic Highway running to Warroad and the Lake of the Woods, which is rapidly becoming an objective point for summer tourists.

Representative business men from Middle River, Strathcona and Greenbush recently met at Greenbush and took preliminary steps towards the furtherance of the re-routing of the Jefferson Highway on the above mentioned lines. An organization was effected of which G. I. Brandt, of Greenbush, is president; E. P. Modin, of Middle River, vice president, M. H. Bishop, of Strathcona, secretary, and B. Dokken, of Holt, treasurer. In furtherance of the project, on Thursday last, Messrs. Brandt and Anderson, of Greenbush, Bishop, of Strathcona, and Modin and Carr, of Middle River, made an auto trip to Hallock by way of the intervening towns along the proposed new route. They met with encouragement all along the line, the men interviewed conceding that the change would be for the best interests of all concerned and the country as a whole.

The Jefferson Highway will be re-routed via Warren or via Steiner, Holt, Middle River, Strathcona, Greenbush, Pelan and points north. One way or the other. If via Warren, our trade influence on the Jefferson ceases twelve miles west of Thief River Falls. If the other way, we open an empire of trade territory and connect with thousands of natural friends. Thief River Falls does not have all the say in relocating this road, but we will be potent and influential in the matter. We should be a unit in this most important matter. It is the duty of every business man in the city to understand this matter fully and be sure you understand it. Help to get this subject out in the open and we will all be a unit in our support of the north route. Our public matters are too often camouflaged and pussy-footed and complicated with so much profundity that they are lost in the shuffle. This is a plain matter, bidding for the support of plain people, to do a plain duty in an honest way.

A CONSPICUOUS CAMOUFLAGE

John Skelton Williams, whom the senate refused to confirm as President Wilson's comptroller of the currency, is now perniciously active in spreading Democratic propaganda at government expense through the official channels of the U. S. treasury.

Under date of July 31, 1920, Comptroller Williams issued a two-page bulletin on the business conditions of the country, taking occasion, in the middle of it, to slip in a paragraph which is simply Wilson propaganda, pure blither dicta in an official statement from the comptroller's office. It was hoped and intended, of course, that it might have more or less weight with the smaller bankers of the country. The offensive paragraph was as follows:

"Aside from the disturbed and alarming state of affairs in parts of the Old World, for which I am constrained to think the peace treaty is largely responsible, there is absolutely no justification for the spirit of pessimism and uneasiness prevalent in business and financial circles in many sections of the United States today."

This is not an isolated instance by any means, according to a Washington man who keeps tab on what Williams does out. It is charged that it is Comptroller Williams' constant practice to thus prostitute his office and to expound in official communications personal views which have no place there and which are designed either to vent his personal spleen or to curry favor with President Wilson.

When a Republican congress puts a stop to administration officials having this sort of stuff printed at government expense at the government printing office, administration officials the installed expensive mimeographing outfits in their respective offices and this kind of publicity is now sent out broadcast over the country in mimeographed form on government stationery and mailed under a government frank, wherever and when ever possible to do so. In this particular case the statement was mimeographed on treasury department letter heads from the comptroller of the currency's office and sent out under the frank of the treasury department to every banker in the United States.

THE ONLY ISSUE IN THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN

It is time to be anxious about the presidential campaign. This country is in immediate need of permanent peace and permanent prosperity.

The Democratic party, which asks you to continue it in power, has insured neither. Indeed, it has proved itself hopelessly unable to deal with the most critical situation that has arisen since the days following the Civil War.

Nearly two years have passed since the signing of the armistice. The country is still carrying the burden imposed by war conditions. By its arrogant insistence on its own kind of League of Nations or no league at all, the administration has kept us out of peace when we ought to have peace, exactly as it kept us out of war, when we should have gone to war.

By keeping us out of peace it has kept us out of prosperity. The future of the country ought to be secure. Instead it is uncertain. Industry ought to be able to look forward to settled conditions. Instead it looks forward to chaos.

And Mr. Cox, who asks you, to make him the next president, proposes instead of remedying the mess his predecessor has made of the work of reconstruction, to continue the exact policy from which this mess has resulted.

Mr. Cox declares for the League of Nations as Mr. Wilson brought it from Versailles. Mr. Wilson, with all his prestige, could not secure the consent of the country to such a league. Neither can Mr. Cox. And Mr. Cox knows he cannot.

His devotion to the Wilson plan, therefore, means a continuance of this deadlock, a further drawing out of a struggle that has worn out the patience of the people while it has imperiled the peace of the world.

Mr. Cox, observing the country in an intolerable condition, proposes blindly to follow the policy that has made it intolerable. He has no remedies to suggest, no ideas to put forward. What was good enough for the Wilson administration is good enough for him. And what was good enough for the Wilson administration has set the country back nearly two years, has denied us our place in world affairs and has put the business of the nation and the people who compose the nation in the most stupendous muddle in all history.

Read Mr. Cox's speeches. Read them carefully. You will not find one deviation from the Wilson program—only slavish adherence to it.

It is as an applicant to succeed a manager who had bankrupted a business promised faithfully if employed to pursue the methods that had brought about the bankruptcy.

This country must not go bankrupt. It has limitless resources. Provide it with an intelligent administration and its future will be secure—secure for capital, for labor, for the individual, for the family.

But the administration must be intelligent. It must abandon visionary experiments and half-baked theories. It must return to sound business methods.

That means leadership—the restoration of leadership.

Mr. Cox is not a leader. He has no experience in national affairs. His utterances seem to voice unsubstantiated and insubstantial charges proves that recklessness is his chief characteristic. And this is no time for recklessness in administration.

His declaration that he means to continue the League of Nations controversy by being as stubborn as Mr. Wilson proves how utterly incapable he is of understanding the temper of the American people.

Mr. Harding's utterances show an understanding of the needs of the country and a determination, if elected, to supply those needs immediately and intelligently.

Every utterance of Mr. Cox shows a purpose to follow exactly in the path of an administration that has shamed the United States before the world and tangled its internal affairs almost beyond hope.

Silly talk about side issues does not cloud the main issue, which is simply:

Do you want four more years of doubt, uncertainty, and hopeless drifting into peril at home and abroad or do you want four years of intelligent reconstruction, permanent peace and permanent prosperity?

"Million Dollar Doll in Paris."

A real tonic is "The Million Dollar Doll in Paris," the musical comedy which Harvey D. Orr presents at the Auditorium for one night, Thursday, Sept. 23. It is potent, pleasant to the taste and smell and sight and a sure cure for the ills that flesh is heir to—and for the past six years has helped to build up the morale of the theater going public. It comes under te "musical comedy" head of tonics, concocted by Chas. George, who has had many Broadway successes, given the final mixing by Harvey D. Orr which makes it so excellent and effective. The ingredients are breezy dialogue, amusing story, bubbbly music, artistic staging, beautiful costuming and effervescent society and novelty dancing.

This is the third new edition of the "Doll" series and this year's tonic is even bigger, better and brighter than ever, and has the daintiest, danciest chorus to give it a stimulating quality so necessary, and taking the show all in all it is a perfect blend calculated to send you forth feeling fit and ready to tackle anything and everything.

THE FOURTH

By MYRTA ALICE LITTLE.

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Sulp, slither, crick, crack," went Blackie Boy's pistol and the pea-shot hit the stone wall underneath the blue and yellow target.

"Shiver, shudder, quiver, quake," went Blackie Boy's girl mother, standing at the kitchen window with the heaviest water pail in her hands, selfpitying with a vim, because father had forgotten to fill it.

"Good for you, son! Aim like this! See!" boomed Blackie Boy's boy father from the side lines under the apple tree.

Blackie Boy aimed. Then it happened.

Blackie Boy began to yell, then he yelled harder. He flung his pistol into the grapevines, then himself on the ground, and kicked. He screamed! And Blackie Boy was gathered into plump, white arms; and mother's voice and her yellow fluffy hair and the green grass were all around him, while father stood on one foot and frowled, like thunder—high up and away.

"What's the matter with the kid? Can't find a place where he's hurt. You got him nervous watching him!"

The lips that were saying soothing things to Blackie Boy, as the hands searched for the hurt, shut hard. "If you hadn't insisted on the pistol, Tom!

"It killed me, too! like mayver said piffles kilded folks," sobbed Blackie Boy.

"Where did it hurt mother's boy?"

"I won't not tell you," bawled Blackie Boy, sitting on his fat hands. "You go 'way." Sturdy legs kicked into mothers square chin. "You kilded." Then he drew a long breath.

"That's the stuff. Be a man," advised father. "Be a man, Blackie son."

The boy subsided sobfully.

"Yes, a man!" breathed mother, patting every inch of the round little body. "A nice exshame you se your son on a holiday and on our fourth wedding anniversary, that ought to be holy to you, taking him away and teaching him to use firearms. The year he came you were—kind, and you've had spells since—and I was free to do as I—liked."

"This is the year of the dependence of Mrs. Black, and of the independence of the U. S. A., the One Hundred and Forty-fourth," mocked Tom Black. Sr. "Heck of an idea being married on the Fourth of July, anyway."

"Or any time," said Binckie's mother crisply. "And now you've lost any pride about talking like this before him. I want my freedom, I tell you, and I'm going to have it, and I'm going to take Blackie Boy with me—now! He's just scared of the naughty pistol. Mother knows."

Father turned on his heel and grumbled himself into the house.

And all the time father knew that lately he had been getting irritable and bossy and unreasonable.

"Making a fourth anniversary cake just the same, is she?"

Down among the yellow daisies mother was saying to a reasonably quiet Blackie Boy, "What made you scream like that? Tell me."

"I won't not tell you. I was a man," said Blackie Boy, thrusting his left hand into his blouse. "I won't not show you my hand that's kilded. Is we goin' to have a picnic today, muvver?"

"Would you like to go away with mother all the time?" whispered the little voice. "And mother could work up top typewriter and get lots of money the way she used to and buy a dram for Blackie Boy, and every day we'd have a picnic?"

And all the time Blackie Boy's mother was talking she was thinking how silly and jealous and unreasonable she had been lately.

"Would you like to live with just muvvy?" asked Blackie Boy's mother.

"I luv muvvy an' I luv favver," said Blackie Boy. "An' for two sens I show muvver an' I show favver my hair an' I was a man, muvver, an' I didn't not cwy not much. Come an' fin favver."

They found father washing the cooking dishes, with a sheepish expression on his face.

"Ook, favver!" begger Blackie Boy, thrusting out his little left hand. And the fat, pink knuckles were pinker and puffier than usual, where just an ordinary baby bumble bee had sat down. "I didn't not cry much an' it's all wight now. I want two sens," said Blackie Boy. "An' I want to fin' my piffle sa' a pinnic."

"That's it, son," said father cheerfully. "He wants your picnic and he wants my piffle, mother, and I want your cake and—smiles, and you want—well, we all want pinnies together. All dependent on the rest of us and we like it. Frost that wedding cake and I'll make a tin pail drum and we'll start all over again. I've been too cross to live."

"Won't you fill that water-pail? It's awfully heavy. And then find his pistol. Of course you wouldn't let him have anything that would hurt him," said mother, promptly.

"Sure, I'll fill the pail," said father. "Why didn't you ask me before? Like to have you notice I'm round. And a drum is better than a pistol any day for a little shaver, eh, son?"

"I won't favver's piffle an' muvver's dwum," said Blackie Boy. "An' a pinnic!"

And the boy father and the girl mother laughed and gave each other a rousing smack. Sometimes kids

NORTHWEST COAL ORDER A FAILURE

Minnesota Coal Commissioner in Washington to Demand Action by I. C. C

Judge F McGee will tell the interstate commerce commission that the execution of order No. 10, supposed to provide 4,000 cars a day at Lake Erie ports, has been definitely proved a failure, he said up on reaching Washington, dispatches from there last night said. Judge McGee will make an effort to get an immediate hearing before the commission, the dispatch said.

With coal dumpings at Lake Erie ports falling nearly 1,000 cars or 50,000 tons a day under the required 4,000 of order No. 10, according to reports for recent days received from Cleveland and with discouraging reports received in Minneapolis as to teh amounts of coal already bought and stored in the bins of private consumers, the coal situation of the northwest is being complicated further by heavy weather on Lake Superior that is seriously slowing down vessel movements, C. A. Bruce, secretary of the Twin City Coal Exchange, said last night. Not only have there been heavy blows on Lake Superior the past week, but rough weather can be expected at intervals during the eight weeks or so remaining before navigations closs with the refusal of further marine insurance, Mr. Bruce added.

Small Towns Report Shortages.

Elements in the coal situation which Mr. Bruce emphasized include coal shortage in small towns revealed by 80 inquiries sent out by the Associated Business Organizations of Minneapolis, difficulty of bringing coal to the northwest by rail from the eastern fields in the winter time, an average of Duluth-Superior coal which is 5,000 tons behind the usual mid-September schedule and the apparent inability of coal carrying roads to supply enough cars for the movement of fuel to Lake Erie.

"According to W. H. LePlante, pioneer dealer of Anoka, the heatless Mondays we endured during the war will be more piffle compared to what we shall have to undergo this winter," Mr. Bruce continued. "In Minneapolis yesterday he told me he had yet to receive a single car of anthracite from the sources customarily supplying him, although he had received delivery of some coal on contracts made by a concern he had subsequently bought out.

Situation Held Critical.

"It has been the history of the twin cities especially, that we have always managed to take and scrape enough coal to prevent any really acute shortage in the coal months. There is no reason, however, to be very confident that we shall escape again this year. To a certain extent in Minneapolis and even more so in the small towns, the situation is bordering on the critical."

Charges by a representative of the railroad and warehouse commission that dealers are adding $2.50 to the price of coal to cover a freight increases of $1.20, were denied by Mr. Bruce.

"The increase has been $1.05 on coal from mines to Lake Erie including the tax, 50 cents on th watr movment and 50 cents on the movement from Duluth to the twin cities, a total increase of $2.143," he said. "To this must be added the 40 cents that the price has gone up at the docks in four months at the rate of 10 cents a month."

This thing ought to be looked into. It is said the majority of 580 bales of broom corn raised in the Duncan district, Stephens county, Oklahoma, this season sold at $200 a ton, which is several times as much as you can buy a broom for. The price of broom corn is exceedingly high at that.

American chemists say that they can produce dyes that will equal anything ever made in Germany, but are they going to "produce" them is what is worrying the people of this country. What's the reason for the delay? America surely has been suffering for the want of dyes since the beginning of the war.

Beautiful Edna Goodrich, herself, the only star of nationa-wide reputation to go on transcontinental tour this season, will appear at the Auditorium on Sept. 22, for an engagement of one night. Although the day of the touring star seems to have passed there still remains a desire to see a beautiful woman whose photographic appeal has been felt thru the movies and in the present instance theatergoers will have the opportunity to see an actress whose co-starring tours with Nat C. Goodwin won her international fame and whose engagement in pictures with the Mutual endeared her to thousands who follow the photo-play. The management guarantees that Miss Goodrich will personally appear here and that the original production of "Sleeping Partners" which was used during the run of seven months in New York will be seen in the local presentation. There are o "Number Two" companies of "Sleeping Partners." Miss Goodrich has bought the exclusive rights for the United States and Canada and will cover the most important cities this season. After that she may lease it to another star.

"Sleeping Partners" is now a substantial success in Paris, London and New York. The translator Ho English is by Seymour Hicks, who is still playing in the London production. It has a record of seven months of success at the Bijou Theater, New York, and has never been seen in this country outside of that city and Chicago. It is said to be very French, somewhat risque, full of daring lines, which the translator has dared to retain in the American text. Yet it is never offensive and teaches a wholesome lesson that a girl of seventeen or eighteen can safely expound to her grandmother.

WAYS WITH FRUIT.

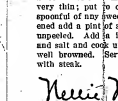
Before the cherries are all gone, you may provide a tasty relish by canning:



Cherry Olives.—Fill a jar with well washed, firm, ripe, large, good flavored cherries, without removing the stems. Half fill the jar with cold water and fill to running over with good vinegar; add one teaspoonful of salt to every pint, seal as usual. These cherries are especially good with meats.

Raspberry and Currant Preserve.—Take six pounds each of currants and sugar with eight quarts of raspberries. Pick over, wash and drain the currants. Put them into a preserving kettle, adding a few at a time, and mash. Cook one hour, strain through a double thickness of cheese cloth. Return to the kettle, add sugar, heat to boiling point, and cook slowly twenty minutes. Add one quart of raspberries when the syrup again reaches the boiling point; skim out the raspberries, put in a jar, and repeat until all the raspberries are used. Fill the jars to overflowing with the boiling syrup and screw on the tops.

Preserved Peaches.—Peel and cut in halves sufficient peaches. Fill the cans, packing as full as possible, then add granulated sugar to fill every crevice; seal and put into a hay lined hole deep enough in the ground to escape frost. In the spring when the frost is gone, dig them up and you will find the most deliciously flavored peaches. A pit or two left in the peaches adds to the flavor. Be sure to mark the spot where they are buried, or the whole garden may have to be spaded to find them.

Green Apples and Onions Fried.—Slice two or three medium sized onions very thin; put to cook with a tablespoonful of any sweet fat. When softened add a pint of sliced green apples unpeeled. Add a little water, sugar and salt and cook until the mixture is well browned. Serve as a vegetable with steak.

A DINNER FOR A HOT DAY.

For a beginning to the warm weather dinner there is nothing more refreshing than the fruit cocktail. With fresh berries, cherries, melons or citrus fruits one has a great variety from which to choose. A most dainty fruit cup may be prepared as follows: Cut the edible centers of muskmelons into balls with a French potato cutter; arrange them in the glasses; have both fruit and glasses chilled. Pour over a sauce made from Canton ginger, using some of the syrup and a tablespoonful or two of the chopped ginger for a half dozen glasses. For those who do not enjoy the ginger flavor, make a mint syrup and garnish the glass with a sprig of fresh mint. An orange sauce with the mint is another good combination. In fact one may use any sauce at hand. The pink heart of watermelon cut in balls and served with any desired sauce is another attractive dish.

Chard in White Sauce.—Cook the midribs of chard until tender then serve in a white sauce or with a drawn butter sauce and if it were celery or asparagus. This makes another vegetable dish and one which is very wholesome.

Chicken With Asparagus.—Cut up a chicken and stew until tender, saving the broth. Cut up the chicken and keep hot adding water, not to lose its moisture. Cook a bunch or two of asparagus in the chicken broth, saving the broth and later cooking noodles in the same broth in this way the seasoning of chicken and asparagus will season the noodles. Prepare noodles by adding flour to beaten egg until thick enough to roll out, then cut in strips and, after standing a few minutes to dry, cook them in the broth. Have all hot, put a layer of noodles on the serving plate, over this a layer of cooked asparagus, then a layer of seasoned chicken; serve hot. Celery salt, pepper and salt are used for seasoning. Celery is used in place of the asparagus in a dish called warmein, which is most savory when prepared according to directions, using at least three bunches of celery to one fair-sized chicken.

LONG LACE-MAKING CENTER

Since 1665 Ypres Has Been Celebrated for the Excellence of Its Manufactures.

It was in 1665 that the manufacture of lace, now known as Valenciennes, was begun at Ypres, and with other cities and towns of the hamlets in Flanders the clack of the bobbins and the chatter of the lacemakers may once more be heard. Many a little village is re-establishing its industry and is finding as ready a market as it did before the war. Flemish laces have always been favorites in England from the time when Henry VIII in 1546 made a present of "kerchiefs fringed with Flemish work" to "his verie deare wife," Catherine Parr. Lace making was part of the education of women in the Low Countries in the latter part of the fifteenth century, and Charles V ordered it to be taught in the schools, but in 1600 it was not only a flourishing industry in Belgium but, with the approval of Louis XIV, a Manufacture Royal de Dentelles was founded, and lacemakers from Flanders were brought to France; as Flemish lace was even more sought after than Italian lace. It was at this time that some of the most famous "points" first appeared and were developed. The "point de Bruxelles," which is made with the needle, and "Binche" lace, the queen of all bobbin lace, as well as "point d'Angleterre," in which pillow and needlework are mingled, all enhanced the reputation of the Flemish designers.

RABBIT PELTS IN DEMAND

Country Boys Have Opportunity to Make Some Money During the Coming Winter Months.

In recent years several kinds of fur, formerly of so little value as to offer no inducement to the trapper, have increased in prices, and consequently collecting them has been made profitable.

Rabbit pelts, which are extensively used by hat makers, are among these products. Formerly rabbit skins were of virtually no value; country boys who eagerly sought the hair of the skunk and the raccoon and who were even able to sell squirrel skins, thought so little of the rabbit and made so little effort to dispose of the skins that they were seldom used except to form a pad on which they "knuckled down" in the marble game.

Now, however, rabbit skins are worth something, and the country boy who will devote this winter to saving and marketing the skins of the rabbits he kills should make a comfortable sum of money.

One big eastern firm has announced that it will need 10,000,000 rabbit skins. The skins are usually sold by the pound, which will contain seven or eight skins.

Bret Harte Slapped Him.

The man who knew Bret Harte was discovered in the lobby the other morning.

"I was a devil in the shop where the Overland Monthly was printed," he began, after being identified as James H. Barry, editor of the Star, San Francisco's only Democratic paper. "Bret Harte was employed in the mint. He sent over the manuscript of 'The Luck of Roaring Camp,' and they finally decided to print it despite the objection of a sensitive lady proofreader.' Somehow the proofs had to be pulled in a hurry, and the only ink available at the moment was blue. I carried the blue proofs over to Harte. He said: 'What the hell is this blue ink for? I can't read it. Haven't they got any black?'

"I was too scared to make any explanation and I got the usual reprimand administered to printers' devils in those days. Harte reached over and shoved my face. I always hated him after that."—Sun and New York Herald.

Find a 12-Pound Nugget.

A nugget of almost pure gold, weighing 12 pounds, was recently discovered near the Charters Tower mine in Queensland, Australia. For years the Towers of Queensland, which up to the seventies was a desolate tract, too poor and sandy for sheep, has boasted a premier position among Australian gold fields. Levels are worked at a depth of nearly half a mile. This particular find is worth $4,000. A 12-pound nugget is no record; but in most nuggets all is not gold that glitters; a 12-pounder of "almost pure gold" is rare. The world's record nugget came from Ballarat in 1858—2,217 ounces, worth $5,000.

Rail-Creep on Railroad Bridges.

The chief engineer of the Madras railway has something to say regarding rail-creep on railway bridges in India, in a recent issue of Indian Engineering. In the case of the Godaveri bridge, where the creep amounted to as much as three to four feet a year, a special cast-iron sleeper was designed to suit the 75-pound flat-footed rail, with a jaw large enough to receive a lock-fast steel key. This reduced the creep to insignificance, and generally the author is confirmed in the conclusion reached by him in 1897 that "creep" can only be remedied by effective anchorage.—Scientific American.

Japan's Shipbuilding Future.

"Japan will take the greatest place in ship construction of the future," says Lord Pirrie, world-famed shipbuilder; "her labor is cheap, she can obtain plenty of steel and her coal resources are almost inexhaustible."

The New Public Health

(Letters on health addressed to Dr. H. W. Hill, Shubert Bldg., St. Paul, Minn., with a stamped, self addressed envelope enclosed, will be answered by mail. If of general interest they will be answered in this column, also.)

Question: The doctor at a mental clinic said a certain girl was only two years old. Now I know she is at least 15 and I suppose he meant it as a way of saying that she is not very well developed in her mind. She is a big, strong, sturdy girl, rather good looking and dresses nicely. I just overheard while I was helping with the other children. Just what did the doctor mean, or do you know?

Answer: Mental experts classify children's minds by "mental age," that is, they have found out the average intelligence that the average child reaches at any two years old, eight years old, twelve years old. Now it is quite proper for a child born two years ago to have a two year old mind now, but a child born eight years ago should have an eight year old mind by this time, if he was O. K. to to start with and nothing serious has happened since. But we have many records of people born 15 years ago, 30 years, or still further back, whose bodies have grown well, matured, even grow old, yet their minds have remained 12 years old, eight or even two—never got beyond that stage, in other words. Our prostitutes, small thieves and minor criminals, many alcoholics and drug addicts come from these people of "undeveloped minds." About two-thirds of them inherited their feeble-mindedness from their parents; about one-third acquired it as the result of disease or accident or something of that kind which happened to them personally.

Question: I get out of breath going upstairs, my feet swell toward evening, my heart flutters at the least thing. I am not losing weight, in fact I am gaining; I am awfully pale or rather sort of yellowish—my friends say greenish—it is very slight though. I don't seem to feel well. Can you tell me what is the matter? I am a girl about 18; 5 feet 3 inches high.

Answer: Sounds like chlorosis—which isn't as bad as it sounds. Go see a physician at once. If I am right in my guess he can improve things immensely for you, very easily.

NO LANGUAGE QUITE PURE

Words Expressing New Ideas and New Things Are Passed From Nation to Nation.

If by "a pure language" is meant one that does not contain words adopted from another language, then there are none among civilized nations. A language is not something made to order, and that once made ends there so far as development is concerned. A language grows in many ways. Take modern English for example. It differs considerably from the English of the time of Queen Elizabeth, and it is so different from the language spoken in England at the time of the Norman conquest that could one of those old Saxons come back he would not understand us and we would not understand him. And yet the language he spoke is the basis of modern English. Since the time of the Saxons there has been great growth. The Normans brought in French, and scholars since then have brought in thousands of words derived from Latin and Greek. These are English words today, but the roots from which they sprang are to be found in other and in many cases in older languages. It is because of this that the English vocabulary is so extensive and the language so expressive.

Latin, Spanish and French are largely derived from Latin, which was the language of ancient Rome, and for centuries Rome was the ruler of continental Europe. And the Latins borrowed from the still older Greek.

A living language is always growing. For example, science is introducing new words to express new ideas and to name new things.

PINE STUMPS WORTH MONEY

Increased demand for naval stores and a slight falling off in the supply have together called attention to the value of the stumps left in the fields in cut-over lands of the south. A Washington letter of July 5 told of the result of investigation by Clement S. Ucker, vice president of the southern settlement and development organization, in the South Atlantic states, from which he learned that the stumps left in the fields do not die with the cutting down of the tree, but, on the contrary, continue to draw from the soil sap rich with the elements of naval stores.

From these old stumps may be distilled some twenty or twenty-five different by-products, including rosin, turpentine, pine and other oils, acetate, tar, pitch, alcohol and others. By one process rosin and paper pulp may be procured. Other processes leave a residue of valuable charcoal. It seems that the destruction by fire of these stumps in the clearing up of the land is unecpnomical. They can be sold for enough to pay for the clearing and leave a surplus, so that we may yet see manufacturers of naval stores bargaining with the owners of cut-over land for the stumps upon it and extracting them themselves.

The Milk o' Human Kindness

Flows abundantly from the sources least expected. When in a "FINCH" a friend we never knew we had gives us a "LIFT, and we wonder vaguely why we never before realized that he was "A PRINCE OF A FELLOW". Sometimes our best friends are the conveniences that surround our daily lives, rendering us service which we never appreciate. THE MARTIN GRINDER is the Farmer's BEST FRIEND

Sturdy, Self-Reliant, Faithful and Industrious, it works whether you watch it or not. It will reduce your grinding costs and save you time and money! Its burrs run true, grinding smoothly and rapidly—80 to 100 bushels per hour—without rubbing against each other, or destroying their keen cutting edges in power consuming friction. The MARTIN GRINDER is "A Prince of a Fellow" because it is the GRINDER THAT GRINDS. From thousands of farms in the Northwest comes willing testimony of the Durability, Efficiency and Satisfactory Service of Martin Grinders.

This illustrates what a MARTIN GRINDER can do. Fed by gravity with whole grain from the floor above, it will grind for hours with practically, no attention so long as free escape is provided for the constant stream that flows from its spout.

The Martin Grinder is made in seven sizes with capacities from 10 to 100 bushels per hour. REMEMBER that MARTIN burrs or grinding plates are not self-sharpened by power-wasting friction, but when dull can be re-sharpened by means of an emery wheel attachment. ## POTAIRO

By SADIE STULL.

"Jane Emma Lane, what be you doin' in thet rubbish heap?"

"You threw Potairo away!" she accused with quivering lips.

"Land o' love! Wasn't it time? The old heathen has disfigured th' parlor mantel since yer Gran'mother Jared's sat voyage!"

"Thet's why I loved him—why I believe in him!"

"Stuff an' nonsense!" Aunt Jane's angular form disappeared from the porch. A moment later her tart voice remained from the kitchen: "Them peas ain't shelled yet an' it's nigh 10 o'clock!"

Jane Emma gave Potairo's ugly bronze visage a final rub with the corner of her apron. Then, with a quaint little obeisance she placed the ancient idol atop the gatepost. The incongruity of it made her laugh aloud.

From the temples of Isis and Osiris to presiding oracle of Aunt Jane's prim New England garden was indeed a far cry!

As she surveyed the effect from the porch steps Jane Emma laughed again—this time more softly. The spell the strange talisman had cast over her since early childhood seemed more potent than usual this bright June morning.

As though touched by a flower magician's wand Aunt Jane's prize hollyhocks became queenly; its bordering the sluggish Nile. The rattle of the peas in the brightly scoured pan seemed the echo of tinkling cymbals, while above the weird strains of Egyptian music sounded a voice of beloved memory—

"Superstition and Jared Lane never sailed the same course; th' day a parcel o' slick-tongued natives spun their 'good luck' yarn about Potairo. Though one o' the lesser gods they vowed he was a mighty powerful one—particularly in affairs o' th' heart." A chuckle invariably punctuated the old sail's narrative at this juncture. "Ye see, there was a mighty important question I was goin' ter ask a certain lass when we reached th' home port—so I up and shipped the queer little cuss—at their own price."

A big black touring car had stopped directly in front of the gate. Its occupant, a handsome woman just past middle age, beckoned to Jane Emma. In her haste to respond the latter nearly upset the pan of peas.

"My dear, how came you by this ancient idol?"

The voice was the sweetest and saddest Jane Emma had ever heard. It impressed her even more deeply than the stranger's somber dress. It inspired her to tell Potairo's story as she had never told it before.

When she had finished there was a reminiscent light in her listener's eyes that banished years from their pain-shadowed depths.

"My dear, I was reared 'mid just such surroundings. That's why your idol instantly caught my eye. In my girlhood home was a very similar one which my dear sailor father brought from a far Eastern port. Despite scoffing relatives I regarded it in the same romantic light as you do, Potairo—"

The lady smiled as she concluded softly: "My faith was richly rewarded—as I now pray yours may be! Ah, is there someone already?"

The telltale color deepened in Jane Emma's cheeks. Ere she was aware, she had confided to this kindly stranger, her heart's most guarded secret; the homely little romance of which Neighbor Peter Wayne was the hero.

"He is twenty-six you say?" The misty blue eyes rested on the mourning band on the chauffeur's arm. "Just the age of my own dear boy!"

When the evening shadows brought respite from household duties, Jane stole away to her favorite garden retreat—to live again the scene of the morning.

Came the sound of a familiar step and Neighbor Peter stood before her.

With the old tensing laugh he shook the flower-laden boughs above her head. Before she could brush the clinging petals from her hair he caught her close in his arms.

"It's come, girl—the turn o' fortune's tide! I've found a buyer for that shore property or rather"—his merry voice growing serious—"she found me. It's the dear lady you gave the flowers to. She's to build a bungalow—where she says her heart has always been—near the sea. Further, she says to watch our growing happiness will give her a new interest in life."

"We'll have a wedding the old town will long remember, eh, lass o' mine? What's that—I must properly thank Potairo? Sure, I will! No lover of old Egypt ever paid him more willing homage!"

They had taken but a few steps when Jane Emma uttered a cry of dismay. The gatepost loomed dark and unadorned. The little bronze god had vanished!

Followed a tense moment. Then Aunt Jane's voice ranged out of the darkness: "If you be lookin' for th' old heathen you'll find him back on the parlor mantel." Jane Emma laughed softly at the new tone of apology: "Mebbe I was a bit hasty in throwing him away—considerin' what's happened!"

THESE HUSBANDS

By GEORGIA HARRIS.

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mrs. Bobs surveyed the unlighted house with suspicious eyes and tightened lips and upon finding the back door locked, drew forth her latchkey with as much vengeance as an angry warrior drawing his sword from its sheath.

"Nine o'clock and no Bobs!" she muttered angrily, as she switched on the kitchen light. "This is very strange—" She stopped suddenly and threw up her hands in dismay.

What a sight greeted her! Dishes—dishes—dishes—even to her Dresden china filled the sink. Mrs. Bobs breathed a wrathful sigh as she suddenly thought of Bobs' last letter to her.

"Getting to be a regular house keeper," he had written, "stay at home every night . . never go out . . hope you are having a good time . . ."

"Good time, indeed!" sniffed Mrs. Bobs, fairly hissing with indignation, as she strutted into the dining room. Here another sight confronted her and she looked about the room in consternation. Newspapers were strewn everywhere.

So perturbed was her state of mind that Mrs. Bobs forgot her reason for coming home. After a moment of reflection, however, she decided that things looked very serious, for the all-important fact stood out clearly: She had returned home unexpectedly and Bobs was not to be found. Considering that his letters stated very emphatically that all his evenings were spent at home things looked very suspicious.

In spite of this she tried to take an optimistic view of the situation, as she sat gingerly on the edge of a dusty chair. After all, she mused, she had been foolish to spoil her hard-earned vacation just because that horrid Mrs. Hastings had insinuated such mean things. Woman could be so catty when talking about other women's husbands. Perhaps at this very minute Bobs was enjoying a quiet evening with mother. She darted for the telephone with a confident smile.

When mother's surprised voice told her that Bobs had not been over that evening, and in the same breath wanted to know the reason for the unexpected return to the city, Mrs. Bobs found a ready excuse in sweetest of voices, but she hung up the receiver with vehemence, as suspicion began to take root again.

Distrust came to stay as Mrs. Bobs with anger gleaming in her eyes turned off the lights and sat in the shadow of the curtained window to await the vagabond's return.

As the hall clock dolefully chimed the hour of one, in imagination she arrived at the conclusion of the divorce trial.

When at 1:30 there was still no sign of the truant husband, Mrs. Bobs finally dragged herself up the stairs and opened the bedroom door with a heavy heart. Mechanically she turned on the light and looked about the room with a choking sigh, which was followed by an outburst of unrestrained weeping. However, when her eyes rested upon the bed astonishment overcame her grief, and she stared fascinated. Fully dressed, except for collar and tie, with shoes on white coverlet, lay Mr. Bobs, peacefully sleeping.

With a hound she was over to the bed, kissing the tiny bald spot on his head again and again.

"Oh," she answered lightly, giving him a little hug, "I just got worried about you, so I decided to come home, and have been watching for you for hours. Then I got worried and thought that something terrible had happened—an ex—ex—accident, you know," she finished lamely and a guilty blush surfused her face.

"Just like my own girl," Bobs answered, patting her affectionately on the cheek, his face beaming with pleasure.

Mrs. Bobs hung her head in shame for a moment, then suddenly exclaimed:

"But, honey, you have all your clothes on!"

"Well," Bobs replied, now thoroughly awake, "I was going to do a little housework, and thought I'd lie down for a stretch before starting. Guess I must have fallen asleep."

"Now," she said, very solicitously, "I am going to make you a bit of lunch this very minute. You just lie down and I'll bring it up to you."

Bobs gazed after her retreating figure. Suddenly he sat upright and fumbled in his pockets with a perplexed expression upon his face, as if trying to remember something, until finally he found a crumpled note.

With a rueful smile he glanced over the contents of the note.

"We are counting on you," it read, "for another big time tonight. Eight-thirty at the same place—and we won't get home until morning. There's a little suit—Tra La. The Gang."

Sighing heavily, he picked up an alarm clock that should have rung at 7:30.

"Can't depend upon you to wake a fellow up when he's trying to catch up on a little sleep," he soliloquized, studying the clock intently. "I missed a good party because you weren't on the job that time," Bobs turned to see Mrs. Bobs, her face wreathed in smiles, standing in the doorway.

Of Interest to Women

Nationalizing Children.

Out of poor, war pinched Russia have come two horrible ideas—the nationalizing of women and the nationalizing of children. We do not hear that the former has come into actual practice, although it has been openly, not only suggested, but advocated by statesmen. All that it means in heartache and broken ideals is impossible to realize. Even distraught Russia is not yet degraded enough by bolshevism to practice generally this affront to the sanctity of love and the sacredness of marriage.

But—it is doing what, though less repulsive at first thought, may work in time as great a harm—it is nationalizing children. To picture it mentally makes the American mother sick at heart. Half, they tell us, of the boys and girls over three years of age, have been gathered into barracks—herded together to be cared for by the state. Here they will live and be reared and know nothing of home life. The strangest, most incomprehensible feature of it all is that "the mothers like it," according to the work of Madame Kollontai, who is head of the Department of Child Welfare.

She says, "We have lifted the curse of household slavery from the mothers of the poor."

"In emergency conditions it has been necessary always to keep children in institutions for care for a time, but this has never been considered ideal. While we may not agree with those sociologists who declare "Any kind of a home is better than any kind of an institution," yet we cannot but feel pity for the child who has no little room in his own home to watch the stars drift from as he drifts away into the land of dreams, no mother to plant the good-night kiss on his brow, nor a daddy to come upstairs for a farewell frolic.

If these children, put into barracks to save them from starvation, malnutrition, disease and neglect, are only to be nationalized temporarily, as an emergency measure, then we can forgive Russia; but if it is a permanent policy based upon her philosophy of bolshevism, then we should by all means practice quarantine against Russia, obsessed with her plague of bolshevist ideas, as we would against a country smitten with the "black death" or cholera of the bubonic or any other plague. An infection with the germ of this idea will be as fatal as these to American wholesomeness and happiness.

In America we are seeing more clearly that ever that it is a serious thing to take the child from his home. By mothers' pensions, state aid and other means we are trying to make even the homes of the very poorest possible dwelling places for American children. Without a doubt it is the state's business how its children are brought up. How far the home can be helped without paperizing the inmates is a question, but as the children of the rich decrease in numbers and the children of the poor become the majority of our future children, it is plainly good statesmanship, as well as "fair play," for the state to provide educational, recreational, vocational and health equipment—the best to be had for all—but to contrive a way to leave the children in their own homes to grow up under the protection and watchfulness of those who love them most—their parents.

We cannot believe that in American homes, mothers would "like it" to be "relieved of the cures of household slavery" (interpreting that to mean the care of their children). In America statistics declare, "five homes are open to every child who is 'placeable.'" Childless couples are seeking consolation by adopting the children of even our late enemy, Austria. We believe the American home is sound and the women and children secure against any such virulet blight as "nationalizig."

"Sleeping Partners"

"Sleeping Partners" with beautiful Edna Goodrich herself in the leading female role, will be the attraction at the Auditorium Theater, Wednesday, Sept. 22. The play is a comedy of the Paris boulevard, telling the story of the misadventure of a radiant Parisienne and her wayward husband and relating how a sophisticated American saves both from the penalty of their folly. Edna Goodrich as the French wife is dazzling, alluring and becomingly coy.

Miss Goodrich has been seen here in pictures and as leading woman and co-star with Nat C. Goodwin. In her present role she will wear what are promised to be some of the handsomest Lucile gowns ever seen on the American stage.

"Sleeping Partners" with Miss Goodrich will be seen here exactly as presented during its long and successful run in New York.

Henrick Johanson Lindberg.

On Saturday, Sept. 11, occurred the death of Henrick Johanson Lindberg at his home at 117 LaBree Avenue, North. Mr. Lindberg was born at Sodra Finnskoga, Wermland, Sweden, in May, 1856, being at the time of his death 64 years 4 months old. In 1879 he emigrated to America and stayed for awhile at Renville, Minn., before he settled on a farm 5 miles southwest of Alvorado, where he lived until four weeks before his death, when the family moved to Thief River Falls. He served for abou 20 years as assessor in the Town of Higdem, where he was a resident.

In November, 1886, he was united in marriage to Miss Ellen Lundell. To this union eleven children were born, of whom seven passed away in infancy. The four living are two sons, Hialmar and David, and two daughters, Miss Elin Lindberg, missionary stationed at Marcaibo, Venezuela, and Miss Hilma, who is staying at home.

Mr. Lindberg was a true and loving Christian and a member of the Swedish Mission church at Higdem township. He is mourned by his wife, four children, two brothers, two sisters and other relatives, besides a host of friends.

The remains were shipped to Alvorado, where funeral services were held from the home, after which interment was made in the Swedish Mission cemetery. An unusually large amount of flowers covered the casket, and the large crowd present told of how popular a man he had been. Peace over his memory.

A GOOD TIME COMING

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Is there a Good Time Coming?

Let us not argue nor orate, but look at the facts.

Statistics issued as coming from the bankers, give us the following items:

The United States is the richest country in the world.

The bank deposits in the United States exceed by billions the combined deposits of the whole world outside of this country.

We have more actual cash than any other nation.

Our national wealth at the time of the Civil War was about seven billions; at present it is two hundred and twenty-five billions.

In a single year we produce by manufacture and agriculture more than the entire national wealth of France.

England's wealth is only eighty billions, as against our two hundred and twenty-five billions.

Of all the wheat of the world we produce twenty-two per cent.

Of all the oats of the world, thirty-five per cent.

Of all the cotton, sixty per cent.

Of all the corn, eighty per cent.

Of all the horses, twenty-five per cent.

Of all the cattle, twenty-seven per cent.

Of all the hogs, forty per cent.

And of the world's dairy products, twenty-five per cent.

Fifty per cent of the world's copper.

And sixty per cent of the world's petroleum.

Besides this we produce twenty-five per cent of the total production of woolens of the earth.

Twenty-five per cent of the linens.

Twenty-five per cent of the cotton cloth.

Forty-five per cent of the paper.

Twenty-five per cent of the glass.

Thirty-six per cent of the shoes.

And fifty per cent of the steel products.

That is to say, that of the total products of the globe, we contribute one-quarter (twenty-five per cent) of the agricultural supplies.

Over one-third (forty per cent) of the mineral products, and

One-third (thirty-four per cent) of the manufactured goods.

And we do this, having but five per cent or one-twentieth of the world's population.

If we go bankrupt in this situation it can be only by the most egregious folly.

Almost all the bugaboos when scrutinized, disappear.

We are not going to have a bituminous coal famine when the figures of the Geological Survey show that for the last seven months we produced more coal (302,777,000 tons) than during the corresponding period of last year (258,277,000 tons).

Anthracite coal production for the first seven months of this year, 50,575,000 tons, amounts to 3,268,000 tons more than for the corresponding period of 1919.

Highways are improving, the government (state and local) having spent $638,000,000 this year on roads bridges, and auto trucks are markedly relieving railroads in great hauls.

The railway situation and car shortage is getting better daily.

Mexican conditions are better than at any time since Diaz.

The secretary of agriculture says this years' crops will be record breaking.

Big Dancing Show Coming.

Patrons of the Auditorium Theater will have the opportunity of seeing the big, new third edition of Harvey D. Orr's musical comedy success "The Million Dollar Doll in Paris" when it comes here for one performance on Thursday evening, Sept. 23. This is the smartest musical comedy of the season and is the work of Charles George, the well known playwright. Its dancing features are remarkable in a season of dancing specialties and it deserves its rank as much for its terpsichorean efforts as for its tuneful melodies. In this new show, you will see some of the old familiar characters, but they will all be in new roles; there will be a "doll" in all her girlish loveliness, poor old Mavis Meekman, the henpecked husband, and his wife, Glorianna, and Jasper Jacson, the colored boy, who is a whole show in himself.

Its a solid two hours and a half of good, clean entertainment, full of clever comedy situation, highly seasoned by 24 big song hits sung by a large chorus of dainty darlings as sweet as spring's first flowers. The plot is a tuneful tale of youth, beauty and laughter, telling of the steamy adventures of the "Doll" on her honeymoon to Paris, the first act being Col. Barrington's home in New York, e second act takes you on a big ocean liner on the way to Paris and the third is a wonderful scene of the Follies Bergere and Paris by night.

Nothing has been left undone by Mr. Orr to make this the musical event of the season and the stage event of the season; its scenery is wonderful, the costumes gorgeous, the cast excellent and the daintiest, dancies chorus ever seen on any stage.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MINNESOTA CONDITIONS

FAVORABLE PROGRESS MADE IN ALL SECTIONS OF THE STATE

Increase in the movement of grain to market and decrease of cattle and wool shipments; unprecedented travel over Minnesota highways by tourists from other states; a slight stir in the political field and a general favorable response to the campaign for a broad good roads system, are noted in the weekly review prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul from reports obtained from banks in every section of the state.

A number of bankers heard from during the past few days forecast a reduction of loans shortly. Farmers have been urged to meet their indebtedness as quickly as possible. Movement of grain to market has not been heavy and nearly every elevator in the state is filled, but it has been apparent that quite a number of farmers, urged by their bankers who have seen the necessity of liquidation in whole or part with the Federal Reserve Bank, have reconsidered their decision to hold their grain for the possibility of higher prices.

With very few exceptions the corn crop produced a satisfactory yield. Sugar beets and clover proved big money makers for farmers in a number of counties, notably Kanabec, Pine, Beltrami, Martin and Carver. The backward wheat yield evidently was expected but farmers are sowing winter wheat, principally as an experiment.

The effect of state fair exhibits was noticeable in every congressional district. Purchases of high grade cattle are increasing and officers of a half dozen associations predicted that all records will be broken this fall and winter at pure bred cattle sales. Shipments of cattle seemingly were very light for the past week. Campaigns are being conducted in many counties to increase membership in farm bureaus. These bureaus have been particularly active in assisting farmers to pool and store their wool.

Additional facts of interest were brought out by the road census. Checks from some 40 counties showed a weekly average travel of 2,400 automobiles on the main highway and by many of the county reports listed an average of four persons in a machine. Close to 10 per cent of the cars were from other states and on some of the main highways the foreign car average ran as high as 70 per cent. Merchants and hotel keepers who did not keep close tab on the business which automobile travel brought to them, were quoted as expressing surprise. The travel was heavier than expected. It is quite certain that every county in the state will spend considerable money during the next 18 months to provide additional comforts for motorists in 1921.

More than 70 counties report strong sentiment in favor of the Babcock good roads plan. Not one adverse report was received.

Data from county school superintendents has indicted that shortage of teachers is far less than was forecast. Record wages, it is said, disposed of the problem. Only nine counties had not completed their teaching organization for the rural schools. It was noted, however, that a number of young women who taught in Minnesota last year accepted positions in other states that fall at greatly increased salaries.

Road building was prosecuted with vigor. The cement shortage was relieved slightly but the supply is far less than the demand.

New Horse Harness Has No Collar.

The feautre of a patented horse harness developed in the veldts of south Africa and now being tried out in several American cities is, according to the October Popular Mechanics Magazie, where it is described and illustrated, the absence of any collar or breastband. This is the result of the inventor's belief that the larger part of the animal's tructive effort should be exerted, not at the base of the neck, but at the junction of barrel and shoulders. Accordingly he places only a very light strap around the neck, but a heavy one just back of the forelegs. The two are joined by small straps parralleling the withers and a heavier strap between the legs.

Drop in Fords.

Fords cars and parts are considerably lower than formerly, the drop in price to take effect at once. The schedule of prices sent out by the Ford Motor Copmany is given in an advertisement in this issue of the Tribune placed by the McFarland Auto Company, of this city. The new scale of prices are based on a pre-war figure and show great reductions.

AN EXCELLENT MEETING HELD TODAY NOON

Mrs. C. A. Severance of St. Paul spoke to a large gathering at a noonday luncheon at the Evelyn Hotel today and greatly pleased all who had the good fortune to be present

Mrs. Severance arrived on the Great Northern shortly after 11 o'clock and was met by the reception committee, composed of Miss Effie Hamry, county chairman; first ward chairman, Miss Maria Nelson, second ward chairman, Mrs. Andrew Bottleson; fourth ward chairman, Mrs. T. P. Anderson, Mrs. Thos. A. Way and Miss Mariam Bishop.

Mrs. Severance was escörted to the Evelyn Hotel, where she received informally the ladies of the city. The luncheon was served at 1 o'clock and covers were laid for eighty-five. The luncheon was followed by the audience singing "America," led by Mrs. G. Halvorson, after which Chairman Hamry introduced Mrs. L. H. Lawrence, who in his few well chosen words introduced the speaker.

Mrs Severance made a delightful talk, touching upon the principal questions of the day and dwelling upon the great victory attained by the women of the nation in their recent achievement to be placed upon an equal footing with the voters of the nation and accorded the freedom of the ballot. She signally scored for the Republican party and the platform and dwelt at considerable length on state matters. Her talk was well received and made a lasting impression on all present.

Following the address Mrs. Lawrence moved that a rising vote of thanks be given Mrs. Severance for her appearance in this city and for her splendid address.

Mrs. Severance is one of the most important women in the state of Minnesota, having participated in all worth while movements in any building nature and without hesitation putting forth her energy and ability to bring forth those conditions that will mean much to the women of Minnesota and America. The ability of Mrs. Severance is not surpassed in the entire state. Her record as a writer is one to be proud of and in this connection she has contributed many articles of note that have been reviewed with considerable interest by the authorities of this nation and abroad. Prominent in club work especially, Mrs. Severance has had an opportunity to promote the principles she so strongly advocates and in this manner has been the inspiration for many progressive movements in recent years. Her record in war work is especially of a high character. Serving as chairman of Red Cross division work in this state, she has made an enviable record and one which has been recognized by the state as a whole. One of the outstanding features of her recognition is the decoration bestowed upon her by the King of Belgium, a distinction highly honored and valued by Mrs. Severance.

A women's republican club was organized at the meeting. Mrs. J. J. Richter being named president and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson secretary.

LARGE COLONY OF MENNONITES TO LOCATE HERE

TWENTY-THOUSAND ARE CONSIDERING LOCATING IN THIS SECTION.

An effort is being made to have the Mennonites of Manitoba, of whom there are approximately 20,000 in number, make this state their home, and from all appearances has every indication of being a success. W. J. Brown, of this city, has been appointed by the governor to meet with the people of the colony in Manitoba from time to time and to extend to them an invitation to make northern Minnesota their future home, promising them immunity from active participation in war, and to allow the mite privilege of conducting their own schools and religious activities unmolested.

The Mennonites have decided to leave Manitoba because the agreement between them and England made some years ago, has been broken by the authorities of Manitoba. The authorities have decided the schools can no longer be conducted as in the past and have sent out teachers from their city to take over the schools. This the Mennonites objected to very strongly and in order to have the privilege of conducting their own schools have decided to leave the country and have been considering several locations of late, among them Mississippi and New Mexico. Lately they have been turning their attention to northern Minnesota and a representative body of their members were in this city last week and were shown the large tracts of land lying east of this city. They will require eight townships, or about 170,000 acres, to take care of the large number of Mennonites who follow nothing but farming. They follow the tilling of the soil because they are taught that this is the true teaching of the bible and any of their people who desert time farming are dropped from the society.

They have many customs they follow and which may seem queer to a great many people but in the main they are an industrious class of people and pay all bills promptly.

They now have holdings of approximately six millions of dollars in Canada and in addition to their land they have over three million dollars on deposit in the Canadian banks.

The land which is being secured for these people is that lying east of the city of Gryzia, over the county line in Beltrami county. The land has been looked at by several of their people and it is more than possible that they will accept the proposition of the state and locate in this section. In case this should come to pass they will be instrumental in building up the country in short order.

The governor and the secretary of state have promised them freedom of worship in their own way and protection from military service. They have signified their willingness to follow the state law with reference to the schools and are willing to abide by all the laws of the state and nation.

Commercial Club Luncheon.

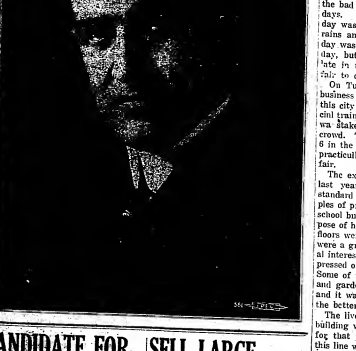
The first Thursday noonday lunch of the Commercial Club which was held yesterday was a success from every standpoint according to the club members and guests who were present and it is expected that there will be a considerably larger attendance each week from now on.

The lunch was served by Mrs. Stupp, who has been secured as caterer and she will be ably assisted by a corps of women of people may partake of the club's activities. Lunch is to be ready at 12 o'clock sharp and the business part of the meeting will start at 12:30 in order that adjournment may be taken at 1 o'clock sharp.



Yesterday noon the program was one which was worth while listening to an dincluded remarks by Hon. D. F. O'Neill on good roads, R. A. Prechett, of Ward-Co., N. D., on community spirit and Daniel Shaw on the Babcock Amendment

G. W. Connell was appointed chairman of the committee on solicitation for the Babcock Highway funds, the other members of which are W. B. Fuller, H. C Johnson, Robt. McGinn, E. K. Aasen and M. T. McParland. These gentlemen will start the work of solicitation without further delay as Pennington county is the only one in the state which has failed to raise any funds for the work of the commission.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Anderson, of Gryzia, arrived in this city on Wednesday and will visit friends for a brief period

J. A. O. Preus

Republican Candidate for Governor who will be in Thief River Falls Saturday, October 2nd

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR IS TO BE HERE SOON

PREUS AND COLLINS ARE TO MAKE THIS CITY ON OCTOBER 2.

J. A. O. Preus, republican candidate for governor, and Louis L. Collins, candidate for lieutenant governor on the same ticket, will visit the city on Saturday, October 2, and will speak at the Auditorium on that date.

The political situation in this state has not received a great amount of attention by the candidates out for office during the past few months, but it is stated the county is to see a warm and spirited contest before the November election.

Mr. Preus has a great many admirers in this section of the state who will be pleased to know that he is to appear here. His running mate, Mr. Collins, also stands high in the estimation of the people of this county and he will be made welcome on his appearance in this city.

The meeting is to be held in the Auditorium and it is hoped the house will be filled. It is a good thing to hear both sides of the question before fully making up one's mind and it is hoped that every voter in the county, regardless of party affiliations will turn out and hear these gentlemen when they appear.

Mr. Preus and Mr. Collins are to speak at the Red Lake county fair in the afternoon before coming to this city and it is their intention to spend considerable time in this part of the state campaigning before the November election.

The popularity of Mr. Preus is gaining much and it is the confidential prediction of his friends that he will be elected in November election easily. There are others who question this statement and predict dire things for the Republican party in the fall election. Time alone will settle the dispute and in the meantime it will be well to hear them all before deciding.

SELL LARGE NUMBER OF TRACTORS

PEOPLE'S AUTO COMPANY SELL FORTY TRACTORS IN PAST SEASON

The sale of tractors in this county during the past season is proof positive that the country is fast going ahead and is soon due to take its place among the top-notch counties of the state.

The People's Auto Company of this city have sold forty tractors during the past season, which coupled with the sales of other concerns in the city and county, means a large increase in the sales of tractors this county over.

The People's Auto Company have made the largest sale of tractors of any concern in the county this territory this season and the largest of any concern in the immediate northwest. Their sales have exceeded those of many agencies in larger cities than this and speaks decidedly well for this county and the enterprising spirit of the farmers in general.

Tractor farming is fast becoming methods. It is safe and quick, and the saving in time afforded the user of the tractor is many times above the initial outlay for the outfit. Often times the tractor is paid for in a couple of seasons because of the time saved and the farmers of Pennington county are enthusiastic boosters for the tractor method. It is the one satisfactory service and the quickest and shortest route to proper farming.

Pennington county as a whole this year has shown a great amount of activity and gives every indication of forging ahead by leaps and bounds in the next few years. In a short time it will be given a place in the front row of banner counties for its progressive spirit.

Holt and George Sell Out.

Holt and George, plumbers, have sold their business interests in this city to C. J. Browne, of Minneapolis. Mr. Browne has just finished the plumbing of the new Greenbush Pennington county is well acquainted with conditions in this section of the state. He was formerly engaged in the plumbing business in Minneapolis and is an experienced man. Holt and George have secured contract work at St. Cloud and will leave in a few days for that place. It is their intention to move to that city and to establish their residence at that place during the time they will be employed.

Miss Pauline Torkelson arrived in this city on Tuesday evening from her home in Hazel, where she spent an indefinite period visiting, and will spend a brief period here visiting with friends.

GOODRIDGE FAIR AGAIN BREAKS ALL RECORDS

BAD WEATHER HOLDS BACK ATTENDANCE—EXHIBITS UNUSUALLY FINE

The Tri County fair, held at Goodridge on Monday and Tuesday of this week proved to be a winner despite the bad weather conditions encountered on both days. The attendance on the first day was cut down on account of the rains and it looked as though Tuesday was to prove the same sort of a day, but the weather held off until late in the evening and allowed the fair to come to a successful close.

On Tuesday the majority of the business men and their families from this city attended the fair and a special train was run out and back, which was taken advantage of by a large crowd. The return trip was made at 6 in the evening, allowing the crowd practically all of the afternoon at the fair.

The exhibits, while not as large as last year, were nevertheless up to standard and some mightily fine samples of produce were on display. The school building was most for the purpose of housing the exhibits and three floors were devoted to them. There were a great many exhibits of unusual interest and great surprise was expressed on every hand at the display. Some of the finest samples of grains and garden crops were on exhibition and it was hard to decide which was the better of the lot.

The livestock was housed in a new building which was erected this year for that purpose and the exhibit in this line was far superior to the average fair and did great credit to the farmers of the vicinity.

The Tuesday afternoon program was taken up with the speeches of Prof. J. H. Hay and a few remarks from D. F. O'Neill Mr Hay's address was masterful in every respect and he appealed to his audience from the start He talked about the matters that interested them most and promised them arrangements were under way to afford relief along this line of high handed profiteering and holding down the prices on farm produce. He talked co-operative marketing and explained in detail some of the matters that are under advisement and which are to receive attention in the near future with reference to straightening out the difficulties that exist in the marketing of farm produce and the price received.

The talk by Mr. Hayes was one full of good sound logic and met with the approval of all present. He talked facts and talked them to people who were interested and could grasp the possibilities outlined by him. His address was well received and was one of the best speakers.

Hon. D. F. O'Neill arose to the occasion and addressed the people for a few short minutes and had as much fun as anyone present. He talked along the Babcock highway amendment and made the purpose of the plan clear in a very few words. His talk was well received and pleased the large crowd.

The fair was a success in every way and great credit is due Stuart McLeod, the president of the association, and B. O. Norby, secretary. Thru their untiring efforts they have made the Tri County Fair a winner and they deserve the support of every resident in the county. They have worked hard and faithfully to make the fair a success an dthose present can testify to the fact that they succeeded admirably.

The Tri County fair this year, while not attended by quite as large crowd as last year, was decidedly a success from the outset and all who in any way participated in the undertaking the appreciation of all is due.

MENNONITES

There are 20,000 Mennonite farmers in Canada who are desirous of emigrating. The Mennonites are a religious denomination which arose in the 16th century. Their religious creed and beliefs are not peculiar. They believe in non-resistance to violence, are religiously opposed to war or to the support thereof. They repudiate law-suits, oaths, civil office holding and the bearing of arms against their fellow men.

In the early part of the 16th century, Germany offered the Mennonites immunity from military service and large numbers of them settled in Germany. Later this immunity was withdrawn and in 1788 the offer of extensive land and the assurance of religious liberty caused a great emigration of the Mennonites to southern Russia, which movement continued until 1824. Gradually this immunity from military service was interfered with in Russia, and in 1873 the Mennonite Society undertook negotiations with Canada for settlement therein, with the result that on July 23, 1873, eight government townships in Manitoba, Canada, just across the line from North Dakota, extending westwardly and northwardly from Pembina, North Dakota, were set aside for the Mennonites and the following immunities were expressly granted to them by Canada: One. An entire exemption from military service is by law and order in council granted to the denomination of Christians called Mennonites. Ten. The fullest privilege of exercising their religious principles is by law afforded to the Mennonites without any kind of molestation or restriction whatever; and the same privilege extends to the education of their children in school. Eleven. The privilege of affirming instead of making affidavits is afforded by law.

Pursuant to this contract and agreement the Mennonites settled on these lands and have continued to live until the present time. There are two bodies of Mennonites settled there; one is called the Old Colonist Mennonites and one called the Summerfelters. The former cling to the principles of their order and are the conservatives. They own their land individually but farm in common, having the homes of the various subdivisions farming in common built together in small villages. They do not believe in telephones and do not own or use automobiles. The Summerfelters, on the other hand, are more advanced or rather more liberal in their views and own and farm their lands individually the same as farmers in other communities. They own and use modern conveniences including the telephone, automobile and other labor saving devices.

They are some of the finest farmers in the world and farm the land thoroughly and well. The result is today that they are practically all wealthy and well to do. Their religion forbids them from engaging in other pursuits than that of farming. Their preachers and bishops and others high in the order are all farmers actually engaged in the tilling of the soil, and serve without pay.

They were not called into military service by Canada during the late war and have no complaint whatever to offer to their treatment by Canada in that regard. The most of them did not desire to contribute their funds to the furtherance of the war, although large numbers of the more advanced and liberal thinkers did so. However, they were enthusiastic and subscribed liberally and in large sums for the equipment of hospital units and ambulance service, as the equipment of this branch of the service did not conflict with their religious views. One of their number, however, and he was only one of a large number who bought liberally, purchased in excess of $30,000 in Liberty Bonds of the Dominion of Canada and he still owns them today and does not seek to dispose of them.

The complaint these people have now of their treatment in Canada is in respect to the schools and incidentally thereby, infringement upon their religious freedom. They claim that negotiations of the quoted agreement with Canada that they could manage their own schools without molestation or restriction, the Canadian authorities are putting teachers in the Mennonite schools elected by the civil authorities at Winnipeg. They fear that this may lead to molestation of their religious belief and they have decided that they will leave the land which they have beautified and improved and will again migrate to retain the religious freedom which they prize. This matter of the violation of the agreement made between the Canadian authorities and the Mennonites has been finally appealed to the privy council of England and the privy council decided that the Mennonites had no redress and we are informed that the decision was not based upon the grounds that the agreement was not made, but was based upon the ground that those making that agreement with the Mennonites had no power to do so. It does not seem that this position taken by the Canadian authorities or by the privy council was tenable for the reason that on September 25, 1872, the privy Council referred the matter to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, Canada, and on July 23, 1873, the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa made the agreement quoted. However, that fact is immaterial and has no bearings for the reason that the Mennonites have firmly and finally decided that they are going to leave Manitoba and the only question now is where are they going. Quebec is offering great inducements to them, but the Mennonites hesitate to accept the Quebec proposition for the reason that the same authority would pass upon the violation of a Quebec agreement that passed upon the so-called violation of their Manitoba agreement. Mexico, Honduras, Paraguay and various South American countries are offering great inducements to these people to migrate to those countries. They themselves prefer to reside in the latitude and under conditions which are familiar to them and are now interested in a movement into Minnesota. They are not asking any special privileges or immunities in Minnesota not enjoyed by every other citizen of the state. Our school laws have been thoroughly explained to them, and they are willing to live up to and obey them in the smallest detail. The State Immigration Department of Minnesota has taken a great deal of interest in the matter and after a thorough investigation of the facts in the matter, the governor has extended a warm invitation to the people to settle in the state of Minnesota. Certainly it is to the interest of the state and of every inhabitant thereof that these people be brought to settle the vast expanse of vacant land in northern Minnesota. They have viewed the land and the general territory of northern Minnesota and are well pleased with it and greatly desire to become citizens of the United States and residents of the state of Minnesota. The other community desiring the settlement of these people are spreading a great deal of propaganda among them concerning the drawbacks of a residence under the Stars and Stripes and concerning their certainty of being inducted into the military service in case of war. They have been assured that the constitution of the United State prohibits the induction of a citizen whose religious creed forbids war. They are a peaceful, law-abiding class of people. They are intelligent, well read and in their outward demeanor and appearance are not different from any other people or community in the country. Minnesota should certainly welcome them and not allow their status to be prejudiced by propaganda born of selfish motives in those seeking to divert them elsewhere. There are already large numbers of the Mennonites in Minnesota and colonies in Iowa and South Dakota and they are considered high class desirable people. The total umber n the United States at this time is approximately 55,000. They must not be confused with the Dukabors.

Ventilation.

Through persistent education the why and wherefore of this great health necessity has been explained; still to the many, air is air, and that is all there is to it.

Ventilation does not simply mean "open wide the windows," but it should be done scientifically, especially in a sick room. To properly ventilate, the air must be kept in motion. The entrance opening for fresh air should be larger than the one for exit. If these openings are directly opposite, the motion will take place without doing the room any good. If there are two windows in the room, one should be opened from the top and the other from the bottom. For the general daytime room the temperature should be 68 degrees and at night 65. A bathroom should be kept at 70. For the sick room of pneumonia patients and several other diseases, of course, the temperature should be kept as low as possible without having the patient in a draught.

"Almanach de Gotha!"

This is a French almanac which was first published in 1763 and gives genealogical particulars concerning all the sovereign houses of Europe, the mediatized families of Germany, and many of the European princely and ducal houses not of sovereign rank. It also contains valuable information regarding officers of administration and statistics of the principal political divisions of the world.

Noble Sentiment.

When you advertise you go half way. There's a meeting place for the seller and the buyer of real estate. This meeting place is in the classified advertising columns of this paper. The owner is represented by his advertisement. The prospective buyer turns to these columns—and if the ad enlists his interest the transaction is under way.

A "Brief" Honeymoon.

Lord Reading is nothing if not original. His honeymoon was quite unique. He told his friends that, after being called to the bar, he was to be married and spend his honeymoon in Spain. They sounded extravagant for a budding barrister, probably not overburdened with pocket money. But he was businesslike even then, and it was found later that a certain firm of solicitors had given him as a wedding present a commission to take evidence in Madrid. So he took his wife with him and combined business and pleasure.—Exchange.

Compete With Pyramids.

The only competition of the pyramids, says the Automobile Blue Book, is the famous painted rocks near Martinez, Cal. These rocks are what remain of the magnificent old Sun Worship temple where thousands of Indians gathered each year. The rocks were discovered by early Spanish explorers in the seventeenth century, and it is believed that the group was nine or eleven dozen centuries old when the American Indians first saw it.

Aspirin and Quinine.

A Spanish physician has found as the result of a year's experience that the combination of aspirin and quinine is undesirable and may be dangerous. According to the Scientific American's account of the investigation, the catalytic action of aspirin in the stomach changes the quinine to a poisonous derivative called quino-toxin. The poison is said to cause death, though the Spanish investigator records no fatal cases.

Dreaming of the Wind.

To dream of the wind blowing signifies opposition and illness. If it blows your hat away, it's a sign you will want to go away because of a shortcoming of yours. To dream of hearing the wind blow foretells illness of someone very close to you. If you are caught in a gust of wind, you will have some harrowing experience very soon. To dream of seeing a windmill is a sign you will have a loss.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

May Day In Scotland.

In Scotland May day was long known as Beltane. "Beltane" is a corruption of Boal Time, and the ancient May day ceremonies which were observed in Scotland until not so many years ago were survivols of the old Baal or fire worship, which in former days held sway over the greater part of the Eastern hemisphere. The ancient ceremonies involved the burning of bonfires, the drawing of lots for sacrifice, and even a mock simulacrum of the sacrifice itself.

Remarkable Menu.

A group of New Yorkers dined the other day on some curious dishes. They were octopus soup, rock cod from New Zealand, roast breost of penguin, peos from Argentine, seo elephant cutlets and kolods made from endives grown in Tasmonia. All the fish and meats served at the meal had been frozen two years before in the south seas and were brought north to show how great and how voried a food supply the antorctic continent can furnish.—Youth's Companion.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

QUEEN BEE'S TALK.

"I was telling people about myself, the other day," said Queen Bee, "that now I must talk to the children. Some of them have been asking questions and so have the workers, and there are a few questions I want to answer.

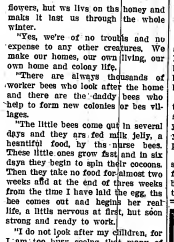
"In the first place we must not hibernate or go to sleep for the whole winter, for bees do not do such lazy things. They know how to keep warm by eating food, the right kind of food. Ah! no, bees know how to look after themselves in the winter time.

"And so we must not only gather honey, but we must store it for the long winter ahead. That isn't my work, it is the work though of all the worker bees.

"And here in this hollow tree where our honeycomb is, we'll store our food and the young will be taught what they must do.

"They will be taught that they are the wax workers while the older and wiser bees will go to the flowers for the nectar and for the pollen.

"Another thing, we must never be lazy. There is a saying of how the little bee improves each shining hour. That is a true saying, and we must never let it be said of us that we have not lived up to that saying.



"No one can copy the fine comb we make. No one has ever been able to do the work we can do, and of that, we should be very proud.

"But it is not enough to be proud. We must make the pride we feel a true pride and not a false pride, a pride which we deserve.

"You see, bees, I am a Queen, but as I spend my time laying eggs and thinking of the bees, I am more of a mother than I am a queen. I care for little bees, I want to see that they come into this busy, interesting world, where bees live and work, and where they do things which no people have ever been able to copy.

"And we live and work and let others work and live. We do not destroy other animals in order to live, or other insects or other life at all. We make our own life, we get our own food from flowers and without robbing anyone, for the honey from the flowers would go to waste were it not for us.

flowers, but we live on the honey and make it last us through the whole winter.

"Yes, we're of no trouble and no expense to any other creatures. We make our homes, our own living, our own home and colony life.

"There are always thousands of worker bees who look after the home and there are the daddy bees who help to form new colonies or bee villages.

"The little bees come out in several days and they are fed milk jelly, a beautiful food, by the nurse bees. These little ones grow fast, and in six days they begin to spin their cocoons. Then they take no food for almost two weeks and at the end of three weeks from the time I have laid the egg, the bee comes out and begins her real life, a little nervous at first, but soon strong and ready to work.

"I do not look after my children, for I am too busy seeing that many of them get the chance to come into this beautiful world, and there are nurses who will look after the little ones.

"For in the lives of the honey bees there is work for everyone, special work. The drones or Mr. Bees are in larger cells until they come out, and they take twenty-five days to come out.

"Yes, I have answered many questions that have been asked me by the little bees just coming into the world, but while I can buzz as I work, I cannot stop and chat. No, the honey bees must always work, always, always. Even the Queen has much to do."

Pa Should Be Glad.

Willie, aged five, had asked his mother for a second piece of pie at dinner.

"When I was your size," said his father reprovingly, "my mother allowed me to have only one piece of pie."

"Say, papa," rejoined the little fellow, "aren't you glad you board with us now?"

Both Ends Against the Middle.

Alice—Why do you always go to the show right in the middle of the picture?

Maude—Oh, because I can wonder not how it will end, but how it will begin.—Judge.

OBEDIENCE TO NATURAL LAW

"In normal, well-balanced persons there is a certain relation between the element of fear and the element of courage. Fear is an emotion existing for the purpose of promoting caution, and in primitive days and in animals tends to self-preservation. Anger, curiosity and courage are factors which oppose fear and flight. When knowledge, experience, repetition, finally limit or delimit the action of these two opposing instincts and emotions, conscious action is carried out with understanding according to the inherent reactions.

"Woman was made with the element of fear and caution more pronounced than in man, because woman, the mother, was not supposed to be the fighter. Man, primitive man, the fighter, was more endowed with courage."

These quotations from a report by Dr. Samuel Wyllis Bandler of New York to the Journal of the American Medical association profess a discussion of the differences in the ductless, or endocrine, glands in man and woman. In normal persons these balance each other, but the balance is different in the two sexes and, according to Doctor Bandler, it is this difference in balance that causes the differences in the instincts and emotions.

SHREWDNESS BORN IN HIM

From day to day proof is forthcoming that genius is spontaneous and not a slow growth—that it is of the type of Minerva who sprang full-armed from the head of Zeus. This is evidently as true of the genius of the mart as it is properly supposed to be of the more aesthetic forms of genius.

An instance in substantiation of this opinion was recently related by a veteran business man as a side light on the why of the success of a well-known industrial leader.

"I remember him," it was related, "when he was a lad of six years. He wanted to trade a lantern for one owned by a playmate, which he admired. Coming to his father, he asked counsel about the matter and was informed that he should use his own judgment. 'Well, dad,' said the boy, 'I believe I'll trade; but wouldn't you take the oil out first?'"—Wall Street Journal.

Made Thorough Job of It.

The domestic happiness of an innkeeper in a village in the Jura has been shattered by the action of a jealous wife. Ten years ago the innkeeper, who is French, brought home from America a buxom woman of Austrian birth named Sophie. Sophie is now fat and forty, and the affections of her husband have decreased. Sophie resolved to revenge herself, and, when her husband was absent, she smashed all the furniture and then turned on all the taps of the wine barrels. Finally she soaked the wreckage with petroleum and set it alight. When the husband appeared his wife threw on the fire a number of bank notes which represented their savings. While the neighbors were busy trying to extinguish the flames Sophie banged herself from the branch of a tree.—From the Continental Edition of the New York Herald.

He Knew Its Use.

An Indianapolis family a few years ago took a boy from an orphanage. Now, of course, everything at the new home was different from the place he had just left. Still he tried to make himself at home and help all he could.

One day the woman of the house told her grown daughter to go upstairs after a box. The orphanage youngster offered to go instead. "But you don't know where to find it," protested the woman.

"Oh, yes, I do," the little boy insisted. He had gone to her closet before after things and had seen the boxes. "They are in the little pantry that you keep your clothes in."

Honesty.

Honesty is not the best policy. It isn't any kind of policy. It's a virtue practiced for its own sake without regard for profits. Those who refrain from stealing because thieves end in jail are not honest. They are merely discreet.—Robert Quillen in Saturday Evening Post.

Preferred the Coin.

On Sylvia's birthday her aunt gave her a paper dollar as a gift. Of course her little brother Buddy could not be slighted, so aunty gave him a quarter. Both were delighted with their gifts, but at last Buddy said: "Oh, I got the real money, Sylvia, you only got a transfer."

BUILDING YOUR WEALTH

A bank works for you night and day, week after week, adding cents to your dollars. Little by little the amount grows till each addition is a respectable sum.

Where does the gain come from? Not from your pocket. Nor from ours. It is the result of production. Money placed in a bank is given an opportunity to work and to produce.

Thus a bank builds your wealth.

Start with a small deposit if you will. Add to it when you can—regularly if you can do so. It will not be long till you can fairly see it grow.

Prof. J. H. Hay, neighbor and friend to Pennington county people, was the orator of the day and delivered the principal address at the Goodridge fair. Mr. Hay made the best address we have ever heard him make. He spoke on co-operative marketing. He pointed out the great advantages to come to the farmer by economic association. He pointed to the great unnecessary spread in price between the producer and the consumer. He specifically named the inbetweeners, skimmers off and fixers. He pointed to the potato growers' associations formed everywhere to assist the farmer to reach the consumer independent of the Twin City potato gamblers. He talked forcefully, ably, pleadingly and with great conviction to the farmers, urging them to join the American Farm Bureau. This Bureau is organized nationally, will have several million members, more than any other organization. It will have headquarters at Washington; it will do as labor does, as the manufacturers do, as the miners and railroad men do. It will be on the job at Washington to be heard and heeded and backed by the greatest membership of any society in the United States. Prof. Hay says it will sit in at the conference table of the mighty and be heard and it will give and take; it is "not political, not religious, but economic." It will invite and include all sects and denominations. Prof. Hay made a great address. We hope his predictions for the success of the American Farm Bureau may prove true and we believe they will.

Chairman Hays, speaking of his recent trip thru the west said: "There are lots of Castle Hills in the west. Castle Hill is a town in Maine which the other day cast 101 votes—100 Republican and 1 Democratic. The postmaster seems to have stood firm."

Hon. D. F. O'Neill had the time of his life at the Goodridge fair. He came up from Minneapolis and spent two days at the fair in the interests of the Babcock amendment and made two very able, logical and eloquent addresses on this subject. Mr. O'Neill knows all about this legislation; he helped make it and he has been one of the foremost authorities on road and taxation laws in Minnesota for many years. Most of the legislation on our statute books has come under his eye for criticism and approval. So Senator Daniel is there as an authority on roads and taxes and it was a pleasure and a delight for him to have the opportunity to explain these matters to his former friends and neighbors at the Goodridge fair. Incidentally and in order to make a full day Senator O'Neill delivered the eulogy and address at the flag raising exercises in the park Tuesday afternoon and he acquitted himself on this solemn and impressive occasion with his usual grace and eloquence. Have a good time, Senator. You deserve it and we are glad to see you revel in the bright sunshine of public approbation.

One of the really refreshing reports of recent date is the announcement by Uncle Hank Ford that automobiles will be reduced in price about $150 per. This is in the face of unfilled orders for more than one hundred thousand cars at the Ford factory and the price of labor at the factory is not to be reduced in any way. Mr. Ford takes this action as a common sense and honest effort to help bring business back to a pre-war basis. For reducing prices at a time when every factory in the country is swamped with orders, when the other factories have mostly announced an advance in prices, based on the highway robber principle of "Get the money." For making a reduction at this time, when his could get more, Mr. Ford is referred to by the profiteer manufacturers in language more expressive than refined. The price of automobiles is controlled, almost. It is, except for Mr. Ford, and he has made two hundred million dollars making cars at a reduced price.

When Prof. Hay, in his speech at Goodridge, pointed out that a way had been provided for the farmers' elevators and co-operative grain companies to have full trading privileges in the Chamber of Commerce at Minneapolis, the news was at least interesting. We suspect the farmers will cast a dubious eye toward this glowing evidence of love and affection on the part of the Chamber of Commerce pirates. It may be all right. If any concession has been made to the farmers it is because the Chamber is scared about something. What is it? We suspect it is the fear that the farmers are likely to control both the primary and the terminal markets. This lion and lamb proposition upon the part of the Chamber of Commerce might result in the lamb being inside the lion. "Beware of Greeks bearing gifts."

To our farmer friends, dozens of whom heard Prof. Hay's Goodridge speech, we desire to ask: "Co-operative marketing." "Farmers price control." "Too much spread between the producer and consumer." "Combine and control the prices on what you raise." Have you heard these matters before? You have, in dozens of farm papers and in one local twice-a-week Pennington couty paper, and in only one paper. We mention these matters from week to week as a matter of principle, because we believe in them and because we hope and expect to see them prevail. No one pays us by measure for our expression in the farmers' favor. You have heard of that too right here at home. If we have not accomplished anything else, we know we have cleared up that one item of dishonest and disgraceful graft in this community.

CUT COST OF SELLING SPUDS

Detroit Free Press: The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange during the past year did a gross business of more than $4,000,000 at an overhead expense of less than 2 per cent, including all losses and rejections. The purchasing department bought 3,000 orders at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 and sold produce amounting to $800,000. Starting two years ago with a membership of 28 local marketing bureaus, the exchange now is a federation of 101 local units. Business has increased since inception about 300 per cent.

$3 WHEAT SOUGHT BY FARMERS WHO WOULD KEEP BACK STOCKS.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 18.—Protesting against "recent manipulations of the American wheat market," organized farmers of Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma plan to force an advance in the price of wheat that they may realize "a reasonable profit" on their product.

As the result of the meeting of representatives of the farmers of the four states here farmers will ge urged to withhold wheat from the market until a minimum of $3 as a terminal price is obtained.

A resolution adopted characterized alleged manipulations of the wheat market as "a performance which has forced a decline of more than 80 cents a bushel in a few days." The decline has reduced wheat prices to $2 per bushel and less, the farmers said, citing figures to prove the average farmer loses 77 cents a bushel at that price.

The above looks good to us. The farmers in time must and will have a voice in naming the price on what they raise. That's the way it should be. That's the way it will be.

The War Is Over and War Prices Must Go

Effective at once, Ford Cars, Trucks and Tractors will be sold F. O. B. Detroit at the following prices:

| Touring Car, regular | $440 |
| Touring Car, with starter | $510 |
| Runabout, regular | $395 |
| Runabout, with starter | $465 |

| Sedan, with starter and demountable rims | $795 |
| Truck with pneumatic tires | $545 |
| Fordson Tractor | $790 |

All Prices F. O B. Detroit

The Ford Motor Company makes this reduction in the face of the fact that they have on hand immediate orders for one hundred forty-six thousand sixty-five cars and tractors. The company will suffer a temporary loss while using up the material bought at high prices. They are willing to make the sacrifice in order to bring business back to a growing condition as quickly as possible and maintain the momentum of the buying power of the country.

Henry Ford says that the war is over and it is time war prices were over. There is no sense or wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of values. For the best interest of all it is time a real practical effort was made to bring the business and life of the country down to regular pre-war standard and quotations. We are at your command with regular Ford efficiency and service and eagerness to fill your orders.

CANADIAN WHEAT PRICES.

Canadian farmers last year got about 45 cents a bushel for their wheat that was received by the farmers of the United States. How this came about is rather an interesting story. The price of wheat in the United States was fixed at $2.26 per bushel. The Canadian price was fixed at $2.15 per bushel.

Apparently the farmer of the United States had the advantage, but the Canadians organized their wheat program in such a way that whatever profit the government might make out of it would go to the men who grew the wheat and not to the speculators and profiteers.

Here is how they worked it. When the Canadian farmer took his wheat to the elevator or mill he was paid the minimum price of $2.15 in cash. Then, in addition, he was given a certificate showing the number of bushels of wheat sold. This was called a participation certificate. The government then took over the wheat and marketed it to the best possible advantage and at the end of the year figured up the results and found that it had a profit of about $37,000,000. This profit was distributed among the farmers in proportion to the amount of wheat each had sold. When the whole thing was figured out it was found that the participation certificates were worth about 45 cents a bushel.

The above not only confirms, but proves, our oft repeated reference to the Wilson-Democratic "guaranteed price on wheat" (guaranteed to keep it down). Canadian wheat at $2.15 and American wheat at $2.26 were considered on a par, because of the long haul from Canada. Wilson controlled the price against the American farmer. The Canadian government controlled the price in favor of their farmers. Cotton in the south was not controlled. The cotton planters profited by the war. The wheat farmers were penalized 45 cents per bushel on their wheat.

FARMER MUST SIT IN ECONOMIC GAME.

American farmers, in loyalty to their country, must help arouse its citizens to the importance of agriculture and prevent the neglect and deterioration of farm lands that have led to the downfall of other nations, L. E. Potter, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, told visitors at the Hennepin county fair in an address on the work of the federation.

"A coutry is going to ruin when it begins to neglect the man who feeds it," he said. "Labor is organized. Capital is organized. They are working for their own interests; they aren't looking out for the interests of the man off the land. The farmer stands between them, both a laborer and a capitalist, but unorganized. The time has come when he must sit in at the economic game which labor and capital have been playing alone.

Voice in National Policies.

"But has the farmer the cards to play with? He hasn't. But it is the function of the farm bureau to give them to him. It is the mission of the farm bureau to collect facts for him, and give him, for the first time, a direct voice in congress and in the national policies of the United States.

"If the business organizations of the country need their chambers of commerce, not as political forces, but as their representatives to protect their economic interests, the farmers need a similar business organization still more. No price fixing in America ever has set aside an allowance for the depreciation of your land and the destruction of its fertility. You men have no right to work your farms so that they will be poorer when you are through with them. The land of Minnesota belongs to the next generation and it is our duty to see that the farmer gets a square deal and a large enough return to enable him to turn that land over to his children better than when he took it.

Called America's Salvation.

"In performing that mission I believe the farm bureau is the salvation of America. The true American spirit demands that the farmers unite to get a square deal not only in their own interests and the interests of their children, but in the interests of future welfare of their own country."

The strength of this farm bureau federation, he said, has been demonstrated by its success in pigeonholing the Nolan bill, a measure which proposed a 1 per cent tax on all land holdings valued at more than $10,000 regardless of outstanding debts against them.

"The farm bureau federation," he said, "had it pigeonholed and intends to see that it stays there. For the first time the farmers have an organization that gives them the power to protect their interests in congress."

We hope every Tribune reader will take and interest in the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

—may be had at our underwear counter in every desired style, size, a large variety of fabrics, light, medium heavyweight. And at values that are right.

From our point of view—behind the counter so to speak—serving our customers day after day with merchandise of many kinds, naturally we are in a position to tell something about a woman's judgment, her tastes, preferences, her knowledge of values.

Take underwear as an example. It's an unseen thing. Even so it's bad judgment to "skimp it," to neglect it, just because it's unseen and does not seem as important as outer garments.

Underclothes are really the foundation upon which that "well dressed" appearance depends.

If your underwear binds, bunches into annoying wrinkles and folds, if it doesn't cover your body perfectly, you just can't expect your outer garments to fit and look quite so well.

Then there is the question of economy.

You can't afford to have garments that don't wash and wear well. It's a waste of good money not to get service for each dollar spent. You expect it from outer clothes. Why not get it from underclothes?

Good judgment then demands that you insist upon quality, perfection of fit, washability, wearability, in fact, dependable underclothes at right prices.

==prefered and worn by millions

When our customers ask for Munsingwear, in our opinion they use good judgment. We know they are getting under-garments whose reputation for fit, wash, wear, quality, unusual service—is nation-wide. The experience of our most discriminating women buyers is that Munsingwear lives up to its reputation.

HIS INSPIRATION

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

The people sat spellbound by the music which came floating out to them across a hedge of flowers. Many willing hands had built that hedge around the platform of the church which was to hold the throng coming from far and near to rejoice in the success of a former townsman. Hal Rupert was only remembered as an ambitious boy who had early left the great house on the hill, to pursue musical study abroad. But Hal Rupert, the father, and the still older Hal had been honored and beloved by the entire community. For their sakes, though both had long passed away, this gifted musician was now lovingly welcomed.

It was the progressive Madame Weston who first conceived the idea of extending to Hal (junior) Rupert, an invitation to visit the town of his ancestors, so near the big city where he was now, on concert tour. And Rupert, the violinist, responding promptly and cordially, suggested that his services would be at their disposal for one evening.

So Madame Weston immediately planned a recital for the benefit of a local charity. Among all the eager faces upraised before him the violinist saw but one—the young, old face of a child. Enthralled, motionless, it was as though the boy were hypnotized by the music, hypnotising in turn the player, by his tense, wrapt attention. Vainly, Rupert endeavored to withdraw his interested gaze from the boy's face. Then smiling whimsically, found that face his inspiration.

When the last note had been lost in applause it was to the white-faced boy that Rupert made his acknowledging bow. And then, following an inexplicable impulse he seated himself on the end of the front seat beside the boy, as Madame ascended the platform to make her very speeches of appreciation. With a shiver of delight the boy looked up into the man's face.

"That was great," he breathed.

"I want to see you when this is over," the musician said. He noticed that the boy sank back as if crippled. And true to his word, after what seemed an interminable time of handshaking, he sought out again his patient watcher.

"You liked my music?" he asked abruptly.

The little fellow drew a long breath. "If I could learn to play like that," he said, "I'd want nothing else—in all the world. I've got a violin," he went on excitedly. "They offered one at a grocery place as a premium, if you'd get enough grocery orders.

"I went out every day, and I got the orders. Cissy said—that's my sister—that she was afraid people gave me the orders just because my spine is bad. But, I told Cissy that they got their goods all right, didn't they?"

His pleading eyes were questioning.

"Of course they did," the musician agreed.

"And I learned to play myself," the boy went on. "Little things that I'd hear Cissy says my playing is 'beautiful' unto tears." Cissy says queer things, but oh! how she does wish she could let me have lessons.

"She does a darn lot too much for me as it is," he burst out unexpectedly. "You see first, she was mother to me when mother died. I don't remember her. Then she was dad to me after dad died—earns our living—I mean up in the bank office."

"Your sister," Rupert asked—he was strangely interested in this absorbed young admirer, "is not as fond of music as you are. She is not here tonight?"

The boy moved uneasily.

"She was crazy to come," he said. "I knew that all the time, though she said she wasn't. But, a dollar means a lot to us. Cissy didn't know how she was going to let me come, when she read your bills in the store windows. Then all at once it came to her, just the way everything comes to Cissy. She had bought a new straw hat, cheapest little hat, but then everything looks pretty, on Cissy, and she was going to Miss Smith's, where they sell navy-blue pompons. Cissy was going to perk the navy-blue pom pon up in front of her hat to make it stylish. And the pompon was just one dollar, don't you see?"

Rupert, the musician, put an arm around the child to guide him down the aisle.

"Thanks," the boy said cheerfully. "Crowds do jostle my spine, if you don't hold 'em back."

The girl waiting in the hall looked up wide eyed as the two approached.

"Paul, dear," she exclaimed, "I'm so glad you have come."

"This is Rupert," the boy said easily.

"Oh, Cissy—my! You should have heard him play!"

"I must see Paul again," he said earnestly. "Such an absorbing love of music hints at promise. It may be my good fortune to help your brother to achievement. May I come to your home to hear him play?"

"Will—you—?" breathed the girl.

Beneath the faded roses in the plain little hat her luminous eyes spoke gratitude.

"I am staying over in the old town for some time," Rupert casually remarked, and this sudden decision caused himself no less surprise than satisfaction.

ENTITLED TO HIS PENSION

Teddy, age twenty-two, is his owner declares, the oldest dog in Ohio. His is now resting on his laurels, for he recently saved the life of one of the children of his master, Orlee O. Swander, a farmer, near Toledo, Ohio.

It has been Teddy's duty and joy to accompany the Swander children to school, a mile distant, and bring them home again, daily. He has never been late on the job. On the way home from school recently, one of the little Swanders became ill suddenly and fell by the roadside. Teddy immediately started at his fastest pace for home and made such a fuss that members of the family accompanied him back along the road.

They found the child, unconscious, and extremely cold. He was hurried home and restored to health. The Swanders believe that Teddy's prompt action saved the child's life.

Mr. Swander immediately bought a dog license for his faithful dog, that will have no dog catcher chasing him. If anything should happen to that dog, my family would grieve as much as if he were one of them," declared Mr. Swander.

Teddy is half coyote and half Indian dog. He was bought from a band of Comanche Indians in Oklahoma 16 years ago.—Charles A. Henderson, in Our Dumb Animals.

COMFORT IN AIRPLANE CABIN

Great Contrast in Flights in Inclosed and Open Machines; as Described by Passenger.

I recently had the opportunity of making two airplane flights in the same day, the first in one of the completely inclosed transport machines, the second in a fighting machine which was developed in America during the last few months of the war and which has a speed of about 135 miles an hour. The force exerted by the air against any exposed surface is about three times as great at this speed as it is at 80 miles an hour.

During the first of these two trips the only complaint that could have been raised against conditions in the pilot's compartment would have been that it was rather close and we finally had to open a window in the side of the body to secure a little ventilation. One of the occupants of the cabin was wearing a soft felt hat, and not the slightest rustle of air disturbed the brim.

In the second flight, on the other hand, it was only with difficulty that I could lift my head far enough out of the gunner's cockpit to look over the side at the ground. The instant my head was raised above the top line of the airplane body, so that the wind got a chance at it, my hair threatened to be torn out by the roots.—Edward P. Warner in Yale Review.

Chorus Girl Worked as Housemaid.

A Parisian housekeeper who had long been without a servant succeeded the other day in engaging one who seemed very promising indeed. She entered upon her duties in the morning, and worked to her mistress' complete satisfaction. An early dinner was cooked and served excellently, but at 8:30 the new maid appeared in the drawing room with her hat on, and explained that she had to go out, as she was in the chorus at a music hall and was sure to be fined if she arrived late. Apparently she was quite prepared to continue her two jobs without regarding them as incongruous. Owing to a lack of modernity in the mistress' ideas, this interesting experiment was not continued.—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Cures Wrought by "Sleep-Baths."

Among the many wonderful cures which the war has produced is the "sleep-bath."

It is to be had on the thousand-acre estate at Enham, Hampshire, where many of the disabled men are being treated. Practically every kind of bath is available here, but the big "sedative bath" has worked the most miracles.

The patients lie in hammocks, while water flows over them. The hammocks are immersed, and the water is kept at the temperature of the body. The gentle floating motion has a most soothing effect upon the nerves.

Provided the man has not been pronounced incurable, any shell-shocked soldier may apply for treatment through his local pension committee.

Human Fly Says It's Safe.

Polley, the human fly, who climbed the 57 stories of the Woolworth building in New York, says climbing tall buildings is just a trick of balance. It took him nine years to acquire it, but now that he has it he believes his way of making a living is as safe as any other. He recently told a reporter for Capper's Weekly he had never fallen, except on one occasion when a "fly" above him fell and knocked Polley to the ground. Polley doesn't smoke, drink or indulge in any habits that might injure his health. He declares he takes no foolish chances and that he never becomes dizzy.

Broke.

"Hi, there, sir!" shouted a Florida landlord to a departing guest who was rushing for the train, "you've dropped your pocket book."

"All right," shouted back the guest without stopping. "I've no further use for it."—Boston Transcript.

Alloy Stronger Than Steel.

An Italian engineer has discovered a new alloy of zinc and copper which is stronger than steel and less corrosive than copper, says the Scientific American. The most important characteristics of the new alloy, which has been named "Black-Metal," are the highest known breaking point, the highest limit of elasticity, perfect homogeneity and higher resistance to both heating and chemical action. It has been stated that it can successfully be cast, machined, rolled, forged, drawn and stamped. It is expected that it will prove an acceptable substitute for steel, brass and aluminum.

Ground Ice.

A professional paper of the United States geological survey on the Canning river region, in northern Alaska, describes the occurrence of ground ice in that region and reviews the literature of ground ice in considerable detail. The author concludes that the two varieties of ground ice most common in northern Alaska are formed by the burial of river ice by sediments and by the growth in place of vertical ice wedges.

Where She Might Shine.

Mrs. Trouble—You've heard my daughter sing. Don't you think she's about ready for a public appearance?

The Impresario—Certainly, madam. I thought as I listened to her what a fine movie actress she'd make.

NEPTUNE NEWS

William Baldwin having now finished haying, says it's very hard to make hay in Minnesota when you cannot get men. Baldwin says it would be one of the greatest things if the Red Lake river were dredged. It would improve the northwestern part of Minnesota. We would have lots more wheat as they have the right kind of farmers in Pennington county, also the farmers in this country are threshing out as much grain as the majority of farmers in other parts of the county. From John Nostrom's reports, he says he has threshed for many years around this country and this is the first year that grain was scarce, but there is lots of straw. Have if we can raise the straw we can raise the grain. The rust was not so much but if we get the river dredged next will show the other parts of Minnesota we can do our part for Minnesota in farming.

Joseph Roberts had his auction sale last Saturday. It was very good, more than we want very many people but there were seemed to be live buyers.

Steve Hanson came strolling along of Ar with a new milk cow and Baldspirit, followed with one. Hanson must to get going into the milk or butter business. Now if we can hold these two their own in this part of the country, future are sure there will be a milk car

The ing around this part of the country in a short time, as Baldwin and Hanson have many friends in the N king business.

Asmo is working on the grade holding wn Gust Nostrom's and B. Tvietregard place and the grade is ceragainst ine. He is an old hand at the and we hope we can keep as he is the kind of man in the road business.

Nostrom returned from first time ing in the southwestern part of unty, where he held a position cinema for Albert Jarneson. He they are doing real threshing in part of the country and says they keeping six grain wagons and bundle teams busy. That country might be fast in raising grain, but wait until next year, us folks around the northwest part will sit right next to the front if the river is dredged.

Mrs. John Nostrom's daughter, Mrs. Hilma Gobd, has a new baby boy, who arrived on Friday, Sept 17. Mother and child are getting along nicely.

Albin Arneson, who has had a serious cold for the past few days, is reported much better. He thinks there is some medicine around this country that will help him. The Red lake river was too high for Albin to wade so he got his feet wet, so that is the way he caught cold. No matter where you find Albin, you always find him the same old Albin.

Duck hunters are plentiful around Neptune. Lots of dry land hunters —a new kind.

Willie Mostrom was returning home from his threshing rig Saturday night and broke his back spring. He meant the back Ford spring. As this is the first spring he has broken in two years, he thinks he must have had his left hand on the wheel and his right arm around his best friend. As the rut was crooked and Willie was quick and never upset and never removed his right arm neither his left.

Mischievous Magpie.

A tame magpie was once observed to be gathering some pebbles in the garden, and solemnly dropping them in a deep hole which had been made to receive a post. As each stone dropped the magpie gave a triumphant chuckle, and searched for another stone. Examination showed that a toad was at the bottom of the hole, which can only point to the fact that the bird was stoning for amusement.

Tests of a Good Thermometer.

In order to ascertain whether a thermometer is correct or not, it is first plunged into melting ice and then into boiling water; the level of the mercury should indicate upon the scale exactly 32 degrees and 212 degrees Fahrenheit. When inverted the mercury should fall with a sudden click and fill the tube, thus showing the perfect exclusion of air.

Variety in Breads.

Variety in breads is more important when the lunch must be carried than at other meals because of the danger of monotony. Wheat bread, whole wheat bread, corn, rye or oatmeal breads; nut, raisin, and date breads, beaten biscuit, rolls, crisp baking powder biscuit, or soda biscuit and toast, swieback and crackers may be used in turn to give variety.

Style.

No chains of adjectives in linked harshness long drawn out; no digressions thrown in as parentheses; but crystalline definiteness and clearness, fine and varied rhythm, and all that delicate decision, all those felicities of word and cadence, which belong to the highest order of prose.—George Eliot.

Steel Pen Industry Holds Own.

In spite of the increase in the use of fountain pens there is still an immense consumption of the old-fashioned steel pens. Every day of the year, according to estimate, about four tons of best steel are used in the pen factories, and each ton makes a million and a half pens.

Basis of Success.

General education is the foundation upon which specialized vocational education can be built. The better foundation a building has, the better the superstructure. Boys and girls should receive as much general education as is possible; in other words, should remain in the regular public schools until forced to leave or to prepare especially for a particular vocation.—Exchange.

Thought Horse Shoe Lucky.

The belief in the luck-bringing power of the horseshoe attained its greatest diffusion at the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth century. Lord Nelson had a horseshoe nailed to the mast of the Victory; and in many towns it was not unusual to see half of the houses with horseshoes fastened over the door.

Wood Sold by the Pound.

Circassian walnut, a popular wood for furniture, is sold by the pound or ton. As early as 116 B. C. it was introduced into Italy from Persia. The logs are so heavy that they will not float. Only the heart of the wood is used, and it is the crooked, irregular logs that possess the best-figured wood.

Appreciative Eyes.

He may be homely and he may need a shave and his clothes may be shabby. But to the little tad who has had his nose pressed against the window pane waiting for him to come home from work he is the handsomest man in the world.—Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

Brilliant Scheme.

On their fourth birthday Frances and Rita, twins, stood watching the finishing touches being put on a cake by their mother, when Frances exclaimed, "Muvver, let's have today for my birthday, and we'll have another for Rita tomorrow."

World's Highest Dam.

The highest dam in the world is planned for the Sutlej river in northern India, 40 miles above Rupa. The wall will be thrown across a deep gorge, more than 1,000 feet wide. The dam will be 305-feet high.

Greatest Power.

There is something greater on earth than arbitrary power. The thunder, the lightning and the earthquake are terrific, but the judgment of the people is more.—Daniel Webster.

Coffee Tree Grows 30 Feet.

EASY TO CLEAN
BECAUSE IT'S SELF-DRAINING

TO INSURE the utmost satisfaction from your cream separator, you should demand that it be EASY TO CLEAN and EASY RUNNING, besides GETTING ALL THE CREAM. You'll find each one of these features in the Great Western. Read the reasons why:

The Great Western is EASY TO CLEAN, because it's absolutely self-draining. When you are through skimming, pour a few quarts of warm water into the tank and let it run through the separator.

Then you can go ahead with your other work without fear of water running over or choking up in the bowl.

That's because the bowl has bottom outlet, the only disc bowl made with bottom outlet. The water has a straight downward course from the time it leaves the tank until it is delivered through the four holes at the bottom of the bowl.

The Great Western is, without doubt, the easiest separator to clean and keep clean that you can buy.

Easy Running

When you can own a separator that IS EASY RUNNING, why use one that makes skimming one of the most dreaded jobs on the farm?

The Great Western is the easiest running machine made today, because it's the only full ball bearing separator on the market. A big feature,

LOW SWINGING TANK
HIGH CRANK
HIGH SANITARY BASE

GREAT WESTERN SEPARATOR

Of course, you want a machine that GETS ALL THE CREAM, it is only business-like that you should, for a separator that skims clean will prove a paying investment. And the Great Western does get all the cream. Here's the reason:

Remember, the Great Western bowl has a bottom outlet for the milk and a top outlet for the cream. As a result, the cream does not have to be forced back through the milk, as is necessary with a bowl without a bottom outlet. The milk just naturally goes down hill and is delivered through the bottom outlet, while the cream naturally comes to the top and is delivered through the top outlet. The Great Western merely follows Nature's law and insures thorough skimming.

One man says: "I have tested nearly fifty machines and I never found one that would skim closer than the Great Western, and none that would run any easier."

That's the kind of a separator you want, isn't it?

REVENUE MEN SECURE LARGE LIQUOR CARGO

FORMED DEPUTY SHERIFF OF HENNEPIN COUNTY TAKEN IN BOOZE RAID

Internal revenue men were in the city last Saturday and were extremely busy boxing and getting ready for shipment 150 quarts of Canadian whisky. Quite an interested audience gathered to watch the proceedings and many whispered questions on the outskirts of the crowd were exchanged in a confidential manner and many conjectures were offered by the participants as to where it came from and where it was going.

It finally became known that the whiskey was taken from Harry Leslie, former county sheriff under Martinson, of Hennepin county, and implicated in the recent squabble. Martinson and several others became intensely interested in with U. S. authorities in importing liquor into this country. Leslie is still under indictment for his part in the recent disclosure and says he was transporting the whiskey into Minneapolis in an effort to take care of his fine for participation in the Martinson deal.

Leslie, with his companion, Carl Anderson, was arrested at Lancaster and lodged in the jail at Hallock. The revenue men then siezed the automobile and whisky and drove to this city, where the whiskey was crated and sent to internal revenue headquarters in Minneapolis. The Minneapolis papers, in commenting upon the arrest, offer the following:

"Harry Leslie, 1534 4th Ave. s., former Hennepin county deputy sheriff, under indictment for alleged participation in the Mike Weisman whiskey smuggling plot, was arrested late yesterday at Lancaster, Minn., with 160 quarts of Scotch whiskey in his possession.

"Operatives under Paul D. Keller, supervising federal prohibition agent, allege Leslie confessed to had smuggled the whiskey across the Canadian border and intended to sell it in Minneapolis.

"Leslie's purpose was to raise money to pay the fine which he expects the federal district court will levy against him for his part in the Weisman plot, he told the operatives, according to their report submitted to Mr. Keller today.

With Leslie at the time was Carl Anderson, 3504 Bryant ave. s., who was also taken into custody.

"The pair were taken into custody by federal agents at Lancaster, Minn. whose attention was attracted to their automobile by the cases of whiskey, which it is alleged, were tied to the running boards. Their car was about out of gas and the pair were nabbed when they stopped at a filling station.

EFFORT TO GET DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO DISCUSS MATTER AT THE NOONDAY LUNCHEON NEXT WEEK

Four years ago in December Thief River Falls was host to the Red River Valley Dairymen's convention and several hundred delegates and visitors attended what was said to have been the most successful convention ever held by that organization.

This city again has the opportunity of securing the convention and the matter will come before the Commercial Club at the noonday luncheon on Thursday for discussion and definite action. Sentiment already expressed is strongly in favor of extending an invitation to the dairymen to come here again.

The noonday luncheons on Thursdays with a short business program, such as are now being arranged by those in charge will undoubtedly continue to grow in interest as the winter season advances and the club is thereby becoming more of a factor in the betterment of the city.

The luncheon this week will cost fifty cents and will include pie in addition to the hot meat sandwich, potatoes, gravy, vegetable and coffee. Serving will start at twelve o'clock sharp, and the business program at 12:30, with adjournment at 1 o'clock.

Jacobson-Teal

On Monday, Sept. 27, Mr. Robert L. Jacobson and Pearl D. Teal were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. H. L. Barakman officiating. Mr. Jacobson is grain inspector at this point. The young people, after a brief trip, expect to be at home at 707 Duluth Avenue South. Their circle of acquaintances give them their very best wishes.

Robbers Busy.

Robbers are again on the job and on last Saturday evening entered the James Farr place of business on South Lake Shore avenue and successfully got away with something over $130 in cash. The money was hidden under the counter and the supposition is that the burglar the money hidden and when everything was quiet slipped into the building thru the coal chute in front and worked his way into the main part of the building from the basement. No trace of the guilty party has been found.

SUCCESSFUL IN ORGANIZING DISTRICT CLUBS

G. HOWARD SMITH, ORGANIZER FOR DISTRICT, HAVING FINE ATTENDANCE.

G. Howard Smith, newly appointed organizer for Harding-Press clubs in the northern part of Minnesota, reports he is having very fine luck at all points and is now well along with organizations for the five counties completed and in running order in the next few weeks.

A club was organized at Roseau the latter part of last week and at this meeting the women joined in with the men and as a result a very big and enthusiastic meeting was held. Officers were elected and the Rousseau club is now in full swing and going strong.

The places where clubs are to be formed this week and where Mr. Smith has already arranged meetings are as follows: Warren, Sept. 28th; Red Lake Falls September 28th; St. Hilaire September 29th; Goodridge, Septembe 30th; Lancaster, October 4th; Bagley, October 6th.

Mr. Smith says he hopes to have this district thoroughly organized and in smooth running order before the real issues of the campaign come up for discussion and before the candidates visit the district in this section of the state. It is the intention to have every town in the five counties organized and to see that the Harding principle are advocated and pushed in every section of the state. The clubs are being organize in all parts of the state and are sure to have considerable influence in the general election results.

COTTON REDUCED 33 1-3 PER CENT

A reduction of 33 1-3 per cent in the prices of manufactured cotton goods was announced by the Amoskeag Manufacturing company. The present weekly production of the company, which employs 10,000 operatives in its cotton departments, is 4,000,000 yards.

Fears that the cotton market, unsettled because of cancellation of orders, might reach a condition similar to that which forced the closing of the country's woolen departments, is given as the reason for the price reduction.

Please note the reason given, "fear that orders might be cancelled." No moral principle involved, no desire to meet the public fairly in the matter; no spirit of fairness or inclination to ease up a little on profiteering, just a plain proposition to reduce as a matter of policy. Please note again. It was decided to reduce 33 1-3 per cent. It was so decided; the decision must have been made by the market controllers. When she, public woke up and understood that we have got to have and maintain markets in this country and when they care a unit in desire for a square deal, they can get it. Our cannot give it to us. Hording cannot. We can give it to ourselves. These meetings are economic, not political. Our troubles are mostly all at the polls. Let's unite and get relief.

Operated On This Morning.

Mrs. Roy Lambert was operated on this morning at the Physicians Hospital for appendicitis. It will be good news to the many friends of Mrs. Lambert to know that the operation successfully and she is getting along in fine shape.

ANNUAL MEET OF FAIR BOARD HELD SATURDAY

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS COME UP FOR DISCUSSION—ADJOURN TO OCT 8.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the fair association was held last Saturday evening at the Commercial Club rooms and while not much of a definite nature was decided, considerable discussion concerning the activities of the association next year was indulged in and many minor matters straightened up. The report of the secretary and auditing committee was read for 1919 and 1920 and was accepted. The report shows cash on hand, $820.25; money to be received from the state in return for premiums paid, $1,406.50; $256 paid on old accounts, leaving a net total for this year of $8,492.46. The expenditure for year was given as follows: Advertising, $518.97; policing grounds, $164.50; selling tickets and handling gate, $1682.50; clerking of entries, $46.20. The report as read was accepted by the directors. The secretary and president impressed upon the directors the necessity for newspaper advertising and attributed the success of the fair largely to this feature.

The election of officers was held with the following result: Herbert Fuller, president; Albert Johnson, first vice president; Fred Beerbower, second vice president. At this point the secretary's salary for the year of 1920 and 21 was discussed and there seemed to be considerable misunderstanding about the proper amount and as a result this question is still open and will be decided at the adjourned meeting which is called for October 8th. A motion was made and carried that the secretary's salary be placed at $450 for the year. G. Howard Smith was nominated as secretary, but declined the office. The name of L. H. Lawrence was then placed but he also declined the office. It is the contention that the secretary's salary be left open and the same paid according to the receipts and the amount of time devoted to the work. Some of the directors are very much opposed to this and want to set a fixed salary, which should meet with the approval of others. It is the contention of the present secretary that the salary be left open and based on general results. Prior to 1913 the secretary's salary was set at $150 a year. At the 1914 meeting the salary for 1913 was set at $200 and for 1914 at $300. Since that time no set figure has been set but the secretary has been receiving $300. Based upon the increase in the fair receipts the salary should be given a substantial boost. The average business for the years prior to 1920 the two has been around $4,000 During the last two years it has run better than $10,000, a material increase, and in addition the association has paid off all accounts and have a substantial shaving in the way of lands and buildings.

The financial statement for this year, together with that of last year, is published below and shows a very large increase and one in which the entire county can take pride in. It means much work and anxiety on the part of the officers and directors and speaks exceptionally well for the association as a whole. The reports for the two years follow, compare them and note the large increases made.

BIG MEETING OF LOCAL POST HELD FRIDAY

POSSIBILITY OF FORMING WOMEN'S AUXILIARY TO LOCAL POST IS DISCUSSED.

The American Legion meeting last Friday night was well attended by the members of the local post and a great amount of important business was transacted.

The report of the dance committee on the last two dances showed a loss of $9 on the August 20th dance and a profit of $25 on the dance of August 27th.

The report of the committee on the athletic and race meet showed a gross profit of $115 which was divided equally between the local post and the Central Labor Unions of the city.

It was determined at this meeting to have a basket ball team for the coming winter and the men are now getting ready for practice. It was decided to allow the team to select their own manager and treasurer from members of the team, and a selection has been eligible for the duties is now under way and a try-out will be made in a short time.

The dance committee are arranging for a series of six dances to be given thru the coming months, the dates to be announced in the near future.

A committee of five, consisting of L. H., Laurance, chairman, H. O. Chesnic, Laurance, Hermanson, Ed Brevig and Frank McGinnis, were appointed to make arrangements, for a meeting of the mothers, wives, and sisters of the ex-service men for the purpose of forming a woman's auxiliary to the local post. The date and place of the meeting will be an nounced in a few days. If it is desired, an auxiliary will be formed and officers elected.

ERECTION OF BUILDING FOR WOMAN'S DEPT.

MATTER TO BE TAKEN UP AT ADJOURNED MEETING OF THE FAIR BOARD.

The fair association have so far decided nothing on the erection of a women's building on the fair grounds. At the last meeting, held Saturday, so many matters of importance came up for consideration that this important question was sidetracked for the time being, but undoubtedly will come up at the adjourned meeting, to be held Friday evening, October 8th. It is the desire of practically every person in the county that this building be erected. It is highly important and one that should be given all consideration by the association.

The part taken by the women of the county in the success of the loca fair is not a small one and it is quite necessary that the association take this into consideration and lay plans for the erection of a woman's building before the fair opens next year. It is a move that might come sooner or later and is one that cannot be postponed and ultimately forgotten or ignored.

The next meeting of the stockholders will decide this question and it is to be hoped they will see the importance of the building and report favorably on this project.

OCTOBER 2ND TO BE BIG DAY IN THIS CITY

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR AND LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR TO SPEAK HERE SATURDAY

Jake Preus, Republican candidate for governor, and Louis L. Collins, candidate for lieutenant governor, one of the most popular pairs of campaigners who ever went on the stump in this state, will speak at Thief River Falls at 8 p.m. on October 2nd.

During their whirlwind tour of Minnesota before the June primaries, Preus and Collins were voted the most interesting speakers that the voters have listened to in many years.

Elaborate plans are being made for the entertainment of the distinguished visitors, details of which will be announced in this paper later.

As a result of his years of faithful service to the state, Preus needs little introduction locally. As insurance commissioner, state auditor and executive clerk to former Gov. A. O. Eberhart, he has made hosts of friends and his peculiar and intimate knowledge of Minnesota's needs fit him admirably for the post of governor.

While a newcomer in politics, Collins is widely known because of the record he made during the great war, and among the service men he is an idol. No man in the famous 151st Field artillery is better or more favorably known. His father, the late Judge Loren W. Collins, served with distinction for 17 years on the supreme bench of Minnesota.

Preus will make the principal address at each stop and his talk will be supplemented by brief remarks from Collins.

On that score, the candidates are traveling by motor car whenever feasible but when road and weather conditions are unfavorable they are using trains.

VISIT THEIR FARM HOLDINGS IN AN AEROPLANE

TWO BROTHERS FROM MADISON, WIS., STOP OVER HERE ON TRIP NORTH

The fact that we are living in an extremely fast age was demonstrated on Sunday when an airplane lighted in the city for a breathing spell and the two passengers, Conant and Conant of Madison, Wisconsin, stepped out of the plane and took a few minutes rest before proceeding on their journey.

The two brothers left their home at Madison on Sunday morning and stopped at Minneapolis where they had lunch, making the trip from that city to Thief River Falls in three hours. They were on their way to look at land they own north of Mistdie River and after leaving here made the trip to their farm in 20 minutes. They remained there over Sunday and late Monday afternoon started back, stopping here for the night and leaving this morning at six o'clock for Minneapolis.

The entire trip from Madison, Wisconsin, to their farm was made in a little more than six hours and in that time stops were made for lunch and gasoline. From Minneapolis to this city one stop was made for fuel, as they only carry two and one-half hours supply. They had very favorable weather for their trip coming up as the wind was to their back and the same thing is true today, except the weather is much cooler and will call for heavy clothing.

The plane is owned by the brothers and is driven by them. While here they had the machine looked over to make sure they were traveling safely and later proceeded on their journey.

Visiting over the country for two or three hundred miles in a few short hours is nothing uncommon and to hop across country for six or eight hundred miles to look over one's farm in an airplane seems to be the coming custom. It is getting so easy to trek about the country at a rapid rate of speed that a few hundred miles is nothing and time is the least of all considerations in a long trip.

The Presbyterian Aid Society

will be entertained by Mrs. Christ Christenson at her home at 415 Main Ave. North, on Friday afternoon, October 1st. Lunch will be served at 1 o'clock. Everyone welcome. Come early.

For Service Men.

The banks of the city will keep a full supply of blanks on hand for all service men desiring to fill them out to receive their victory medals. Notaries will also be on hand and will attend to anything in this line free of all charge to service men. There are several men in the county who have failed to fill out the blanks and it is the desire of the secretary of the local post of the American Legion to have every man in the county attend to this regardless of whether or not he is a member of the American Legion. This applies to every service man in the entire county.

T. P. Anderson, of this city, left on Monday evening for Minneapolis on a brief business trip.

FUEL SITUATION HARD PROBLEM TO FIGURE OUT

STATEMENTS ISSUED CAUSE A SHORTAGE ONE DAY AND PLENTY THE NEXT

The fuel situation in Thief River Falls looks a trifle blue at times and the public is led to believe there is to be a serious shortage and that fuel will be hard to procure. Again the information is given out that there will be fuel and that there is no cause for alarm, and as a result the public is continually kept on the fence regarding the matter and wonder if they are to secure enough fuel to keep from freezing the coming winter.

The situation as it now stands does look a trifle blue but there is every assurance that the northwest is going to be taken care of. Nothing but criminal negligence will keep this section out of coal and as there is sufficient coal mined to take care of the entire country the scare about the shortage is all uncalled for and should be discontinued. At the present time dealers find it hard to take care o forders and shipments are alsmighty slow, but when it comes to the real pinch there will be fuel and it is unnecessary for the public to become excited over the matter and to rush headlong into a panic.

In the opinion of some of the local dealers here is plenty of coal, the shipment of which is being held back to keep the price booming and to make the public buy whether they are ready or not. Certain authorities regarding fuel should call for stirct investigation and it is certain that if such investigation were made the largest and most unprincipled lot of operators the country has known for many years will be found at the bottom of the coal pile. And now with the big guns at the other end of the line—the local dealers are as hard pressed as any.

DEMOS OF CITY HOLD MEETING TO ORGANIZE

MEET LAST NIGHT FOR PURPOSE OF ORGANIZING CITY FOR CAMPAIGN

The democrats of this city held a meeting last evening in the office of E. M. Stanton and while the attendance was not overwhelming in numbers the difference was made up in enthusiasm and rounds, talking to task those of different faith.

The source of information The Tribune has been forced to rely upon is rather varied in its character. Most of the prominent democrats of the city when questioned state they were not at the meeting, and the chairman of the meeting, Judge E. M. Stanton, stated positively this morning that there was no meeting held and that he did not have any "dope" to offer in connection therewith.

Others when questioned closely admitted they were at the meeting, and one went so far as to state it was a large and enthusiastic meeting and that there were not chairs or room enough to go round. Another admitted he was there but left before the meeting was over and in fact did not know of anything that was done but was under the impression that Mr. Stanton has named his committees and that the organization was now in working order and was ready to step forth and do its duty. All of this Mr. Stanton denies.

It is expected that T. J. Austad of the Times will be named as president of the organization and that a full amount of dignity will predominate the organization.

ALL MINNESOTA JOINS HANDS WITH THE SALVATION ARMY IN HOME SERVICE WORK

Citizens of State Pledged To Raise $268,050 for Maintenance of Institutions And Extension of Work in Rural Districts—Week of October 11 to October 18 Set Aside for Financial Program —Startling Conditions of Social Disorders Revealed. Every County Helping.

Minnesota, together with twenty-three other states in the Middle west, has launched its 1920 Home Service Financial Program for the Salvation Army. The apportionment for this state has been set at $268,050, and members of the County Advisory Boards in 80 Minnesota counties are already perfecting plans for local participation.

Every township and every school district will be actively represented. All counties have received their apportionments from the State budget, and from present indications and enthusiasm every county will reach its goal.

The week of October 11th to October 18th has been set aside for the furtherance of the financial phase of the program.

"With little more than two weeks remaining before the Fund raising campaign is undertaken, it is urged that nothing be left undone to raise the entire state apportionment, so that the work of the Salvation Army may be carried on successfully in the rural districts of the State as well as in the cities," said Henry C. Hanks, Chairman of the State Advisory Board, today.

The state budget of $268,050 is the lowest to be submitted to the people of Minnesota in Salvation Army history. With more than 100 prominent citizens actively representing the Salvation Army in the various counties, it means that Minnesota is now ready to assume the temporary burden of caring for the Salvation Army's needs during the next year.

The Salvation Army is already functioning in the rural districts, its county advisory boards have referred scores of cases requiring immediate attention to Army headquarters, and many of them have been satisfactorily disposed of.

The 1920 Home Service Program calls for the fullest utilization of the sixteen major activities of the Army in every corner of the State.

Confidential studies from 60 Minnesota counties sent to Divisional Headquarters in Minneapolis by the county advisory boards, disclose an urgent need for the service the Salvation Army is giving and which it expects to continue to give.

The following figures will give some indication why the Salvation Army has deemed it necessary to carry on its Home Service Program and why it wants the united co-operation of Minnesota citizens:

Digest of the Confidential Reports of 60 Minnesota Counties, relative to local conditions as ascertained by Salvation Army Advisory Boards:

|---|---|
| Number of total dependents, Men and Women (53 counties reporting)... | 3,225 |
| Total county expenditures, Maintenance and Relief (48 counties reporting)... | $240,871.23 |
| Desertions of Families, Husband or Wife (54 counties reporting)... | 226 |
| Juveniles reported to county officials (47 counties reporting)... | 1562 |
| Delinquents sent to reform schools or institutions (54 counties reporting) | 460 |
| Juveniles reported by Salvation Army Boards as needing homes immediately (57 counties reporting)... | 39 |
| Illegitimate births very incomplete. Conservative estimates only (60 counties reporting)... | 1252 |
| Missing persons (53 counties reporting)... | 1195 |

County officials and physicians, members of advisory boards, are a unity in declaring that maternity cases, immoral relationship and crimes against young girls are numerous and on the increase. Judges deplore the fact there are but few places, inadequate in numbers or size, where girls may be sent who appear before them on the charge of street walking or solicitation.

"From these disclosures we know that practically every community in Minnesota needs the Salvation Army, and with the success of the Financial Program, the counties may rest assured that the Army will do its utmost to effect a cure for the many social evils," said Colonel William S. Barker, divisional commander of the Army, in discussing the 1920 Home Service Program.

Among the institutions of the Army which are placed at the service of Minnesota citizens are:

St. Paul Rescue and Maternity Home, Minneapolis Industrial Home for men, St. Paul Industrial Home for men. Working Men's Hotel and Club in St. Paul. Working Men's Hotel and Club in Minneapolis. Men's Hotel in St. Paul, Missing Friends Bureau, Anti-suicide bureau, and 36 Salvation Army Corps throughout the state. The new budget calls for the erection of a Central Headquarters building and Women's hotel in Minneapolis.

White Mule.

Dixon H. Bynum, assistant city attorney, comes forward with an explanation as to how "white mule" got its name. Mr. Bynum, who did government legal work in the southwest, says that the term came into use in connection with the efforts of the government officials to stop the traffic of liquor among the Indians.

Whenever an Indian was caught with liquor, he invariably told the same story as to how he got it.

Good Advice.

"Crosby," the veteran correspondent of the Downs News, gives this bit of free medical advice to boys and girls who are troubled with sore lips: "When I was a boy I always had sore lips. One day an old woman told me to turn my bread butter side down when I ate—every bite I ate for three weeks, I followed her advice, and I have never had a sore lip from that day to this. It doesn't cost a penny for this drug."

Whereas, the constitution and by-laws of the American Legion provide for a strict neutrality on the part of the American Legion or its posts in all disputes between capital and labor and

Whereas, it has been brought to our notice that some posts of the American Legion have been in some manner engaged in disputes between capital and labor, which said participation is against the constitution and by-laws of said American Legion.

Therfore, be it resolved that Elmer J. Be it further resolved, that we most highly commend the attitude and action of the American Federation of Labor during the World War and that we go on record as being in sympathy with the rights of labor to organize and their right to collective bargaining and that we do not believe it is within the jurisdiction of any post in the American Legion to consider a question of doing strike duty and that if such a proposition were presented to Elmer J. Dedication of Memorial.

The dedication of the Northwest School Soldiers and Sailors memorial, opening and dedicating of the new $125,000 inning hall and the opening of the first piece of hard surfaced country road in northwestern Minnesota on Tuesday, October 5th, promises to make that day one of the most eventful in the history of the school, particularly if the weather man is kind and provides weather that will permit of automobiling.

The alumni of the school have raised the entire funds for the erection of the memoiral among themselves as a token of appreciation to those of their fellow attendants at the school who answered their country's call in the great war and particularly to those whose fortune it was to go to the great beyond in the performance of their service. Appropriate services will mark the unveiling and dedication.

The new dining hall will add the facilities to the institution that will enable it to enroll the material number more of students and thus serve the Red River valley to fuller extent. It has to the present been necessary to make use of the lower floor of one of the dormitories for dining room purposes. An increase in attendance from 31 the year of the opening of the school to 299 in 1920 clearly indicates the measure in which the school is extending its service and the need of the additional facilities.

The opening of the new roadway, now named University Road, and extending from the school to the city limits of Crookston, will be made the occasion for commemorating the advancement of the good roads movement in Minnesota. On this roadway each county of the territory the school normally serves will have a section assigned to it for the occasion and arrangements are already under way by committees in the majority of the counties for displays that will portray some of the outstanding claims of the respective counties. A monster motor parade is being arranged which will pass over this road on its way to the school. Positions on the roadway have been given the various counties by lot drawings, so that the parade will, in effect, pass through one county after another on its triumphant way to the Northwest School.

The two latter features of the day, the dedication of the dining hall and the opening of the new road, mark the accomplishment of two aims for which Superintendent Selvig has long and earnestly striven and the entire valley will view the day as an opportunity for expressing its loyalty to the school, its faculty and its indomitable head.

TWO MINUTE TALKS TO AMERICANS.

THE POWER TO PRESERVE AMERICA

By HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE, Governor of Massachusetts.

The power to preserve America is in the same hands today that it was when the German army was almost at the gates of Paris. That power is with the people themselves, not one class but all classes, not one occupation but all occupations, not one citizen but all citizens. Our great need now is more of everything for everybody. It is not true that the nation or the world needs today but the products of labor. These products are to be secured only by the united effort of all citizens. The trained business man and the humblest workman must each contribute. All of us must work and in that work there should be cooperation. There must be more food, more clothing and more shelter. The directors of industry must direct it more efficiently. The workers in industry must work in it more efficiently. The power to preserve America with all that it now means to the world; all the great hope that it holds for humanity, lies in the hands of the people.

How can our people be made strong. Only as they draw their strength from our industries. How can they do that? Only by building up our industries and making them strong. When they fail all fails. When they prosper all prosper. Workingmen's compensation, hours and conditions of labor are cold specifications if there be no employment and employment can be had only if some one finds it profitable. The greater the profit the greater the investments of wages, taxes and returns to investors. Justice and the general welfare go hand in hand. The cause of America is the cause of education. Education with a soul, a trained intellect but guided ever by an enlightened conscience. Prosperity abounds but the great promise of the future lies in the loyalty and devotion of the people to their own government. They are firm in the conviction of their fathers that liberty is increased only by increasing the determination to support a government of the people as established and defended by its patriotic sons.

The flags of the great empires of the past are gone but the stars and stripes remain. It pictures the vision of a people whose eyes were turned to the rising sun. It represents the hope of a father for his posterity. It was never flaunted for the glory of royalty, but to be born under it is to be a child of a king, and to establish a home under it is to be the founder of a royal house. He who lives under it and is loyal to truth and justice everywhere. He who lives under it and is disloyal to it is a traitor to the human race everywhere.

Great Men Actuated by Dreams.

Almost all the great characters of Herodotus believed that dreams were of supernatural origin. Kings resigned their sceptors, Cambyses assassinated his brother, priests attained great powers as commanders, cities which had been destroyed were restored by men who changed their plans and performed these acts because warned, as they supposed, in dreams, and with the invasion of Greece by Xerxes such night visions had much to do.

Odd Wedding Arrangements.

A young professor of physical culture married a beautiful and athletic pupil of his in the suburbs of Paris. The couple appeared before the mayor in tennis costume, and after the ceremony the wedding party sat down to breakfast on the banks of the Seine. Hardly was the coffee finished when, on a given signal, the whole party retired and reappeared in bathing costume. Later the couple started on a bicycle tour for a honeymoon.

Women Now Eligible to V. C.

A royal warrant consolidating and extending provisional royal warrants regarding the Victoria Cross was published recently in the London Gazette. The principal feature is that women are now made eligible for decoration, it being ordained that matrons, sisters, nurses and the staff of the nursing services and other services pertaining to hospitals and nursing, and civilians of either sex serving regularly or temporarily under the orders, direction or supervision of any of the armed forces of the crown, shall be eligible to the cross.

Different Thermometric Scales.

The scale employed by a thermometer is indicated by one of the initial letters, F., C., R., or by the name, Fahrenheit, Centigrade, Reaumur. The degrees of one thermometric scale are readily converted into those of another. Following is their relationship: 180 degrees F. equals 100 degrees C, equals 80 degrees R. Therefore 1 degree F. equals five-ninths of a degree C., equals four-ninths of a degree R.

ONE BOOM DEFLATED.

Akron, Ohio, is the greatest automobile tire town in the worl. It makes more than one-third of all the tires used in this country. It has been, of late, one of the most spectacular boom towns in America. In ten years, from 1910 to 1920, its population grew from 69,000 to 208,000. New tire factories sprang up like mushrooms. Production was multiplied at a dizzy rate. Tire manufacturing stock assumed remarkable speculative values. The whole town reflected the speculative fever. Everybody made money and spent money wildly.

Recently that boom has been collapsing. Tightened credit, a poor motoring summer and general business slacking are held responsible. Since June 1, perhaps 40,000 rubber workers have been laid off. A railroad official estimates that 28,000 people left Akron in one week. Akron has lost in three months about one-fourth of its population. Akron business men are gloomy.

But the situation is not all gloom. One manufacturer says: "It gives us a chance to catch our breath. We have been going too fast. And if it stops the plunging on tires, it will be better for everybody concerned."

Another remarks: "The factories are getting more efficiency out of the employes who have remained at work. Only the best men have been retained. That has disposed of the irresponsible type that had to be tolerated when business was good."

Another, asked where the departed workers had gone, replies: "Back to the farms where they came from—the farms of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and ofarther south. A year ago the farmers of this whole section were crying their heads off. Now you don't hear a peep. They are no neglected farms around here now."

Citizens with moderate incomes find considerable satisfaction in the reduction of rents, in many cases to half their boom rates, and in a marked cheapening of clothing, food and nearly everything else.

"This is only a temporrry lull," says one of the optimists. "Cars have got to have tires and there are more cars all the time. Things will start up again before long, but they will stare on a better, sounder, saner basis."

Very likely he is right. It is a good thing, in the long run, to deflate "booms." That is forth remembering as other speculative cities and industries in their turn suffer the inevitable deflation.

PLAYS LOSING GAME.

McSwiney may think he can do more for Ireland freedom by committing suicide, but we doubt it. He would be just as big a martyr if he "served" his term and in the meantime a man of his ability is needed to give advice and direct Ireland's fight for independence. There seems to be a wide difference of opinion in Ireland about what character of "freedom" should be granted to Ireland, but the American people, very few of them, are familiar with the real facts in the case. Those of Ireland who want independence present a good case and the English government presents another side which looks reasonable to a lot of people, and there you are. Take your choice. Perhaps the question will become more familiar to the American people as time goes on.

If the north one-third of Ireland pays two-thirds of the taxes and does not want home rule, why would it not be a good thing to cut off the south two-thirds and divide the country into two little republics and recognize the independence of both classes? Of course, England does not want to give up the control of Ireland in case of war and that is another sticker with the English government.

IS THIS WHAT MR. ROOT EXPECTS?

This view of Mr. Root's plans and specifications for a League-born and League-nourished and League-sustained Court of International Law has the eminent authority of the chief newspaper organ of the Wilson League of Nations, namely the New York World:

"We may have very little to say about it. If the Root court is set up by the League of Nations we shall have to accept its decisions whether we are a member or not. What the court says is international law will be international law, and what we say to the contrary will avail little."

And again:

"The real question in regard to this court is whether the United States as a member of the League will have a hand in naming the judges, or whether, because of its refusal to join the League it will have no voice whatever, but will be subject to the court's findings."

Have to accept its findings whether we are a member or not? Have no voice whatever, but will be subject to the court's findings? So that is the theory of the League-born court's scope and jurisdiction and coercive authority ascertained by the principal Democratic defender and eulogist of the Wilson-made covenant upon which Mr. Elihu Root, a Republican, would superimpose the Draft-Scheme of an International Tribunal?

If Mr. Root holds any such sentiment or cherishes any such expectations as are here attributed to him by his journalistic colaborer in the field of international jurisprudence, then not only all sympathy with the spirit of the political age and the genius of Republicanism in 1920 has departed from him, but also the clarity of perception and the exquisite of judgement which used to distinguish his intellectual processes.

For if correctly represented by the World in this particular, Mr. Root is proposing to the American people a supergovernment by judiciary a thousand times more offensive and a thousand miles nearer to impossibility than the supergovernment of executive and legislature which the American people are now indignantly rejecting in the shape of the Wilson covenant of the League of Nations.

If the World understands the true inwardness of the Root proposal, he is now asking us to join in the establishment of a court whose decrees shall supersede and annul those of our highest constitutional tribunal, the Supreme Court of the United States.

And if the World understands the Root plan, that distinguished jurist and former American nationalist is actually tendering the American people, in case they refuse to join the League, with the subjection of their persons and properties, whether they like it or not, and the subordination of their courts and judges to the superior authority of an aline tribunal not mentioned in the constitutionfwy not mentioned in our Constitution and unrecognized by any treaty that the United States shall have ratified.

How does the American palate relish that prospect?

MR. PREUS OUR REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

By Hon. Knute Nelson in the Osakis Review.

"Preus" is a German name. The Norwegian ancestors of this family came from Germany via Denmark nearly two hundred years ago. There have been many prominent and gifted men among the Preus' in Norway. In 1850 to 1851 the Rev. Herman A. Preus, a graduate of the University of Norway and the grandfather of our candidate for governor, came to America and settled in Columbia county, Wisconsin, and at once took up the work of the ministry among the Norwegian pioneers in that county. He was a pioneer preacher and did pioneer work in organizing and establishing many churches throughout Wisconsin and the adjoining northwestern states. In the middle fifties he was one of the chief men engaged in organizing the leading synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church in America, of which he soon became the presiding officer and continued as such till the time of his death. One of his sons, Prof. C. K. Preus, a native of Wisconsin and now president of Luther College, Iowa, is the father of our candidate, who is also a native of Wisconsin.

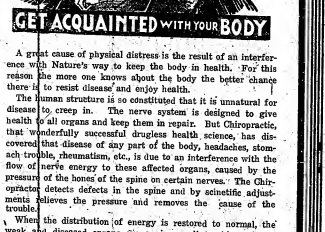
Our candidate, Mr. J. A. O. Preus, is a college graduate, has studied law and been admitted to the bar and has had considerable experience in the public service. He served several years at Washington as assistant secretary to Senator Nelson and then became executive clerk to Governor Eberhart. From this he was promoted to Insurance Commissioner and finally in 1914 became state auditor. In all these places of trust he has proved himself of fine executive ability, very efficient, entirely trustworthy and reliable and scrupulously honest. There is no other place in which a man can be so thoroughly informed of the economic, fiscal and financial affairs of our state as in the office of state auditor, where a record is kept of all the business transactions of the state. Our state will be fortunate in getting such a trained, tried, efficient and reliable man for governor. Few of the former governors have come into the office with such experience and preliminary training in public affairs as our candidate. No one who has the welfare of the state at heart can find a valid ground for opposing such a candidate. How much better to have such a man in the executive chair, than one who has had no experience in public affairs and knows nothing about the fiscal, financial and industrial business of the state.

Such an endorsement by our beloved and grand old man, Senator Knute Nelson, is worth more than the honor of the governorship. Mr. Preus is fortunate indeed. He has the full confidence of Senator Nelson and all his friends and in addition he is to be honored with the governorship of the great state of Minnesota.

With Mrs. J. J. Richter as president and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson secretary, the success of the Women's Republican Club is assured. Mrs. Richter's ability as an organizer. She has made a success of many undertakings and has been on most of the important committees in War Work, Civic Work, charity and other activities. When an organization is to be formed among the women of Thief River Falls, the secretaryship is just naturally is attracted apparently to Mrs. Bottleson. There is a reason. The reason is Mrs. Bottleson and her ability and efficiency. The Women's Republican Club was a success when these two most capable women were named. Committees will be named and plans perfected at an early date. The club will probably show at the Preus-Collins meeting, October 2nd.

We sincerely trust that every man and woman in Thief River Falls may go to the Auditorium Saturday evening, October 2nd, to hear the Republican candidate for governor, Hon. Jake Preus. Mr. Preus, though a young man, has been in public life in Minnesota for many years. He is an honest man, an able man and an experienced public official. He is the candidate of a united Republican party and will without doubt be our next governor. Mr. Preus was at one time secretary for Senator Knute Nelson, in Washington. He has enjoyed the confidence and received the advice of Senator Nelson during all these years. The endorsement of Senator Nelson ordinarily is all the guarantee a Minnesota constituency asks. They accept it and act upon it with complacent confidence. In Mr. Preus we have not only a protege of Senator Nelson, but a young man who has made his way in public life in Minnesota. He has gained and advanced and progressed, till by the very force of public approval he was called to the governorship by the voters (not the politicians) of his party. The speech Saturday evening gives us an opportunity to hear Mr. Preus in his first indoor opening speech of the campaign. Pennington county had a big part, by the way, in the Preus nomas our candidate. No one who has the welfare of the state at heart can find a valid ground for opposing such a candidate. How much better to have such a man in the executive chair, than one who has had no experience in public affairs and knows nothing about the fiscal, financial and industrial business of the state.

Such an endorsement by our beloved and grand old man, Senator Knute Nelson, is worth more than the honor of the governorship. Mr. Preus is fortunate indeed. He has the full confidence of Senator Nelson and all his friends and in addition he is to be honored with the governorship of the great state of Minnesota.



election that the canvassing boards will be delayed at least a day counting them. We look for delayed returns on account of the Collins surplus vote. While we are "looking them over," we are proud on this occasion to have our mayor, Honorable John Bratrud, on the bill and a part of the show. Mr. Bratrud will preside and introduce the speakers, Preus! Collins! Bratrud! Music by the band! Women's Republican Club! Young Men's Republican Club! Some show! Come and see it.

Mrs. Severance, in her speech last Friday, paid a glowing tribute to the ability of Mrs. J M Bishop and completmented her on her wonderful work as Republican headquarters in St. Paul, where she occupies the highest position of responsibility. Mrs. Severance was most emphatic in her recommendation of Mrs. Bishop. This was gratifying to the friends here. We knew it all the time, but we like to hear it just the same.

Chairman William Michelet of the Republican County Central Committee is some busy man this week. He is making elaborate arrangements for the big meeting for the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, at the Auditorium Saturday evening. Mr. Preus and Mr. Michelet have been close personal friends for many years and William takes a personal pride in helping to prepare a proper reception for his friend on this occasion. Dr. Melby and H. S. Dahlen are also school friends and ardent admirers of our candidate for Governor. Fred Scanlon and Harold Provencher served with Corporal Collins in the same battalion in France. They will be on the job also. It will be like a regular home coming for Preus and Collins, when they visit the Power City.

Henceforth historians will be obliged to discriminate betwe:n several armistices—all resulting from the many wars under the League of Nations to "maintain peace."

Judge Nick Tarrant has on display a bushel of the finest Burbank potatoes we have ever seen. They are smooth, firm and perfect. He raised 145 bushels on three-fourths of an acre. The judge always raises a good garden the year of presidential election. Mrs. Tarrant is a Republican In the fast she has had the best of the argument, so the judge has wished to be alone in the garden much of the time This year, with suffrage assured, Mrs. Tarrant has not only had the best of the argument, but she rubs it in about that tie vote in the family. The result has been much garden work and a bumper crop of potatoes for the genial Judge.

A great cause of physical distress is the result of an interference with Nature's way to keep the body in health. For this reason the more one knows about the body the better chance there is to resist disease and enjoy health.

The human structure is so constituted that it is unnatural for disease to creep in. The nerve system is designed to give health to all organs and keep them in repair. But Chiropractic, that wonderfully successful drugless health science, has discovered that disease of any part of the body, headaches, stomach trouble, rheumatism, etc., is due to an interference with the flow of nerve energy to these affected organs, caused by the pressure of the bones of the spine on certain nerves. The Chiropractor detects defects in the spine and by scinetific adjustments relieves the pressure and removes the cause of the trouble.

When the distribution of energy is restored to normal, the weak and diseased organs are again supplied with sufficient power and the natural healing forces build up and strengthen them. Helth follows naturally. Every progressive, thinking man and woman should know about

WORSE THAN LIGHTED CIGAR

As a result of absent-mindedness in his Fourth of July celebrating, Osip Saloneki, 33, of West Denver lost several teeth and is carrying his face in a sling.

Osip stood on the corner, smoking a cigaret and watching with interest the youngsters shoot off their explosives. Suddenly a desire to be young, real young, once more assailed him, and, stalking up to a near-by booth, he purchased a whole fistful of firecrackers. Stepping to the edge of the curb, he cautiously spilled the end of his lighted cigaret to the fuse of one of the crackers. A sputter and a volley of little sparks announced that the salute was on the way. Then Osip's mentality failed to function properly. With a quick movement he slammed his cigaret into the street and jammed the end of the firecracker into his mouth. A terrific crash, which disengaged three front teeth and bespeckled his face with powder burns, brought Osip to the conclusion that it was not just as it should be. He made a run for the nearest drug store, and he emerged a few moments later reeking with the fumes of iodine and his face and neck swathed in bandages, and he looked much like an accident that had gone somewhere to happen and, apparently, had been a success. — Denver Times.

TOO MANY HUMAN "ISLANDS"

Lack Power of Expression to Communicate Thoughts So That Others Can Understand.

You are a human island, if you cannot express your thoughts so others can understand them, says Ruth Carolyn Watties of the Colorado agricultural college. If your mood is one of appreciation at grandeur and beauty, and you say, "Gee, ain't it gorgeous?" If in gazing at the Grand canan, yan say, "Ain't it cute?" yan are not in communication with your fellows; yan are an island, a man entirely surrounded by men, but nat in connection with them.

If in speaking to a group of soldiers yau discuss, "that combination of proteins, albumens and other food substances which scientists have determined is the most conducive to health and vigar," your connection is paor. Say "chaw" or "coss" if your aim is ta be understood.

If yau have an adjective but "awful" to apply to a dinner, a mountain, a hat, an accident, the new styles, the European war, your wives are dawn. Yau cannat express thoughts an all these subjects to your fellow humans by use of the one ward "awful." If it is your daily adjective, keep quiet; your silence may indicate an appreciation which your one adjective fails to express.

Are your wires dawn? Are you an island?

Will Not Let Women Pay.

K. U. men are hapelessly old-fashioned. The 50-50 idea, that is, that a girl pay for half the treats, which was started recently in an eastern nniversity, did not appeal to them when it was discussed the other day.

A woman may work and by her efficiency earn as much as a man, but if she pay far ane-half the treats she takes away the divine right of man, opinion had it.

Pride was nat the anly thing that influenced them. A man must shaulder responsibility through life so it is well for him to start early. The idea of protection of women extends even to paying far the sundaes she consumes.

It was the general opinion that if girls would realize that the resnrces of most men are not unlimited, there would not be any occasion for thinking about this matter.—Summer Session Kansan.

Porcelain Money.

A new element may be intradnced into the field of numismatics by the proposal to issne porcelain money throughout Germany. With this purpose in view, a Meissen porcelain factory has already manufactured specimens of coins ranging from 10 pfennig to 5 mark pieces. How successful the new proposal will be remains to be seen. Its adoption would mark an interesting branch with the traditional use of gold, silver, and bronze; and the well-known formulas, A, AR and AE, of the catalogues would have to be supplemented. Apart from the occasional employment of electrum, billan: brass, and potin, iron in the Falopnnesus, and glass far coin weights in Afrika, the three established metals, in their varying forms, have rarely been challenged.

Modern Tanning Inferior.

Commenting on an article by Robert G. Skerrett on the tanning of leather, the Scientific American says: "The modern art of tanning falls short of the standards set in days gone by. It used to take two years to convert 'green' hide into marketable leather; the madern tanner thinks that ha is doing well if he devotes five months to the process. No chemical process has been developed of speeding up the process without detracting from the quality of the product."

Overworking a Proverb.

"Father," said the small boy, "what is a profiteer?"

"A profiteer, my son, is a man who runs across the proverb, 'Make hay while the sun shines' and overworks it."

TOWN LIVES WITHIN ITSELF

Selbo, on the Island of Santo Domingo, Entirely Without Accommodation for Travelers.

The town of Selbo, on the island of Santo Domingo, notorious for its bandit tribes, is one of the few communities on the island that has no hotel accommodations. The unbefriended stranger finding nothing but miserable thatched huts with nests on three legs for beds, and a ragged old negro crone for a servant. Selbo is the most out-of-the-way astonished-at-strangers, unacquainted-with-the-world town of any size that can be found in the West Indies. Though a large detachment of United States marines camp at its gates, bandit-threatened door, the people show unbounded surprise to see American civilians. Groups of almost resplendently dressed men lounge in the streets, yet the town itself is little above a village.

A curious old church, a part of it built 400 years ago, on the top of which is the marine wireless station, is the only building of importance. From the top of this church Selbo is seen to be surrounded by low hills, everywhere wooded, without a hut outside its compact mass, described by Harry A. Franck in the Century Magazine, as having "its skirts drawn up like those of a nervous old maid in constant dread of mice." The town also has this proverbial garrison house that seems like a fort of the medieval ages.

BEYOND THE POWER OF MAN

Vainly Does He Attempt to Still a Woman's Tongue or Stop Her Garrulous Fingers.

A woman's tale—assuming almost to a genius—for letting her husband know that he is not much of a fellaw in her estimation, would seem to be seriously impaired when she happens ta be a deaf mute. But, according to the testimony submitted in a divorce case filed in court recently, feminine loquacity refuses to admit any handicap in this oldest of all games. She annayed him in the sign language.

The husband, being merely a man, did nat adopt the simple expedient of tying her hands together when he wanted a little sani quiet. He failed to have recourse to the obvious expedient of shutting his eyes when she fingered to him that she thaught he was the biggest donkey in creation.

Thus he proved once more that man truly is a creature of a lower arder. He can build ships and fight wars, till the soil and manage big industries, but when it comes to stopping a woman's tongue or her garrulous fingers, he is nat there.—Detroit News.

Up-to-Date Lone Jack.

Confining himself to an actual hat of community calamities, Mayar King of Lane Jack, Ma., reasans convincingly that the blowing up of the local electric light plant, the quitting of his job by the jitney bus driver, the departure from the midst of them of the sole barber and the robbery of the local bank—all in a short space of time—indicate the secret arrival of a jinx in town and a high-pressure distribution of his malign influence. But it is to be observed that 25 per cent of Lone Jack's ills is due to preventable accident and 25 per cent to crime of unusual magnitude and daring, while 50 per cent is due to labar troubles.

Life within Lone Jack is anly typical of the larger life outside of Lone Jack. It is a cross section of a status prevailing in the entire country; indeed, throughout the world. Lane Jack is just up to date.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Rudyard Kipling's Autograph.

They say that a bank check bearing the signature of Rudyard Kipling fetches a bigger price for its autograph than for the amaunt of maney named in the check. Probably much depends on the size of the check. A distinguished poet of Bastan ance sent a poetic contribution to a well-known periadical. It was promptly accepted and published and in due course he received a check for $3 for it. Instead of cashing the check he had it mounted, framed and hung up in his library far the edification and amusement of his friends. Possibly Mr. Kipling may have had similar experience to verify the current item about the autographic and cast value of checks sent to him. —Baston Globe.

Overeducated.

"It was too much education that landed me here, mum," said the burglar to the visitor at the penitentiary. "I had an assistant who was born in Boston. One night we had a good second-story job, but he queered the whole thing at the last minute."

"How do you mean?" asked the visitor.

"When I told him to climb up the down spaut to get the swag out of the second story he said: 'I refuse to do anything so paradoxical,' and just then the copper woke up and collared us."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Acidity of the Stomach.

The commonly received belief that too acid gastric juice is the cause of ulcer of the stomach has been absolutely disproved. Dr. Frank Smithies in his address as chairman of the section on gastro-enterology, American Medical association, summed up this proof. Such ulcers have been found when the gastric juice was either absent or lacking in acidity, others have healed in the face of great hyperacidity.

WOMEN'S LUNCHEON AT THE EVELYN HOTEL

The Republican luncheon at the Evelyn Hotel Friday afternoon was the high spot event o fthe 1920 campaign. The program was arranged in detail an carried out without a hitch or rough spot. Chairman Effie Hamry and her most able and loyal ward chairmen, Miss Marie Nelsan, Mrs. L. H. Lawrence, Mrs. Andrew Battlegson and Mrs. T. P Anderson, all took part, each one with a definite assignment and each one registered one hundred per cent efficient. Mrs. Severance gave a dignified, able, scholarly and plain talk, full of facts, easy to understand and most impressive, because her statements were accepted and believed by her audience. Mrs. Severance is a convincing talker. She convinces her audience with the fact that she knows what she is talking about, that she knows her subject and she is speaking the plain and positive truth. The Republican women, under the leadership of Miss Hamry are placing republicanism on a dignified basis in this community. They have earnestness, a desire to do the right thing and they are doing it. Miss Hamry deserves the compliments she received from every one far her splendid management of this most notable gathering of Republican women.

This is Preus week in northwestern Minnesota. Mr. Preus has honared Thief River Falls with his first evening speech af the campaign, at the Auditorium, Saturday evening, October2nd, at 8 p. m.

COX SOFTSOAPS JOHNSON

"Jimmie" Cox was out in California the other day and gave Senator Hiram Johnsan a lat af saft snap. He even had the gall to believe that because Johnsan had been defeated for the republican namination that same demacratic camauflage would influence him. Nat sa with Johnsan. He is just big enaugh to see thru these demacratic tricks, and the next day he promptly gave aut a long interview urging everybody to support Senator Harding far president. Reparts fram California indicate that the Golden State will ga far Harding by at least 100,000 and perhaps by a larger majarity. Yau are nat going to fool Califarnia folks this time by any "the kept us aut af war" promises."

INVENTOR OF INCOME TAX

The real inventor af aur modern income tax was ane af those unbudgesslike doers of Oriel college, at whom it has long been the custam to scaff far being "children" in financial affairs. This unpapular jaupast was suggested in Pitt by Dr. Henry Beeke, a fellaw of Oriel and professor af modern history at Oxford, wha afterward constantly assisted Vansittart with the budget during that statesmsn's long tenure af the chancellarship of the exchequer.—London Times.

Wonderful Scales.

What is claimed to be the smallest balance af precision used for important wark is that of the United States bureau of standards, a little more than a foot tall in its glass case. It takes lands up to two grams, and is accurate to one-thousandth of a milligram, or about .000016 of a grain. It will weigh the ink of a signature. The case is dust-proof, and to avoid influence of the weigher's body heat the weights on the scale may be manipulated by a long rad from another room.

It is stated there is a big volume of Harding money in sight but little Cox money. The supporters of the democratic nominee are asking 6 to 1.

GIVE COLOR TO LANDSCAPE

Though the Daisies Grow Like Weeds, They Have a Beauty Too Little Appreciated.

They lift their heads to heaven, seeking to mingle with the stars—millions of them, scattered in wild profusion over meadow and pasture land. Men walk on them, tramp them down, but they rise again, serene, confident, searching the light which gives them life.

Daisies! Our fields are full of them. From afar their white heads give color to the landscape. Their yellow-centered blossoms, blown by the wind, wave obeisance to the day and, by their graceful beckoning, invite us to take them home.

Daisies! Our empty vases call for them; our umbrella stands, our jardinieres, yearn for their beautiful blooms. And they are so near to us, so easy to get, that it seems a pity to waste their beauty in an unfrequented field.

Get them for the house, for the office, to wear. Even though like weeds they grow, God's love shines from their faces and blesses the country they fill. —Toledo Blade.

Huns Polluted Interned Ships.

The condition of the interned ships, after their German custodians had left, was something indescribable; they reflected great discredit upon German seamanship, for it would have been impossible for any people which really loved ships to permit them to deteriorate as had these vessels and to become such cesspools of filth, says Rear-Admiral William S. Sims in the World's Work for July.

For three years the Germans had plenty made no attempt to clean them; the sanitary conditions were so bad that our workmen could not sleep on board, but had to have sleeping quarters near the docks; they spent weeks scrubbing, scraping and disinfecting. In a finally successful effort to make the ships suitable habitations for human beings.

PREUS-COLLINS HERE FOR BIG MEET TOMORROW

The biggest political rally of the year will be held in this city Saturday evening when J. A. O. Preus, republican candidate for governor, and Louis L. Collins, candidate on the same ticket for lieutenant govenor, appear.

Both candidates are well and favorably known in Northern Minnesota and stand mighty high with the voters. Mr. Preus is a good speaker and it will be well worth the time spent to be present at the meeting and hear his address. Mr. Collins also stands mighty high with the voting publik the state over and it is the general prediction that these two candidates are going to walk away with the honors in November 2nd without any great amount of trouble.

The meeting scheduled for Saturday evening is the first of many that are to be held in this city during the next few weeks. Candidates for each and ever poffice the states affords on every ticket possible to run are scheduled to make their appearance in this section at one time and another and a lively campaign is predicted.

It is hoped that every person who can possibly do so will turn out for the meeting Saturday night. The speakers are both men of high calibre and are sure to leave a message that is full of valuable information and which will be a mighty factor for the final decision will reference to all candidates now in the race.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MINNESOTA CONDITIONS

STATE GENERALLY IS ON UPWARD TREND AND CONDITIONS ARE GOOD.

The tremendous part which good roads are playing, and will play, in the development of Minnesota proved a vital feature of reports received from bankers and newspaper publishers in nearly every county of the state during the past week, for the weekly review of Minnesota enterprise, prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and the First & People's State Bank of Thief River Falls.

Inspection of available road census reports from more than 40 counties, obtained during the last half of September, indicated several reasons why residents in rural districts who have been classd as opponents of the good roads Amendment No. 1, have become friends and boosters of the $100,000,000 enterprise. Some counties reported as many as 250 foreign cars (machines from other states) traveling over a single highway in a week. These cars carried an average of three passengers.

Unofficial reports, which may not be entirely accurate, estimated that travel on nationally known highways, such as the Yellowstone and Jefferson trails, was from 40 to 200 per cent heavier than traffic on the less extensively advertised roads. The consequence has been the merchants in many cities are boosting for broader advertising for the highways which bring tourists by their cities. No estimate is available to indicate approximately the money left in the state by motorists this year, but it will amount to several millions. Twenty-six counties have reported land sales as a consequence of summer automobile travel.

Not much change was noted in the grain situation. Corn came through nicely, thanks to the fine weather during the last days of September. Marketing of grain, but not commenced on a large scale and bankers pointed out that farmers have been taking do other work. The hog movement increased and higher prices were reported from South St. Paul. More noticeable, however, was increased activities in the wool trade. Reports from the east that the market, long dead, was coming to life rapidly, brought optimis nto hundreds of Minnesota sheep men. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Minnesota wool is in storage, awaiting satisfactory prices.

Many farmers have been shipping potatoes, grain and produce to market by trucks and automobiles. Some have used automobiles to tow one or two wagons loaded with potatoes. Paved highways make such transportation very simple. The demand for freight cars has not been unseasonably heavy and information obtained in St. Paul by the Merchants National Bank indicated that railroads have been successful in obtaining the return of cars long had by other lines. Practically no change was noted in loans or deposits. A few banks reported slightly decreased loans. Merchants generally have been optimistic over fall and winter business possibilities.

FACE CHARGE OF KILLING DOG LAST MONDAY

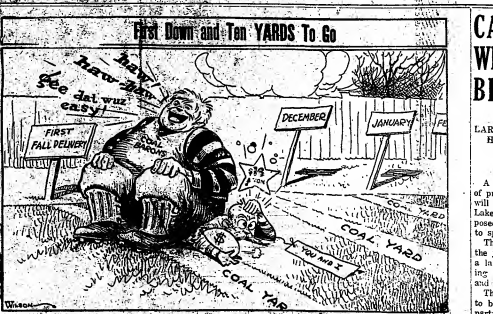
TWO PICTURE FRAMING ARTISTS HAILED INTO COURT ON TUESDAY.

A case in Municipal Court on last Tuesday that apparently looked very simple and easy to settle has finally lengthened into a real battle of wits and the outcome has been deferred until the grand jury meets in February.



The case is a charge filed by Theodore Tollefson of Highlanding against E. C. Frederickson of Minneapolis and Paul A. Morrison of St. Paul, who are traveling about the county enlarging pictures. The complaint Mr. Tollefson claims the men appeared at his house about a week ago and stated their mission. He told them he had no pictures to enlarge but one of them spied a picture and asked permission to take the picture with them. In about a week they returned with the picture properly enlarged and wanted settlement. Mr. Tollefson refused to take the picture on the ground that he did not order it enlarged and accordingly would not pay for the same.

At this the two men became very much enraged and it is alleged made the statement that they would get even. They started away from the house in their automobile and soon afterward the dog belonging to the family was found dead, having, according to Mr. Tollefson's statement, been killed by a bullet fired by the two men. This was denied when they were assigned in court and testimony of various sorts was produced. It was shown by four witnesses on the stand who examined the dog that he had been shot. It was claimed in a roundabout way by others that the dog had been run over with the car driven by the men.

After much discussion pro and con, judge N. W. Tarrant found both over to the grand jury under a cash bond of $100, which was furnished.

Visits Brother.

Mr. Fred Clements, of Floyd county, Iowa, has been spending a couple of weeks here with his brother and his son-in-law, Mr. Anderson, at their fine farm home in Rocksbury Township, on the Jefferson Highway. Mr. Clements is highly pleased with the crops and with general farm conditions here this year. He especially refers to a piece of corn planted on July 1st, that made good sound corn. Mr. Clemens and his people here are unanimous in recommending our soil as the most productive and responsive they have ever seen anywhere. These good people are a distinct and positive asset to our country, and we know any county of which they are the same we thank them for the compliment of their recommendation.

SWEEPSTAKES GO TO GUERNSEY OF F. B. CONKLIN

SIGNAL HONOR FOR PENNINGTON COUNTY IN LIVESTOCK DEVELOPMENT.

F. B. Conklin, who has entered his cow, Cliff, in the state herd, received some good news this week when he was informed that this animal took first and sweepstakes in her class at the Mankato fair. This means that she is the best cow in the state of Minnesota as she has been selected to show with the state herd and by winning at this show places her in a class by herself.

CLUB LUNCHEON DECIDES TO BRING BIG CONVENTION

IMPORTANT DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION TO COME HERE IN DECEMBER

The second Commercial Club noonday luncheon yesterday proved to be more of a dinning car than the first and was declared by those in attendance as well worth attending.

Not only was the meal a more satisfying one but the business session following developed more important matters, chief of which was a decision to send to the Red River Valley Dairymen an invitation to hold their annual convention in this city this year.

County Agent J. J. McCann was present and placed before the meeting an outline of the big celebration to be held in Crookston Oct. 5 at which time a new dining hall at the Northwest School of Agriculture will be opened, a Polk county soldiers' memorial will be dedicated and appropriate exercises in commemoration of the opening of the first hard surfaced road in the Red River Valley.

The club was asked to lend its assistance in making the representation of Pennington county a worthy one and a committee was named by President E. M. Stanton to see that a sufficient number of autoes were in the parade. Dr. H. W. Froelich, L. A. Largent and Olaf Tiesum were named as the committee and held a meeting immediately following the adjournment of the club meeting at 1 o'clock.

All who have autos and can go to Crookston, Oct. 5 should immediately get in touch with the above named men and greatly assist thereby the project.

LARGE NUMBER OF HERDS ARE TESTED HERE

STATE VETERINARIANS TEST 106 HERDS DURING THE PAST TWO WEEKS.

Six federal veterinarians in charge of Dr. J. N. Holzer of Minneapolis have tested 106 herds in the county during teh past two weeks. There are many more herds to be tested at the present time, but the work will not in all probability be finished next week. Pennington county will have in the neighborhood of 110 accredited herds, which is more than any other county in the United States up to this date. There are more than 80 live stock men having requested to have this work done this year but one to the limited time and the scarcity of federal men all cannot be taken care of until a later date. In a very short time there will be very few herds in the county that are not tested and the county will have a clean bill of health, as far as tuberculosis in cattle is concerned. Only six reacters have been found this year from herds that were not tested before. This shows that it is possible to eradicate tuberculosis in live stock and that Pennington county is rapidly eliminating the diseased animals from its herds.

LOUIS L. COLLINS

Big Booster.

Louie Hendrickson, passenger conductor of Mauna City, Iowa, has been here for ten days helping market his crop on his farm in Helgeland township. Louie is one of our best boosters. He added 10 tons more yield per acre on sweet clover; says the more out the Tribune with the cut showing the Kittenson crop. He has a fine field of 30 acres on his farm as an evidence of his faith. Louie is a good friend and a conscientious supporter of our splendid agricultural country. He spreads the gospel two ways from the track on his run in Iowa and we are much obliged.

Rural Carrier Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Pennington, State of Minnesota, to be held at Thief River Falls, Minn., on Nov. 13, 1920. There is a vacancy on Route 2 from Thief River Falls which is to be filled and applicants at this examination may be appointed to fill any future vacancies as they occur. Application blanks and further information in regard to this examination may be had upon inquiry to the local secretary at the examination at the postoffice.

CANDIDATES WILL BE MET BY BIG DELEGATION

A committee of several auto loads of prominent Republicans of this city will leave Satrhday morning for Red Lake Falls to escort the party composed of Preus and Collins who are to speak here Saturday evening.

The Harding-Preus club will be on the job with both feet and will send a large delegation down that morning to attend the affairs of the day and to offer every assistance possible.

The meeting at Red Lake Falls is to be held in the afternoon and the party will then be escorted to this city, where elaborate arrangements are under way for the entertainment of the party.

The local club will have charge of the candidates following the meeting at the Auditorium and plan to show "the boys" a good time and to let them know that this city is still on the map and that there are a large number of live wire republicans in this city and surrounding territory who are ready at any and all times to put their shoulders to the wheel and help in any way possible.

It is not definitely known at this time just how many cars are to make the trip nor the number of delegates from this city, but it is expected there will be a large number, possibly 100 or more who will make the trip and offer their services during the time the candidates are in this part of the country.

Banners, ribbon badges, etc., will distinguish those from this city composing the delegation and the committee in charge of arrangements would like as many cars as possible, and as many passengers as possible in each car. If possible to make the trip notify O. C. Smith, chairman of arrangements.

Strong for Sweet Clover.

St. Paul, Sept. 23, 1920.

Dear Friends: Your kind letter of the 18th was on my desk on my return this morning from the north. I am deeply interested in what you write about the Algerian Durum wheat, the Rosen rye and your campaign for sweet clover.

I quite agree with you that the increase in acreage in sweet clover in Pennington county can be credited almost entirely to the intelligent and persistent propaganda put forth by the papers of your county. I had it in mind to write you commending you for your valuable agricultural campaign. It is certainly a pioneer movement and is a most constructive proposition. It is my belief and this belief is based upon observation and experience covering several years that our level water soaked lands need aeration more than do the lands in the wooded sections of Minnesota. A great root growth which readily decays soon honeycombs the soil and makes possible the entry of air and its accompanying mysteries of chemical action.

Sweet clover is certainly a great slogan for farmers as well as for the country and I hope that you shall maintain your fight for this plant and for other legumes, which apparently find their habitat in our community.

With kind regards, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

J. H. HAY,
Deputy Commissioner.

Butterfat Flows Into Millions.

The Minnesota dairy cow keeps on paying the freight. Two hundred one co-operative creameries in different parts of the state paid an average price of 63.3 cents a pound for butterfat brought in by dairymen during the month of June. The average pounds of butterfat received per creamery for the 30 days was 19,727, or a total of 3,965,157 pounds.

Only the 201 of the 640 co-operative creameries in the state reported to A. J. McGuire, of the agricultural extension division, University Farm. Mr. McGuire is calling on buttermaking co-operators to work together "in a big way." They must make a more uniform grade of butter, he says, build up the weaker creameries, go out for more adequate laws promoting the manufacutre of only good butter, and last but not least, they should develop the most efficient and profitable system of marketing.

First Meeting of Year.

The Womens' Club of this city will hold their first meeting at the Commercial Club rooms on Monday, Oct. 4th. The meeting will be an informal social affair. A special invitation is extended to all of the teachers who are interested in the club.

NEW BOOKLET WILL PORTRAY DEVELOPMENT

Development Association Will Urge Wide Distribution of New Publication.

Something like a year ago a publication that enjoys a nation-wide circulation published an article that was highly derogatory to the Red River valley and the publishers were informed by the Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association that Red River valley people so considered it. Recently the same publication, the Country Gentleman, in fact, published a series f articles based absolutely upon facts as they were found by one of the associate editors of that publication, John E. Pickett, that went far to make amends for the injustice of the earlier articles.

The publication of these articles have, it is definitely known, attracted a number of desirable settlers to the Red River valley.

Increased rents in certain other agricultural areas are causing many owners to sell and renters to give up their locations and seek lower priced lands. Notwithstanding that the soil of the Red River valley is conceded to be much superior to that of some of the higher priced lands, prices have remained at reasonable levels in the valley and it is felt that a wide dissemination of authorative and reliable information about the Red River valley, information that tells frankly of its ills as well as of its fortunes can brin gto the valley experienced, desirable settlers of good character.

That there is ample room and in fact need of additional settlement was evidenced when the survey was taken for the federal government in the matter of lands for returning soldiers, when it was disclosed that there remained more than two million acres of good arable land in the Red River valley on the Minnesota side alone that was not producing.

The Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association is actively interesting itself to effect the printing and distribution of a new booklet that will portray the present day development of the Red River valley.

The major part of the booklet has already been prepared under the direction of C. G. Selvig, superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture, than whom there is no better authority. It contains parts of the presentation made by Mr Selvig before the joint high commission of the United States and Canada last May at Grand Forks at the hearing on the Great Lakes-St Lawrence tidewater project, which was pronounced by some of the members of the commission as being the most able and comprehensive that had been made before the commission up to that time

All sections of the valley are treated, as are all lines of agricultural production with which the valley is concerned; grains, potatoes and live stock in particular. Vice President R. C. Madiwig and Secretary G. H. Zealand, of the Development Association, will visit a number of the valley points during the coming month to interest the several counties in a united and concerted effort to give extended spread to information about the Red River valley through the distribution of the booklet As a healthy movement in bona fide settlement will aid materially in promoting the permanent agricultural development of the valley and as well give stimulation to commercial and industrial conditions, their efforts should meet with every support.

RABBIT TOO FAST FOR COURSING HOUNDS

They are rovising the great sport of hound coursing in Oakland, Cal.—and with nary a kick from the humane society—the organization which brought the sport into disrepute as being cruel to poor Brer Rabbit. Of course, in the old days the rabbit had to be the great—giving up its life in determining the hound with the most speed. Now comes inventive genius to the rescue with the mechanical dummy rabbit attached to a motor-driven iron arm, which carries it around a track with all the characteristics of a frightened hare. The speed of the hare can be regulated—and never yet has dog run fast enough to catch it and learn that he has been fooled.

BUILDING YOUR WEALTH

A bank works for you night and day, week after week, adding cents to your dollars. Little by little the amount grows till each addition is a respectable sum.

Where does the gain come from? Not from your pocket. Nor from ours. It is the result of production. Money placed in a bank is given an opportunity to work and to produce.

Thus a bank builds your wealth.

Start with a small deposit if you will. Add to it when you can—regularly if you can do so. It will not be long till you can fairly see it grow.

A Booster for Tribune Advertising.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 16, 20.
Editor Tribune, Thief River Falls, Minn.:

Dear Sir: Will you kindly send me a few extra copies of your paper dated Sept. 14th?

I have been receiving your paper for the past year and read it with a great deal of interest. I have watched its growth and development closely, both as to news and from an advertising standpoint. I perhaps should explain that I am an enthusiast for printer's ink and study the individuality and try to estimate the punch in every ad I read. I see in the past year in your paper a wonderful improvement and your advertisers should appreciate the opportunity to use a live paper and plenty of space. As an advertiser in connection with my business I regard the newspaper first place and dodgers second place and both indispensible. Ads should show character, calibre and individuality as much as the advertiser himself would measure up to the minds of the readers. I believe in large ads rather than small oft repeated standing ads of small space some are disposed to use. An ad should be a heart to heart talk through your paper to the customer holled down in easy to read and comprehensive language, telling the things the merchant would tell the customer over the counter. Some one said, "If in your business you do not believe in advertising advertise your business and sell it."

Some fellows talk about everything else but their business. Who not talk about that occasionally (advertise) and keep the cobwebs away from their doors? Through advertising I often do as much business in a day as the same business would show in 30 days. The answer is advertising closely lived up to the letter. Wishing you a continuance of success and a liberal patronage of live wire advertisers,

I am very truly,
JOHN S. FISK.

REPUBLICAN SIDELIGHTS

(Minnesota Republican Committee)

The meeting addressed by Senator Frank B. Kellogg at St. Cloud was an important and notable one. The large audience that crowded the Auditorium was genuinely representative of Minnesota's best and substantial citizenship, including a great number of democrats. The presence of women was especially significant, of the change which extension of suffrage to them has already actually wrought in our politics.

Senator Kellogg's address was a real contribution to the discussion which, back of all the forth and fret which characterize our campaigns, seriously occupies the mind of the people. There was in it no theatrical straining for effect, no partisan extremism. The genuine expression of a man who in a place of high responsibility has had part among the foremost in the great events of this world war period and in shaping the issues which are today before the people, appeals to earnest men and women. Senator Kellogg's address carried that appeal for it was an obvious attempt, not to seek advantage through incitement of passion or mere partisan prejudice, but to set forth the truth.

The senator came to the voters of Minnesota with an authentic report of the conduct of our government from the center of authority. It is the report of one who has had real influence in dealing with these great questions. It is becoming well known here at home as well as elsewhere how important has been the part that he has taken in the debates of the senate and in the more important councils which determine vital decisions.

It is of course impossible here to review or adequately summarize the senator's address. It dealt with the chief issues of the contest competently and yet comprehensively and in each division embraced matter throwing much new light on subjects that have already been discussed. It is a speech every word of which ought to be read by every voter in Minnesota.

The senator devoted the larger part of his time to the League of Nations. Probably no member of the senate has more intimate knowledge than he of that document and of the events and forces related to the issue which it has raised for decision in this election. He is fresh from Europe, where he met many high officials and public men in France, Belgium and England, and his words carry great weight when he declares: "Every one of them stated that the reservations adopted by the American senate would have been acceptable."

A salient point which the senator's speech brings out into bold relief is one which the average citizen fails to sufficiently realize, viz: that a large number of the democratic senators actually favored and went on record in the senate as favoring most of the important reservations insisted on by the Republicans. The treaty failed of ratification only through President Wilson's coercion of the democratic senators.

ONE LANGUAGE SAYS G. A. R.

"One Country, one Flag and one Language," the ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic now reads. "One Country and one Flag" it read until amended at Indianapolis. The Grand Army has taken the language for granted of course. It assumed that the language of the Declaration of Independence, of the constitution, of the revised statutes, of the decisions of the supreme court, of the Farewell Address of Washington, of Webster's Reply to Hayne, of Lincoln's second inaugural and Gettysburg speech, of Washington Irving, of Nathaniel Hawthorne, of Edgar Allan Poe, of Ralph Waldo Emerson, of Mark Twain, was the undisputed language of the land.

They have seen that supposedly undisputed language challenged. They have heard Germans who were citizens boast that after the war there would be a second official language in the United States as French is in Canada and Dutch in South Africa. They know where schools are conducted in another language than English and where courts have been so conducted. They are aware that the prevalence and ascendancy of English is threatened in various places.

They conclude that in order to continue our country under one flag, one language must prevail. Absorption of the length and breadth of our domain and their conclusion is correct. A polyglot America would be a disintegrating America and the veterans, who fought four years to save the Union, contemplate with dyersion and rage process, no matter what, that encourage to any degree national disintegration. Of like mind and temper are all true Americans of any degree, who love first of all the Republic which Washington established and Lincoln preserved, the country under the Star and Stripes, whose people speak the tongue of the Plymouth Valley Forge and triumphed at Yorktown, the tongue of Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett, that was heard in dying accents in the Alamo, that was the speech of those who followed Winfield Scott into Mexico, of those who stood under Thomas by Chickamauga's river of death, of those who wandered with Sherman to the sea, of those who campaigned with Grant in the Wilderness to Appomattox, and the tongue, too of the men in grey who fought with "Stonewall" Jackson and Lee and Joe Johnson, whose sons fought side by side with the sons of the north in the Argonne.

One Country and one Flag and one Language are consecrated. The language is the language of our freedom and our law, of our literature and our song. It is the language of California and of Massachusetts, of the Carolinas and of the Dakotas, of Minnesota and of New Orleans, of Harding and of Candidate Cox, and, by the external," as "Old Hickory" Andrew Jackson swore against the nullifiers, it shall continue as the one and only language of the Republic founded by English speaking men and saved by English speaking men.—Journal.

COTTON COMMITTEE AND RESERVE BOARD.

Hearing given the cotton committee of the south before the federal reserve board it appeared that a cotton crop, or 6,500,000 bales of cotton is being held and held for higher prices. The appeal of the cotton committee was for relief the reserve board so that the cotton profiteers might hold the half crop off the market longer and dribble it out at present and higher prices.

The reserve board said to the cotton committee something like this: "Go home and get rid of your cotton. On the market. Quit squealing. You sold that cotton over and over again at top price. Now go home and meet the market. Which was the same as saying "we are done assisting profiteering."

It was a sensible and honest procedure on the part of the board. It will be as sensible for the cotton speculators to meet the market honestly and sell their hoarded cotton for what it is worth and will bring on the market.

Cotton has all the best of it as the south had all the favor which could be given it honestly or unjustly. That solid south which is the dependence of the present administration had its own war. When northern and western wheat was sternly regulated as to price, cotton was left free to soar. It soared. Then the negro in a shack on the edge of a plantation whose highest hope had been a borrowed cotton mule, a rope harness and a "ham of meat" on credit gathered his little crop of cotton on leased land and bought autos and sealskin coats with the proceeds.

The reserve board's advice to the cotton speculators is good. It is good advice for all of us, north and south. The readjustment is on the way and should be met squarely. There will be some losses, mostly paper losses, however, as there have been gains, mostly paper gains. If we are sensible and cautious few will be hurt seriously.—Marshalltown Times-Republican.

LET SLEEPING DOGS LIE

Harvey's Weekly: "The cost of sugar," said Governor Cox in a recent speech, "would have been reduced from 10 to 15 cents if the government had taken stock and allayed public feeling."

The cost of sugar would have been reduced very much more than that. 10 or 12 cents has been the figure. President Wilson not only set up his own infallible wisdom against that of all the best sugar experts in the country, and if President Wilson's dependable attorney general had not overstepped all the legal bounds of his authority and issued a formal edict that Louisiana sugar growers might charge 17 cents a pound for their product when sugar in other parts of the country were selling at far below that figure.

The sugar planters of Cuba offered their entire crop to us at a price a little over 6 cents a pound. It was then obvious to all who were informed on the subject that the world was in for a heavy sugar shortage and that the offer from Cuba was one to be accepted instantly and eagerly. President Wilson was advised. Again and again did his own sugar commission beg him to authorize the purchase. He was warned that if he did not accept it speedily it would be withdrawn. Mr. Wilson had stubbornly refused to heed either the urgings or the warnings. He ignored both. With every expert in the country whose opinion was worth a rap telling him that failure to act would bring disaster, the president, the United States a totally unnecessary cost of over a billion dollars added to their already staggering burden of living expenses, Mr. Wilson refuse to act.

Indirectly, by his own wilful inertia, the president forced the people of United States to throw away more than a thousand million dollars, every penny of which might have been saved to them had he deigned to lift a finger to avert the wanton waste.

Was this amazing performance the result of indifference or was it mere stubborn pride of opinion registered in arrogant, self complacent refusal to accept advice solely because it was advice, irrespective of whether it was good advice or not?

These are questions for those to answer who care to explore the labyrinthian mysteries of Wilsonian psychology. All that the American people know or care about it is that Mr. Wilson has cost them over a billion dollars.

And then, on top of the back breaking cost of this Wilson superiority to all advice or suggestion, came to Louisiana exploit of a Wilsonian attorney general frantically chasing a presidential nomination with the wisp, and now subsiding in anything but a sweet frame of mind because neither his sugar nor any of the other baits succeeded in landing the prize for him.

Governor Cox's statement that the cost of sugar might have been reduced "if the government had taken stock of the supply and allayed public feeling" is tommyrot. Moreover, it was what Artemus Ward on a memorable occasion characterized as an "unfortnit remark." Governor Cox had better let the sleeping dogs of the sugar question lie.

Mrs. Richter, chairman, and Mrs. Bolleson, secretary, of the Women's Republican Club, are away to a flying start in their organization work. They report the women of the city keenly interested in politics anxious to learn more and do their part. The women have a great and important part to perform. Citizenship is expressed thru the ballot and the vote. Two great parties dominate the country. This is proper, right and necessary. To vote outside of the two great parties is a vote thrown away. The Women's Republican Club is in business to promote better citizenship. The officers say the response to their invitation to join is most encouraging. We predict the Women' Republican Club, under the direction of Mrs. Richter, president, and Mrs. Bolleson, secretary, assisted by Miss Harry and her ward and county chairmen, will show at the Preus and Collins meetings Saturday night, second to no other meeting in the district. We congratulate the club on the ability o ftheir officers and we congratulate the officers on the success of the club. Mr. Preus and Corporal Collins will be glad to meet this fine lot of women voters.

The next president of the United States will be one of two men, either Warren G. Harding or James M. Cox. No other result is possible.

Practically every voter, to whatever party other than the two great parties he may belong, has in fact a preference as between those two candidates.

No such voters therefore can avoid casting a vote against his preference between those two candidates if he should vote the presidential ticket of any of the minor parties.

If he, preferring Harding to Cox, should vote the prohibition national ticket, it would in effect be a vote for Cox, because it would withhold a vote which belongs to Harding as between Harding and Cox.

It is up to these citizens who have, and cannot help but have, a distinct choice as between Harding and Cox to see to it that their ballots be cast in effect against their real will as regards the only two candidates, one of the other of whom can by any possibility be elected president.

Senator McColl, of Woodward, Ia., was in the city Tuesday and Wednesday looking over the McColl-Shannon farm west of town. He found everything flourishing at the big farm. Since he was here before a fine new barn has been completed, a windmill erected, a big cement silo constructed, a complete water system installed, many miles of woven wire fence, new closing fields and yards, built, and comfortable quarters and feed provided for the one hundred head of Hereford cattle on the place. Senator McColl is one of the substantial men of Iowa. He has handled farms and cattle all his life. He intends to reproduce here what he has accomplished at home and is starting on a substantial basis, with good improvements, cattle, corn, tame grass, sweet clover included and is sure to succeed.

Preus and Collins have a busy day for Saturday. An open air meeting at Red Lake Falls in the afternoon. The trip to Fort Power City with an escort of friends; the stop at St. Hilaire; a dinner at the Hotel Evelyn and the big show at the Auditorium at 8 o'clock makes a full day.

As we go to press, Cox is for will and Wilson is (still) for Cox.

Candidates Preus and Collins will home on this business. Capt. Kiland, before returning to his home in Hillsboro, N. D.

Mrs. J. Brendecke of this city left on Wednesday afternoon for Crookston, where she will spend an indefinite period visiting with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Anderson of Clearbrook arrived in this city on Monday evening and spent Tuesday in this city transacting business.

Miss Silvina Overum, of Rolla, N. D., spent a few days of the past week in this city visiting with friends and relatives.

Candidate Cox has accused the Republican party of trying to buy the Democratic support. He must fear that it can be done.

---

Candidate Cox taints the Republican party with the support of the German vote. There is no German vote in America.

---

MILLIONS SAVED THRU BETTER MARKETING

FEDERAL BUREAU OF MARKETS WORKS IN CO-OPERATION WITH STATES

Five and a half million dollars. That is the amount of savings and increased profits estimated to have been secured by producers through the assistance of the United States Bureau of Market's field representatives in marketing working in co-operation with state marketing agencies in 11 states during the year ended June 30, 1920. This figure is made up of hundreds of individual items of savings and additional profits estimated by growers, shippers and marketing agencies concerned and reported to the United States Bureau of Markets.

State co-operative work in marketing is carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture in 31 states, but information regarding the total savings effected in all of them is not yet available.

Improvement in methods of marketing and distributing farm products is the object of this marketing work. Investigations of grading, packing, loading, shipping and marketing are made and visual demonstrations given producers to familiarize them with the best marketing methods. Thus, some 200 demonstrations of approved practices of preparing farm products for market and over 700 talks relatives to packing, grading, storing, handling and selling farm products and the formation of associations for co-operative activity were given. In one state alone two co-operative livestock shipping associations with a membership of 3,030 shippers were formed and an estimated saving of $73,146 secured thru the co-operative shipping of 333 cars of cattle, hogs and sheep from 39 counties.

While complete figures are not available, those at hand show that the field men were instrumental in the formation of 183 marketing organizations, including 50 live stock shipping associations and 57 fruit and vegetable associations. They also assisted in the organization of 12 credit unions and 19 federations of existing associations, most of which are state wide in scope. One hundred and sixty-six wool pools handling over 10,000,000 pounds of wool were given assistance in organization and grading. In a number of states the field men, thru state agencies, secured the adoption of federal standards for farm products and containers. One hundred and thirty-eight groups of producers were assisted in making co-operative sales. One sale included 417 head of cattle, which sold for $2,508.97 above the price quoted by local buyers on the day of sale.

Instruction in the marketing of sweet potatoes was given producers and shippers in the southern states. In one state plans and specifications for 39 sweet potato storage houses were furnished and in another state 53 storage houses were constructed from plans furnished by the United States Bureau of Markets. A sweet potato exhibit car was arranged and moved 1,100 miles over four railroads touching 21 points in the sweet potato producing sections. The exhibit included a minature model storage house, working plan and specifications for storage houses, pictures, charts and slides showing approved methods of production, harvesting, storing, grading and packing.

Exhibits illustrating approved marketing practices were conducted in six states. In most instances these exhibits were in connection with state or district fairs or at expositions of more than state importance. Colorado's potato shipments run from 9,000 to 15,000 cars a year. Of this quantity 40 per cent were moved during the winter months when there is great danger of frost damage in transit. To stimulate interest among Colorado potato growers and shippers in better marketing conditions an exhibit of a full sized freight car was produced in the Denver Auditorium at the western potato show this year to show by actual demonstration proper methods of lining and loading cars of potatoes to prevent loss from freezing in transit, and of sewing sacks to prevent loss of potatoes slipping through the tops of sacks. Some 3,000 people attended the exhibit and it is confidently believed that a greater number of cars will be loaded properly.

Twenty-five short instruction courses relative to various phases of marketing were given in six states. In one state a course of lectures covering 12 weeks was given in a school of commerce. Co-operative enterprises in three states were given assistance in accounting problems. The collection and dissemination of information relative to quantity, quality and price of local produce offered for sale was arranged for at eleven points in four states.

The United States Bureau of Markets' report of the work of its field agents in marketing shows that the accomplishments were greater in number and of more value to producers and consumers during the year ended June 30, 1920, than in and previous year. It is felt that work of this character should make possible the development of a consistent national policy in improving marketing methods.

No Demands, No Service

The Farm Bureau is like a horse harnessed and ready for work. All that is required is for the local farmer to hitch the Farm Bureau to his job, whether it be a marketing problem, soil, crop or livestock problem. Minnesota together with twenty-eight of the other leading states have already joined the National Federation of Farm Bureaus. The objects of the State Federation are generally to secure for those engaged in agriculture within the state the same as the American Federation expects to obtain for the farmers of the nation. In the first place it will attempt to lay out a program that eventually will make farming profitable. Farming is not a philanthropy. The farmer is like every other man. He is in business for profit; he has little conception of an altruistic duty to work hard in order to feed the shirking industrials or to feed an unknown family a thousand miles away. So we cannot depend upon patriotic enthusiasm to go very far. Therefore unless this problem is solved to the profit of the farmer, production will fall to the point of nominal output. The farmer will always feed his own household well; he is self-sufficient and independent and if he has no outlook for surplus profit, he will not plan his work to produce a surplus. This is fundamental.

Fundamentally the Farm Bureau must be to agriculture what the Chamber of Commerce is to the business world and in a state like ours where farming is the principal business of the community the farmers should take the lead. The success of the Farm Bureau movement lies largely in the one great truth that exemplifies their belief, namely, "No man liveth to himself and no man dieth to himself." It is an organization for a square deal and is working with well tried principles founded neither in haste nor anger but upon ripe experience. By sober, truthful and independent effort the Farm Bureau Federations have already built a program for constructive work. Its vision of the future is aided and guided by the observations of the past. It has no issue or claim, no acute power to further its aims. It seeks no special privileges nor does it believe in granting any. It believes in and adheres to the sterling truth.

The Farm Bureau asserts that the farmer is entitled to a just profit on the cost of production on all products with these items properly accounted for, with due consideration of the hazardous risks he encounters, and with a wage allowance for his own labor and ability commensurate to that received in other occupations.

The Farm Bureau movement has passed far beyond the experimental state. Every state in the union has organizations built on the Farm Bureau plan and practically every one has a state federation thereof. The Farm Bureau's message to the people is to give them the truth and no better remedy for the existing evils than to expose the same by stating the truth surrounding such evil. There is no other organization that can speak for agriculture as well as the Farm Bureau Federation. Everyone interested in or dependent upon agriculture is cordially invited to join the Farm Bureau in the county where he or she resides.

Under the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation the Farm Bureaus of the state by means of their common interests are united in the advancement of agriculture, with a definite program at all times in mind to make it profitable, wholesome and satisfactory.

July 22 and 23 the Farm Bureau Federation attended the big grain and livestock marketing conference, held at Chicago. Conference was called by the American Farm Bureau Federation and all state federations and heads of state co-operative marketing associations were represented. A committee of 47 was appointed by A. F. B. F and will soon be at work on a definite marketing plan which is believed will enable all producers to sell direct to the consumers on a plan which will give the farmer not only the cost of production but a reasonable profit as well

NINETEEN-TWENTY BROUGHT US THREE SUPER-CHAMPIONS

American and European athletes broke world records in the Olympic games in Belgium and it is a certainty that they will be given full credit when the yearly sport review is made. But above all that stands the performance of three great leaders—sport champions of the year. Babe Ruth has set a mark in baseball—60 home runs for a season—almost twice the number of any such previous performance. Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, who had won the title of "greatest ever" by his 40 knockouts of opponents in his last 22 starts. Man-O'-War, the horse of the century, running the mile and three-eighths in 2:14 1-5, clipping 4 2-5 seconds off the world record, is proclaimed by all the fastest horseflesh the world has ever seen. Owner S. D. Riddle of Philadelphia refused $360,000 for the horse.

WAGES MUST FALL WITH COMMODITIES

Sö Says George D. Robers, Financial Student and Banker—Must Have Better Farm Policy.

Falling prices and their relation to the farm, to wages and to the economic conditions of the country are discussed by George D. Roberts, editor of "The New 'Americas," published by the National City Bank of New York, in the September issue of his publication. The subject is discussed particularly with reference to the business of farming, and he declares that America must devise a more efficient and definite farm policy. He says it is inevitable that commodity prices, food prices and wages must all decline.

He believes the great necessity of the present moment is to preserve equilibrium as the process of deflation goes on.

"If commodity prices, food prices and wages fall substantially in unison nobody will get hurt," he points out, "but if they do not it is inevitable that either the farming group or the wage earning group is going to be badly hit."

"It is to the manifold interest of the country to endeavor to manipulate events in such a way that the movement will proceed equitably, that is, that approximately the same rate of decline shall take place in the three great factors of food and other commodity prices and of wages.

"One thing is certain and that is that all three will decline. Efforts to hold up any one of the three will surely react with startling effect on those who attempt to circumvent or to nullify the inexorable workings of the economic law. Not only will the particular group involved be hit but the whole country at large will be damaged. If the whole world is struggling from one phase of economic life to another and a more normal one, it is to the best interest of this country to get to that normal plane as rapidly as possible in order that our industry may adjust itself to conditions in other parts of the world and we be able to compete on even ground with our competitors everywhere."

He declares that farm production in this country is most seriously threatened because with live stock prices and food prices declining the farmers will be inclined to cease production as they will not and cannot produce at a loss.

"Just how much of a decline in food prices will be witnessed this year is a controversial point," he continues, "altho daily quotations on grain and live stock show that a substantial decline exists in practically all food commodities where it is possible to compare prices with those ruling at this time last year. But they are still high at the point where they actually enter into consumption, that is, in the retail stores. The average wage worker is still paying an exceedingly high price for the food consumed by himself and family.

"In face of this, deflation will unquestionably bring about a wage reduction as the purchasing power of the dollar increases with the progress of deflation. Wages expressed in dollars mean little. What the dollar will buy is the important point. If wage reductions should proceed faster than the decreases in the price of foodstuffs, an industrial situation fraught with the greatest peril would result. Man must eat—that is his fundamental need—and if he finds his wages too small to maintain his family in decency the results are apt to be disagreeable for all concerned.

"On the other hand if reductions in the price of foodstuffs should proceed at such a rate that the farmer finds himself in possession of supplies that bring less than the cost of production, it is inevitable that he will desist from producing until he believes conditions will assure him a profit. The economic laws governing farming are just the same as in any other business and with all the desire in the world to be altruistic the farmer cannot go on producing what to sell at say at $1.75 per bushel if it costs him $2 a bushel to produce it. Already price reductions in live stock at the primary markets in Kansas City and Chicago have resulted in enormous losses to stock raisers who paid high prices for feed and had to sell at a loss."

Mr. Robers declares that thinking the high class farm journals, realize that "together with a national railroad policy a national shipping policy and a national banking policy it is necessary for the best interests of the United States that a national farm policy be worked out and rigidly adhere to. They also realize that the farmers of the nation bear a peculiar vital relation to the other groups that make up the country, because at the bottom of all production and prosperity must come the prosperity and well-being of the class that produces the food on which the others live.

"The time is at hand," he concludes, "when such a policy should receive the most careful consideration of the nation at large. The final solution of the railroad and banking policies and the prospective solution of an American shipping policy were not the work of any particular class group, they were typically American. The eventual adoption of measures that will assure larger and cheaper production of food, coupled with the greater stabilization of conditions under which farmers live an produce must also be American."

Dimensions of a Million.

A way of realizing the meaning of a million, almost as good as counting chestnut blossoms, is to think of what it means in time. Few people realize that there are less than a million days in the whole Christian era; in fact, if we count back a million days from 1920 we come to a date well before the founding of Rome, while a million hours would take us back almost to the battle of Trafalgar.

Has Never Seen His Country.

The only United States marine in the world who has never seen the United States is on duty at the American legation in Peking, China. He is Private C. W. F. Childress, who was born of American parents in China, writes he, because of age, a few weeks after he decided to join the marines and enlisted at the legation.

Childress is a tall, good looking youngsman who can speak the Chinese language like a native. His services as an interpreter are especially valuable to the marines. Through association with white parents and other Americans residents of China he is thoroughly familiar with the traditions and customs of the United States. He is looking forward to the day when he will see the country whose flag he serves.

PREUS-COLLINS RALLY SATURDAY INTERESTING FROM START TO FINISH

IMPORTANT ISSUES OF THE DAY DISCUSSED THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

The Preus-Collins meeting at the Auditorium Saturday evening was a great success in every detail. The Auditorium was full to the doors. Only for the rain, so the country people could not come in, many hundreds would doubtless have been turned away. Mr. Preus and his party were met at Red Lake Falls in the afternoon by an official party from Thief River Falls, headed by County Chairman William Michelet, Mayor Bratrud, Dr. Mellby, H. S. Dahlen and members of the county central committee, Mrs. J. J. Richter, president, and Mrs. Andrew Bottleson, secretary of the Women's Republican Club. Representing the Women's County Central Committee were Mrs. T. P. Anderson, Mrs. L. H. Lawrence, Mrs. George Streator and Mrs. Thomas A. Way. Representing the Young Men's Republican Club were Lester Lawrence, Chairman Howard Smith, Geo. Wenstein and Fred Scanlon. Four cars conveyed the party. A short stop was made at St. Hilaire, where Committeeman A. S. Wilson introduced Mr. Preus to a street full of enthusiastic friends at that place. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Christianson drove down to meet the party at that place. Accompanying the party were Chas. B. Cheney, of the Minneapolis Journal, Ackerson, of the Tribune, and the Dispatch man.

Arriving at the Evelyn Hotel, the guests and party sat down to an informal dinner, after which the party soon proceeded to the Auditorium. At Red Lake Falls, the Women's Republican Club members, headed by Mrs. Richter, were so much taken with the speech of Hon. Tracy Bangs, of Grand Forks, that they stormed the speakers' platform and kidnaped the genial orator from North Dakota. He yielded most graciously to their demands but only on condition that his partner, Hon. E. T. Sarles, ex-governor of North Dakota, might be made one of the party and as Governor Sarles has an international reputation, as a most gracious supporter of the women to be found anywhere, this only added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Hon. Jake Preus was greeted by a most remarkable audience. The Auditorium was full. The speech was able, candid, honest and earnest and was accepted by the audience as such. Mr. Preus spoke briefly on the League of Nations. He said this is a national issue and one in which our interests as a nation are deeply involved. This is the question more than any other that must determine our actions at the polls, when we decide which party and which candidate we will support. The talk on the League of Nations was the best presentation of that subject we have ever heard. The speaker next proceeded to explain what co-operative marketing could do for the farmers and small town people. He illustrated by referring to the record and success of co-operative creameries, also mutual insurance companies, and Mr. Preus by the way, is a close student of these matters. He has personally helped to form a great number of creameries and mutual insurance companies. Perhaps the best thing he said was that he, as governor, would recommend and push through legislation along those lines, favoring the farmers. While Mr. Preus laid great stress upon the plan of co-operation advocated by him for the farmer to own and manage the marketing facilities of this marketing plan as compared with state owned facilities advocated so earnestly by others, he presented his argument with high respect for the honest opinions of others and invited an honest and earnest comparison of these two plans. One to be owned privately by the farmers themselves and one to be owned by the state and to be operated politically, and where as only thirty-two per cent of the people of the state are farmers and small town people and sixty-eight per cent city people, the farmers would be in the minority in the direction and management of these state owned marketing facilities.

Mr. Preus is not a word-painting orator, but he is a most wonderful reasoner. He was given close attention from minute. He did not have to resort to stories or any warming up tactics. The audience followed every word till the end and knew they were listening to an honest man. The splendid audience that greeted Mr. Preus here in his opening address must have been inspiring and encouraging. Count Chairman William Michelet opened the meeting with a few remarks. Among other things he spoke with great earnestness about the good roads meeting to be held here October 12th and favored the amendment to be voted on at the polls. He introduced Mayor John Bratrud, who presided as chairman and introduced Mr. Collins, the jollier up of the campaign. Next Mr. Preus and last, Tracy Bangs. Mr. Bangs spoke thirty minutes and finished the meeting in a blaze of glory with his appeal for the home and Americanism.

Sidelights.

The Women's Republican Club met in the basement of the Auditorium and perfected their organization, enrolling new members. Just before the meeting they marched in, headed by Mrs. Richter, Mrs. Bottleson, Miss Hamry and the ward chairmen, one hundred and forty seven in number. The band played, the audience cheered and the girls were pleased, as they had a right to be. This was indeed an answer to the effect that the women don't do anything in politics. This splendid club of good women in Thief River Falls is doing the right thing. They are rising in a most noble way to the responsibilities of citizenship. They are honest; they want to do the right thing and better than anything else, they want to do something and they are going to do it. The safety of our nation is made a thousand times more secure by the participation of women in politics.

Chairman Michelet put in a solid week working out the plans for the big meeting. He anticipated every move and the program slipped along as though it had been rehearsed.

Ella Hamry, Mrs Richter, Mrs. Bottleson, Madge Nelson, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Anderson, Republican Club workers? Can you beat 'em? Not in the Western Hemisphere.

The splendid crowd at the Preus meeting was a most inspiring sight and the result to the thoughtful women of the Women's Republican Club, "Let the women do the work!"

Jake Preus could not say say enough for our splendid Women's Republican Club. That won't lose you any votes, Jake.

By the way, what's the matter with Bratrud? Nothing! Everyone in the audience was proud of our dignified and capable mayor. He discharged his obligation most graciously and in full accord with the demands of the occasion.

The women of the club invited Tracy Bangs to come to our meeting. If he ever extends an invitation to the club members to go to Grand Forks, they will all go. That boy Tracy is some winner with the ladies.

People were in from all the surrounding towns, St. Hilaire, Hazel, Goodridge, Holt, Mavie, Middle River and Viking.

When the ladies of the Women's Republican Club kidnapped Tracy Bangs and brought him to Thief River Falls it was the only successful kidnapping of the day. The other plot failed.

Chas. B. Cheney, political editorial writer for the Minneapolis Journal, was a member of the Preus-Collins party. Mr. Cheney was with the party to get first hand impressions and to hear the opening keynote address of the candidate at this place. Mr. Cheney is the premier political writer of the northwest, a fine, courteous gentleman. Next to the visit of Candidate Preus, the presence of Mr. Cheney as a guest was a great honor to us. Mr. Cheney had never before been to the Power City and was highly pleased with the beauty and progressive appearance of our town.

Special Elks' Meeting.

A special meeting of the Elks will be held next Friday evening, October 8th, at 8 o'clock sharp. The introducing and balloting on applications for membership will be the principal matters of importance that will come up for consideration and it is urgently requested that all officers and members be on hand promptly at 8 o'clock sharp.

To Open New Market.

Frank Dulgnist and John Sorenson of this city are to open a new meat market in the C. M. Evenson building corner of Fourth and Main, and hope to have the new market open for business by the end of the present week. The new firm will butcher their own meat and expect to handle a large and complete line. Mr. Dulgnist has formerly been engaged in the meat business at Warren, where he was in business for eight years. Since that time he has been engaged in the buying of cattle, as also has Mr. Sorenson. It is the intention of the new firm to sell meats only, no groceries to be handled at any time.

Fair Association Meeting.

The Pennington County Agricultural Society will hold an adjourned meeting in the Commercial Club rooms on Friday evening of this week at 8 o'clock sharp and as there is much in the way of unfinished business to attend to it is requested that all who can attend this meeting.

ONE KILLED FIVE INJURED IN AUTO SPILL

DISTRESSING AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT SOUTH OF CITY SATURDAY MORNING.

A distressing automobile accident in which one woman of this city lost her life and in which five others were badly shaken up, occurred just this side of Red Lake Falls last Saturday morning about three o'clock when a Dodge touring car driven by J. A. Ralston of this city left the road and turned upside down in a six foot ditch.

The party was composed of Mrs. A. H. Erickson, of Lancaster; Mrs. Arthur Boyce, Mildred Gillette, J. A. Ralston, Oscar R. Smith and Elmer Role, all of this city.

Mrs. Boyce was killed instantly when the car overturned, and the supposition is that as how from the top of the car struck her in the head, causing death instantly. A large hole in the head gives evidence of the fact that death ensued in this manner and from the investigation conducted the belief is held that death was caused in this manner. The body is at Red Lake Falls and will be held there until funeral arrangements have been completed by the family. Besides her husband Mrs. Boyce leaves three small children to mourn her death.

The cause of the accident has not been fully determined, but those who have driven over this particular stretch of road will remember that there is a cut-off from what was once the regular route. Instead of making the turn, Ralston, who was driving, went straight ahead and attempted to make the turn at the next corner, which is rather sharp and which is hard to make unless taken slowly. At this corner the car swerved slightly to the right and instead of making the turn, tipped bottom side up in the ditch at the right side of the road, which is about six feet deep at this point.

Other cars came along soon after the accident and, picked up the dead and injured and took them back to Red Lake Falls, where they were given medical attention. Part of the party were brought home the same morning and the balance were left at Red Lake Falls.

Oscar R. Smith, who was one of the occupants, states that he did not go to Red Lake Falls with the party, but was down there with others and had lost them and was looking for them when he met the party on the way home and was invited to get in the side home, which invitation he accepted.

The whole party generally received a severe shaking up and are practically all under the care of physicians. The reports from the physicians in charge are to the effect that the ones injured most are on the road to recovery and nothing of a serious nature is looked for.

On Hunting Trip.

Supt. Barnard of the Soo Line, accompanied by Dr. Bratrud of Warren left today for a two weeks' hunting trip in the northern wilds of Canada. The gentlemen intend to confine themselves to geese only. It is a doubt, will change their minds when the first flock of mallards go over.

Operated on For Appendicitis.

Mrs. L. F. Fisher was operated on yesterday morning for appendicitis, and, without the operation very successfully, a fact her many friends will be glad to learn.

Wins First Game of Season.

The first football game of the season locally was played at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon when the team from this city bucked the opposing team from Red Lake Falls. The two teams are called "city teams" and are composed of former players and men who have held onto the assertion that this is the greatest game of them all. The final outcome was a score of 7 to 0 in favor of the local team. The game was a fast one and there was a fair sized crowd out to witness the passes. Next Sunday the local aggregation will meet the city team of Crookston at this place and with practice the boys hope to make it a decidedly interesting game for their opponents. Crookston is coming headed for bear" and claim to be able to take the best of them into camp, all of which is to be decided next Sunday and, according to the local boosters, the Thief River Falls team will give a good accounting of itself and will throw a bunch of surprises at the heads of the Crookston line-up.

LARGE GAIN MADE IN ALL COUNTY FUNDS

PENNINGTON COUNTY COMPARISONS GIVEN ON EFFECTS OF PRESENT AND NEW PLANS.

More than $71,000 next year and still large amounts in later years, compared with $34,000 this year, will be furnished for use on Pennington county and township roads through the adoption of Good Roads Amendment No. 1. The increase will represent indirectly savings on automobile expenses, tires, gasoline and so forth, it is explained, and neither road tax increases nor new bond issues will be necessary.

The 1920 figures here are taken from records and the Minnesota highway department furnished the estimates which are rated conservative.

State Takes Big Burden.

About 38 miles of main highways in this county—those which have long taken the biggest part of the annual funds and often the expense of the other roads—are to be taken over by the state under the plan. The counties and towns, as stated, will continue to receive all state aid and added taxes with which to build and improve their local roads. Their biggest gain, however, will result from the state taking over the federal aid roads. Then this county will give up only the personal taxes from motor vehicles which was $8,260 last year. It will also allow the state to collect the gasoline money, a share of which will be used in this county as in the past.

$10,000,000 a Year More.

Adoption of Amendment No. 1 will provide a yearly average of $10,000,000 or more for the state highway system and upwards of $15,000,000 a year for county and town road purposes. It will mean a 1921 total of $25,000,000 in round figures and more than $28,000 is being spent for maintenance and, together with the federal aid and bond money, for new construction on the 38 miles to be taken over by the state under the proposed plan. Thus only $34,000 is going for maintenance and improvement on the main roads.

All Funds Sufficient.

The Amendment No. 1 plan, engineers figure, will yield $72.00 for the 38 miles, compared with the present total of $34,000 this year. Larger amounts will be spent on the trunk highways also, without any bond issues. Every dollar taken from the sources named must be used on the county-town roads and not one cent on the state system.

The state will be bound by the constitution to properly maintain all trunk highways in this county and to fairly apportion the remaining funds for permanent improvements. The estimated state fund of $10,000,000 a year, engineers state, will provide for grading, draining and graveling or 200 miles and the hard-surfacing of 200 miles more each year, in addition to adequate maintenance. Thus, in six years the state system will be made up of finely drained and graveled roads, except for more than 1,500 miles which will be hard surfaced to meet heavy traffic demands. As maintenance expenses decrease, permanent improvements will increase each year.

Queries to be Answered.

Another reason for allowing the wheels that use the roads to pay for them is that the present system may soon force the state to turn back to the counties some of the so-called state roads in order to concentrate its forces and funds on more important trunk roads already breaking down under increased motor traffic.

The Tribune plans to devote a limited space to questions that may be raised that this important proposal may be intelligently decided at the polls on Nov. 2.

Stages Big Fur Sale.

The Sapero Company, as is their yearly custom, are holding on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, a big fur sale and are showing many thousands of dollars worth of the finest furs the market affords. The representative of the company is coming with a $25,000 line of furs and this will give the ladies of this territory an opportunity to make their selections from one of the largest and most complete lines on the road at this time.

CITY JAIL BROKEN INTO LAST NIGHT AND LARGE HAUL OF BOOZE MADE

ROBBERS MAKE AWAY WITH ALMOST FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF WHISKEY AND ALCOHOL

Breaking out of jail is a common occurrence, but breaking into jail and out again the same evening within the hour is the accomplishment of what the local authorities believe to be local talent.

The city jail was broken into last night some time after midnight and between four and five thousand dollars worth of whiskey and alcohol carted away.

The burglars gained entrance thru the front door of the jail by using a crowbar, prying the lock loose and literally forcing their way thru steel to get at the precious cargo stored behind the locks. The booze, which had been accumulating from raids made by the authorities on bootleggers in this section totaled upwards of four thousand dollars and was locked in a cell inside the jail and the double precaution taken of fastening the cell door with handcuffs between the irons. These were twisted and battered until they were finally loosened and the burglar or burglars gained entrance to the cell.

After gaining entrance into the cell short works was made of the business in hand and the booze was carted away before discovery was made.

It O. E. Hanson, painter, discovered the door standing open this morning on his way to work and notified the authorities that it looked as though it had been tampered with. Upon investigation the authorities found the entire cargo of whiskey gone.

Little evidence of the "raid" was left by the guilty parties and the job was done in such a slick manner that it is hard to believe entrance was gained in this manner. A large chunk of wood was used between the crowbar and the door to deaden the sound and in this manner entrance was gained quietly without disturbing the neighborhood.

It is the belief of the authorities that the crime was committed by local talent and a careful investigation may disclose the guilty, in the course of a few days.

The inventory of the booze stolen includes ninety assorted quarts of whiskey, eighteen half pints of alcohol in one suitcase and twenty-seven pints in another suit case and one four gallon can half full of alcohol.

It is estimated the value of the booze can be placed between four and five thousand dollars.

FARMER DIES AFTER ATTACK BY NEIGHBOR

RED LAKE YOUTH GIVES HIMSELF UP FOLLOWING FARMER'S DEATH.

Ferdinant Marsonette, a farmer living near Red Lake Falls, was killed Friday afternoon by being hit over the head with a pitchfork in the hands of Frank Plante, 18 years of age.

No confirmed reports of the circumstances surrounding the death of Marsonette can be obtained. One report, however, says Plante claims self defense. This version alleges Marsonette and another man were quarreling and when Plante interrupted to separate them Marsonette turned on him and in self defense Plante hit him with the pitchfork.

Another report declares Marsonette and Plante became involved in a quarrel over some grain sacks while threshing five miles out of Red Lake Falls. Losing his temper, Plante, it is said, grabbed a pitchfork and struck Marsonette over the head, knocking him unconscious.

Not knowing the blow had been fatal, Plante is then said to have reported to the Red Lake authorities that he had just assaulted a man and wanted to pay a fine. It is further added that he said he intended to assault the man again as soon as he recovered from the first blow and would like to pay another fine for the threshing he contemplated delivering.

Investigation followed, it is said, and it was found that Marsonette had died and Plante was arrested by Sheriff Charles Fellman.

Married Saturday.

Municipal Judge N. W. Tarrant united in marriage last Saturday Miss Nora Just, of St. Hilaire, and Henry Stensrud, of this city.

PURE STOCK FEED IS REQUIRED; STATE LAW

Misbranded or Adulterated Manufactured Feeds Are Barred From State

The Minnesota legislature in 1919 passed a law of great importance to the stock feeders and farmers of this state. The law is briefly known as the "Minnesota Feeding Stuffs Law." It is similar to laws which have been in effect in several other states for a number of years. The purpose of the law is to protect the consumer against short-weight, misbranded and adulterated feeds. Under this law no concentrate feeding stuffs can be sold or exposed for sale in the state of Minnesota without having attached to the bag a statement of the ingredients, the net weight of the package, the guaranteed analysis and the name and address of the manufacturer. In addition to this, a tag bearing the signature of the state dairy and food commissioner must be attached to each package of feed to show that the feed has been registered with the state.

Shortly after the passage of the act, the dairy and food commissioner appointed chief inspector in the divisate chemist of the University of Minnesota who had been employed for a number of years in various state and federal laboratories, to organize the new division of feed inspection and to become chemist in charge. Hugh J. Hennessey, also a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a federal food and drugs inspector, was appointe chief inspector in the division of feed inspection.

Getting the work under way, installing the laboratory equipment, fitting up the offices etc., took considerable time and it was therefore not until about the first of October that the actual enforcement of the law began. Since that time and up to August 1, the state feed inspectors have visited about 550 towns, 928 feed stores and 137 flour mills. In addition to this, the inspectors have investigated complaints, visited farms, made thorough factory inspections of 92 feed manufacturing plants and collected and submitted to the laboratory for examination 919 samples of feed. Examination of these samples in the laboratory by the chemists resulted in about one-half of these samples being classed legal or satisfactory. The others were below the guarantee for protein or fat or above the guarantee for fibre, or they contained impurities not guaranteed on the label, or in some instances ingredients were guaranteed on the label which were not found in the sample. Products which had not been registered with the division of feed inspection or which were not labeled so as to agree with the registration were also classed as illegal.

The division of feed inspection has worked out a plan whereby every town in Minnesota having a population of 200 or over will be visited at least once a year.

When a manufacturer is found to be wilfully selling feed in violation of the law, the case is referred to the attorney general for prosecution in court. In cases where analysis shows the samples to be considerably below the guarantee, manufacturers have been required to make satisfactory adjustments to the purchasers of such products. The department has been instrumental in securing funds of several hundred dollars for consumers this paying of funds is not considered complete reparation, if the department considers it necessary to act further in the case, but merely shows the good intentions of the manufacturer.

It is difficult to judge the value of a pure feed law in dollars and cents. However, an interesting estimate can be made by taking tankage, which is an expensive and a high protein feed, as an example. This product has been found on analysis to be below the guarantee in a great many cases, as much as 8 per cent in such instances. An estimate by the department shows that between three and four thousand tons of this feed were sold in Minnesota in 1919. Supposing that only two thousand tons of this feed were sold with an average of five per cent deficiency in protein, at the present value of this product, this would represent a loss of $20,000 to the purchasers. The prevention of this loss alone would pay the entire expenses of carrying on the work of the division of feed inspection.

Last winter the department found that feeds which contained as high as 70 per cent screenings and only 30 per cent barley were being sold under the name of "Ground Feed Barley" and a product containing ground corn cobs, screenings, etc., with only a small percentage of corn was sold under the name of "Corn Feed Meal." [illegible] found as sale which [illegible] unfit for feeding purposes, and [illegible] one complaint by the [illegible] bought out the fact that [illegible] the product was originally sold as elevator dust and should not have been on sale as screenings.

When misbranded or adulterated feed or feeds which have not been registered and tagged with official tags are found on sale by the inspectors, same are removed from sale and the manufacturers are notified that the feed must be sold in accordance with the law. Since the enforcement of the law began, 2,049,500 pounds of feed have been found by inspectors which it was necessary to remove from sale.

The value of this law is immeasurable as it is shown mostly in the effect on the whole feed business by making misrepresentation, misbranding and any other forms of illegal practices punishable by law. The department has evidence that products not suitable for feeding purposes have been shipped by Minnesota manufactures to other states where there are no feed laws to protect consumers. Manufacturers have admitted the shipment to other states of feeds that would not be satisfactory under the Minnesota law, but which could be sold without interference in states having no feed laws in operation.

Up to August 1, 920 feed firms have registered with the division of feed inspection. About fifty of these registrations have been cancelled at the request of the manufacturers and registered with the division of feed guaranteed analysis of composition. Several feeds have been cancelled by the department, as it was found that the products sold under the registration were misbranded and the names under which the products were registered were unfair and misleading to the purchaser.

Farmers should note that the feed law does not prevent the sale of poor feeds but requires that all feeds show plainly, either on the bag or on a tag attached to their true composition. Farmers or consumers can therefore be benefitted by noting carefully the guarantee on any feeds purchased and buying only the feeds which are most suitable and economical for their purpose.

A report will be made by the division of feed inspection at the end of each year. The one for the year 1919 is ready for free distribution. This contains a list of all the feeds registered up to January 1st, reports on samples of feed analyzed by the department and other information of value to purchasers of feed. A copy of this bulletin can be obtained at any time by writing to the Division of Feed Inspection, Old State Capitol, St. Paul. The department will give prompt attention to complaints on feed which has been found by consumers to be adulterated or in any way unsatisfactory.

The Marvelous Growth of Co-Operation in Europe

(By Frederick C. Howe)

The co-operative movement which is making such marvelous strides in the United States is doing even more marvelous things in Europe. Judging by the reports which come to labor, it is sweeping over both Great Britain and continental Europe. The workers are determined to take possession of their economic life. They are determined to end exploitation. No single thing better evidences the growing power of the working class than its mobilization in the economic field.

The co-operative movement in Italy numbered 7,000 societies before the war. It now numbers 10,000. The turnover of the Italian co-operative wholesale society was 1,410,000 lire in 1914. It was 9,000,000 lire in 1918.

Little Switzerland had 696 co-operative societies in 1914, with a collective membership of 276,000. By 1918 there were 849 societies with a total membership of 341,826. The collective turnover of these societies in 1918 was 237,596,778 francs. And the wholesale trade operations increased from 45,717,076 francs in 1914 to 129,710,746 francs in 1918.

In 1914 the number of co-operative societies in Sweden was 883, with a membership of 92,207. At the end of 1918 there were 849 societies with a collective membership of 203,600.

In Norway there were 393 societies which did a business of 10,019,600 kroner. In 1918 there were 67,910 members and the societies did a business of 8,139,900 kroner.

In 1913 there were 292 distributive and productive co-operative societies in Czecho-Slovakia, with a total membership of 14,267. In 1918 there were 645 societies, with a membership of 150,000. The turnover increased from 23,743,047 kronen in 1913 to 90,000,000 kronen in 1918. The Co-operative Wholesale Society at Prague, which did a business of 3,238,427 kronen in 1914, increased its business to 38,333,525 kronen in 1918. The movement is growing so rapidly in this new country that it is anticipated that the turnover of 1919 will be double that of 1918.

The German co-operative movement has lost and gained ground during the war. The German Wholesale Society shows a decrease in the turnover during the war. In 1914 the total turnover was 197,524,040 marks, and in 1918 it had shrunk to 104,500,972 marks. But the local co-operative stores have more than held their own during the war. At the end of 1918 there were 10,910 distributive co-operatives, serving 2,231,917 members of the societies; the total turnover was 670,753,153 marks. Compare this with the record for 1014, which showed the existence of 10,109 societies, having a membership of 1,717,519 and a turnover of 492,980,519 marks. While there are fewer societies their membership is larger by more than half a million and the turnover has increased by 177,772,634 marks.

Co-operation is growing in India. In 1918 the number of societies in the Bombay Presidency increased from 1,381 to 1,615. The membership increased ruing that time from 131,000 to 156,200 and the working capital from $6,160,000 to $8,140,000. Most of these societies are agricultural. There were 1,091 agricultural co-operative societies in 1917 and in 1918 there were 1,390 such societies. In addition to these societies there are people's banks, groups formed by railway employes, government employes and mill hands. There are also co-operative housing societies in Bombay.

It is difficult to secure reliable statistics showing the growth of the co-operative movement in Russia. It is estimated by representatives of the Russian co-operatives that they have a membership of 20,000,000, mostly heads of families. They have an approximate turnover of six billion rubles (worth in normal money about three billion dollars). There are about 50,000 local societies, comprising 300 regional unions. They are served by several large central wholesale unions, which have agencies in other countries. Their foreign sales aggregate nearly 2,000,000 rubles worth of flax, lumber, furs, skins, vegetables, eggs, butter, oil, tar, starch, tobacco and a variety of other articles produced by co-operative societies. In 1918 the co-operative creamery associations of Siberia, numbering 3,000 factories and stores, with a membership of 1,500,000, produced 60 per cent of the butter made in Siberia. Co-operators in Russia own their own flour and paper mills, candy, shoe, tobacco, soap, syrup, chemical and match factories, fisheries and refrigerator plants. And back of these vast enterprises are the peoples' banks and credit societies, which furnish the credit by means of which the producing and distributing co-operatives operate.

BAL... [illegible]

It has been learned [illegible] big league ball players have two ambitions—first, to "cut-in" on a world's series "melon" or two—then, second, with their money, buy farms—where, when their playing days are over, they may retire. This picture shows members of the Chicago White Sox visiting the Department of Agriculture experimental farm near Washington where Secretary Meredith showed them some real high ones—in corn. Pitcher "Red" Faber is on top of the ladder, while Secretary Meredith points to a higher stalk. In the foreground is an old-time ball player, Paul Hines, now employed in the agricultural department, who, when a member of the White Sox years ago, made the first triple play, unassisted.

NEW FORESTS NECESSARY FOR LUMBER

In response to a resolution of the United States senate, the Forest Service has restudied the forest situation of the country. It was found that recent high prices of lumber, newsprint, turpentine and other forest products have seriously affected many industries.

The growing and the saw timber the most valuable and most needed part of the stand, is being cut five and one-half times as fast as it is produced. More than 80,000,000 acres of land that should be growing timber is unproductive waste, much more is only partially productive and fires steadily causing further deterioration.

The new study of the situation made by the Forest Service contains many facts never before brought out, regarding both individual industries and conditions in individual states and regions. It discusses also tee relation between forest depletion and the lumber prices, depletion and exports, and concentration in timber ownership, manufacturing and marketing. Fresh light is thrown on the question of timber monopoly.

Finally, a program is outlined for bringing about a fundamental and pemanent change in the situation. Timber in large quantities will always be an economic necessity and we must prepare to grow it. The measures required for this are outlined in full in two Forest Service publications just issued.

One of these is the complete text of the report on Senate resolution No. 311 and is entitled "Timber Depletion, Lumber Prices, Lumber Exports and Concentration of Timber Ownership." It is sold, price 25 cents (stamps not accepted) by the superintendent of public documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

The second publication is United States Department of Agriculture Circular 112, 16 pages, "Timber Depletion and its Answer." This is a summary of the report and will be sent free on request by the United State Department of Agriculture.

CANADA BUILDS 3,000 HOMES
NEW HOMES FOR CITIZENS

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—More than 3,000 thousand buildings have been erected in Canada this year under the Dominion and Provincial housing schemes. This total will be increased by the end of the year by the continuance of buildings in sections of the country where climatic conditions permit it. More houses have been built under the Canadian housing scheme, it is said, that under that in operation in Great Britain.

The Canadian parliament, it will be recalled, appropriated $25,000,000 for housing. This money was to be lent to the provinces at five per cent per annum. Provincial legislatures voted sums to supplement those borrowed from the Dominion and made provision for loans to persons desiring to build houses. Nearly all the Dominion appropriation has been taken up.

In Ontario, the sums appropriated for housing, federal and provincial, totaled about $11,000,000. In New Brunswick also 50 houses have been built under the federal scheme. In Quebec homes have been erected and garden suburbs have been laid out. In the western provinces hundreds of homes have been built, mostly for returned soldiers.

Indications are that building operations will be more extensive in 1921 than they have been in 1920.

FIRST FARM BUREAU PRESIDENT FROM RANKS

The American Farm Bureau Federation drafted a real farmer from the ranks to serve as its first president. He is James R. Howard of Clemons, Ia. Three years ago Jim Howard was known to his neighbors "as the best farmer in central Iowa," so they elected him head of the local County Farm Bureau. Last year the state organization selected him, and now he heads the national body. Howard grew up on the same farm where he now lives—only the original quarter section now numbers 480 acres. He attended school at Grinnell, Penn College and University of Chicago. He tried teaching, then banking, but 10 years ago returned to active charge of the old farm—which now is rated "one of the best in the state."

PIGS' SEASHORE TALK.

"Well, grunt, grunt," said Porky Pig, "never did I hear such goings on in all my life."

"What is the matter Grandfather Porky?" asked Brother Bacon. "Squeal, squeal, what is the matter?"

"Well," said Porky Pig, "this is the matter. I've heard the people around the farm talking in the most ridicinous way lately.

"It has been perfectly absurd."

"What have they said?" asked Miss Ham. "Have they said they didn't like food? That would be as absurd as anything I could imagine."

"No, they didn't say that," said Porky. "They have talked in even a more foolish way. They haven't mentioned food at all. Could anything be more foolish?"

"Nothing could," squealed Miss Ham.

"Nothing at all," said Brother Bacon. "Nothing that I can think of," said Mrs. Pink Pig, "could be any more foolish."

"I could think of nothing more foolish either," said Pinky Pig.

"The same with me," said Master Pink Pig.

"I agree with all of you," said Sammy Sausage.

"But what was it all about?" asked Brother Bacon.

"Yes, you'll have to tell us that," said Miss Ham.

"I will tell you," said Porky Pig. "Go on" squealed all the pigs.

"I don't want to go on," said Porky. "I'd rather stand still. I'm tired and I feel lazy and besides the farmer knows I'm here and I might miss him and some of his food if I went away."

"You wouldn't mind missing him, only his food," squealed Pinky Pig.

"My dear Pinky," said Grandfather Porky, "I am an honest pig and I don't pretend what I don't feel."

"You feel very little besides hunger," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"The same is true of you, dear Madame," said Grandfather Porky.

"Though it is true you do think of how much you can get away from others and how much you can eat in a hurry so no one can get it away from you," he added.

"And that is true of you too," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"I admit it," said Grandfather Porky. "I'm a regular pig. I'm not an unselfish little creature who says,

"'Dear friend, divide this piece with me.' Gracious no, I don't say anything absurd like that.

"But I was going to tell you of all this foolish talking that has been going on. The farmer and his wife are going to let the children go and visit some friends at the seashore and all the children have been doing has been to talk of the sea and how they can go in swimming and of how they can build sand castles, and of all such things.

"They've talked about glorious dips in the ocean and of how the waves would go over their heads and of how the clear, sparkling blue green ocean would make them feel so cool and so fresh on the hot days.

"They've said how lovely it would be to wade in and then to have a great breaker of water and foam dash over them.

"Well, it has been almost more than I could stand. Just think of what nonsense. They've been thinking of nothing but bathing, salt water bathing and swimming and diving and paddling and of such things.

"They haven't mentioned food, or mud or pigs or greediness or anything like that.

"They've talked about the ocean—which is nothing but a lot of water! Not even water to make mud, but water to bathe in and to swim in.

"It has been so silly. Well, I'm thankful to say that pigs aren't so silly. Pigs don't go down to the beaches and stand around and squeal about the beauty of salt water swimming.

"They don't go and talk about sand castles and brokers and waves. No, at least pigs have sense, good pig sense."

"They have that," agreed all the pigs, "they have that, and they'll never be so foolish as to spend their time on the beaches by the ocean!"

When we hear Candidate Preus, Prof. Hay, Candidate Collins, D. P. O'Neill and other top notcher state officials urging co-operative marketing for the farmers, we are pleased most highly. We are especially pleased when Mr. Preus, whom we think will be governor, state he will advocate these things for the farmer. When we hear this plan brought to the front and advocated in a political campaign, when we see all these men for it, when we see this as the amount issue for several years here Republican nominees, we are gratified, highly gratified. We will be pardoned, however, if we remind these men that a clamor for better markets, better market conditions and control of markets has been discussed as a paramount issue for several years here and hereabouts. We are glad indeed to see, not only an admission upon the part of others that a change is necessary, but we are glad to see as converts many men in various posts of the state, who in the past thought otherwise. This brings us to a point where we agree upon the difficulty. If the regular Republican party and the Non-Partisans fully agree that the farmers have a right to complain, if they agree that the farmer should name the price on what he sells and if they only disagree on the methods to be employed, ultimately, as a result of a common desire to reach a given point, they will be found working together. We certainly give our Non-Partisan farmers credit for breezing around on these issues till they are respected. We do not care who gives us a workable remedy. We know our farmers have been imposed upon. We know they do not get a square deal. We know if they combine, they will get it. There is a difference between co-operative economical combination and effort and political combination and effort. Finally, whoever objects to the Non-Partisan League must at least give them credit for arousing the people to a point where we may look for something constructive and helpful. The Non-Partisan League embraces a large number of our very best farmers and citizens. If they are responsible for the change in public sentiment and the Republican party policy, and we think they are, we can look for results in the future. Perhaps our good Non-Partisan farmers are serving us all to a greater extent than we appreciate.

YOUR TURN NEXT?

Sioux City Tribune: At least 149 persons will be killed in accidents today in this country. Will you be one of them? This sounds harsh, but listen:

The national safety council, in session at Milwaukee, has sent out thru the Associated Press, the death list from accidents for this country in the week August 22-28. The lists are made up in the typographic style used for casualty lists during the war. In this form they hit one between the eyes, as the saying is—and make a dent.

And well they may, for there is a theoretical average of 222 deaths from accidents per day, in this country, the year around. With the cooperation of the coroners of 210 cities and counties, the secretaries of 35 local safety councils, and of 9,000 members of the safety council, the lists have been compiled. These lists show, for instance, that on different days of the week from five to ten men are killed by accidents for each woman so killed; that in four days out of seven—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday—the number of persons killed in automobile accidents was equal to more than half the total number killed in accidents from all other causes. The safety bulletin says:

The automobile is the most dangerous machine in America. It kills a man, woman or child every 35 minutes.

Accidental deaths from all causes, on our streets, in our homes and in our industries, total 80,000 a year—a number much greater than the American lives lost in battle in the fourteen months of war.

The experience of industries and communities proves positively that three-fourths of these deaths are preventable.

The casualty list for Sunday, August 22, shows 24 deaths caused by drowning, 22 by automobile accidents, 20 by railroad accidents, 12 by falls, of either material or persons, 8 by street cars, 4 by electrocution and 61 by miscellaneous causes. Carelessness took the lives of 104 men, 15 women, 23 boys under 16 years of age and 7 girls under 16 years of age.

The list for Tuesday, August 24, shows 45 deaths resulting from automobile accidents, 2 from railroad accidents, 20 as the result of falls of either material or persons, 13 as the result of burns, fires and explosions, 12 by drowning, 8 by street cars and 4 by machinery.

Perhaps the most striking revelation of Tuesday's casualty list is the fact that on this day 17 men were killed accidentally for each woman so killed and 8 boys under 16 years of age for each girl so killed. The exact figures are: 86 men and 5 women, 38 boys and 4 girls. Among the unusual accidents of the day were: The death of a 1-year-old baby at Ooard Spring, Ind., as the result of swallowing timothy seeds; the suffocation of a 10-year-old boy who fell into a wheat pile at St. Charles, Mich., and the death of a 2-year-old baby who fell into a tub of boiling soap at Lenapel, Kan.

Women seem to be more careful than men, despite man's assumed "bigitiveness," as the women put it. But, man or woman or child, don't take a chance. When you're dead, you're a long time dead.

Remember, at least 149 persons due to die today. 75 per cent of the deaths being chargeable to carelessness.

Wake up! Get wise to your recklessness.

CHARLES CHAPIN' S STORY

Book Notes: Even a life sentence in Sing Sing and the certainty of spending the rest of his nights in a cell, c ould not altogether keep Charles Chapin, for 40 years one of America's best known newspaper men from his typewriter and the smell of printer's ink.

Chapin has now been "up the river" for nearly two years, convicted of murder. He is editor of the Sing Sing Bulletin and has injected into the management of the prison publication some of the snap which made him famous for 20 years as the city editor of the New York Evening World.

And in addition, Chapin has written an autobiagrophy. It is said to be the most amazing literary production ever created by a man in an American prison. It is not just a "prison book" but primarily the story of his own extraordinarily interesting career as an American newspaper man. And in addition there is set forth unflinchingly the story of the tragic crime which terminated his career. The title is "Charles Chapin's Story."

With the success of his first book apparently assured, the ex-editor is already writing a second. It will be called "My Friends in Sing Sing," being and intimate picture of the life and inmates of this famous institution. Why he wants to write of his prison companions perhaps is best indicated by the following extracts from the foreword to his present book:

"My closest friends of bygone days could not have been more kind than these unfortunate men who are serving long terms of imprisonment. There is so much good in the worst of them; so much sympathy and generosity among them all. I expect to be here as long as I live and I am trying to serve God and be helpful to my fellowmen as best I can. The past is behind me. What I have done I cannot undo. I give no thought to what may come. The yesterdays are gone, the tomorrows will take care of themselves. I try to get as much as I possibly can out of each day as I live it."

CROOKED MR. CICOTTE.

The confession of Cicotte and the indictment of several baseball heroes has smirched professional baseball. There is no excuse for the players who sold out. They were and are crooked. But professional baseball has held a good name among professional sports. It has been concededly clean and its patrons have trusted it.

Cicotte and his accomplices are incidental to the scandalous revelations. If it had not been Cicotte and his associates it would have been others. The purchase of players was the result of long effort and a settled deliberation of purpose. Who spoiled professional baseball? The gamlers.

The spoil all they touch. They made foot racing as rotten as porch climbing. Their shadow fell upon the sport of kings and darkened it. One sport after another has been ruined and discredited by them. Professional baseball was left and they have managed after long effort to besmear that.

The professional gambler is usually a crook. We have all heard the tradition of this and that "square gambler." Perhaps there is such a thing. There are white blackbirds. But a blackbird is a blackbird and a blackleg is a blackleg and professional gamblers belong out generis to the order of blacklegs.

The hny baschall players if they can, jockeys if they can, debauch all and everything they can to their purposes. They buy immunity from police powers when they can and it is the Hintenging line between the crook and the calaboose.

Big or little, top hole or tin horn, the professional gambler is a standing menace to the community. The man who manages to live without working and have money nobody knows how needs investigation. A loafer in broadcloth is usually a crook of some kind or the kindred of crooks.—Marshalltown Times-Republican.

FEDERATED FARM BUREAU POINTS CRISIS

The American Farm Bureau Federation, in a statement summarizing its investigations into industrial and agricultural conditions, declared that America is facing an agricultural economic condition which, if not intelligently dealt with, will lead to consequences so grave as to affect all industry to the point of imperiling the social order.

The statement says farmers must be given immediate help in transportation, finance and labor, and recommends the following as remedial efforts which would go a long ways toward solving agricultural difficulties:

Preferential treatment in transportation to all farm produce held for shipment and to all goods consigned to farmers which are necessary to conduct the business of farming

Would Cut Middlemen

More profits for farmers, better distribution systems which would tend to eliminate middlemen, and stabilized prices.

Ample finance, with rural banks assuming the obligations of financing the farmer with long and priority credits.

Protection from "wild cat" investments which are said to be taking millions of dollars from farms annually.

Equalization of agricultural and industrial labor wages, which the statement declares, can be accomplished only by lowering industrial wages or increasing farm wages.

Luxuries Get Credit.

Encouragement of immigration.

"We have tried to rehabilitate our country by ever method except through sweat of the brow," the statement says. "Many industries have been stimulated to the point that they are to heavy. Liberal credit has had the effect of inflating values. Abnormal credit extensions granted to manufacturers of luxuries and non-essentials have been largely expended in driving up wages and the cost of living while producers of essentials have been overlooked. We need more capital rather than more credit."

Concerning transportation the statement says:

Asks Crop Priority.

"It will be months and even years before our transportation systems can be restored to their normal efficiency and preference must be granted agricultural produce immediately so as to move this year's crops."

Concerning profits the statement adds that more profits for the farmer would not necessarily mean higher costs to the consumer.

"In most cases we will find the remedy in elimination of excessive middlemen's profits," it says.

The statement closes with a plea that the farm and farm life be advertised to overcome the tendency of farmer boys to flock to the cities.

JACOBSON HAS AIDED FARMER

Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner Saves Millions for Grain Growers by Devotion to Their Interests.

O. P. B. JACOBSON.

O. P. B. Jacobson, of Fergus Falls, has been a member of the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission for more than six years. Previous to his appointment to that body, he had been a member of the State Board of Grain Appeals, in which capacity he gained that intimate knowledge of grading grain and of the commercial requirements of the grain trade generally, which has made him such a useful public official. His services to the agricultural and industrial interests of the state have been conspicuous and invaluable, and he is destined to achieve still greater results.

Mr. Jacobson was born in Norway, and received his education in city schools. Like a true Norseman, he went to sea, and after serving before the mast, he took up the study of navigation. Upon completing the course at Christiania he again followed a seafaring life. The Great West attracted him, and he followed the call, locating in 1884 at Fergus Falls, which has since been his home. Here he was engaged in various mercantile affairs, and also in journalism, editing for some years the Fergus Falls Ugeblad.

Looks Out for Farmer.

As a member of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, Mr. Jacobson has been particularly zealous in guarding the interests of the farmers. He has been a consistent opponent of the federal system of grading grain, and it has been largely through his efforts that the extremely technical standards promulgated by the federal department of agriculture have been modified to comply more nearly to the commercial demands. He is the author of a bill now before Congress, and which will provide that rules and standards for grading grain shall be prepared by a board of practical grain men, each state producing 100,000,000 or more, bushels of grain, to be represented on such a board. He also is the author of another bill before Congress, designed to compel railroads having tidewater terminals, to provide ample facilities for storing and handling all grain and grain products arriving at such terminals. It is his contention that the passage and enforcement of such a measure virtually will prevent congestion of freight cars upon the Atlantic seaboard, and which company is supposed to be due to "car famine."

Active in Getting Coal.

Mr. Jacobson has been notably active of late in obtaining orders from the Interstate Commerce Commission, directing the movement of 4,000 cars of coal to the lower lake ports for trans-shipment to Duluth and the return of Northwestern railroads of all cars owned by them but used by eastern and southern railroads. Without the return of such cars, it will be impossible to move the immense grain crops of the Northwest, upon which the prosperity of this section of the country so largely depends.

FALL BLOUSE STYLES

The men's silk shirt market is dead. And as a result milady is getting qualities into fall blouses of more durable material than in years, for "man's silk" blouses are quite the rage in big city shops now. Styles are the Russian blouse, and the old bosque is back again. Materials are satins, tricolettes, and crepe de Chine. Trimmings are fringe, braids and yarn embroidery.

Whenever there is a disease or suffering in some part of the body, Chiropractic has demonstrated that it is due to the pressure of spinal bones on the nerves that should feed those affected organs. Invariably when this pressure is relieved by Chiropractic Adjustments, the trouble vanishes and health conditions are restored.

That is why, if you go to a Chiropractor to be relieved of severe headaches or other troubles, he adjusts that part of the spine where certain nerves are pressed (or squeezed) by the movable bones of the spine. He adjusts the bones back to normal position thus removing the pressure. Nature's healing forces are set free to build up and strengthen the weakened or diseased parts.

Experience has shown that there is hardly a case of disease or ailment that has not been benefited by Chiropractic Adjustments of the spine. The Chiropractor knows just what part of the spine to adjust for different troubles. It's all a part of his science and his training.

is never followed by adverse results. Certainly it has never done anyone any harm, but it has done thousands an immeasurable amount of good. If you are ailing, no doubt the trouble lies in your spine. Try Chiropractic and prove its merits.

NEW RATES TO AFFECT PRICES BUT LITTLE

All Increase Adds Only Three Cents a Day to Every Person's Budget.

The relation of the new railroad freight rates to the already topheavy cost of living—a question of paramount interest to housewives and their groaning spouses—is touched upon from the railroad point of view in a compilation of figures showing transportation costs, old and new, for various commodities, prepared for the Chicago Daily News by one of the leading traffic experts of the country.

The rate increases, amounting to $600,000,000, when spread over the country's total population, amount to about $12 per head annually or 3 cents a day for each person.

For instance these figures show that the added cost of transporting a suit of clothes weighing ten pounds—and that would make a fairly heavy winter suit—a distance of 410 miles, is only 21 cents.

Then again a pound can of meats, vegetables, etc., transported 500 miles will add one mill, one-tenth of a cent, to the transportation cost of that can of food over the present rate.

Other figures show:

Canned goods, one pound, carried 1,582 miles: Present freight rate per pound, 12 mills; increased by the new rates, 3.6 mills; total new rate to transport one pound that distance, 15.6 mills.

Canned goods, Seattle, Wash., to Chicago, 2,190 miles, present rate per pound, 11 mills; monetary increase, 3.9 mills; total new rate, 43 mills (less than one-half of a cent.

Sugar, one pound, New York to Chicago, present rate, 4.4 mills; monetary increase, 1.8 mills, total new rate 6.3 mills.

Coffee, one pound, New York to Chicago, present rate, 4.5 mills, increase 1.8 mills, total new rate, 6.3 mills.

Flour, 100 pounds, Minneapolis to Sioux City, Iowa, 370 mile, present rate, 15.5 cents, increase, 54.2 mills, total new rate, 209 cents.

Flour, 100 pounds, Minneapolis to Seattle, Wash., 1,780 miles, present rate, 61 cents, monetary increase, 18.3 cents, total new rate 79.3 cents.

Soap, one pound, Kansas City to Chicago, 500 miles, present rate 3.4 mills, increase 1.1 mills, total new rate, 4.5 mills.

Bituminous coal, one ton, Illinois mines to Chicago, present rate (average) $1.35 per ton, monetary increase 75.2 cents, total new rate $2.90 per ton.

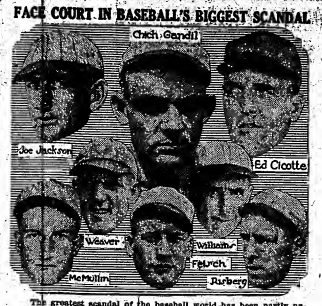
Men's clothing, suit of ten pounds, present rate St. Paul to Chicago, 7.5 cents, monetary increase, 2.25 cents totau new rate, 9.75 cents.

Men's clothing, Seattle to Chicago ten pound suit, present rate, 40.2 cents, increase 12 cents, total new rate, 52.2 cents.

Dry goods, woolens, underwear, carpets, etc., Kansas City to Chicago, per pound (a suit of underwear weighs about a pound) present rate 1 cent; monetary increase 3.5 mills, total new rate, 1.35 cents (increase about one-third of a cent).

Dry goods, woolens, underwear, etc., one pound, Butte, Mont., to Chicago, present rate, one pound, 4 cents, increase 1.2 cents, total new rate, 5.2 cents (increase 1 1-5 cents.

Furniture, St. Paul to Chicago, for 60-pound dresser, present rate 21 cents, increase 7.35 cents, total new rate, 28.35 cents.



Furniture, Kansas City to Chicago, 20-pound chair, present rate, 8 cents, increase 2.8 cents, total new rate, 10.8 cents.

Rates Don't Boost Prices.

The railroad rate increases were made necessary by the increases in commodity and labor prices. Prices increased in things the railroads had to buy; the increased cost of commodities raised the cost of living, railroad wages had to go up the same as other wages. Since 1915 prices and wages have exceeded 100 per cent in increase, including the new increases has averaged 80 per cent.

Commodity merchants are not justified in raising their prices and making the freight increases the reason for it until the railroad increases have at least reached that 100 per cent mark. The railroad rates have been made to follow that commodity increase to offset that increase. The merchants and manufacturers have been benefiting for five years thru their price increases without corresponding railroad increases to offset them. They have been ahead of the game.

FACE COURT IN BASEBALL'S BIGGEST SCANDAL

The greatest scandal of the baseball world has been partly uncovered in the confession of a number of the champion Chicago White Sox, eight of whom are indicted charged with accepting bribes to "throw" games in the 1919 world series with Cincinnati. "Chick" Gandil, who was formerly with the team, is named as the chief fixer, Joe Jackson (left) and Ed Cicotte (right), the first two to have confessed. Claude Williams, "Buck" Weaver, "Hap" Felsch, Charles Risberg and Fred McMullin are the other five so far named.

GENERAL NEWS REVIEW OF STATE

St.Paul, Minn., Oct. 4.—Unexpected changes in business and agricultural conditions during September resulted in conjectures of the wildest kind as regards future developments. The following report for the month, issued by the Farmer, St. Paul, briefly summarizes agricultural and economic conditions in the northwest:

Small grain yields in the northwest (Minnesota, Montana, North and South Dakota) bested last year's cropby thirty-five per cent, according to the latest estimate made by the Federal Reserve Bank. The quality of grain varies from fair to good. Corn promises a bumper crop which is practically all out of danger from frost. Silos are full and seed corn has been gathered in considerable quantities. Minnesota potato yields are generally fair, mid-summer drouth having a marked effect in keeping the yields down. Clover responded well in seed production, yields as high as six bushels per acre being reported. Rains revived pastures so as to supplement the good hay crop last summer and the filled silos is providing an abundance of feed for fall and winter.

Grain prices appear less favorable than yields. Corn (December) fell to 86¾ cents per bushel on September 23, making its first drop below the dollar level since June, 1917. Oats joined the sliding party to 53¼ cents a bushels, its lowest quotation since September 1917. Wheat dropped 12 cents to $2.201 in Minneapolis on Friday, September 24, but began an active recovery, reaching $2.261 the following Monday. Farmers have held their grain.

Cattle movements have been lighter by 15 to 20 per cent during September than for the corresponding period for the past four years. Fewer hogs by 20 per cent reached the market than in September of 1919 and 1919. The sheep run was about the average.

Hogs topped the Chicago market at $18 a hundred on September 18, this being their peak price for the year. The general decline beginning September 22 started hogs downward however, tops selling for from $16.25 to $17.56. Cattle and sheep both showed a decline of from 50 cents to $1.50 a hundred during the month. Stocker and feeder cattle have found many buyers. This condition will probably be more evident from now on, due to the drop in grain. Feed is plentiful, hence stockmen, although disgusted with market uncertainties of the past three years, are inclined to feed again.

With corn down, feeding hogs promise to be in demand. Estimates place the number of stock hogs on farms as nine per cent less than last year. The northwest coal situation changed from a very bad state of affairs to "good prospects" during the month. It is believed that danger of household suffering and closing down of factories is passed.

The Minnesota and South Dakota state fairs were visited by great crowds. Livestock exhibits at both fairs were reported more numerous than usual. Farmers showed keen interest in agriculture and industrial displays. All indications point to a decided improvement in northwest agriculture. Farmers are improving their farming methods, raising better stock and increasing their efficiency by the use of labor saving machinery. The northwest is playing an important part in agriculture production.

Team Work

Mostly it is used in connection with athletic affairs. We are told of wonderful victories —when every member of a team PULLS TOGETHER— when someone doesn't go off trying to make a star play, at the expense of the others.

Trouble is that we limit the word to our recreation—sport—athletics. We should follow through; think, use, live team-work in everything we do.

If team-work is a winner in sports, then team-work is good in family affairs—and we all know how the household thrives wherein every member has a shoulder to the wheel.

If team-work is good in the family then it is good in our work—the commercial organization or unit where we earn our daily bread.

If team-work is good in our work—then team-work is good for our neighborhood affairs—our community—our town.

And right there, friends, is where we can make the greatest showing—when we ALL practice team-work in the development and growth of OUR town and county.

When the merchants of this town spend money for advertising space to send you a message of economy—savings—bargains—that message should be read. They've invested thousands of dollars in goods to supply you—and without one guarantee that you will buy.

To earn your money here, then take it to the big city store—or send it to th mail order house—neither of which contributes one cent to the upbuilding of this community—is not team-work.

Read the advertisements in this paper today, then patronize our home merchants.

ALL MINNESOTA COUNTIES ARE COUNTED WITH THE EXCEPTION OF OLMSTEAD.

Minnesota's 1920 population exceeds 2,379,883, according to official figures given out by the federal census bureau Monday, which is complete with the exception of Olmstead county. This is a population gain of 14.6 per cent over the 1910 census, which gave the state 2,075,708. Olmstead's 1910 population of 22,497 was used to obtain the 1920 total.

Minnesota was organized as a territory in 1849 and appears in the federal census reports for the first time in 1850. During the decade 1850-60 its population increased from 6,077 to 172,023 and during the 30 years 1860-1890 the growth continued at a rapid rate. For each succeeding decade during this period the absolute increases were greater, although the percentage increases declined from 155.6 to 67.8. In the decade 1890-1900 the percentage increase dropped to 33.7 and in the following decade to 18.5, the absolute increases as well as the rate showing a decline at the censuses of 1900 and 1910.

Most of the counties in the state show gains ranging from 0.6 per cent in Sibley county to 110.2 per cent in Koochiching county. Nine of the counties whose population has been announced officially show losses. They were generally small, however, both numerically and in percentage.

Hennepin county shows the largest gain, 81,939, of any in the state. The percentage of gain in Hennepin was 24.6. St. Louis county is next with 43,117 or 26.4 per cent, and Ramsey ranks third, with 20,776 persons, or 9.3 per cent gain.

Five cities show losses. They are Crookston with a drop of 12 per cent, Lake City, 9.5 per cent, Red Wing, 4.5 per cent, Stillwater 24.2 per cent, and Two Harbors, 8.3 per cent. Other cities in the state, included in the list, show gains of from 2.4 per cent in Duluth to 74.5 per cent in Rochester. The numerical gains in the cities indicate a decided movement from the country to the cities.

A statement issued by the census bureau of cities of 100,000, of which there are 68, shows that Minneapolis retains its rank as the eighteenth city in the country. No city that was below Minneapolis in 1910 has gone above it. St. Paul, on the other hand, dropped from twenty-sixth place to the thirtieth. It is now outranked by Portland, Ore., which was twenty-eighth 10 years ago and is now twenty-fourth.

HIGH SPOTS IN THE PREUS SPEECH

"There is not a heart in this land which does not favor a League of Nations to enforce peace, but in many minds the question is written: Would the League of Nations contained in the Versailles treaty result in permanent peace?

"Should it be accepted without dotting an 'i' or crossing a 't' or should certain reservations thereto be made?"

"The covenant provides that the concil shall determine by unanimous vote when it is necessary for the members of the League of Nations to exercise its authority, military or otherwise, and Article X reads as follows: 'The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

"Article X is what the president of the United States termed the heart of the covenant. Without it, the League of Nations plan fails. It is for the American people on Nov. 2 to determine whether it will have the League of Nations with Article X in, or will endorse the senate of the United States, which wants the war making power to continue to be lodged in the American people as regards American youths."

"Under the League of Nations, Japan would doubtless seek for its people the right to emigrate to the United States and become citizens. United States could no longer determine this question of immigration. It would be left for United States and eight other countries, of which Japan is one."

Sheriff J. W. LaBree has been officially notified by the authorities that the man arrested on August 12th and wanted in that city for murder, has confessed and that the reward of $500 offered by the state for the arrest and conviction of the man now belongs to Pennington county's sheriff.

It will be remembered that Sheriff LaBree arrested Andrew Coski near Warren on the suspicion that he was the man wanted and brought him to this city and held him until sure the man was the party wanted and then notified the authorities at Duluth. Coski was accused of killing Jacob Carlson on June 15, 1919, while in company with Wm. Kumpulu, who was later apprehended and who has been taken care of at the state prison at Stillwater for more than a year. Kumpulu issisted that he was not the man who did the killing and held out in spite of every measure that it was Coski. When arrested Coski admitted his identity but denied having any part in the murder, stating it was Kumpulu. This it waged back and forth between the two of them, each accusing the other, until finally Coski could no longer stand the strain and the latter part of last week confessed he was the one who committed the crime and was ready to pay the penalty.

As soon as Coski admitted his guilt the authorities at Duluth notified Sheriff LaBree that he had landed the right man and was thus entitled to the $500 reward offered by the state. Mr. LaBree sent the letter in to the governor and will no doubt receive his reward in picking up one of the most hardened criminals that has visited this section of the state for many years.

Died Sunday.

Mrs. H. Bishop, 76 years of age, died at the home of her son, W. A. Bishop, Sunday noon of congestion of the lungs. Mrs. Bishop came to this city seven years ago from West Union, Iowa, and has made her home with her son since that time. Death came very suddenly and it was not thought her condition was serious until Sunday morning, when she became very weak and passed away at noon. Funeral services were held today and interment made in Greenwood cemetery.

POPULATION OF MINNESOTA IS OVER 2,379,883

Minnesota's 1920 population exceeds 2,379,883, according to official figures given out by the federal census bureau Monday, which is complete with the exception of Olmstead county. This is a population gain of 14.6 per cent over the 1910 census, which gave the state 2,075,708. Olmstead's 1910 population of 22,497 was used to obtain the 1920 total.

Minnesota was organized as a territory in 1849 and appears in the federal census reports for the first time in 1850. During the decade 1850-60 its population increased from 6,077 to 172,073 and during the 30 years 1860-1890 the growth continued at a rapid rate. For each succeeding decade during this period the absolute increases were greater, although the percentage increases declined from 155.6 to 67.8. In the decade 1890-1900 the percentage increase dropped to 33.7 and in the following decade to 18.5, the absolute increases as well a sthe rate showing a decline at the censuses of 1900 and 1910.

Most of the counties in the state show gains ranging from 0.6 per cent in Sibley county to 110.2 per cent in Koochiching county. Nine of the counties whose population has been announced officially show losses. They were generally small, however, both numerically and in percentage.

Hennepin county shows the largest gain, 81,989, of any in the state. The percentage of gain in Hennepin was 24.6. St. Louis county is next, with 43,117 or 26.4 per cent, and Ramsey ranks third, with 20,776 persons, or 0.3 per cent gain.

Five cities show losses. They are Crookston with a drop of 12 per cent, Lake City, 9.5 per cent, Red Wing 4.5 per cent, Stillwater 24.2 per cent and Two Harbors, 8.9 per cent. Other cities in the state, included in the list, show gains of from 2.4 per cent in Evelyth to 74.9 per cent in Rochester. The numerical gains in the cities indicate a decided movement from the country to the cities.

A statement issued by the census bureau of cities of 100,000, of which there are 68, shows that Minneapolis retains its rank as the eighteenth city in the country. No city that was below Minneapolis in 1910 has gone above it. St. Paul, on the other hand, dropped from twenty-sixth place to the thirtieth. It is now outranked by Portland, Ore., which was twenty-eighth 10 years ago and is now twenty-fourth.

Sheriff J. W. LaBree has been officially notified by the authorities that the man arrested on August 12th and wanted in that city for murder, has confessed and that the reward of $500 offered by the state for the arrest and conviction of the man now belongs to Pennington county's sheriff.

It will be remembered that Sheriff LaBree arrested Andrew Coski near Warren on the suspicion that he was the man wanted and brought him to this city and held him until sure the man was the party wanted and then notified the anthorities at Duluth. Coski was accused of killing Jacob Carlson on June 15, 1919, while in company with Wm. Kumpulu, who was later apprehended and who has been taken care of at the state prison at Stillwater for more than a year. Kumpulu issisted that he was not the man who did the killing and held out in spite of every measure that it was Coski. When arrested Coski admitted his identity but denied having any part in the murder, stating it was Kumpulu. Thus it waged back and forth between the two of them, each accusing the other, until finally Coski could no longer stand the strain and the latter part of last week confessed he was the one who committed the crime and was ready to pay the penalty.

As soon as Coski admitted his guilt the anthorities at Duluth notified Sheriff LaBree that he had landed the right man and was thus entiled to the $500 reward offered by the state. Mr. LaBree sent the letter in to the governor and will no doubt receive his reward in picking up one of the most hardened criminals that has visited this section of the state for many years.

Died Sunday.

Mrs. H. Bishop, 76 years of age, died at the home of her son, W. A. Bishop, Sunday noon of congestion of the lungs. Mrs. Bishop came to this city seven years ago from West Union, Iowa, and has made her home with her son since that time. Death came very suddenly and it was not thought her condition was serious until Sunday morning, when she became very weak and passed away at noon. Funeral services were held today and interment made in Greenwood cemetery.

PREUS AND COLLINS

VOL. 20 No. 61 RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1920 Official Paper of Pennington County

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

EVERY ROAD A GOOD ROAD IS THE NEW PLAN

MOTOR TRAFFIC TO BEAR COST OF IMPROVING AND MAINTAINING HIGHWAYS

(The Tribune publishes here an explanation of the proposed Good Roads Amendment No. 1 by its advocates, to aid in obtaining the public consideration this important matter deserves. None are opposed to good roads and the new plan is regarded by many as the best metho to secure them. Questions about Amendment No. 1 will be printed later.)

Shall Minnesota be allowed to help its counties and towns to make every road in the state a good road and to permit motor trucks and automobiles to pay their fair share of the cost?

Briefly, that is the important question to be decided by the votes of both men and women on proposed Good Roads Amendment No. 1, on the pink ballot at the election Nov. 2nd.

If the majority of all votes cast are "yes" votes, the state next January will take over the main trunk highways and increase motor vehicle license fees to raise additional funds necessary to maintain and gradually improve them.

Counties and towns will have larger amounts to spend on the other roads. Although relieved of the care of main roads which now take two-thirds of all the funds, they will continue to receive all state aid and road tax money —more than $15,000,000 a year. New money forthcoming for all state road requirements, the counties and towns will be enabled to make correspondingly good roads.

Maintenance First; Building as Funds Allow.

The proposed plan is designed, officials explain, to provide first for proper maintenance, good drainage and grading on every road, and then as remaining funds will permit for permanent betterments.

The funds for use on state roads will not permit of hard surfacing of the entire system in a few or even ten years, the officials explain. But gravel roads are adequate for hundreds of miles and will continue to be built until surplus money each year makes possible the extension of more permanent types of roads as they are demanded by economy under the increase in motor traffic.

Increased revenue from motor vehicle licenses, with the federal aid and present funds will be all that is needed to carry out the entire plan to make every road a good road, the officials declare. Otherwise, they warn, taxes must go still higher and bonds may be issued to maintain the highways even as they are now.

"Yes" Votes Allow State to Help.

Adoption of Amendment No. 1 will authorize the legislature to do two things:

Establish a state system of 7,000 miles of trunk highways reaching every county seat and other important towns.

Increase motor vehicle license fees to provide the funds necessary to always maintain and gradually to improve the state system.

Hence, the sole purpose for the proposed constitutional change is to permit the state to take over and finance the maintenance and improvement of the main traveled roads.

Without that authority, Minnesota can meet the public demand for better highways only by increasing road taxes and possibly issuing road bonds. The amendment contains a bond provision which is now virtually of no effect, as is explained later.

The legislature is left free to work out administrative and other details in a common sense, business like manner.

Auto Owners to Profit by Plan.

Tired of driving on rough roads and satisfied that savings on car upkeep, tires and gasoline will more than offset any reasonable increase in license fees, automobile and truck owners generally are in favor of the new plan. They always have been willing to pay more, provided it would be spent on the roads.

Good Yield.

John Karst, west of Goodridge, had ten acres of sweet clover this year and he threshed 12 bushels per acre or 120 bushels. Based on last year's prices, he would have a return of $240 per acre, or $2,880 for the 12 acres. The [illegible] not fully settled for [illegible] but it will be $1,500 or more for the crop. Mr. Karst raises a very profitable crop. He has a big lot of fodder, worth money, from this field and better than all, he has improved the productiveness of his ground and will raise a much larger crop next year and for several years to come. Just think what it would mean to our country if every farmer had ten acres of sweet clover this year and every year. Mr. Karst is setting a good example and making money for himself. Good for Mr. Karst. He builds up and becomes booster farmer citizen.

Meilby on Hunting Trip.

Dr. O. F. Meilby left on a hunting excursion with Supt. Barnard of the Soo Line the first of the week, the company with several other prominent gentlemen of this section. The party will explore the Canadian wilds and will make every effort to bag all the law allows at least.

BIG MEETING SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

GOOD ROADS SPEAKERS TO BE IN CITY AND DISCUSS BABCOCK AMENDMENT

Next Tuesday evening at the Auditorium will be one of the most important meets held in this locality for some time past.

Senator P. H. McGarry and Fred D. Sherman, former immigration commissioner, will appear in the interests of the Babcock Highway Amendment. Both gentlemen are thoroughly familiar with the present plan of the Babcock amendment and will have a vast source of information to offer the people of this territory.

Senator McGarry is called the "father of the Babcock Amendment," and perhaps no man in the state is better posted on all the different parts of the amendment and is in better shape to give an intelligent address on the subject.

The appearance of the two men will give the people of this section an opportunity to become better acquainted with the amendment and to familiarize themselves with the proposed amendment in every phase. It is an opportunity that should be taken full advantage of and every person in the surrounding territory should make it a point to be present at the meeting.

The following day, October 13, the two speakers wil be at Goodridge and explain the amendment and its inner workings to the people of that district.

Accompanying the two speakers are Col. Sam Badger, a veteran of the civil war and one of the best campaigners in the entire state, and William Patton, a regular army rifle player. These two men will furnish music for the occasion and will do their part in putting the program over in good shape.

The facts of the Babcock Amendment will be thoroughly discussed by these two eminent speakers and it should be the aim of everyone to turn out and hear the talks. It will be full of good sound logic and should be heard by every person in the county.

CONSIDERABLE INTEREST IN CLUB LUNCHES

LUNCHEON WILL BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY OF NEXT WEEK TO ENTERTAIN SPEAKERS

The noonday luncheon of the Commercial Club are proving more attractive every week and the business men and farmers are beginning to learn that they can get a good dinner at the club and also hear discussed some important topic in which all are interested and which will eventually greatly assist in the upbuilding of the city and community.

Next week the luncheon will be held Wednesday noon instead of Thursday, for on that date Senator P. H. McGarry, father of the Babcock amendment, and Fred D. Sherman, former immigration commissioner for Minnesota, will be in the city and it is the desire of the club's officials that these men be the speakers of the day, each man being limited to ten minutes, so as to permit of other business matters being brought up for discussion.

Our job department is prepared to serve you at all times.

'READ 'EM AND WEEP'

SUGAR BEET DIGGING NOW UNDER WAY

WEIGHING AND SHIPPING OF THIS COUNTY'S CROP TO START SOON

The digging of sugar beets in Pennington county is now well under way. Although the crop has not been weighed and loaded as yet, it is showing prospects of an excellent yield. Due to the fine weather it will be only a short time before all the beets are dug and ready for shipping to the Chaska Beet Sgar Company. The agriculturist of this company was in Thief River Falls on Sept. 25 and was very much pleased with the prospects of growing beets in Pennington county, stating that this would be an excellent place for a beet sugar factory. He claimed the people in this vicinity are much interested in the growing of the crop which was much in evidence by the number who tried in Pennington the first year in the city as well as in the country.

Labor will be furnished by the Chaska company for 250 acres, which costs this year $28 per acre. All hand labor will be furnished at that price including the thinning, weeding, boeing, rchoeing, piling and topping. This is handling the crop much cheaper than it could be cared for by unskilled labor. Where is has been handled in this way the crop is netting the grower $90 per acre.

Quite a number in the vicinity of Thief River Falls have already placed applications for next year. The crop is one of the surest that can be grown on any farm. The seed requires no treating and the plant no spraying as neither insect nor disease troubles the sugar beet to any extent. Freezing in the spring or in the fall will not hurt the plant at all. Water covering the plant even for five days will not injure it in the least.

The seed which is planted in the spring is not paid for until the crop is harvested and if the grower cannot to contract for too large an acreage until they get experienced in caring for the crop.

Two Meetings Tonight.

The regular meeting of the Elks will be held this evening at eight o'clock, sharp. Balloting and consideration of applications will be the principal matters of importance at this meeting and it is requested that every member and all officers be on hand promptly at eight o'clock. The second meeting in that of the Fair Association, which will be held in the Commercial Club rooms at nine o'clock. This is an adjourned meeting and as there are many matters of importance in connection with the association to be settled at this session it is hoped there will be a good attendance.

TRIBUNE ISSUES SIXTEEN PAGES THIS EDITION

Taking the two issues for this week, a total of 24 pages has been produced and distributed to considerably more than 6,000 people, a record not equalled or attained by any other newspaper in the entire county.

The work entailed in producing a newspaper of this size entails no small amount of work and calls for rapid manipulation on the part of those engaged in turning out a paper of this size.

The twice a week feature of the Tribune gives the reader more reading matter and a larger number of pages each week than any other paper in Pennington county, and our circulation touches every trading spot in the radius embraced by Thief River Falls. It is without question a mighty big advantage to the business men of this city to have the advantages of a twice a week newspaper in their midst and gives them an opportunity to get their messages before the buying public with more frequency and with a greater amount of punch. The public in general approves of the idea and look forward to the issue of the Tribune, knowing they will find in it the facts as they exist and not glossed over or marred to such an extent that it is impossible to make out the true text of the matter or subject approached. If there is any one thing the Tribune stands solidly for it is for the facts as they exist and while a few toes have been trod upon in the community in this effort to spread the facts before our readers, it will eventually be one of the best things that ever happen and will ultimately straighten out several matters of which the public has been denied the privilege of knowing.

Plans are now under way to make the Tribune larger and better and in the course of a few months it will rightly take its place as the leading publication in the Northwest.

Commits Suicide.

J. P. Fedinandson, of Goodridge, committed suicide this morning by ride is given as despondency due to ill health, no other reason being known as to why the man should take his own life.

Mr. Ferdinandsan is a man past 60 years of age and has made Goodridge his home for the past four years. He has recently been employed in the Winton-Nichols lumber yard at that place and has been a faithful and willing worker.

The deceased leaves a wife and 11 children, some of whom are grown and live at distant points.

Attend Dedication.

large as it was planned, but few care the dedication services at Crookston on Tuesday of this week was not as large as it was planned, but few were finally lining up for the trip. However a good showing was made by those who made the trip and the people of Polk county were made aware of the fact that Pennington county was on the map with both feet and still hitting on all four. The services, according to all reports, were well worth attending, and it is to be regretted that more of our citizens could not find time to make the trip.

Football Sunday.

The second game of the season will be held in this city next Sunday when the local team meets the Crookston team at the fair grounds in a fast exhibition of football. The Crookston team are coming prepared to trim the locals and from what we gather they are to have their hands full and a little bit more. The game a week ago was fast and highly pleased the large number of spectators present.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MINNESOTA CONDITIONS

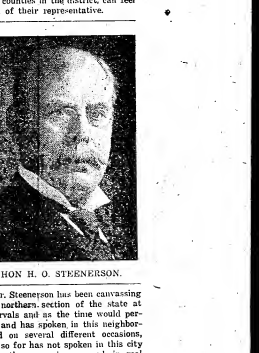
Residents of Minnesota—young and old—are returning to habits of thrift. With sharp reduction noted in the volume of reckless buying, banks throughout Minnesota are reporting steady increases in their savings deposits and in some sections total bank deposits are beginning to grow, according to reports obtained during the week from banks throughout Minnesota, for the weekly state review of enterprise, prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and the First and Peoples' State Bank of Thief River Falls.

Banks in large centers have noted increasing savings deposits for several months. The movement has spread to the smaller centers. According to several bankers the change took place without "outside influence." Data is being collected from various counties to obtain accurate information regarding the leading elements in the seemingly spontaneous determination of thousands of persons to commence putting a little money away for a rainy day.

Although the movement of grain to market has not begun on a large scale, farmers are beginning to liquidate their loans and quite a number of small banks in rural sections reported increases in their total deposits. This fact is accounted for by diversified resources of the farmers. Some have sold potatoes, others have disposed of high grade cattle, a few reaped good profits from fruit and others have put their clover on the market. Reports from a number of counties indicated that the production of eggs has been above normal since September 1.

Railroad companies still have cause for concern regarding their ability to supply cars to the farmers if the marketing of wheat on a large scale is started suddenly throughout the state. With very few exceptions county bankers have reported that the car supply has been normal and satisfactory thus far. The only reports of labor shortage received during the week came from the northern counties where it is said that lumber companies are having difficulty in obtaining sufficient men to go into the woods. The large companies have arranged to operate on a broad scale this winter and offered increased wages to woodsmen.

Raises Fine Garden.



This is the season of the year when tales about the "big turnip or squash" are going the rounds and in this way Pennington county is taking her full part and is not only telling about her fine crops, but is backing up each assertion with the evidence. Jens Hornseth, living on First street west, has left at The Tribune office a specimen of his harvest in the way of beets and it is about as fine as is produced anywhere. He has about a ton of high grade sugar beets that he raised as an experiment and which were grown between the trees on his place. The sample that he left at this office is about eight pounds in weight and is perfect in every respect. This ton of beets was grown in four rows and occupied room that has ordinarily been wasted before. He also left a large table beet that weighs between five and six pounds and a rutabaga that tips the scales at five pounds. The specimens left by Mr. Hornseth prove the assertion that nothing is the way of crops in high class garden truck is impossible in this county if the proper precautions and care are taken.

STEENERSON TO BE IN CITY ON OCTOBER 20TH

Hon. H. O. Steenerson, republican candidate for congressman from this district, will be in Thief River Falls on the evening of October 20th to address the voters of this district.

Mr. Steenerson is making a thoro canvass of the district and comes to this city on the above date for the purpose of laying before the voters the facts as they now exist with reference to public matters and conditions the country over. His appearance in this city always calls for a large attendance of voters from both sides. No man in the district stands more highly than Mr. Steenerson and Pennington county along with the other counties in the district, can feel proud of their representative.

HON H. O. STEENERSON.

Mr. Steenerson has been canvassing the northern section of the state at intervals and as the time would permit and has spoken in this neighborhood on several different occasions, but so far has not spoken in this city since the campaign opened in real force. His appearance here the 20th of this month will be an opportunity for every voter to turn out and hear the issues as presented by Mr. Steenerson.

CITY ENJOYING PRICE CUTTING SALES OF NOTE

PRACTICALLY EVERY STORE IN CITY IS CUTTING STOCK BOTTOM PRICES

The merchants of Thief River Falls are going to give the high cost of living one of the most severe jolts that it has received for many moons and will endeavor to bring the prices that prevailed before the war back into style.

As will be noticed in this issue of the Tribune, there are announcements by practically every merchant in the city to the effect that the high prices that have been prevailing for some time past are now a thing of the past and are not to be considered in the future. The sales to be conducted in this city are of the sort that naturally tumble prices to the level level and will result in a mad scramble for early selection.

The leading merchants of the city have all joined in this movement to bring the cost of living down to a lower plane and are exerting every influence to make the prices so low and convincing that no hesitation on the part of the public will be evidenced, and that one and all in the trade territory of Thief River Falls will take advantage of the opportunity to get these tremendous bargains and save many dollars.

Holding sale at this time of the year is unusual, but the merchants of this city feel that in view of the low prices that are on the way they will beat others to it and will make the history of Thief River Falls for bargain giving center a real issue and prove for once and all that the business men of this city take advantage of every opportunity to protect the buying public.

Look over the many ads in this issue of the Tribune and come to Thief River Falls for your winter shopping.

RECORD THRONGS ENDORSE LEGION BY WILD CHEERING

One of the largest and most spectacular parades, numbering about 50,000, that ever marched [illegible] U. S. Riskl, was staged in Cleveland, O., where the national convention of the American Legion was held. Thousands cheered their tribute to the great organization, which was represented by every branches of the service—Army, Navy, and Marine—also our boys who served with the former allies; France, England, Canada, Scotland, Australia and Italy.

The one little group—three squads only—that received the greatest ovation—even greater than the bravest of the brave, some wearing several decorations. They were part of the 54 who have received the Congressional medal of honor.

Taft was defeated because he suggested Canadian reciprocity, but Wilson abandoned the tariff on wheat to the disadvantage of the wheat farmer and as a measure to reduce the prewar high cost of living. As a reducer, it has worked and will continue to reduce—the farmer.

Mr. Gompers' refusal to act with the British trade unionists in behalf of international revolution represented a sturdy stand. His words are worth getting. Workers living in a "republic based on the principles of freedom, justice and universal suffrage are not likely to throw these rights and principles into the scrapheap for the dictatorship of Moscow's Lenin and Trotzky." Lenin must have enjoyed reading that pronouncement.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop, St. Paul.—the meeting will have a far reaching effect and will prove one of the most vital steps in bringing about co-operation, among all women interested in social questions. The most significant thing in this campaign is that women and men are standing together for things that women have worked for through all the years.

An interview by Mrs. Bishop, given to the Associated Press on the occasion of her visit with a delegation to the Harding home in Marion, Ohio. This interview was published in all the leading dailies of the United States.

Would it be becoming at this time to remark that we have no tariff against Canadian wheat? Canadian wheat is coming in by the trainload with the result that wheat is going down, down. There is a premium of ten per cent on American money, so the Canadian ships his wheat here and get a premium. During the war, the Canadian farmer got about 30c a bushel more for his wheat than the Wilson guaranteed (down) price. Now he comes here and get from us ten per cent more than he can get at home. Who took the bars down? Wilson.

When it is suggested to the intelligent women of Thief River Falls that they are not yet qualified for full participation in suffrage, when it is suggested that they hold aloof from the full privileges and responsibilities of citizenship and the vote, when they are directed to keep away from public meetings and especially refrain from going as delegates to conventions, when you hear the most prominent women in our city, who are now holding important political positions, indirectly slammed in this way, there is a reason.a Where and at what time did the women acknowledge intellectual inferiority? All this kind of advice is designed for some purpose not disclosed. The women have the vote. The intelligence of the women demands that they exercise their full suffrage rights. Get out and vote. Go as delegates. Demand full recognition. Be a Republican or a Democrat—be something. Join some party. Be a factor. Help in the caucuses. Help in the conventions. Go to the polls every chance you get. You have the vote, exercise your rights. Be a real citizen and be a real American.

"The population of this country being largely of foreign birth or descent is very unfavorable to Cox's candidacy. Previous to the arrival of Cox the local organ of the labor league published a number of questions which Cox was requested to answer. One of these questions dealt with his position on the League of Nations and Irish independence. This was the only one of the questions which he attempted to answer and it would have been much better for him and his supporters had he avoided it as he did the rest. He stated that in the event of his election he would refer the Irish question to the League of Nations. The result was disastrous."

"Refer it to the League of Nations." That would be easier for Cox and for Ireland. England has six votes and Ireland none. The League guarantees the territorial integrity of its members. Ireland is a part of English territory. Cox is a dodger, but not an artful odger.

REFERRING TO THE PACKERS.

A New York farmer, speaking of the profits of the packing concerns, said: "I am in a position to know that they have so organized their business that they turn their invested capital over at least twenty-six times each fiscal year. If, taking them at their own word, they make one per cent on each dollars they turn over, then they make not less than 26 per cent per year on each dollar invested. And these men are engaged in business wholly dependent upon the farmer. Now, if all the farmers cut out raising cattle, hogs, sheep and fowl, where would the great packers get off?"

ALL LEAD TO EUROPE

Senator Borah: "Whether you call the scheme a league, a concert of powers, an alliance or an association —they all lead to Europe and place upon the already bending backs of American taxpayers their scheme of exploitation and waste, and upon the shoulders of the American youth military burdens which must eventually grow out of this scheme.

"This is the reason why Lloyd George is perfectly willing for us to come in on our own terms. This is the reason which Viscount Grey is willing for us to fix up our own method, gratify our own vanity as to the methods of going in. For they understand, and have so declared, that once in the method of getting in is immaterial. Once there we must assume all the obligations and deal with all the situations which our presence there inevitably incurs.

"Witness some of the scenes at Versailles, such as the betrayal of China—the deal by which Shantung was bartered away to an unfriendly power. America sat in the settlement and was silent. If not silent, then by reason of her association, powerless. That is the first time in all her history that she connived at the betrayal of a friendly people and broke every pledge legal and moral, which a people could make.

"And that is the first time that the United States ever sat in on a European settlement."

The meeting at the Auditorim on Tuesday evening was a decided success and must have been gratifying to the local committee and the candidates. Senator O. A. Naplin presided and introduced the speakers. One of the regular staff of lecturers, from the Washington, opened with a thirty minute speech. He was a fluent talker and a skillful word painting orator, a very excellent one, we would say. His illustrations were very plain and effective in their demonstration. Mr. Thormondson, the candidate for congressman, followed. He claims to be an honest, ordinary, plain citizen and man. We think he is. We have no doubt he has the qualifications necessary for the position he seeks. Mr. Thormondson spoke with serious conviction and pleaded for better conditions for the working man and farmer. A. J. Hemstad, of Plummer, the candidate for representative, followed with a short talk. He made an excellent impression and was well received by the audience. Senator Naplin occupied about twenty minutes, which he devoted to bumping up the Preus speech the people who sat on the stage and the proceedings connected with the Women's Republican club. Senator Naplin did not take any stock in the sincerity of the Preus co-operative marketing promises. Mr. Naplin indeed fired up quite vehemently about the Preus promises and platform. At the close of the meeting the members of the League remained for a business session. The meeting was well attended and the speeches well received. No one was abused. The speakers relied on reason rather than abuse. We would pronounce it a very successful gathering.

COPPER TURNED INTO GOLD

A small wasteful item—small yet illustrative of the war department's method of doing business—was cited by Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, during his Columbus, Ohio, speech of June 26, 1920. It was this:

To brand some 391,000 horses and mules, 195,000 branding irons were invented.

The contractor agreed that these irons should be made of copper, which was very scarce. He purchased 79,000 pounds of copper, 20,000 pounds more than he needed to make the branding irons.

Officials of the company testified that they paid 39½ cents a pound for the copper. The war department paid the company 89½ cents a pound for all the copper, including the 20,000 that the government did not need, and immediately the next day turned around and sold it back to the company for 11 cents a pound.

And as a climax to it all, the company filed a claim for profits that it would have received if it had filled the contract and the government allowed $40,000, which was paid out of the treasury department, and, somehow or other, we managed to worry along and win the war without branding a single animal.

This is the kind of management to which the Democratic party now asks the country to give its approval.

TO WOMEN VOTERS!

The women of Minnesota will hold the balance of power in determining the state's political complexion on all questions and candidates at the coming election. It is in their power, in all probability, to say whether Preus, Hodgson or Shipstead shall be our next governor. It is for them to decide whether Minnesota will go for Harding or Cox. But, most of all, is it in their power to determine whether Amendment No. 1 shall be passed and give Minnesota the greatest road system in the country, or whether it shall go by default and thus deprive the state of the benefits of the most progressive program ever undertaken in its behalf.

Their control over good roads is peculiarly vital in this respect. If a woman fails to vote for one of the candidates for any office she will, at least, not be casting a vote against that candidate. But if she fails to vote for the good roads amendment she will be voting against it! The reason for this, as informed persons already know, is that the amendment, to be approved, must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election. If the woman voter, then, through ignorance or indifference, fails to vote for Amendment No. 1, her vote will simply add to the total of the votes cast without increasing the number favorable to the good roads cause.

Women voters, if they realized the significance of the amendment, would be the first to vote for it. In most cases the man of the family owne the automobile and would pay the license tax. The woman has nothing to lose but everything to gain in riding over smooth, dry roads. It is for her, in most cases, that the family car was bought. Then why not the roads to go with it? If she lives in the country the right kind of a rond reduces, by so many miles, her distance from town, from her neighbors, and the church. It means education for her children, for it brings them within five to fifteen minutes of the school and makes it easy for them to attend the high school in town. What a pity if the woman voter should fail to realize her interest in this matter! What a mistake if an man who wants a good roads system at a minimum of cost and delay should fail to instruct the women voters of his family to cast their votes for and not against, Amendment No. 1!

Let it not be forgotten that failure to vote for the amendment is a vote against it!

A MODERN MARTYRDOM

New York Evening Post: Much talk has been heard lately of martyrs. There is one martyr whom we should like to immortalize. He is the man who has courage enough to wear his straw hat or Palm Beach suit after formlty to a sillyetaoishrdluetaoishr Sept. 15. No sheeplike conformity to a silly edict for him. He is a martyr to the cause of comfort—and common sense. If it is as warm on Sept 20 as it was on Sept 10, he refuses to be stamped into a felt Fedora or a suit of Scotch Mist that tickles his knees. He consults the weather and his own comfort when deciding what clothes to wear, not the calendar.

We have not enough men of the heroic mold in which this independent person is cast. His is the spirit that tramples down obstacles and shakes off the sucking hold of custom. He knows his own mind and follows it. Socrates defying his judges, Martin Luther nailing his theses to the church door, Columbus starting out to find a western route to Asia—these bear testimony to the courage that enables man to flout the millions and to remain true to the faith that is in him. We abhor his taste, but we admire his pluck!

Minnesota's "Little Corporal" Shakes With G.O.P. Commander

Two royal good fellows—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for president, and Louis L. Collins, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Minnesota. The picture was taken recently at Marion, Ohio. They are both newspapermen and, judging by the smiles, they must have been "talking shop."

We hope the Democrats will not compiain if we do not feature their men and issues in this campaign. The democratic party have some of the greatest men in the nation and some of the best ones right here at Thief River Falls. We could name them and be proud to do so. If the Tribune fails to do all the democratic brethren desire in the way of publicity for their party and candidates, it is in a measure because we do not wish to poach on the preserves of our democratic contemporary and in the field reserved by Mr. Austad of the Times. In other words, don't complain to us, or about us. You have a democratic editor in charge of the Times. Why don't he "shoot the stuff?"

NORTHERN PACIFIC ESTABLISHES NEW DEVELOPMENT AID

DEPARTMENT OF IMMIGRATION AND INDUSTRY TO BOOST NORTHWEST.

Announcement of what may be the most comprehensive project ever undertaken by an American railroad to assist in the development of a great section of the country was made in St. Paul by the Northern Pacific railway, when details of a department of immigration and industry—to become operative about Oct. 1—were given out by J. M. Hannaford, president.

The department, in substance, has been decided upon as the most effective means of enabling the railroad to co-operate with every development agency, whether federal, state, local or private, which exerts a direct or an indirect influence in the American northwest in which the Northern Pacific operates.

E. F. Benson, at present commissioner of agriculture of the state of Washington, has been appointed manager of the department, Mr. Hannaford announces. Benson is widely known as a railroad man and as an authority on agriculture and irrigation. His appointment was made by cable and letter. His acceptance was flashed to Mr. Hannaford from Shanghai, China. Mr. Benson will probably arrive in St. Paul to take charge of the department about Oct. 1.

Fundamental details of the Northern Pacific projects were officially announced in the following statement from Mr. Hannaford:

"The department of immigration and industry has been organized with a view of aiding in development of natural resources in the territory served by the Northern Pacific railway. Its purpose will be to give special attention to agriculture, not with the intention of initiating any new activities but rather to assist and cooperate with existing agencies such as state agricultural colleges, county farm agents and various activities of the federal government.

"There are literally millions of acres of land in Montana, Idaho and Washington which can be made highly productive under irrigation; there are immense deposits of minerals, including coal, and ore in the state of Montana, for example. In the development of these resources the new department will aid by establishing necessary relations between those who have the capital and expert knowledge and those who control the natural resources.

"There are many things which our county farm agents of our state agricultural colleges cannot undertake singly, but which can be accomplished by joint effort. The railroad, being representative of all interests, can cooperate in practically every development project that will tend to improve the great northwest.

"Selection of the proper manager for this department was considered almost as important as the department itself. Subordinate to the manager will be an agricultural agent, an immigration agent and an industrial agent. It was natural therefore that the executive should be a man of broad attainments and one who possesses knowledge of the northwest and development possibilities.

"Mr. Benson was decided upon. A man of railroad experience and an authority of international repute on immigration and reclamation work was needed. For some time he has been agricultural commissioner of the state of Washington. A few months ago he left for the Orient and Egypt to make a comprehensive survey of reclamation work in various countries. He undertook this journey for purely personal reasons. He defrayed the expense.

"Correspondence with Mr. Benson began when he was on the ocean. His acceptance, sent from Shanghai, has just been received, together with a copy of his resignation addressed to the governor of Washington. Mr. Benson was desirous of returning to Olympia in time to participate officially in the state fair. He will come to St. Paul shortly after the close of fair and immediately take charge of the new department.

"For many months, dozens of individual projects affecting irrigation land development, scientific farming, immigration, civic improvements and the like have been discussed by cities, state departments, farmers' clubs and other organizations from Minnesota to the Pacific northwest. The new department of the Northern Pacific railway, it is understood, will stand ready to co-operate with the single view of developing the broad region."

Proper Farming.

Last spring Clint Rowe on the Rissmun-Rowe ranch prepared a small tract partly for garden and extending out into the field. He put on a good coat of manure, then plowed the ground two inches deep, then put on another good coat of manure and plowed ground again seven inches deep. He raised the nicest kind of a garden, onions and all kinds of vegetables, the best he has ever seen or raised anywhere. An acre was in potatoes and he got 400 bushels. About an acre and a half was in oats and he got over 150 bushels. Mr. Rowe has a very large farm. He cannot put manure on all of it, but he can raise sweet clover and plow it under in the after part of the summer and he will get the same result and that is just what he is going to do. Do something for the soil and it will reward you most liberally.

Sweet Clover Seed Production.

By A. C. Arny.

When sweet clover seed is sown with a grain crop in the spring, under ordinary circumstances, a vigorous growth is made after the grain is harvested and a considerable yield of good hay or pasture can be secured the same year as sown, during September and October. No particular attention need be paid to leaving very much protection for the plants, although too close grazing by sheep is not advisable the fall of the same year as the clover is sown.

Sweet clover does the best on a soil that is not acid and the seed should be inoculated for best results.

The following summer, the sweet clover should make a very vigorous growth early in the season. It is better to pasture the first crop or to cut it for hay. The time to cut the first crop for hay is before any flower buds have appeared. This is usually during the first half of June in ordinary season. The crop must not be left until it is in bloom, as is done with red clover, before starting to cut. Sweet clover should never be cut low at the first cutting the second year from seeding. If it is cut close to the ground the plants will be killed to a large extent. Four to five inches high is about right. Be sure to leave three or four buds at the base of the plant unharmed.

White sweet clover especially often makes a very rank, uneven growth, if the first crop is allowed to mature seed. On account of the rank growth it is often very difficult to cut satisfactorily with the binder. When the first crop is pastured off up to June 10th to 15th, or cut for hay at about that time, depending upon the season, the second crop does not grow so tall and the plants are more bushy, and the crop is more easily handled with the binder.

The seed ripens rather unevenly and the time to cut for seed depends somewhat on the machine to be used. The grain binder is the usual machine used for cutting and the cutting should be started when about three-fourths of the seed has turned brown or black. There will be some flowers and some seeds that are still green on the plants, but the field will have a brown look. If cutting is put off too long there is too much loss by shattering. Cutting too green results in shrunken seed that is very difficult to thresh. If the crop is left until it is a little too ripe, cutting when damp slightly obviates some shattering.

Binders may be equipped with galvanized iron bars under the end of the platform canvas to catch any shattered seed as the crop is carried to the elevating canvasses and under the binder part, extending somewhat beyond, to catch seed shattered as the bundles are packed and bound.

The bundles are shocked in the field in long shocks and threshed without stacking, if this operation can be done within a reasonable time. If the threshing machine cannot be secured the sweet clover may be stacked, just as in stacking grain.

GOVERNOR BURNQUIST URGES MINNESOTA TO BACK SALVATION ARMY FINANCIALLY

County Advisory Boards and Campaign Committees Now Plan to Raise $268,050 For State Work During Week Octobet 11-18—Sunday Octobet 11th to be Salvation Army Sunday Throughout Entire State.

Official recognition of the Salvation Army's work in Minnesota has come through the proclamation issued by Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, endorsing the work of the Salvation Army and setting aside the week of October 11th to October 18th to be known as "Salvation Army Home Service Week." The program of the Army calls for the raising of $268,050 in the State. The proclamation follows:

TO THE PEOPLE OF MINNESOTA:

We, as citizens of a democratic America, should merit doubly sure that the great humanitarian movement conducted by the Salvation Army, in the reclaiming of humanity's waste material, in relieving distress and sorrow, shall go on, even to a greater extent and on a larger scale than ever before.

The wonderful work that the Salvation Army has done in the past, is now doing, and plans to do for Minnesota in the future, entitles it to the support of all our citizens, who now are given an opportunity to show in a practical way that they believe in the Salvation Army and heartily approbate its struggle for the uplift of mankind.

It, therefore, gives me pleasure to urge that the week of October eleventh to October eighteenth, 1920, be set aside in Minnesota as Salvation Army Home Service Week; that the Sunday immediately preceding be known as Salvation Army Sunday to be fittingly remembered in the State, and that every citizen do his or her part to the fullest extent in making the financial progrem of the Salvation Army a success.

J. A. A. BURNQUIST,
Governor.

"Everywhere in the State enthusiasm is being shown in preparation for the County Advisory Boards for the financiel progrem," said Henry O. Hanke, chairman of the Salvation Army State Advisory Board, in discussing the program.

"Some of the counties have written o Divisional Headquartars in Minneapolis asking that their apportionments be raised, in some cases doubled, and have pledged themselves to raise the additional amount."

"In connection with the Salvation Army activities, there is one phase of the work that bespeaks for the Army continued support of every citizen," said Colonel William S. Berker, commanding the Northern Division of the Army. "Practically and relentlessly, the Salvation Army is carrying on its struggle to rehabilitate Minnesota's wayward girls and prospective girl mothers."

The Salvation Army Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital in St. Paul has cared for 1,320 girls from Minnesota since the opening of the institution. Approximately 150 babies are born there each year.

The number of illegitimate births in the State last year, according to confidential studies made by the Salvation Army Advisory Boards of fifty Minnesota counties, totel 1,103 of record.

There is always a waiting list at the Home which has a capacity of about 45 girls, and 30 babies in the nursery. All available space is being used, but as Adjutant Bertha Smith, matron in charge, says, "We can always find room for one more."

Nearly 300 girls find refuge at the institution each year, bringing the total cost for their cero to approximately $35,000.00.

With Salvation Army Advisory Boards established in 80 Minnesota counties, to represent the Army in an official capacity, a contract has been established between each county and the Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital. Increased demands are being made and are expected to be made on the Home, the use of which is placed at the service of every county.

In order to care for these demands, the Salvation Army realizes that it will have to double the capacity of its Home, at least. With this in mind, it has included in the State budget of its financial program, provision for the building of a new wing to the Home that will double the capacity.

"Out of a total appportionment of $268,050 to be raised in its 1920 Home Service Program, the Salvation Army is asking the citizens of Minnesota to provide $55,000 to apply on the building of a new addition to the Rescue Home, and I feel sure that when every citizen knows the actual conditions, that Minnesota will gladly respond, in order that this humanitarian movement may go on," said Colonel Barker.

THE HIGH-CRANK "Easy to Run" SEPARATOR

The GREAT WESTERN—not only a close skimmer, but so convenient. It is so easy to fill the low tank, even a rather short person can easily fill the tank of the GREAT WESTERN. But a low tank isn't the whole thing unless accompanied by a high crank.

You can stand and turn the crank of a GREAT WESTERN without tiring yourself, and if you want to, you can sit down. The crank is not so high but what you can easily turn if when sitting at the side.

Farmers who use the GREAT WESTERN say separating is the most pleasant part of the day's work.

Stop in and we will show you the advantages of the GREAT WESTERN bottom outlet bowl, chain drive, full ball bearing equipment, and enclosed gears.

It's a separator that has earned its reputation of being "The World's Best."

GOOD ROADS TO BE TALKED THIS EVENING

SENATOR P. H. McGARRY AND FRED SHERMAN TO TALK ROADS TONIGHT.

Tonight there is to be a big meeting to acquaint the people of this section with the Babcock amendment and to make them more familiar with the inner workings of the amendment and to show them just how it will work if put into effect.

The speakers at this meeting will be Senator P. H. McGarry and Fred D. Sherman, who are touring the state in the interest of the amendment and who both thoroughly understand the amendment from every angle. The men are making a tour of the northern part of the state and are in a position to give facts and figures that will prove inspiring and enlightening to those who are present and are interested in the proposed amendment.

The amendment is to be voted on at the general election in November and means much to the state as a whole. It will construct and maintain a set of roads the state over at no extra cost to the average taxpayer. The automobile owners of the state will be assessed a trifle more in order to take care of the roads and this amount will be paid only by those owning cars and will be based on the purchase price and horsepower of the car. The average taxpayer will not be called upon to put forth one cent for the maintenance of these highways and in this manner will be able to enjoy good roads at no extra expense.

The speakers will also be at Goodridge on Wednesday the day following their meeting in this city. They will give everyone interested in the matter a chance to become familiar with the proposed amendment and will throw much light on the amendment that the average man is not quite certain about. If interested in good roads be at this meeting and hear these two speakers.

COAL BROKERS BLAMED FOR HIGH PRICES

CHICAGO GRAND JURY PLANS TO INDICT MEN FOR MANIPULATING MARKET.

Charges that coal brokers were largely responsible for the high price of fuel were made by District Attorney Charles Clyne of Chicago. Mr. Clyne declared that cases would come before the federal grand jury and indictments against them would be asked.

An investigation has disclosed, Mr. Clyne said, that in some cases a ton of coal had passed thru the hands of four or five brokers, each taking a profit of about 50 cents a ton, before it finally reached the dealer who sold it to the consumer. Charges were also made that competitive bidding at the mines among the brokers had sent the price up.

Coal mined in Franklin, county, Illinois, Mr. Clyne asserted, sells for $4.05 a ton at the mine. In Chicago it sold as high as $18 a ton.

Illinois may expect no reduction in the price of coal such as were granted in Indiana by the fuel commission of that state. There is no Illinois body with power to make like reductions, according to Commissioner Shaw of the Illinois public utilities commission and First Assistant District Attorney James R. Glass.

"I heard about the cut ordered in Indiana," said Mr. Shaw, "but the Illinois public utilities commission has not authority over coal prices."

"There is nobody in Illinois with authority to do what the fuel board in Indiana did," said Mr. Glass. "If there was, we wouldn't be taking grand jury action against coal-profiteers."

LEGION ASSISTS IN SECURING BONUS MONEY

HAVE TAKEN STEPS WHEREBY MEN MAY SECURE MONEY IN SHORT ORDER.

Members of the local post of the American Legion, as well as all ex-service men, are urgently requested to be at the next meeting of the local post. To be held in the Commercial Club rooms on Wednesday evening of this week, October 13th. The principal item of business that is to come before all interested is the plan for payment of the soldiers' bonus in Minnesota by local banks.

It will no doubt prove good news to every service man to know that the local banks of Thief River Falls are co-operating with the Wells-Dickey Company of Minneapolis in paying the soldier bonus in advance of government action. There are many men in the state who have failed to recieve their bonuses and the banks are taking this step in order to help each man receive his bonus as early as possible. All that is necessary is that the man bring his bonus number along and the banks will advance the money he has coming from the state. The charge for this service is small, the banks only deducting three and one-half per cent, for this service. This figures out a discount of $3.50 for every $100 and gives the man who has the bonus coming quicker action in the matter and furnishing him the money immediately.

The local post wants every service man in the county to be at the meeting Wednesday evening whether he is a member of the local post or not. The efforts to take care of this bonus proposition is for the benefit of every service man it is to his interest to be present at the meeting and hear the plan discussed which is to help him secure his money in short order.

All the banks of Thief River Falls have volunteered their services in this matter and will help each man secure his money in the shortest possible time and at the least expense. It is a step that should interest every service man and one that he should appreciate. It means the end of waiting indefinitely for this money and helps him to secure it in a short time.

In view of the fact that there is only a half million dollars now available for this purpose and as every bank in the state is taking this same step, it is imperative that every man who wishes to participate should get into action. If impossible to attend the meeting Wednesday evening, arrangements can be made with G. Howard Smith, secretary of the post, by calling upon him at his office.

Lose to Crookston.

The city football team ran into a snag of considerable importance last Sunday when they met the city team from Crookston, meeting defeat at the hands of the visitors to the tune of 26 to 3. This was indeed a real wallop and served to make the locals realize that there must be more practicing before they can hope to capture the title for this district. Not to be daunted, however, by the outcome of the game Sunday, the locals are going after the practice end of the game harder than ever and to be in shape to take on all comers in the very near future.

Sister Dies at Iowa City.

Mrs. A. Swedeen returned the latter part of last week from Iowa City, Iowa, where she was called on account of the death of her sister, Mrs. Anna Rock Mellan. Mrs. Mellan was only twenty-two years of age at the time of her death and leaves besides her husband, Dr. H. G. Mellan, twin sons, Mrs. Mellan is quite well known in this city and her sudden death is a severe shock to all her acquaintances here. The death of this young woman in the prime of life is a severe blow to her relatives and friends.

NO DEFINITE ACTION TAKEN AT FAIR MEETING

SECRETARY FOR NEXT YEAR'S FAIR HAS NOT YET BEEN SELECTED.

A fairly good crowd was present at an adjourned meeting of the fair association last Friday evening at the Commerciay Club rooms and much spirited discussion was indulged in by all present. The first matter of importance that came up for consideration was the salary of the secretary for the past year and a decision was asked regarding the salary he is to receive in future years. After much wrangling back and forth it was voted to allow the secretary $1,200. The secretary for this office during the past year and no definite move was made to set an amount for the services next year. The election of a secretary for next year was also left over and the majority of this present decided to let the matter rest for the present and to decide the matter at a later date.

It was proposed that amendments to the by-laws of the association be made and these were read and discussed at some length, with the final result that a committee was appointed to investigate the advisaumty of adopting the amendments and to report at an adjourned meeting which has been set for Friday evening, October 22. The committee will report on the proposed amendments and the advisability of accepting them and if it is the desire of the majority of the stockholders present they will be incorporated into the association's by-laws.

Perhaps the most important article in the proposed amendments is that which calls for an additional increase in the capital stock in order that should it be necessary to build in the near future, the association could sell stock for this purpose and keep itself free from debt in this manner. The proposed increase is also made for the express purpose of providing for emergencies and to take care of matters of this nature only.

Delegates to the state convention to be held at Minneapolis this winter were named and are Daniel Shaw, Albert Johnson and Fred Beachbower.

The meeting was adjourned without taking up any further business, all of which will probably receive attention at the meeting on October 22.

Have Fine Visit.

G. Howard Smith was busy Monday entertaining his old friend, Larry Hodgson, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, who addressed the voters of the city in the evening. Mr. Smith and Hodgson are old time friends and the evening was immensely enjoyed by both gentlemen during Mr. Hodgson's stay in the city.

Volden-Berglund.

Obert Theodore Volden and Margaret Berglund, both of this city, were united in mariage Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at the Zion Lutheran parsonage. Rev. George Larson officiated in the presence of Telief Volden, a brother of the groom and Thora Berglund, a sister of the bride. The newly married are to make their home in Thief River Falls.

To Minneapolis.

Rev. George Larson will leave for Minneapolis this evening to attend a meeting at Augsburg seminary of all the presidents of the districts of the Lutheran Free Church of the United States and Canada.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE MAKES HIT

"LARRY" HODGSON, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR, PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE.

L. A. Hodgson, democratic candidate for governor of Minnesota, spoke to a well filled house at the auditorium last evening and made a very favorable impression upon all present. "Larry Ho," as he is familiarly known, is a remarkable man in many respects, a humanitarian of the highest and purest degree and a "prince of good fellows." His talk last evening was not what would be termed a political tirade, but dwelt mostly with those simple and humane questions that are ever uppermost in the hearts and minds of the average citizens. A few of the more important state issues were touched upon by Mr. Hodgson in his talk and he took a very firm and convincing stand upon every question discussed. His talk all the way thru was a splendid discussion of conditions generally and left a warm spot in the hearts of all present for the man himself.

The tonnage tax was the principal theme of Mr. Hodgson's talk and he pointed out why he was in favor of a tonnage tax and what it meant to the state of Minnesota. His reasoning along this line is sound and in this he is on familiar ground and knows whereof he speaks. The average citizen fully agrees wit h "Larry Ho" in his stand on this matter and finds little reason to dispute any of the facts or arguments set forth along this line.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Hodgson will prosper in this life and grow to be a real old man and still continue in his good work of assisting mankind. He is a man among men and were it not for the fact that he is on the opposite side of the fence politically he would stand a chance of getting anything the people have to offer in this respect.

Football Saturday.

The local high school team are going to take on the Crookston high school football team for a game of football at the city athletic field next Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds and will in a measure attempt to even up matters between the players of that city and this. The high school is making a very good record so far and it is the desire of the players to be able to claim the championship at the end of the season.

Here from Iowa.

Dr. H. J. Sams of Clarion, Ia., arrived in the city this morning to look after his farming interest west of town. Dr. Sams has large land holdings in Pennington county and is an enthusiastic booster for that entire section.

BIG LOT SALE IS SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

FIFTY LOTS WEST OF CITY TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION SATURDAY.

Next Saturday is to be one of the big days in the history of Thief River Falls and it is expected that large crowds from far and near will be here to take advantage of the lot sale that is to be put on by the U. S. Real Estate and Development company. They have secured a tract of land on the Jefferson Highway just north of the fair grounds and are going to put the lots on sale to the highest bidder. The company puting this sale on state they have always had good success in every town they have visited and they absolutely put the lots on sale at auction prices. The opportunity to own a building lot at you rown price will therefore be given the people of this section next Saturday, starting at 1 o'clock p. m.

The lots to be sold are exceptionally well located for building purposes and lie in close to the city. They are on one of the principal highways and lie in the edge of the city. The sale at this time will give those inclined to build an opportunity to secure a lot at their own figures and to select just the location they wish.

The sale is bona fide and every lot will be sold to the highest bidder no matter how high or low the bid may be. Turn out next Saturday if in the market for a building lot and get one at your own price.

Silo and Farm Management

By A. S. Haecker.

The silo and its operation fit in well in the management of the average farm. This is assuming that the owner of a silo keeps sufficient stock on the farm to warrant such an equipment, say 10 head or more. The silo is in keeping with economic farm practice as it stands ever ready to insure a crop of forage or fodder. In times of drouth, long wet seasons, early frost or hail, what has been grown can be saved. The best use of farm grown forage and the supply of a good and cheap ration ever at hand are the principal values of the silo.

To best arrange the work of the farm so that each department can be made to turn a profit is one of the important questions of the average farm. Where silos are added to the farm buildings a change of farm management must follow. Less hay is needed, less land is required for pasturne, more stock can be kept on the land, more land must be used for corn or at least sufficient corn must be planted to fill the silo. Less labor is required to feed the stock, but more must be provided during the short season of filling.

The filling season requires planning ahead of time in order to secure sufficient labor. If exchange of work is desirable, plan to exchange with the farmers who also fill silos. If this cannot be arranged for, plan to exchange work with farmers who have other rush seasons comiig at earlier or later periods. In grain growing sections, the threshing is a similar kind of work and is generally done after silo filling. Special work like bean threshing, clover hulling, alfalfa threshing, grass seed threshing, fruit picking, etc., as a rule requires extra help and the man with the silo can arrange to exchange so that he can have his silo filled.

"The silo is the cheapest known source of digestile carbohydrates." This is a truth well proved by many of the experiment stations and practical feeders, therefore to keep livestock and to keep it economically means the use of a silo if such is possible and it means that the work of the farm must be planned to accommodate this arrangement. Sufficient stock should be kept on the farm to consume the rough forages and to give a steadiness to the income and furnish work throughout the year. Where silos are filled, a rotation of crops can easily be arranged as the corn designed for the silo is entirely removed and the land can be plowed in the fall and put into winter wheat, rye or alfalfa.

It is wise and good feeding practice to balance the forage ration and as silage from the corn like plants is high in carbohydrates it is well to grow some forage high in protein such as clover, alfalfa, cowpeas or soybeans. Such crops fit in well with a rotation and tend to keep up the soil fertility.

Six Times Pasture.

Where land is high it is desirable to use both a winter and summer silo. It is difficult indeed to secure a revenue or profit from high priced land in pasture. It does not grow sufficient forage to warrant a profit and the silo can be much more economically used, providing at least six times more feed than pasture. Arrange to have fodder designed for the silo planted close to the farm buildings, thus preventing a long haul at filling time. It is always wise to grow the bulky forage ration on the farm. If extra feed must be purchased, it is cheaper to buy concentrates than rough forage.

The silo is a labor saving equipment and when it is properly arranged it requires little work to feed 20 or 40 head and no team or wagon is necessary. Silage saves hay, also grain in the ration. This will mean that less hay need be grown for the same amount of stock, or, if grown, it can be sold. Where work horses and young colts are used for farm work they can be wintered cheaply on corn silage with a little straw and oilmeal. Some splendid results have been obtained on wintering mares, mules and work horses on such a ration and it is cheap and easily obtained.

Where considerable grain is raised on the farm, it would be an easy matter to use the excess labor in feeding steers or sheep. The dairy farm as a rule takes care of this problem, but where dairying is not practiced, feeding can be resorted to. The silo, on the whole fits in well in the average farm management and works for economy and good farming. Where a sil stands on the farm it can be pretty sure to mean that that farm is building up its soil It will be a richer farm, it will grow larger and better crops, there will be work throughout the year and there will be a steady income.

POPULATION OF UNITED STATES IS ANNOUNCED

FIGURES ANNOUNCED SATURDAY DO NOT INCLUDE U. S. TERRITORIES.

The growth of the country's population was not expected to show so large a relative increase during the last decade as during the previous decade ended with 1910 because of the almost complete stoppage of immigration during the World War and the heavy emigration during that period. In the decade ending with 1920 the total poulation of the United States, exclusive of its outlying possessions, was 91,972,266. During those ten years the numerical increase was the greatest of any decade in its history, while the rate of growth was 21 per cent. The gain in that decade was four times what the total population of the country was in 1790 when the first federal census was taken, while the tottal total population in 1910 was almost 23 times greater than it was in 1790.

With the outlying possessions, the United States had a population in 1910 of 101,115,487. These possessions included Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands, the Panama Canal Zone, Guam and Samoa. The total of persons in the military and naval service abroad was added. This year the population of the Virgin Islands of the United States, acquired from Denmark, is included.

| Year | Population | Increase | % |

With the announcement of the total population of the country, the Bureau of the Census under Director Sam L. Rogers has accomplished only a portion of its tremendous task, which will occupy a large force of statisticians and clerks for the better part of a number of years. But the primary object, for which the fathers of the country provided in the constitution that a counting of the people of the country should be made every ten years, has been achieved. That object was to obtain the total population in order that apportionment of the members of the house of representatives may be made by congress.

That apportionment, as soon as Director Rogers certifies to congress the exact number of people in each state, will be taken up by the house of representatives at its coming session and during the coming year the body will by law fix the number of congressmen from each state. There has been discussion as to whether the membership of the house of representatives, now fixed at 435, should not be reduced as that number is considered by some parliamentarians as too large and unwieldy a body.

People in some states are fearful that their representation in congress might be cut down and oppose any reduction.

In 1790 the number of representatives was fixed at 65, each representing approximately 30,000 people. The number has increased with each decade, based on census returns, until each of the present 435 members of the house represents approximately 211,877. The actual ratio of representation varies from 80,293 in Nevada to 223,027 in Washington. Nevada, Delaware, Wyoming and Arizona, whose populations were less than the number which would entitle them to one representative by apportionment, were each given one under the constitutional provision that each state shall have at least one representative in the house.

PROSECUTION URGED BY JUDGE M'GEE FOR PROFITEERS IN COAL

NORTHWEST COMMISSIONER AT MINES ASKS APPOINTMENT OF FUEL ADMINISTRTOR

New plans for increasing coal shipments to the northwest will be completed by the United States government in a few days, according to a report from Judge John F. McGeen, northwest fuel commissioner at the mines, received in Minneapolis Saturday.

Judge McGee also said that he had written letters to President Wilson and the department of justice, urging appointment of a federal fuel administrator and prosecution of coal profiteers.

Other priority shipment orders are to be canceled in favor of the northwest as a result of a conference held at Washington, said Judge McGee, who was present, together with members of the interstate commerce commission, director general of railroads, officers of the National Coal association, public utilities commissioners from Indian, Ohio and Michigan and Daniel C. Willard, W. C. Barnes and A. M. Gutheim, representing railroads.

According to Judge McGee, the roads are 2,250,00 tons short of the total required by Service Order No. 10, since it was issued in June, and drastic action by the government is the only way to make up the shortage.

"After having failed on every plan thus far," wrote Judge McGee, "the railroads will exert every effort to deliver sufficient coal for the northwest, I believe, in order to show their ability to function under private control. If they fail again, the situation will be very dangerous."

Judge McGee has received a telegram showing that soft coal on docks at Duluth, Superior, Washburn and Ashland, on Sept. 20, totals only 99,000 tons ,compared with 5,100,000 tons on the same day last year.

Failure of American dock companies to purchase coal at the docks accounts for much of this shortage, according to interstate commerce commission agent Griggs, who says that the Canadian government, U. S. Steel corporation and other concerns buy it on the open market and pay the price.

The charge that dock companies have withdrawn from the soft coal market and not attempting to purchase the winter supply for the northwest was denied today by officials of the leading dock organizations in Minneapolis.

"To the best of my belief," said one operator, "the companies are buying freely in the open market. The difference in prices is evidence that coal is being sold under bids and not at contract prices.

"The Canadian government has entered the market and is bidding any tered the market and is biddin any price to get coal. If American dock companies should adopt this plan and bid against Canada, the cost of coal to the consumer would be prohibitive."

That the bituminous coal shortage in the northwest is due to light shipments rather than to any shortage of production is indicated by reports issued by the Minneapolis Traffic association, showing that production for the first 222 working days of 1920 exceeded that of the same period of 1919 by 51,169,000 tons, while receipts at the head of the lake, for the season, to Sept. 25, were 1,813,253 tons less than last year.

During the first 222 days of 1920 production was 380,832,000 tons; in 1919, 329,663,000 tons; 1918, 424,068,000; 1917, 394,900,000.

For the week ending Sept. 25, production was 11,414,000 tons, as compared with 11,253,000 for the same week in 1919.

ABOUT THE OLDEST WOMAN REPUBLICAN VOTER; ONE IS 105

The National Republican's competition for the oldest woman Republican voter is ended by the discovery of a New Hampshire woman Republican 105 year old. Following printing in the National Republican of information about Elmira C. Griswold, 90 years old, of Salem, Miss., and of Mrs. Elizabeth Kimball, 91 years old, of Boxford, Mass., Bert P. Doe, Newfields, N. H., writes to the editor as follows:

"Newfields probably has the oldest woman voter in the country and she is a Republican. She is Mrs. Mary R. Pike, widow of Rev. James Pike, a prominent Methodist preacher, and member of congress from the first New Hampshire district in 1855. She reached her 105th birthday on Sept. 11. She was unable to vote in the New Hampshire primaires on Sept. 7 but hopes to be able to cast her vote for Harding and Coolidge next November.

"Mrs. Pike's maiden name was Brodhead, her father being one of the founders of Methodism in New Hampshire and a brother of Dr. John Brodhead, long a prominent Washington, D. C., physician, dying there in 1880, and leaving the income of his estate, after the death of his widow, for purchase of books for the Newfields, N. H., public library. His valuable library was also given to the library. The town became possessor of the legacy in 1900. Authentic records of her birth are available here, which was in Newmarket (now Newfields) Sept. 11, 1815.

"Is there any rebord better than that? All of her relatives were Republicans and her husband a candidate for governor of New Hampshire, while a son, James T. Pike, was once complimented by President Lincoln for his promptness when he was an employe in the U. S. treasury department."

John G. Martin, editor of the Blue River Gazette, Fredericksburg, Ind., reports as one of the oldest women voters, Martha A. Graam, of that place, who will be 99 years old on November 9th. Her father was a political associate of President William Henry Harrison and a boyhood companion and life-long friend of Henry Clay; he was also a member of the Indiana constitutional convention of 1816. As a girl she rode behind her father on horseback from Corydon to Leavenworth to hear Henry Clay make a speech. Mrs. Graam lives with her son in a log cabin, reminiscent of pioneer days, two miles from Fredericksburg. She is an ardent supporter of Harding and Coolidge.

Mrs. F. McCraary, of 1107 State street, Washington, Ind., reports Mrs. Sara C. Cannon, who will be 103 years old in December. She has been an enthusiastic Republican from the birth of the party and although she has been blind for eight years, retains an active interest in the party's success. She rode at the head of the parade given by the labor organizations of Washington, Ind., on Labor day this year.

Mary Gomer Ogdon, of the Daily Dispatch, Moline, Ill., writes: "Your item, 'Who's the Oldest Woman Republican Voter?' in the issue of September 18th, is interesting but Moline has a woman Republican voter who is slated to cast a ballot for Harding and Coolidge this year, although it will not be her first, for she voted in 1916—and not for Wilson—and who is older than either of the women mentioned. She is Mrs. Maria Hibbard Dimock and she will be 100 years old November 11th, a few days after the election. Mrs. Dimock has not only voted for president, Illinois women having had partial suffrage since 1913, but she has voted at a strenuous election in which the wet and dry proposition was the big thing. She not only votes right, but she knows why it is right. People who know her would not call her a 'really old Republican' either."

The Chillicothe-Scotio Gazette, of Chillicothe, O. reports that Mrs. Mary A. Dunlap, aged 102 years, has been elected honorary chairman of the Ross county Woman's Harding Club. Mrs. Dunlap converted a Democratic husband to the Republican cause years ago. She has written a letter accepting the designation, saying: "I am the mother of a large Republican family. I have waited for years for the privilege of voting and am glad that my first vote for president will be for a man of the Harding type."

When the Worker Loses

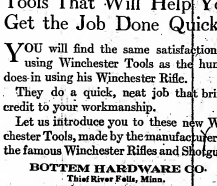
The spirit of efficiency permeates the business life of today to such an extent that the very pulse of commerce has experienced a quickening that is noticeable. Yet much of the benefit of efficient business methods is lost through the worker's inefficiency due to physical inefficiency.

A sick worker is a poor workman. He is a loss to himself in wages and a loss to his employer in production. Much sickness is caused not by work or physical unfitness, but rather through the wast of energy caused by faulty nerve action, which so weakens the system that the body becomes an easy victim of ailments and disease.



Big, successful, healthy business men know that to succeed to keep up with the strain and demands of the times, they must be fit. They must conserve every ounce of their energy and power. Many of them have found that they can best do this through because it corrects the cause of faulty nerve action and permits Nature to bring about the normal distribution of energy. Health and vigor usually follow. Chiropractic (Ki-Ro-Prac-tic) is drugless. Every one should investigate Chiropractic, because of the greater material benefit to be derived through it.

CONCERNING THE MENNONITES

An editorial questioning the desirability of the Mennonites as settlers for Minnesota appeared in last week's issue of the Thief River Falls Times. Wm. J. Brown of this city has been representing the governor and the immigration department of the state in the matter of securing this immigration.

Being interviewed by the Tribune in regard to the Times article, Mr. Brown says:

"It is extremely unfortunate that the article was published and it is further very unfortunate that the Times did not fully acquaint itself with the facts before writing the article. The editorial in question is based wholly upon an incorrect understanding of the facts.

"These Mennonite people are extremely sensitive to public opinion and it will take very little newspaper opposition in the state of Minnesota to keep them out of the state.

"Negotiations are at a critical stage and articles such as the one in question are quickly brought to the attention of the Mennonite people by those interested in seeking to locate them elsewhere.

"The Times article states that the sole and only grievance these people have against the Canadian government is an objection on the part of the church bishops to permit the Mennonite children to receive a proper education in the English language. This is not a fact. The objection these people have to the actions of the Canadian government is that in 1872 the Canadian authorities made a solemn agreement with the Mennonite people whereby the Mennonite people were to emigrate to Canada and in return therefore were to receive the right to teach their children their own religion and to contol their own schools. The Mennonite people claim that the Canadian authorities broke this agreement and placed teachers in Mennonite school who did not permit teaching of their religion. The laws of the state of Minnesota permit the teaching of religion in the sectarian schools, and full information furnished by the superintendent of public instruction of this state concerning the requirement of English teaching in the schools of the state has been given to the Mennonites. No special privileges or immunities not enjoyed by every other citizen of the state have or can be offered to the Mennonites and all negotiations with them are on this basis.

"The Times article further says that these people are now seeking a new haven where they can bring up their children in ignorance. This also is not true. These people have maintained their schools and have taught their religion in the schools just exactly the way their contract with the Dominion government provided and if they come to Minnesota, their children will receive English education like all other children of the state. Obedience to the laws of the country is a part of their religion.

"Quebec, one of the Canadian provinces, is the chief competitor of Minnesota in seeking to secure this immigration and Quebec is promising and offering the Mennonite people complete control of their schools without interference by the authorities, the right to use a foreign language and to teach the same in their schools to the exclusion of any other, and the right to free practice of their religion together with immunity from military service. These things cannot be offered or promised the Mennonites in case of their immigration to Minnesota and no one would desire or willing to negotiate with the Mennonites on that basis. It is farther suggestive that the authority quoted by the Times as fixing the undesirability of these people as citizens would be the Toronto paper published in Canada, which authorities are leaving no stone unturned to retain these people within the Canadian borders. The efforts of the Canadian papers is propaganda pure and simple, solely designed to poison the minds of the people of Minnesota towards these desirable immigrants."

J. D. Clarkson, of St. Joseph, Mo., general manager of the Jefferson Highway Association, is seriously ill and in the hospital for for an operation. Mr. Clarkson has many warm friends here who will be deeply concerned and will hope for his early recovery. He has been the central figure in the great International Jefferson Highway from "Pine to Palm" from Winnipeg to New Orleans, and on every mile of the road he has friends, including hundreds of them in Pennington county.

Candidate Thormodson has been here and made a speech asking for votes. Soon Candidate Steenerson will be along and will make a speech asking for votes. When the farmers organize to control the price of their grain and act as a unit in their business affairs, these candidates will know in advance what the farmers are going to do.

A voter who does not vote is not a good citizen. To be a good American you must be a good citizen. Join some party; make yourself a factor in the party; help direct the party; see that our party does right, then vote with it. Be a Democrat, Republican, or something.

Mr. Hodgson is against the steel trust. All of us are. They are profiteers, money hogs and enemies to society. They live in Pittsburg, New York and Chicago. They are partly Democrats, partly Republicans, none of them are Non-Partisans.

W. J. Bryan is represented in a recent cartoon as having the lockjaw. Poor Bill. Keeping us out of war was all right, but when Wilson insits on keeping us in war, and then when Wall street nominated Cox, Bryan went plumb dry, and closed up.

Dr. Penney presided with his usual grace and eloquence. He made reference to his speech two years ago, when he introduced Burnquist as "the next governor," and claimed history was repeating itself in his introduction of Hodgson.

The Democratic ladies on the stage supporting Mrs. Patterson and headed by Mrs. Stanton of the Congressional Committee, made a fine showing. They registered convictions, showed were in earnest and set a good example their colors, demonstrated that they ple for others to follow. We most heartily commend the ladies of the Democratic party for their partisan stand.

Mr. Hodgson did not mention Woodrow Wilson. He did not mention Jimmy. He did not mention the man who kept us out of war. He did not mention the man who ordered the solemn (and sad) referendum. He did not refer at any time or place to the accomplishments of Mr. Wilson in Paris, Brussells, Rome or Washington. He did not mention Cox. Mr. Hodgson was speaking to a Republican audience. He knows he is stronger than his party, stronger in Minnesota, stronger than Cox, much stronger than Wilson and he must have Republican votes to win. Very adroit.

The Times objects to the Mennonites because they are "Germanized colonies." During the entire period of the war, the Times ran an ad flauntingly and for a few cents a week in German type. It seems to make a difference with the Times, whose German is being gored.

When the farmers organize and control the prices on their products as they can, and as they should, the general order will be reversed and instead of praying and petitioning and pleading wit hpublic officials, they will tell them.

The Times finds it very hard to say a good word for newcomers and prospective settlers. The "Iowa settlers" have irritated them. Now the prospective Canadian settlers are taboo with the Times.

Govenor Allen of Kansas comes out with a broadside demanding that Canadian wheat shipment be stopped. Just how he expects to accomplish this, when the Wilson tariff specifies it can come in, we do not understand.

If Mr. Preus should call the roll of his camp followers and make a few eliminations, no general complaint would go up.

If we are ever to have a Democrat for governor, give us Hodgson.

POLITICAL PUNCHES

Cox says he is running a cheap campaign. It sounds like it.

Right now Mr. Wilson's batting average in the League of Nations is about .0000.

U. S. also means "Us" and the Republicans will restore the people to power.

NEGATIVE COX, POSITIVE HARDING.

Minneapolis Journal: Governor Cox is trying his adroitest to use every and any puff of wind to tack into the White House. Senator Harding has up sails of ample breadth and has marked a straightaway course. His candidacy sails under no deceiving colors and is drawing well ahead before a regularly favorable and steady wind.

The convictions, such as they were, were in the Wilson moisty of the Democratic party. To attribute any national convictions, except one against prohibition ,to Messrs. Murphy, Nugent, Tagart and Brennan, would be invidious, since they themselves never claim possession of such impedimenta. And to oppose the man they nominated cherishes any strong convictions calls for great credulity.

Governor Cox is an opportunist, and not such a very clever one. He would have tried to ride in on the wet tire, but it "went blooey." His espousal of the League of Nations was required if he wanted to keep the Wilson support and no doubt he fancied it as a possible winning card. But as an issue he is not presenting it even for what it is worth partly because he is shrewd rather than intellectual and patry because he doesn't himself believe in it.

Senator Harding has convictions, deep ones ,and he voices them. One may not agree with all of them, but no one can deny that they animate Mr. Harding and will guide his administration.

The fact is that now within four weeks of election day the people are not certain exactly what kind of a president Cox would make they know prety positively what kind of a president they are going to get in Harding.

STATE TAXES ARE CUT 25 PER CENT

RATE FOR GENERAY STATE EXPENSES ONLY EIGHT-TENTHS OF ONE MILL.

The state tax levy for next year is reduced 25 per cent, according to announcement made Saturday by the state audior's department. The rate is cut from 8.1 mills to 6.42 mills.

The levy for general state expenses will be only eight-tenths of a mill, said to be the lowest of any rate in the union.

The balance of the state tax is made up of levies for special purposes and is determined as a rule by legislative act or appropriation.

The economy of state management is shown by what is necessary for the state departments, together with what the state board of control uses for support of the higher educational, the charitable and the neal institutions of the state. The total levy for, these purposes is but eight-tenths of a mill imposing a tax per individual so small as to be negligible. Few, if any states in the entire union have such efficient management. This eight-tenths of a mill levy not only provides all the funds necessary to support the departments named above, but also provides all the money by which the state extends it special aid to high schools. This is the lowest rate for general state expenses in the history of the state and in view of rising costs and larger activities on the part of the stte, indicates a particularly efficient and conscientious state management.

| | Mills |
|---|---|
| State departmenats, educational, charitable and penal institutions | .0.8 |
| Relief of soldiers and their widows | .1 |
| State road and bridge | 1.0 |
| Soldiers' bonus | 1.5 |
| Historical Society building | .05 |
| Itasca state park lands | .02 |
| State board of relief | .1 |
| University buildings | .32 |
| Forest fire relief | .25 |
| Per capita aid to public schools | 1.00 |
| University support | .23 |
| Teachers' insurance and retirement | .05 |
| Total | 5.42 |

Notice that aside from the eight-tenths of a mill levy for general state expenses, the entire balance of the levy is for special purposes, any one of which can be cut out whenever the people so decide. However, the purposes of each are worthy and we doubt if the people will want any of them, cut down or out except as it appears there is no longer necessity for the appropriation.

FARMERS LOSE BIG SUMS, CREDIT DENIED

Washington, October 7—Reductions during July and August in the prices of various farm products during July and August cost the farmers of the country approximately $1,000,000,000, it was estimated today by George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers National Council. The estimate was based on the prices producers received for wheat, corn, potatoes, apples, cotton and beef cattle.

"Under the present system of distribution of farm products," Mr. Hampton declared in a statement, "it is clear that farmers have no assurance of costs of production plus a fair profit.

"A most important factor in placing the farmers at the mercy of the middlemen," the statement continued, " is the relative ease which which middlemen hoarders secure credit. While farmers are unable to secure credit at all, or can do so only on terms which render their business on the average a non-commercial undertaking."

WORK ON APPORTIONMENT NOW UNDER WAY

FUNDS FOR SALVATION ARMY TO BE RAISED IN COUNTY BY SUBSCRIPTION.

Not to be outdone by other counties in the state in support of Salvation Army institutions, Hennepin county, including Minneapolis, has accepted its apportionment of $111,000 as its share of the state budget of $268,050 to be raised in Minnesota at large. Members of the Hennepin county board comprise practically every trade and business in Minneapolis.

"It is the most representative class of citizens ever gathered together to serve the Salvation Army in our larger cities," said Colonel William F. Barker, commanding the northern division of the army.

Pennington county will have to look to its laurels to insure the raising of its apportionment. Every county in Minnesota must pull together during the week of October 11 to 18 to make the home service program of the Army a success.

"Home service means Salvation Army service brought to the doors of every needy citizen in Pennington county," said Thomas A. Way, chairman of the local advisory board.

"If the citizens mean business and intend to accept the service the Salvation Army offers, everyone in Pennington county must make it the duty to see that the apportionment is reached."

New Varities of Wheat and Rye.

St. Paul, Oct. 2, 1920.

The Tribune, Thief River Falls.

Dear Friends: Your recent inquiry relative to a rust resistant wheat known as Algerian Durum is herewith acknowledged. Upon inquiry I learn that the Algerian Durum is a variety of Durum wheat which was introduced into the U. S. by the U. S. department of agriculture from Algeria, Africa. It was a black bearded durum. The agronomy department of the state college of agriculture has cultivate dsamll quantities of it. It is discovered that it is fairly rust resistant although it did not appear to be more so than some of the other varieties of durum wheat. It is a well established fact that the durums are more rust resistant than the common spring wheats. It has not been cultivated sufficiently in this country to determine its milling qualities or its adaptability to Minnesota conditions.

The Rosen rye mentioned in your letter is a strain of rye which was brought to this country from Russia by a student named Rosen. This young man cultivated it at the Michigan agricultural college and it was distributed throughout the west from that point. It has been raised in southeastern Minnesota for two years. It yields better than the common varieties and is about equal in this respect to Minnesota No. 2 rye. It is discovered that the latter is better suited for northern Minnesota conditions and outyields the Rosen variety.

Should any of your farmer friends desire to secure guaranteed varieties of the Rosen, I suggest that they secure same through the Minnesota Field Crop Breeders' Association. T. E. Odlund, secretary, University Farm, St. Paul.

Hoping that this is the information you desire relative to these grains and that it will shit your purposes, I remain.

Very truly yours,
N. J. HOLMBERG,
Commissioner.

DEATH RESULTS FROM TUMBLE INTO OPEN WELL

ANTON MARTINSON, FARMER, FOUND DEAD IN WELL BY NEIGHBORS

Anton Martinson, a bachelor 81 years of age, was found dead in a well on his farm in New Solum township, Marshall county, by neighbors, and the body was brought to this city Wednesday evening.

Mr. Martinson, who has been living alone on this one farm for the past fifteen years, evidently went to the well to get a pail of water and fell in. The well is an open one and covered with boards, and the supposition is that Mr. Martinson was standing on the boards when they broke thru, letting him fall into the water below. When found he was in a standing position in water above his knees and was grasping a projection with both hands, holding himself upright.

The body was found by C. A. Svanson, a neighbor who went over to see if Mr. Martinson was getting along all right and if there was anything he needed. Failing to find Mr. Martinson at the house, a search was instituted and finally he was found in the well. The body was brought to the top with the assistance of neighbors and the authorities notified. Upon examination there was found to be a severe gash upon the right leg, extending upward from the ankle, which leads to the belief that Mr. Martinson fell into the well feet first as there were no other marks on the body to indicate he was bruised in falling. His position in the water proves conclusively that he did not become unbalanced, otherwise he would have fallen in head first.

It is not known how long Mr. Martinson had been in the well and whether he starved to death or was killed by the shock. His age leads to the belief that the latter was the cause of his death. The only surviving relative is Martin Johnson, who resides in Wisconsin.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and interment made in Greenwood cemetery.

HANS JACOBSON DIES AS RESULT OF FALL MONDAY

Hans Jacobson, carpenter, was seriously injured Monday afternoon while at work on the Hanley building, South Main, when he fell from a scaffold, receiving injuries from which he died late Tuesday afternoon at the hospital.

Mr. Jacobson, who is an old settler and well known in this community, was engaged in shingling the house and was on a scaffold some fifteen feet from the ground, when he became over balanced, falling to the ground with such force that his back was broken. He was also injured badly about the head and blood was flowing freely from his wounds.

A physician was summoned immediately and Jacobson was taken to the hospital where everything possible was done to relieve his suffering. All attempts to save his life were in vain and he passed away Tuesday afternoon, about twelve hours after the accident.

Mr. Jacobson leaves a wife and eight children, the oldest of which is 16 years and the youngest a babe in arms. The family is left in difficult circumstances, the only living relative being a brother who lives in Montana.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. T. E. Sweger officiating. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MINNESOTA CONDITIONS

EVERYTHING IN STATE BOOMING ALONG IN FINE SHAPE —CONDITIONS BETTER

Indebtedness of Minnesota farmers will be reduced many thousands of dollars this fall, as a consequence of income obtained since harvesting from sales to automobile tourists and it seems extremely probable that this phase of farm business will be greatly developed next summer, judging from reports received during the past week from bankers throughout the state for the weekly review of Minnesota enterprise, prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and First National Peoples State Bank of Thief River Falls.

Although it will be difficult to estimate the volume of business in farm produce which was transacted at the roadside this summer and fall, bankers throughout the state are being asked to confer with farmers and give approximate figures. It is known, however, that thousands of pounds of Minnesota butter and large quantities of vegetables, fruits, eggs and poultry were purchased by tourists. Sales on the better known highways were heavier than on the state roads.

Business of this kind has become so heavy that the Jefferson Highway—especially between Minneapolis, Osseo and Anoka—has literally been lined with farmers' booths on Sundays. A few drives have complained to the local authorities. It has been customary for the farmers to establish their booths just off the road and offer a variety of products for sale. A preliminary investigation is said to have disclosed that the booths are not dangerous to the great majority of automobile drivers but that they may have worked a few reckless drivers.

The past week brought practically complete reports on crops. The latest advices did not alter the essential announcements or forecasts, carried in previous reports issued by the Merchants National Bank. Oats and corn yielded abundantly; clover brought wealth to many farmers; sugar beets were very good in spots and fairly good in some districts; there were a few satisfactory wheat yields but the crop as a whole was small; flax, barley and other small grains were irregular but many big yields were reported. Numerous farmers reported tremendous potato crops, but the price slump proved a disappointment to growers. Raising of tobacco and cane was successfully accomplished in some sections.

Warm October weather has kept bees on the job and shipments of eggs have been heavier than a year ago. It is possible that every county in the state may be included in the declaration that the pure bred cattle industry is developing along such broad lines that Minnesota will rank as a top notch state within a year or two. Scores of farmers from Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Kansas, and other states have urged Minnesota breeders to establish more freely at shows of national interest. Every county fair with less than half a dozen exceptions, was featured by record high grade stock exhibits and numerous farmers shipped their cattle to the fairs in their own tucks.

Big Lot Sale Tomorrow.

Tomorrow those desiring a building lot will be given an opportunity to secure one at their own price. The Tessum lots west of the city will be sold at auction, regardless of what the price might be, and all interested in securing a lot at their own price should be on hand. The sale starts promptly at 1 p. m. and will be held rain or shine. A band from Warren will be on hand to furnish music and a general good time for all is promised.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The W. C. T. U. will meet next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Andrew Craig on Horace avenue. Everybody come.

COAL SUPPLY OF NATION GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

RIGHT OF WAY GIVEN OVER RAILROADS TO SUPPLY THE NATION'S SHORTAGE

Action to satisfy demands for domestic coal in various states has been taken by the interstate commerce commission in an order requiring the railroads east of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico to furnish coal cars to mines in preference to any other use.

Former orders of this character applied only to the east of the Mississippi river. The present order the commission said would run until further notice, but would be relaxed as the situation warranted.

The commission also ordered all outstanding permits for use of coal cars for other freight cancelled, but announced that arrangements to continue the movement of certain essentials, such as sugar beets to factory, would be made.

Working in conjunction with coal operators and railroads, a program has been formulated, the committee said, which is expected substantially to meet domestic coal needs. It is planned to transport approximately 2,100 cars daily for the purpose.

As public untilities and institutions have accumulated some stocks of coal under the commission's priority order, that order has been supplemented by a new regulation which, the commission announced, will care for special cases of real emergency. After Oct. 14 preferential car supply for public institutions will be afforded only upon approval of the commission.

Despite an increase in coal production which up to Sept. 25 exceeded that of last year by 51,000,000 tons, the commission said "there has not been a sufficient production of the sites of coal for domestic purposes to satisfy the present demands."

Complaints have been received from Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Oklahoma, Texas and other western states, the commission said, and added:

"The increased production has been consumed in a large part by industries, by railroads and other public untilities, by the northwest and by New England and by exportation. It is imperative that the production of coal be even further increased. To accomplish this it will be necessary to increase the car supply for coal."

The existing order for the preferential movement of 4,000 cars of coal daily for the northwest was not changed.

LEGION MEMBERS SHOW INTEREST IN BONUS PLAN

IT IS NECESSARY THAT PROMPT ACTION BE TAKEN TO SECURE FUNDS

The meeting of the local post of the American Legion held Wednesday evening of this week for the purpose of discussing the new bonus payment plan which the bonds are taking over, was very well attended and much interest shown in the new plan.

In addition many other matters were discussed and among the more important steps taken was the decision of the post as a body to assist the Salvation Army in their drive for funds. Committees were appointed to call upon the service men of the city to solicit for funds for the budget plan now under way. Those appointed for this work are: First ward, Edward Brevig and Harold Provencher; second ward, David Robinson and Oscar Smith; third ward, Carl Gullingsrud and Alvin Holsknecht; fourth ward, Oscar Paulson and Walter Jonas. These men will call upon service men only and will accept cash donations or time payments.

With reference to the bonus payment plan now being considered the post took on record as favoring the step being taken by the local banks and the banks of the state in advancing the money due on the payment to the service men, and steps will be taken to get prompt action in this matter. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the plan it is only necessary to state that the banks of the city, in conjunction with the Wells-Dickey trust company of Minneapolis are advancing the money due on bonuses at a discount of only three dollars and seventy-five cents per hundred. In this manner the service man is allowed to secure his money in short order at a very small discount, none of which stays in this city or received by the local banks. This discount is a very small fraction of what the interest itself would be in the course of time necessary to secure the money through the regular channels and all minutes a great deal of time, giving the service man his money in short order. All that is necessary to secure the money due is the filling in of the bonus number of the applicant, the banks attending to the rest. The secretary of the local post, G. Howard Smith, has a full supply of blanks on hand and all service men who are desirous of securing this foney are requested to call at his office and fill in the blanks. All that is then necessary is to call on the bank and secure the money.

As there is only a limited amount of money available for this purpose it is advisable that every service man take immediate steps if he wishes to secure his bonus under this plan. It is coming and want it soon, this step is the quickest and in order to get in on the money available it is necessary that prompt action be taken.

Club Luncheon Pleases.

The regular Commercial Club luncheons, which have been held on Thursday of each week, are pleasing all who attend and the club as a result is stepping forth and making much headway as a result. The regular luncheon this week was held on Wednesday in order to entertain Senator P. H. McGarry and Fred D. Sherman, who spoke in the city the evening previous and at Goodridge on Wednesday in the afternoon and the Babcock amendment. The attendance at the Wednesday luncheon was an extra large one all who attended enjoyed the meeting tremendously. The luncheon next week will be held on Thursday as usual.

Small Attendance.

There was a small attendance at the good roads meeting held in this city Tuesday evening when Senator P. H. McGarry and Fred D. Sherman explained the workings and purposes of the proposed Babcock amendment which is to be voted on at the general election November 2. The night was very disagreeable during rain fell most of the day and evening, keeping a great many people from attending the meeting. Those present, however, received a very explicit explanation of the proposed amendment and it is to be regretted that there was not a larger attendance. The two gentlemen spoke to the people of Goodridge on Wednesday and received a very cordial reception from the people of that city.

Meeting Sunday.

There will be a meeting of the Women's Nonpartisan club of Wylie in the school house in Dist. 94, six miles west of St. Hilaire, on Sunday, ct. 17, at 2:30 p. m. O. A. Naplin will speak on state issues and other speakers may be present.

PARTRIDGE SEASON OPENS TODAY

The open season for partridge hunting opened today in the state of Minnesota. There has been some question as to whether or not this would also include the hunting of prairie chickens, but according to the state game and fish commissioner, this is illegal and that the shooting of prairie chickens would call down a heavy fine for the offender.

DAIRY CALF CONTEST TO BE NOVEMBER 5

FINEST EXHIBIT IN HISTORY OF COUNTY TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY

The First National Bank Dairy Calf Contest, promoted by C. L. Hansen in co-operation with the Pennington county Farm Bureau, will be held in Thief River Falls on Friday, November 5. Some of the finest calves in the northwest will be exhibited at this show and it will be to the interest of all dairymen as well as club members to be in attendance at that time.

Mr. Hansen is giving a luncheon at the Evelyn Hotel to all club members, as well as $50 in premium money. The amount and size of the premium money will be announced at a later date.

Mr. Hansen is much interested in promoting the keeping of dairy stock in the northwest, which is given as a reason for his doing this for the club members. He is also working along the line of better feeding in encouraging all dairymen to erect silos. To make this possible his bank is loaning the money for the cost of the silo for one year free of charge.

All club members who exhibited at the county fair and others who have enrolled but did not exhibit should get their animals in the best possible shape for November 5. The five best calves exhibited at this show will be sent to Crookston on November 12 and 13, with all expenses paid for the member as well as the expense of their calves. The two best from each county will be sent to the state show at St. Paul on November 17, 18 and 19. This is an opportunity for club members to work for a free trip to the state contest where much valuable experience will be obtained.

In Town Saturday.

Elmer E. Adams, president, and Robert Hannah, secretary of the Northwestern Building Association of Fergus Falls, were in town Saturday called on business representatives. H. S. Dahlen, vice president of the First & People's State Bank, and inspecting their loans. The Northwestern Building Association loans in fifty towns and villages in northern Minnesota and each year the officials visit the various places studying conditions and inspecting the loans. They were very much pleased with the growth and general prosperity of Thief River Falls, but they found in very great shortage of houses here. It is perfectly apparent to them that Thief River Falls should do a lot of building in the spring in case the people can be taken care of who want to live here. While the general financial conditions have been rather hard, the Northwestern Building Association has ample funds and assured Mr. Adams that the association would take care of every good loan which he had to offer either this fall or the coming spring.

Leaves for Washington.

C. L. Hansen, president of the First National Bank of this city, left last evening for Washington, D. C., and New York City. Mr. Hansen is making this trip primarily to ascertain the general condition of the country and to find out if possible what is in store for the country from a financial standpoint. His trip will extend over a period of ten days or more and he will make it a point to gather as much information as possible concerning conditions in all sections.

Elks Tonight.

Tonight will witness the fall opening of activities in local Elk circles and as there are around fifty candidates desirous of being initiated into the mysteries of the order, there is every reason to expect a very successful evening. The meeting will be held in the Auditorium and every Elk requested to be on hand promptly. A rousing time is planned and it is certain that all present will receive full value.

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION EXPLAINS FACTS

PROPOSED AMENDMENT SETS FORTH PARTICULARS CONCERNING ROAD PLAN.

Proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Minnesota are published in this issue of the Tribune on pages two and three and it is advisable that all who are not familiar with the proposed amendments turn to them and read the text of the amendments in order that all may become familiar with the same.

The first proposed amendment deals with the Babcock highway plan and is to be voted on at the general election, November 2. This amendment is one of tremendous importance to the entire state and one in which the state as a whole is really interested. It is the means whereby the state is to enjoy good roads to all points at a nominal cost to all. The average tax payer will not be called upon to pay one cts more than before, as the car owner will pay the extra cost in having the state tax on his automobile assessed at a higher rate, which will in no way prove a burden to the car owner and will materially assist in paying for the good roads the state as a whole will enjoy.

Section 22, dealing with Pennington county mostly, says: "Beginning at a point on route number 8 on both of Crookston and three counties in a northerly direction to a point on route number 11 at Greenbush, affording Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Middle River, Greenbush and adjacent communities a reasonable means of communication, each with the other and with other places within the state.

The proposed amendment, if it will exist, is one of the most constructive pieces of legislation possible to arrange in connection with permanent and improved highways. The provisions cost of installing the system as proposed would prove a great benefit indeed to the state and one which would be mighty hard to beat.

Additional Routes.

Whenever, either by reason of the creation of a new county, or by reason of the change of the county seat of any existing county, any city or village not a county seat at the time of the adoption of this amendment is lawfully constituted the county seat of any county, the legislature is authorized to add to the trunk highway system such additional routes connecting such newly constituted county seats with other county seats and other points in the state.

When after at least seventy-five (76) per cent of the total number of the miles of the routes embraced in the trunk highway system hereinbefore specified shall have been constructed and permanently improved, the legislature shall have authority to add new routes to such trunk highway system; provided, however, that no such new routes shall be added until and unless the funds available for the construction, improvement and maintenance of such additional routes shall be sufficient therefor in addition to the construction, improvement and maintenance of the several routes hereinbefore specifically described.

Section 2. There is hereby created a fund which shall be known as the trunk highway sinking fund. Said fund shall consist of the proceeds of any tax imposed on motor vehicles as herein authorized. The moneys in said fund shall be used for the payment of the principal and interest of any bonds which may be issued under the authority of this article; and any moneys in excess of such requirements shall be transferred to a fund which is hereby created and which shall be known as the trunk highway fund. The trunk highway fund shall be used solely for the purposes specified in Section 1 of this article, and when duly authorized by legislative enactment to reimburse any county for the money expended by it subsequent to February 1st, 1919, in permanently improving any road hereinbefore specifically described, in accordance with plans and specifications therefor approved by the commissioner of highways.

Section 3. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide, by law, for the taxation of motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways of this state, on a more onerous basis than other personal property, provided, however, that any such tax on motor vehicles shall be in lieu of all other taxes thereon, except wheelage taxes, so-called, which may be imposed by any borough, city or village. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any motor vehicle owned by a non-resident of the state, and transiently or temporarily using the streets and highways of the state. The proceeds of such tax shall be paid into said trunk highway sinking fund.

Section 4. The legislature may provide by law for the issue and sale of the bonds of the state in such amount as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of section 1 of this article, provided, however, that the amount of bonds which may be issued in any one calendar year shall not exceed, in the aggregate, ten million dollars, par value, and provided, further, the total amount of such bonds issued and unpaid shall not at any time exceed seventy-five million dollars, par value. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the state and credited to the trunk highway fund. Any bonds so issued and sold shall be for a term not exceeding twenty (20) years. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest and shall not bear interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum. In case of the trunk highway sinking fund shall not be adequate to meet the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may in its discretion, appropriate to such sinking fund moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Section 5. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the state of Minnesota inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT OF AMENDMENT.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to establish and provide for the construction and maintenance of a system of roads and highways in the state of Minnesota to be known as "The Trunk Highway System." The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to establish and authorize the enactment of laws, providing for the construction, improvement and maintenance by the state of the highways described in a general way in the amendment, which highways are to be more specifically and definitely located in a manner to be prescribed by law, but any such law must provide that in fixing a definite location of the various routes there shall not be any deviation from the starting point or termini described in the routes set forth in the amendment, nor shall there be a deviation in the fixing of the routes from the various villages and cities named in the amendment, and through which the routes are to pass.

If the amendment is adopted, the legislature will be thereby authorized to provide by law for the issuance and sale of the bonds of the state to raise money for the creation of a "Trunk Highway Fund" to be expended for the construction of the roads embraced in the trunk highway system. The legislature cannot, however, issue bonds in any one year exceeding in amount of the par value thereof the sum of $10,000,000, nor can the aggregate of all outstanding unpaid bonds ever exceed $75,000,000. Bonds cannot be sold for less than par or bear interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum.

The adoption of the amendment will also confer on the legislature authority to levy a tax on motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways, on a more onerous basis than other personal property is taxed. The proceeds of such tax will be credited to the Highway Sinking Fund, which is to be used to pay bonds issued as above; any surplus in the Highway Sinking Fund not needed for the retirement of bonds to be transferred to the Trunk Highway Fund. Motor vehicles taxed by any law passed by the legislature under the amendment, will not be subject to any other tax, except that a wheelage tax may be imposed on such vehicles by any borough, city or village, if they see fit to do so.

In case the tax on motor vehicles is not sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds issued, the legislature, in case of the adoption of the amendment, will be empowered to provide by law for the taxation of all the taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such Highway Sinking Fund any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

Chapter 531, Session Laws of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to section 7 of article VI of the constitution of the state of Minnesota. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. He shall be a resident of such county at the time of his election, and reside therein during his continuance in office, and his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint his own clerk where none has been elected; but the legislature may authorize the election, by the electors of any county, of one clerk or register of probate for such county, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. A probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction, except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "four" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office of probate judges will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

"It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of four years."

The purpose of said amendment and its effect, if adopted, will be to make the term of office of judge of probate four years instead of two.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

Chapter 532 Session Laws of the state of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to Section 1 of Article IX of the constitution of said state. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, as the legislature may determine: Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy, and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended said section will read as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects and shall be levied and collected for public purposes. But public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be created by law taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer thereof, tools, implements and machinery and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs, to such an extent as such manner as the legislature may prescribe, and taxes may be imposed on mines, minerals, leases and occupations which taxes may be graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided, and such taxes may be in lieu of taxes on any class or classes of property, as the legislature may determine: Provided that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that municipal corporations shall be confined to affixing such assessments to existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

The purpose of said amendment is to empower the legislature to enact laws, to such an extent, and in such a manner, as it may determine, exempting from taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agriculturel fairs; and to authorize the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

The effect of the amendment, if adopted, will be to accomplish the purpose above indicated, to-wit: to authorize the enactment of laws by the legislature:

FIRST: Providing for the exemption from taxation, to such an extent and in such manner as the legislature may determine, of household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools, implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agriculturel fairs.

SECOND: Providing for the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

PROPOSED LAW RELATING TO THE TAXATION OF RAILROAD PROPERTIES.

Chapter 533, Session Laws of the state of Minnesota, for the year of 1919, proposes an amendment to section 2236, General Statutes Minnesota 1913, which provides that said amendment shall be submitted to the people of this state for approval or rejection at the 1920 general election. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situate wholly or partly within this state, shall, during the year 1913 and annually thereafter, pay into the treasury of the state, in lieu of all taxes upon all property within this state owned or operated by such railroad company, by law, or in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property with this state, except real estate, depots, machine shops, rolling mills and franchises, a sum of money equal to five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1913, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and be payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st, next thereafter.

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st, next preceding, and said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st, next ensuing. The taxes hereinbefore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property and franchises of the said railroad company, and nothing in this act shall be construed as modifying any agreement entered into between any municipality within the state and any railroad company relating to the payment of local taxes or assessments.

The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contract is to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized.

If amended as proposal it will read as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situated wholly or partly within this state, shall during the year 1913 and annually thereafter, pay into the treasury of the state, in lieu of all taxes upon all property within this state owned or operated by such railroad company, by law, or in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property with this state, except real estate, depots, machine shops, rolling mills and franchises and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1913, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st, next thereafter.

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st, next preceding, and said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st, next ensuing. The taxes hereinbefore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes upon the property and franchises of said railroad company.

The lands acquired by public grant shall be made and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized.

Under the present law the gross earnings tax paid by railroad companies is in lieu of all other taxes and assessments, real property owned or operated for railroad purposes. Under the proposed amendment the gross earnings tax is in lieu only of such taxes and railroad companies become subject to assessments for local improvements in the same way that private persons and corporations, not paying a gross earnings tax, are subject to such assessments.

The purpose of said amendment is, and its effect, if adopted, will be to subject railroad companies paying gross earnings taxes, to the payment of assessments for local improvements.

Yours respectfully,
CLIFFORD L. HILTON,
Attorney General.

RAISE HOGS IN THE NORTHERN STATES

By M. H. Scott, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin.

The general decline in hog breeding throughout the corn belt points to future profits for northern breeders. Wisconsin is the only hog producing state of importance that has not cut down her pork production.

It is estimated that there are 1,500,000 less hogs in the country than there were last year. With the exception of dairy cattle and mules, all live stock has decreased; but the swine industry shows the greatest decline.

Only in Wisconsin has the number of hogs and brood sows increased. Iowa, normally a heavy hog producing state, decreased her production by 15 per cent since last year; Wisconsin increased hers by 6 per cent during the same time. Other pork producing states of importance, including Indiana, Illinois, Nebraska and Kansas, have all diminished their swine population.

Statistics show that the per capita consumption of pork is 89.7 pounds in the United States, which represents as great a consumption as that of all other meats combined. Due to the present rates of exchange, which makes our money so much more valuable than European moneys, foreign countries are buying very little pork at present. Exportations have been cut materially. If credit is extended to Europe, or if rates of exchange become more equalized it is certain that Europe will make a tremendous demand on the swine industry of the United States.

The outlook for pork production in the northern states is good. The corn belt is raising less hogs than usual, and with continued favorable condition we will be able to realize on this general slump. Spring will be our opportunity to give the pigs the best of care. We are approaching the most important time in the care and feeding of sows—just before, during and just after farrowing. It is during this time that great care on the part of the farmer will be most highly repaid. On the other hand if great care is not given, there is sure to be more or less of a loss which will reduce the profits accordingly.

About five days before farrowing the sow should be placed in a prepared farrowing pen. The object of separating her from the others at this time is to acquaint her with her new quarters so that she may be quiet and at home at farrowing time. The farrowing pen should be light, well ventilated and supplied with warm, fresh bedding. The bedding should be well put and not too abundantly supplied. A pen that is six feet by ten feet is large enough. Every pen should be equipped with fenders to protect the little pigs during and after farrowing. The fenders consist of two by-eight shelves, built about seven or eight inches from the floor, along both sides of the corner in which the sow makes her bed. These shelves aid in preventing the sow from squeezing the pigs against the wall or from lying on them when they are small.

The farrowing pen should be well sprayed with some good coal tar disinfectant before the sow is placed in it and each week thereafter. This spray serves as a preventive measure against white scours in the little pigs, a disease which is cantagious and which results in great losses each year to American hog breeders.

The ration, just before farrowing, should be similar to that previously fed, but great care should be taken at this time to prevent constipation. It may be necessary to supply, in addition to the ration at this time, such laxative feeds as bran and oilmeal, or in extreme cases a drench consisting of one-fourth pound epsom salts in a pint of warm water.

Gentle treatment of the brood sow at all times, and especially at the time of farrowing, is of great importance. The sow is often cross and bites or eats her pigs. This may be due to the lack of a balanced ration during the pregnancy period and, in order to satisfy her craving for protein, she eats her own pigs. She may also have a feverish udder, a condition which often follows constipation at farrowing time. A light application of kerosene, rubbed in well, will relieve the pain and pacify the sow. At birth pigs have long sharp teeth that are to the pigs in the creep, where it will be of greatest economic value.

The impression among many farmers of the northern states who have not tried raising hogs for market that the industry may not be profitable without plenty of corn is very erroneous. Experiments conducted at the Wisconsin college of agriculture show that barley is a very good substitute for corn; in fact barley was found to be more economical and the results were as satisfactory as with the corn fed lot. Barley yields heavy crops in the north so the feeding problem is only a choice of ration between corn and barley.

Most farmers in the northern states keep a herd of cows, but not sufficient number of hogs to consume all the skim milk. Where the ratio of hogs is not proportioned to the dairy herd, the farmer is losing a large amount of money each year which should represent clear profit in pork.

Hogs of a strong type and good rooters are also an asset to farmers cited amount of land cleaning each living in those sections where a spe-cial year enters into progressive farming.

Hogs will do a wonderful job in helping dig out the roots and brush, saving time and money and considerable hard work with the grub hoe. Rooting gives the hogs good exercise while they gather vegetable and mineral substances that make them hardy.

Breeds are a matter of preference, but the farmer should be guided in selection by the experience gathered at the northern agricultural experimental station and the advice of his county agent.

JUNIORS MAKE READY FOR LIVESTOCK SHOW

According to W. A. McKerrow, University Farm livestock specialist, Minnesota club boys and girls are feeding approximately 750 baby beef calves, about 450 dairy calves, about 200 lambs and more than 1000 pigs in the state competition to secure places at the Junior Livestock Show, which is to be held at South St. Paul November 15 to 19. The two highest winners in the baby beef and dairy calf classes of each county are eligible for entrance in the state contest. The junior show this year, says Mr. McKerrow, will just about top the best ever held in the United States. Each one of the choicest calves, both dairy and beef, will be on exhibition, as well as the choicest individuals of the other classes. In connection with the show the annual junior livestock judging contest will be held at University Farm. About 250 boys and girls are competing in the county contests in 25 counties for representation in the state contest. The best two from each county will have a chance to compete for state honors. The baby beef and dairy calf contests will be financed by the Livestock Breeders association and the State Dairymen's association, with other interests and several individuals giving full co-operation. The railroad fares of the livestock judging contestants will be paid by the breeders association.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop went to Crookston Thursday afternoon. She holds a conference of the Republican leaders of the Ninth district there today. The chairman of the county central committee from each county, the secretary of the committee, ward and precinct chairmen are to be present. Mrs. Richter, Mrs. Bottleson, Miss Hamry, Miss Marie Nelson, Mrs. T. P. Anderson, Mrs. L. H. Lawrence, Mrs. Streeter and Mrs. T. A. Way drove down from here. From Crookston Mrs. Bishop returns to her most important duties at state headquarters in St. Paul.

Congressman Steenerson's candidacy is almost unanimously supported by the newspapers in the district. Even Democratic Editor Austad of the Times is for Steenerson. We congratulate the Times on this liberal support and beg leave to express the appreciation of the Republican press in the county and district. Congressman Steenerson deserves the support of the Democrats. The Times will be helpful in determining the result. Let us be liberal, charitable and grateful in these matters.

The local Democratic committee is trying to get Mrs. Peter Olson for the closing days of the campaign. It has been suggested that Mrs. Remington might be induced to speak in point debate with Mrs. Olson. If the Democratic committee succeeds in getting Mrs. Olson, let's have the joint debate by all means. We understand Mrs. Remington has expressed approval.

ON BEING A FLOUNDER

Chicago News: A scientist the other day related his experience with the fish called the flounder. This fish has the wisdom and the power to change its color to suit its environment. When it is on sand it tends to look like sand and when it is on pebbles it tends to look lump and loosely spotted like pebbles. By these tricks it greatly fascinated the scientist and the scientist proceeded to try it out on plain white and plain black surfaces.

He put the flounder in such a position that its body—almost all of it—was over a surface colored perfectly black, while its eyes were over a surface of pure white. The flounder thereupon became whitish all over. Its strange capacity for changing colors was apparently exercised through sensations distributed over its body from its eyes. And when the flounder's body was put over white, but its eyes were over black, it paid no attention to the environment in which most of its was existing, but at once began to turn dark in obedience to the color it was looking at.

Thus the deluded flounder went sadly wrong. Its real purpose is to protect itself from trouble by resembling the surface on which it is lying, whereas in fact, under the artificial influence of the ingenious scientist it made itself white over a black ground and black over a white ground and thus very conspicuous and very much in danger.

NEGRO MIGRATION

A stirring editorial in the Wall Street Journal brings the negro situation very strongly to the fore. It is bound to create a furore and one dare not reproduce it for publication in any state weher sentiment as regards the negro is very marked.

But the New York Sun and Herald has gone into the phases of negro migration from the south to the north very extensively and shows that there are probably 200,000 negroes in New York as against 91,709 in 1910, a gain of 116 per cent Pittsburg shows a gain of 160 per cent in negro population in 10 years. Chicago had 44,103 negroes in 1910 as against 80,000 now, a gain of 97 per cent. Detroit's negro population has gained 420 per cent in 10 years, while Lansing, Michigan, shows a negro population gain of 646 per cent.

Many things have tended to cause a hegira of negroes to the north. The war left many of them stranded in the northern cities. The same things that have lured the whites away from the farms to the cities, particularly northern cities—light and gayety, higher wages and a tendency to want to get away from the hard and unremitting toil of the farm.

One does not know whether the migration of negroes to northern cities implies peril or not. Chicago has had a bad race war, and the East St. Louis and Springfield race riots are still fresh in mind. Northern employers of labor are pleased to get the negro as a potential supply of labor, but they have been buried into the northern cities without any preparation for their coming, in the way of housing for them or sections set aside where they might live to themselves and have their social centers.

One thing certain as the Wall Street Journal points out, the white and black races will never fuse. There is no equality of thought or action or mentality between the two. They are in direct conflict socially and probably always will be, and for reasons that are deeper than the skin.

Some great mistakes have been made in relation to the negro. He is by primeval instinct and he is a creature of instincts, a farmer and stock raiser, but altruists would educate him away from the farm, and have succeeded, as the census figures show.

Another great wrong done the negro is the exploitations he gets at the hands of politicians and schemers of his own and the white race. He is of the only race known that does not try to maintain its identity. He wants to be with and among the whites all the time, a peculiar situation from a psychological standpoint but not so peculiar when it is considered that he was totally dependent upon whites for his thinking and acting for many generations.

HOME BREW

Farmers Dispatch: In the long, long ago, before J. Barleycorn fell into legal disrepute, famous brewmasters vied with each other in the making of a pure product. Spring water only, we are told, was used in certain brands of beer, the barley was the whitest, the hops the finest and every ingredient was carefully weighed and measured to maintain a given standard of excellence. Through some 19 separate operations, beer in the making was guarded against contamination.

How different today; in this era when "brew" is in its glory. In a silly chase to find something that they think contains more than "one-half of one per cent" some people throw a lot of dirty materials into a washboiler, boil it until it stinks to high heaven, put it in bottles for a day or two and then guzzle it with relish. Often they find that their heads begin to swim, just as they did in those other days after imbibing too much, but is the much sought after swimming sensation the result of alcoholic content or mere nastiness of the mixture?

Of course everybody is not making home brew, just as everybody did not patronize saloons when they were open to the public, but it is a fact that thousands of gallons of sickening distiller slop, under the guist of "home brew" is being made and consumed daily. If the housewives of America would serve on the table such ill-smelling, offensive-looking gas-producing stuff as her husband makes during his spare moments how long would he stand for it? And if he was so badly tied to her apron strings as not to object, how long would it be before his stomach would revolt?

Disregarding entirely the moral and legal phase of the home brew problem, and looking at it from a physiological standpoint, is it worth the price?

There is a redeemning thought, however. Nobody possible could acquire a taste for liquor, drinking the stuff. Hence it may be predicted that the home brewers will disappear with the passage of the present generation.

PINCHOT'S POSITION

Watertown Public Opinion: Gifford Pinchot has addressed to the republican newspapers of the northwest a letter in which he discloses at some length the reasons why he is supporting Senator Harding for the presidency while at the same time pointing out very frankly some of the things about Harding that did not make him the most appealing candidate to this ardent follower of Theodore Roosevelt.

The letter is of much interest, because in it Mr. Pinchot has undoubtedly caught and expressed the feeling of a very large portion of the progressive republicans who had hoped that this year the republican party would select as its candidate a man with a more pronounced progressive record than Harding enjoys. Stripped up. It may be said that Mr. Pinchot finds Harding far more acceptable than his democratic opponent, in spite of the fact that Harding's political past has not been in accord with the Roosevelt ideals.

The prime consideration, as Mr. Pinchot sees it, is a discontinuance of control of national affairs by the democratic organization. In this he is in sympathy with republicanism of all persuasions.

The unsaddling of the south at Washington has become a dominant cause built throughout the northern states because of an acute realization that the commercial, industrial and agricultural interests of the north have been given the worst of it in all political accomplishments of the Wilson administration. The north is thinking of its own interests in this campaign, and such thinking has led it to the firm conclusion that whatever criticism may be made of Harding's record, he is today the personification of its opportunity to unshackle itself.

There can be no question of the sincerity of Gifford Pinchot. For many years he has advanced left ideals of government and fostered grand policie sin the interest of the common people. To these ideals and these policies he has given a large amount of his time and no small part of his personal fortune. He has in the past found fault with Harding. Today the question is not whether that criticism was unfounded; it is whether or not Harding with his faults is not preferable to Cox with his far greater faults. And the progressive republicans of the country generally agree that he is.

NEW VOTERS INDIFFERENT?

Sioux Falls Press: Reports from many northern and western state have indicated much indefference on the part of the new voters, as shown in their slowness to qualify for the exercise of the new privilege. It has been stated that in some cases registration figures show a failure of at most 50 per cent to qualify, a failure attributed to either indifference or hostility to the privilege. The election in Maine last month revealed but approximately thirty-two per cent of the eligible women of the state voting.

The reports of the most widespeard indifference, however, naturaly come from the south, the region of the most rock-ribbed conservatism, where the woman question is concerned. The southern dispatches indicate that, except in Richmond, Va., very little interest has so far been shown in registration by southern women. We read that in New Orleans about 1,000 white women and only about a dozen colored women have registered. In Jacksonville, Fla., white and black women have registered in about equal numbers, but there and in the state generally very little interest is being shown.

In Arkansas, however, where there is no registration law, both white and negro women are reported to have paid the necessary poll tax in large numbers. In Georgia registering must be done in the spring and women there will be unable to vote in November unless an extra session of the legislature is held. But the Georgia women are not clamoring for a special enabling act. In Mississippi comparatively few women have registered and paid the $2 poll tax. The indications are that the ballot is unwelcome to the masses of southern white women and that if they are brought to the polls later on they will act only in order to counter-balance the votes of black women.

Mrs. Peter Olson says she believes that Woodrow Wilson was sent to us as a special act of Col. Now let's see, having Wilson in mind, would this be in the form of a request or a command?

GRAIN MEN WARNED
ABOLISHING OF FUTURE TRADE MAY BE SOUGHT
ASSOCIATION HEAD PREDICTS AVALANCHE OF BILLS AFFECTING IT IN CONGRESS

Warning that efforts are likely to be made at the next session of congress to abolish future trading in grains, held by grain dealers to be a valuable factor in the functioning of grain markets, was sounded by F. E. Goodrich of Winchester, Ind., president of the Grain Dealers' National Association.

In his address at the opening session of the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the association at the West hotel, Minneapolis, he declared that the country is facing a grave danger in organized farmers' movements, led by scheming politicians.

"The farmers have been made to believe by the Townleys and others that they are the most abused class in the country," said Mr. Goodrich.

"In the coming congress," he said, "we may expect an avalanche of bills and no doubt a number of them will be directed to the restrictive control or perhaps the elimination of grain exchanges, or at least prohibiting future trading in grain. We cannot hope to escape when the next congress gets into action. I am sure we will be ready to meet the issues and will again acquit ourselves with credit and prove how necessary to every branch of the grain trade is a strong, sane national organization.

"The grain trade as now constituted may be facing a crisis that will change it entirely from individually owned elevators or line houses to farmer owned elevators. The grain producers of the country, aside from the labor class, are better organized just now than any other class of voters in the country. They have organizations in every county in the surplus grain states as well as strong state organizations in each state and these are all welded in strong national and sectional organizations. The farmers are nearer one hundred per cent American than any other body of people in our land, loyal in war, loyal in time of peace and in fact the bulwark of the nation. But they have been made to believe by the Townleys and others that they are the most abused of any class in the country.

"They are told that they have been preyed upon by all who have bought and forwarded to market the things they produce; that the fruits of their labor have been taken from them without anything like a fair return for the energy expended in their production and they have been just as unfairly treated by those selling them the things they must have to build their farms up and supply things necessary to insure the comfort of their families.

"In the past fews years they have acquired in every surplus grain state a majority electorate. They have in a measure marketed not only a part of their grain, but also engaged in general merchandising, shipping of live stock, later making and other allied industries.

"This all right and proper and no one has a right to object to it. It is only when through the organization that they are building upand seeking to eliminate competition through class legislation that we can object. It is here that the danger lies. Designing politicians will see an opportunity to ride into power by pandering to the organized farmer vote, which in point of numbers will far outclass all other organized voters in the country."

The opposition of the Chamber of Commerce is the greatest asset Mr. Townley possesses. The Chamber of Commerce people know that out of the agitation by Townley and by many other influences in numerous places has come the Equity Society, the Fruit Growers" Associations, the American Farm Bureau and finally and more recently, co-operative marketing as advocated by the Farm Bureau. These things are economic. Nobody knows this better than the "fat boys" (they are Democrats and Republicans) of the Chamber. They know an honest and fair economic marketing scheme will dispose of them, therefore, they cry "Townley" and "politics." If Mr. Townley has been or is responsible for the awakening of the farmers to the necessity for action, we can afford to commend him. Townley stands for state owned and politically managed utilities. The Farm Bureau advocates co-operative, farmer owned and farmer managed utilities. The Chamber of Commerce is opposed to both.

Mrs. A. S. Holm returned on Wednesday evening from Twin Valley where she had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Holm for a few days.

Emil Mellem, who spent the summer at Nekoma, came home on Saturday evening and may spend a part of the winter at the home of his brother, Carl Mellem, south of town.

Mrs. O. H. Ryan of Thief River Falls spent a couple of days the latter part of the week visiting her parents here.

Mrs. James Johnson and son, Earl, of Thief River Falls arrived here on Saturday morning for a visit at the J. E. Hellquist home.

Mrs. Carl Stromberg and children from Dakota Junction spent Tuesday at this place visiting and to attend the Ladies' Aid meeting at the John Sagmoen home.

Mrs. H. Erickson and Mrs. Johanne Nyhus of Thief River Falls arrived here last Tuesday morning to visit friends and attend the Ladies' Aid between trains.

Several auto loads of local leaguers attended the Non-Partisan political meeting at Thief River Falls last Tuesday evening.

L. L. Furan while at work building last Tuesday got a cinder in one of his eyes, necessitating his going to Thief River Falls to secure medical aid. His eye after the treatment was very painful and Severt Benson of the latter place drove his car back to relieve Mr. Furan of this strain, and returned home by rail.

Mr. Strom, who spent a week on mission work in and near Grand Forks, arrived here last Wednesday fo ra brief visit with friends and left for his home near Holt in the afternoon.

Miss Minnie Bergland returned to Thief River Falls late Saturday afternoon to resume her duties after a brief visit with her parents here.

The Henry Carlson and Peter Stromberg families motored up from Thief River Falls last Tuesday afternoon for a brief visit at the John Sagmoen home and to attend the Ladies' Aid.

A. F. Sjogren of Grand Forks was in town on business last Thursday.

Chas. Swanson of Steiner was a business caller at this place last Saturday evening. Mr. Swanson related about the death of Mr. Mortenson, an aged bachelor residing about four miles west of there a few days previous. Neighbors in noticing that the old man was not about his duties as usual and could not be found about the house, started an investigation which resulted in finding the man standing dead in a well surrounded by about four fet of water. Mr. Mortenson had evidently fallen through the top of the well and being unable to get out had been imprisoned there until death came. His body from standing long in the water had become very rigid and was in an upright position when found, showing that the man had not died from drowning.

Cashier A. S. Holm of the Farmers' State Bank has this week distributed over $1500 of the Minnesota state bonus money to returned soldiers from the world war. It will be remembered that the last session of the legislature enacted a bonus law authorizing the sale of state bonds to the amount of paying the soldiers an additional $15 for each month of service. Difficulties in the sale of these bonds, however, considerably delayed the payment of the bonuses, but a few weeks ago a new proposition was laid before the various banks of the state whereb ythe latter were permitted to pay these bonus claims by purchasing state bonds. Mr. Holm applied for this right with the result that our boys have now recieved their full remuneration.

Construction work on the new Furan-Sorenson garage in town is progressing rapidly and it is the intention of the owners to be in shape to commence business before the ground freezes. The size of the building will be 28x60 feet and it has a very favorable location on the east side in town. A full supply of needed machinery and tools to carry on the work generally undertaken by garages will be installed and these gentlemen are to be complimented on their choice of going into the garage business at this place.

Before Rev. George Larson at the Zion Lutheran parsonage at Thief River Falls on Saturday evening, Oct. occurred the marriage of Miss Olga S. Thoreson of this place to Olaf H. Ryan of Thief River Falls. C. M. Ryan and Miss Alice Bugge were the witnesses. The newly weds will make their future home at Thief River Falls, where the groom is employed. The community joins in extending congratulations.

The following from this place were pleasantly entertained at Sunday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vorsetfi at Thief River Falls: Mr. and Mrs. John Sagmoen, Gladys, Verna and Glenn Sagmoen, Ingrid Nordhagen, Steiner Johnson, Mrs. Mary Shoberg and Joel Shoberg.

The Swedish Y. P. S. meeting at the church in town last Thursday evening was well attended and successful in every ydetail. Rev. Dretts of Viking was present and delivered a short speech and a number of appropriate songs were sung by Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, teacher at Rosebank. A dainty luncheon was served and a neat sum of money gathered for church work.

Twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mellem last Wednesday evening. Both died on Thursday, however, and their remains were buried at the Rindal cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Dols and daughter, Delma, returned the latter part of the week from a week's outing trip by auto to southern Minnesota where they visited relatives at Sumpter and other points.

Albert Hellquist and Emil Blomberg left last Saturday by car for a couple of days' stay with old acquaintances at Grand Forks and Thompson, N. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Nakken motored to Crookston last Tuesday to attend the dedication exercises at the agricultural school.

Flax threshing has been carried on extensivel yin this neighborhood this week. The average yield seems to be from 6 to 9 bushels per acre, with some exceptional pieces yielding more.

Friday witnessed quite a stormy day in this region. Towards and after noon the velocity of the wind was anything but pleasant. Hay, grain and straw stacks blew over, decayed telephone poles, trees, hay racks and other articles showned unusual activity in their desire to change places and the day proved quite uncomfortable for man and beast.

HENNEPIN COUNTY URGES ROAD PLAN

A state owned cement plant to utilize natural deposits of shale rock in Minnesota and to provide cement for the construction of trunk roads under the proposed Babcok plan, Amenment No. 1, is the first proposal of the Hennepin County Highway Improvement Association, organized last week in Minneapolis.

The suggestion was sent to the officers of the state association in a statement by R. H. Benham, elected president of the county organization.

Shortage of Cement.

"Because of the shortage of cement and the fact that some of the cement companies have pulled out of Minnesota, the officers and directors of the Hennepin County Highway Improvement Association are considering the feasibility of a state owned cement plant and respectfully suggest this project to your organization," he said.

"It is said there are quantites of shale rock in Minnesota, suitable for cement manufacture and it is proposed to utilize this resource to offset the difficulty now experienced in getting cement for road work.

"In spite of the fact that more than 3,500,000 barrels of cement were shipped into the state this year, even with the existing shortage, the state highway system was able to get only 400,000 barrels, something like four per cent of the total.

Rail Facilities Blamed.

"It is understood that the shortage is caused more by the lack of railroad facilities than by any other one factor, but there is little hope that this condition will be remedied in time to give the highways the cement they require.

"Even though the cost of making the cement in a state owned plant may not be cut under that of private enterprise, it will be worth while to have the product when and where it is needed for the immediate improvement of the state's trunk roads.

Fifty Organizations Represented.

Officers of the association were chosen at the first rally of the county campaign for the amendment, a dinner at which representatives of 50 civic, commercial and religious organizations united for four weeks of intensive vote gathering.

R. H. Benham, president of the Dan Patch line, is president of the association; O. E. Johnson, secretary of the Calhoun Commercial Club, secretary, and Miss Maren Michelet, a Minneapolis school teacher, vice president. State Senator W. F. Brooks, who presided at the meeting until the election of the president, opened the discussion of campaign plans with a defense of the amendment as "the best law ever presented to the voters of Minnesota."

No Room for Politics.

"There are not politics in it," he said. "No on has an axe to grind."

Four roads have been responsible for actual retardation of American civilization, Miss Michelet said.

"All good government," she said, "is based on the church, the home and the school. There is not better means of perfecting them than by building good roads. In pioneer days, farmers' wives lived most of their days within the four walls of their cabins. Statistics show that more farmers' wives have gone insane than any other class, because they have been shut off from the rest of the world.

"Because we have no good roads, children have had to go to school thru the slush and snow. Many times the teachers have been unable to get to the school buildings; many a time in inclement weather mothers and children are kept away from church.

"How are we to have a united community and a united country if we cannot have social intercourse if we cannot have good roads?"

reaching Minneapolis voters and im-

Mr. Benham outlined plans for pressing them with the fact that upon good roads depend not only comforts and pleasures, but education, progress and the cost of living as well.

Alderman J. D. Williams, speaking for the amendment, said it would afford labor a place to turn to in case of "slack times" by making work available to thousands.

Other speakers were C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, who detailed the provisions of the proposed law; L. H. Nord, A. O. Devold, J. T. Elwell, Rev. J. M. Cleary and John Holman of Mankato.

FARM INTERESTS PLAN PROGRAM FOR STATE

COMMITTEE NAMED BY AGRICULTURAL BODIES TO WORK OUT DETAILS

Formation of a definite and permanent program to forward the interests of agriculture in Minnesota was discussed at a meeting held last week in the State Capitol at St. Paul of heads of most of the state agricultural association and of state officials interested in agriculture. The meeting was called by L. E. Potter, president of the Farm-Bureau Federation. As a result of the meeting a committee of five members was appointed to work out the details of a program to be adopted by the co-operating agricultural associations of the state.

W. A. McKerrow, representing the live stock growers' interests, N. J. Holmberg, commissioner of agriculture, H. N. Owen, editor of Farm Stock and Home, V. E. Anderson, Wheaton, treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, and Thos. E. Cashman, Owatonna, constituted the committee.

Eleven matters of prime interest to the farmers of the state were listed by the officials for the committee's consideration. They are: Distribution of farm products; reporting of market conditions; cold storage; land settlement and development; educational opportunities in rural districts equal to those enjoyed by the cities; adequate development of rural credit systems; national storage law; renewed functioning of federal farm loan banks; ample warehouse facilities at all terminal markets, and tariff regulation to assure the United States of native supplies of foods and fibers.

Representatives of farmers' association, of live stock shippers, of live-stock raisers, of the University of Minnesota college of agriculture, of agricultrai papers, of farm bureaus, and field crop experts and specialists in practically all agricultral lines attended the meeting.—Minneapolis Tribune.

About all we got out of the war, thanks to the Democratic administration, is an increased tax all along the line.

Whisties will announce the event and it is expected that the wild scenes of two years ago will be re-enacted. Following the parade all ex-service men whether members of the Legion or not, are asked to register and be tagged so that they may be recognized at the various attractions. At 11 o'clock an address will be delivered, but the speaker has not yet been secured. At 1:30 a football game will be played to which all ex-service men will be admitted free.

At 3:30 comes the big event of the day when twenty-six rounds of boxing will be staged at the Armory. The main event, as previously has been announced, will be between Dick Franklin of Bemidji and Farmer Lodge of Minneapolis. There will be ten fast rounds in this event. Tommy Tibbits of Bemidji and Gene Dwyer of Hibbing will put on the semi-wind up, there will be a first preliminary of six rounds, the contestants yet to be selected, but who probably will be Chub Frost and Young Peterson, who entertained the crowd at a previous exhibition. The price of seats has been graduated from $2.50 ringside and $1 general admission. The seat reservation sale starts at Boardman's drug store on November 1st.

After the fight card there will be a free supper and smoker at the Association rooms for all ex-service men. In the evening a big dance is to be given at the Armory. This is under the supervision of the Auxiliary and will mean a big time is belag arranged for. Carnival features are to be introduced.

Good bills are being provided for at the Bemidji theaters for both afternoon and evening to provide entertainment for those who do not care to take in the athletic events.

Lot Sale Goes Fine.

The lot sale held last Saturday was a tremendous success, a large crowd being on the grounds ahead of time waiting for the sale to start. The sale of the lots occupied very little time and very lot staked out was sold. The prices ranged from $85 to $20. The lots which brought the higher figures were the ones nearest the main highway and well located. If each purchaser builds on his or her lot there will be quite a little town in that part of the city alone.

Wins From Crookston.

The local high school football team took the Crookston high school football team into camp last Saturday afternoon by a score of 13 to 6. The attendance was good and much vociferous rooting marked the game throughout. Several good plays were made and much ability displayed by both teams. The locals proved a bit too much for the visitors, however, and cleaned up with a good score.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENT TO JOIN LEGION

A special inducement is being made all former service men to join the local post of the American Legion and the secretary announces a special rate of $1.25, to prevail for all men who join between this date and December 31. The initial payment of $1.25 pays the dues of the new member for fifteen months and included is a free subscription to the legion magazine. The local post is doing much for the service men and it is highly important that as many new members as possible be secured. At present the total membership is 110. It is the desire of the post to at least double the membership within the next two months. If not a member, now is a good opportunity to affiliate with an organization composed of service men and one which is working continuously for the best interests of all service men.

EXCELLENT YIELD FROM SUGAR BEETS

The sugar beet crop in Pennington county gives every indication of being a large one. The digging of the beets is well under way and the yield is all that could be asked for and in many instances the yield is far above the average of other localities.

There is an acreage of 100 acres in the county and the general belief is that the total average of the county will go about 15 tons to the acre and possibly more.

On the five acre tract of Math Barzen just west of town, one acre of the best have been dug and this acre went 22 tons to the acre. Mr. Barzen is guaranteed $10 a ton for his crop at this place and possibly the market will run a little stronger, netting him an even $12. In this case the yield will be able to compensate Mr. Barzen in handsome manner for his time and labor. In addition the soil has been well improved and other gains made that are of immense value. The total acreage belonging to Mr. Barzen has not been dug but it is confidently believed that it will easily run fully as strong as the acre that has been dug, giving his a total of 110 tons of sugar beets off five acres. At $10 a ton this will amount to $1,100, and while this cannot be called at clear by any extent, it is reasonable to suppose that at least this will be net to Mr. Barzen, or in other words a net gain of a little better than $100 an acre on his crop.

It is the general attained in Pennington county this year will have its influence in the location of a beet sugar factory located in this section of the state in the near future and whether it shall be here or elsewhere lies wholly with the growers of sugar beets. The location of the factory lies between this city and Crookston and there is every reason believes it can be brought to this city if the concerted action of every resident gets behind the proposition and use every effort to swing the factory this way.

The total acreage of the county at this time is not as large as it should be and would have been had there been a little more time. The county of Polk has an acreage of 800 acres as against the 100 acres of this county, but despite this fact the county gave Pennington county the blue ribbon on the quality of the beets grown in this section.

Crookston is using every effort possible to land the factory at that point and it is to the interest of every resident of this county to see to it that this county is well represented and bids loud and strong for the location of the factory at this point. The factory will mean much to the county from the standpoint of increasing the dairy herds alone. The sugar beet pulp is credited with being a valuable food, in fact as valuable as oil meal and with the location of a factory at this point the food would be plentiful and would mean much to the dairymen of this county.

The sugar beet industry is one worthy of consideration and it is to be hoped that every man in the county will exert his influence to the ultimate location of a factory at this place.

RELIEF FROM COAL SHORTAGE IS PROMISED

STATE FUEL INSPECTOR BUSY ON PROBLEM OF RELIEVING SHORTAGE

Apparent relief from the coal situation is soon due to happen according to all reports and it now looks as if this section of the state is soon to receive full consideration at the hands of those in charge of the situation. Investigations show that deliberate attempts were made to keep this section short of coal and thereby increase the price to exhobitant heights. Dispatches from all sections of the country show much activity by those in charge of the investigation and it now looks as tho northern Minnesota was going to receive proper protection in this matter.

State Fuel Inspector McGee is making a vigorous campaign into the profiteering methods employed by the operators and others connected with the shortage and speedy relief is now promised.

Speculators are active in northern Ohio cities and have attempted to move coal that was destined for the northwest to other points, Judge McGee stated. He said they were forced to abandon their scheme and he hoped that the grand jury which meets at Cleveland will "lay the foundation for filling considerable unoccupied space in several penitentiaries." He also said that the dock companies have been forced to go into the market and pay $9.50 a ton at the mine, which, he said, means $18 or $20 a ton at Minneapolis. The situation regarding shipments to the northwest in quantities to fill the requirements of that section is serious, he said.

Judge McGee's report on the supply of coal at all lake ports does not agree with those of the National Coal association. J. A. D. Morrow, vice president of the association, said there were about 15,000 cars there and Judge McGee said there were 9,983 cars on hand with 4,918 cars in transit. He agreed that fogs and forest fires had delayed lake vessels, which reduced the dumpings.

"The average daily shipments from the mines to port Aug. 1 to 12 inclusive are 4,057," the Minnesotan said, "and the average number of cars dumped daily from Oct. 1 to 13 were 3,883.

"The failure to dump more coal at the Lake Erie ports is to a considerable measure chargeable to the effect of smoke from forest fires in Wisconsin and to fog over the lower lake.

"With the heavy movement of the mines there is due to the correspondingly heavy arrival or coal-tonnage at the Lake Erie ports, which ought to mean a very heavy movement of coal to the northwest continuously during the coming week.

"If the railroads have made up their minds not to take coal from the dock necessarily they have made up their minds to take their supply from the Illinois and Indiana coal fields, which means they will crowd out from those fields industries, public utilities and others ordinarily supplied therefrom. If those consumers are to operate this winter and cannot get coal from their usual supply, they must get it from the docks, but cannot unless it is taken to the docks.

"I am satisfied the dock companies will not take it there unless parties requiring it enter into contract with them for the amount of their needs and that means at prices based upon the present high prices in the Lake Erie coal fields."

PROPOSED AMENDMENT VERY IMPORTANT

MEANS GOOD HIGHWAYS AT NO EXTRA COST TO TAXPAYERS OF STATE

Much has been said and written about the Babcock amendment that is to be voted upon by the people at the general election on November 2 and while much has been said there is still room for much more to be said and many facts explained and many points to be made clear with reference to the proposed amendment.

The Tribune is anxious to see the amendment adopted as it means better roads for every county in the state without an extra burden on the taxpayers. And what benefits one will benefit all. The farmer will benefit from the good roads as much as any other citizen and the farmer will not be called upon to pay out one cent more in the way of taxes than before. The principal system of taking care of this expense is to tax the automobile owner a little more than heretofore, this extra tax to be sufficient in connection with the taxes already received to take care of the improvements. Then too there is a snug sum coming from the federal aid should this go thru. The state is allowed a certain sum in connection with that fund for the purpose of keeping the roads in good repair and money spent for the improvement of the highways also calls for a certain amunt from the federal project, which taken all in all will furnish enough for the state to undertake the large program without further expense to the state.

Every man who pays for operation of a motor car or motor truck discovers, sooner or later, that his expense of operation and upkeep decreases in proportion to the increase in mileage over hard surfaced roads or streets. Only the other day a Minneapolis man who is intensely interested in the use of trucks on city streets set out to cut down the cost of living as it is affected by cost of transportation. his aim being to promote the pavement of Minneapolis streets.

His argument applies all over Minnesota—it affects the farmer traveling on the trunk highway as truly as it does the city truck or chauffeur. And its finest application it this regard is to the adoption of the Babcock amendment on which the people of Minnesota will vote November 2.

It is easy to figure out. There are 500,000 motor vehicles in Minnesota. More than 320,000 licenses are out, but some of them are defunct, so call it 300,000. And the motor car is far and away the chief vehicle on the rural highway as it is on the city street.

It costs 5 to 1 cents a mile to operate a motor car over dirt roads—we know would laugh at the 5-cent end of the statement and put it at 10 cents. But call it 5 cents to be on the safe side.

Mighty few automobiles are run as little as 5,000 miles a year. A great number are run 10,000 to 15,000 miles a year. But suppose we stick to the minimum and call it 5,000 miles a year.

And what, class in arithmetic, does that come to at 5 cents a mile? That's right—seventy-five million dollars. And what does it cost each car on the basis? Right again—$250.

Charles M. Babcock, state commissioner of highways, declares the Babcock amendment by wide extension of properly adapted road surfaces will save one cent a mile in cost of operation and upkeep of motor cars, figured at 5 cents a mile. But we figured it at 5 cents so let's cut it down the saving to half a cent a mile to fit the problem before the present class in arithmetic. What do we now have? Answer: $7,500,000 on the total cost of operating and maintaining Minnesota's 300,000 motor cars. Or, on one car, $25 a year.

The Babcock amendment will, if adopted, benefit every person in Minnesota, rural or urban dweller. Its benefits will be shared by the family which has not automobile, just as they will be by the motor car owners. Some of these gains will be computable or expressible in dollars and cents, as improved transportation brings improved market conditions. Other gains will be the intangible ones of extended and intensified neighborliness. But for the present purposes, applying the benefit to the motor car element alone, there are more automobiles and more cheaply operated automobiles for the people of Minnesota in adoption of the Babcock amendment, as is demonstrable in dollars and cents.

PARTRIDGE BREAKS ITS NECK ON WINDOW.

The unusual occurence of capturing wild game in the business section of the city is not enjoyed by everyone, but last Friday afternoon a full grown partridge flew head first into one of the large plate glass windows of the First National Bank and received a broken neck as a result. The bird was seen flying low over the business section of the city and was watched with interest. Suddenly it came full blast against the bank window and thus another game was ended. The unusual fact that it was separated from the covey is no doubt due to the fact that the hunting season on partridges opened the same day and it is more than possible the bird was kept on the jump along with other members of the tribe and selected the business section of the city as a safe refuge.

CLUB HOPES FOR BIGGER ATTENDANCE

NOONDAY LUNCHES FAST GAINING IN FAVOR AND MUCH GOOD ACCOMPLISHED

The regular noonday meeting of the Commercial Club this week on Thursday will be in the nature of an open meeting for any business which may be worthy of discussion at that time. No speaker has been secured for this week and it is believed that more members will be glad of an opportunity to express themselves regarding the success of the few noonday meetings already held and will have some valuable suggestions to offer for future ones.

An excellent meal will again be served this week and it behooves all business and professional men and farmers to go to the club Thursday noon and partake of the same and after the talk part in the open forum, remain a few minutes after adjournment and get better acquainted. The club is becoming more and more a place where the various interests of the city and country are being advanced and only thru united efforts can this city be boosted still higher.

Annual Sale of Christmas Seals.

Minnesota's annual Christmas Seal sale in on, organization of special committees to conduct the 1920 drive for funds with which to continue the fight against tuberculosis and other diseases is now under way in every county in the state, it has been announced by the Minnesota Public Health association. The goal of the 1920 Christmas Seal sale in this state is a $250,000 fund, each county concentrating its efforts upon selling at least 10 cents worth of the famous penny health seals or the equivalent in health bonds for every one of its residents.

Last year Minnesota invested approximately $150,000 in health thru the purchase of Christmas Seals and health bonds, leading all states in the Mississippi valley in per capita sales. This fund, spent chiefly thru the county public health associations, is being used to educate the men, women and children of Minnesota in health needs and for actual preventive work.

"Disease never quits—neither does Minnesota!" is the war cry of the public health crusaders who are determined to pass last year's record by obtaining the largest per capita sale of Christmas Seals of any state in the union. The intensive drive is from Decemehr 2 to 10. More than half of the counties have already appointed seal sale chairmen and are completing their campaign organization.

Farm Bureau Drives in 3 Counties

Campaigns for the enrollment of farm bureau members are in full swing this week in Kittsan, Lincoln and Sherburne counties. F. L. French, secretary of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, is in charge of the drive in Kittson county.

Interest is being shown everywhere in the farm bureau movement, officials of the agricultral college of the University of Minnesota say. It was said that in one township in Watonwan county every one of the 119 residents has joined the farm bureau.

Elmer Smith, Bernard Olson, J. A. Bogquist and E. Hendrickson of Lancaster arrived in this city on Friday evening to attend the meeting of the Elks.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION IS OPENED

WOMEN OF CITY AND COUNTY TO RECEIVE INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO VOTE

Not to be outdone by larger cities, the Republicans of Thief River Falls have opened an information booth for the dissemination to the ladies of the city of Thief River Falls and Pennington county.

The information bureau will be located in the building formerly occupied by Gilbert Sandum on Main avenue and the building will be open every afternoon and evening a part of the time for the benefit of the ladies of the county. The building will be heated and literature of every sort relating to the Republican cause will be on hand and free to all who will call for the same.

The bureau will be in charge of the Women's Central Republican Club of Pennington county, Mrs. J. J. Richter, president; Mrs. Andrew Bottcher, secretary; Miss Effie Hamry, chairman Women's Republican County Central Committee; Miss Marie Nelson, ward chairman; Mrs. L. H. Lawrence, ward chairman. Others will also be on hand to give any and all information required by the women voters of the county.

One of the unique features of the bureau will be a practice voting booth. Sample ballots will be supplied and a booth erected wherein the women may practice voting. Every help possible will be given the women of the city and county in helping them become familiar with the process of voting, and it is the desire of the bureau that all who are in doubt over any question, now matter how trivial or unimportant it may seem, will call upon them and get the information and facts regarding the same.

The information bureau is created especially for the women voters of the city and county and it is hoped all will avail themselves of this opportunity to get posted on the proper procedure. It is highly important that every woman in the county vote this fall as there are many vital issues at stake that mean a great deal to the women of the state and nation as it is possible to imagine and for this reason this bureau of information is created so that everyone may have the opportunity of familiarizing themselves with the principles at stake and the issues involved.

The bureau of information is created especially for the women voters; use it and ask for the information in which you are in doubt about.

Initiate Large Class.

The local order of Elks initiated 45 new members into the order last Friday evening. There was a good turnout present and the method of initiating the large class went along smoothly.

Benefits of the American Legion.

Do you realize that every ex-service man who went into the service in good health and with teeth in good condition and upon discharge or since discharge such condition appear that disclose the fact that health or teeth were impaired while in service, that the government offers you the best possible medical and dental attention that money will buy?

Do you realize that if you entered the service in an impaired physical condition and with good teeth and during you time in service your condition was aggravated or made worse that you are entitled to the same service free of any cost to you?

Do you realize that the Elmer J. Eklund post of the American Legion has made an investigation of the standing of the doctors and dentists employed by the government and the reputation of the hospitals used and has found them to the best that money will buy?

Do you realise that the local post of the American Legion made the arrangements with the local hospitals to secure for you immediate payment of your bonus claims?

Do you realize that the American Legion will fight any of your legitimate battles to secure any of your rights?

Do you realize that the service men of this county have taken advantage of their organization's efforts by the hundred whether or not they belong to the local post?

Do you not think that it is about time that you became a part of this great organization and joined Elmer J. Eklund post No. 117 of the American Legion?; If so see the secretary in the McGinn Block, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Peat for Fuel

The state of Minnesota is devoting a large amount of consideration to the problem of the utilization of peat. There are millions of acres of peat in the state, a large part of which is in the possession of the state. The public is generally familiar with the attempts made at reclamation of the peat lands for agricultural purposes and the most extensive experiments that have been carried on to test its usefulness in this direction. The present experimentation is to determine the value of peat from commercial standpoints—its possible use as a source of fuel.

In this work of investigation the department of mines for the state of Minnesota is taking the lead. F. A. Wildes, state mine inspector, is interesting himself in the problem and with him is working Henry J. Hindshaw, a thorough student of the subject, has recently issued a statement of the peat experiments and the value of peat as a fuel. This is reproduced as one of the most interesting statements regarding a great resource of northern Minnesota:

Peat as Fuel.

"Peat has in it the elements of a first class fuel. It has been handicapped by comparing a badly perpared peat product with high class coal, and is usually thought of as a coal substitute to be considered only where coal is not obtainable. This conception should be forgotten, as in some forms peat is a superior fuel to coal.

"There are three or four principal methods of preparation and use of peat fuel. Turf from the bog is used as the only fuel over a large part of northern Europe. It is cut with a long narrow spade with a knife at right angles to the blade at one side. The brush and coarse fibrous peat is first removed and the peat is cut by the slane, as this spade is called, into bricks. A very good slane can be made by riveting a cutting lug on the side of a tile spade. The bricks are the width of the slane and the thickness of the length of the cuting lug. They are cut from terrace like steps of convenient width, fitted to the edge of the excavation, where they rapidly dry sufficiently to handle. They are then spread out on edge, then built in loose piles. When dug they contain about 80 per cent water. Air dried, they still contain about 30 per cent moisture, but appear to be perfectly dry. They should be hauled in and stacked or placed in sheds for winter use.

"Cut peat is light and easily breakable so that it cannot be shipped by rail. It is a good fuel for local use and very cheap to a limited extent of production. A man can cut in a day as much as will produce a ton and a half of dry product. Turning and hauling are usually done at odd times.

"A large production would become expensive on account of the large drying ground required. It makes a splendid fire in an open fireplace, but there should be a good draft in the chimney on account of the pungent nature of the smoke.

"This fuel should be used in localities close to peat beds, where the gardeners growing potatoes and vegetables could vary their work to good advantage by cutting peat. One mine power house used a large proportion of peat mixed with coal to a very good advantage. This fashion needs leaders as the war garden movement did.

"Machined peat is a great improvement on the cut variety. It dries more quickly and when properly machined is as dense and hard as hard wood.

"It is difficult to explain just what effect machining or pulping has on peat, but it can easily be seen by putting some through a meat chopper. It should be just so dry that no more water can be squeezed out by hand.

"In the raw stage, it has a harsh feel and has no plasticity. The first time through the machine with the punctured plate, it is very little changed. After putting it through three of four times, it forms long strings and can be molded like plastic clay or putty. It is an easy and very interesting experiment. Equal weights of the raw peat should be observed as it dries.

"Machined peat should be made on a comparatively large scale to make its manufacture profitable. In Europe there are a number of machines in use which are all right with plenty of cheap hand labor available, but are not suitable to American conditions. Many attempts have been made to introduce them into this country, but all have proved commercial failures.

"Machinery designed for clay working in America is admirably adapted to this use. Many writers on peat look to the invention of a new machine that will meet the requirements. Hundreds of such applications have been patented, but the best in the bunch is not as good as the most poorly constructed brick and tile machine. What is required for successful operation is proper engineering and management, a large enough operation to warrant the use of labor saving appliances and sufficient properly constructed drying and storage sheds.

"In this northern country the work of digging and drying must be done in less than half the year. The great bulk of the water must be evaporated by exposure to the open air.

"The peat must be drained, not merely by digging a few shallow drains through it, but it should be windrowed by steam shovels or dragline at least a year before it is to be machined. It should be worked over a second time and stockpiled at the mill.

"With a properly constructed plant and stock pile the manufacture can proceed in all but the most intensely cold weather. A plant should have at least a capacity of 100 tons of dry peat per day. Good machined peat is worth as much per ton as coal for domestic use and burned in powdered form will raise as much steam ton for ton as first class coal.

"The initial cost of such a plant would not not exceed the cost of opening a coal mine of equal capacity and the production cost for peat should be less than for the equal output of coal.

"There are many small peat bogs which would supply a neighborhood for many years. The essential feature to be ascertained are the ash content, the extent of surface and the average depth.

"Ash content may be ascertained by weighing a sample, drying completely at about the temperature of boiling water, burning the peat and weighing the residue. With less than 15 per cent of ash the peat will make good fuel. Each acre of peat ten feet deep contains the equivalent of 3,000 tons of dry weight. Forty acres of such peat would supply 100 tons a day for eight years. Assuming the bog to be drainable the land would have a greater agricultural value without the peat that with. Assuming the net profit per ton to be $1 the 40 acres of peat would bring in $120,000. With a plant producing 100 tons per day all costs including amortization of plant, should not exceed $3 per ton and should sell for at least two thirds the price of anthracite coal.

"Machined peat is the form which the better forms of fuel must be derived. The usual method of burning fuel, shoveling it into the fire box or furnace is very wasteful. It is more wasteful with coal than with peat. The greatest source of waste is in having to use an excess amount of air. It requires 11 pounds of air to supply the oxygen needed to consume a pound of coal. A pound of peat requires less than seven pounds of air. This is called the "theoretical air."

"In direct firing generally at least twice the theoretical air and often three times is used. The more air the fire has to heat the less there is left for useful work.

"Either peat or coal burned in powdered form is much better than in lumps, chiefly because it can be intimately mixed with the right amount of air. The burner is the same in principle as the carburetor of an automobile engine. The powdered fuel is blown into the furnace and burns in suspension, not on the grate bars. The best results are obtained in proportion to the fineness of grinding.

"Powdered peat may be prepared by drying loose peat on the ground, further drying in rotar kilns and then passing through metal screens. This is not a good method, but is being used successfully in Sweden for locomotive fuel.

"Machined peat is easier to dry to the required point, can be reduced to a finer grain and the product is denser than the loose peat. A Minnesota corporation is now developing methods of grinding and distributing powdered peat which promises to be of great value. With its use the fuel will be delivered to hoppers and fed to furnaces by an electrically driven feeder, mixed with the proper air supply. It will make no smell or smoke and most of the ash will go with the gaseous products of combustion up the chimney.

"Tests of powdered peat burning in Sweden have proved that ton for ton as much steam can be raised with peat as with coal."

PIERRE MINES MAKE FIRST COAL SHIPMENTS OF YEAR

Pierre S. D.—The first shipment of coal, aggregating five cars, was made the latter part of last week to towns in the northern part of the state, which have been using coal from this mine in the past. Although it was necessary to haul the coal three and a half miles to load it, it was placed on the cars at a cost of $3.50 a ton, and as soon as the spur line is completed to the mine it can be loaded at a still lower rate.

The improvements to the mine, it is expected, will be completed by the middle of next month, after which the output will be 10 cars a day. This will be supplied to South Dakota people at the cost of mining and freight.

The above is in harmony with a part of the Non-Partisan League. It so happens that a progressive governor, Peter Norbeck, put in operation this state owned and state controlled mining. It is a fine thing anyway and we need more legislation of the same kind. South Dakota, by the way, has a law authorizing a cement plant. They propose to have their cement at a reasonable price or make it themselves. When the people wake up, they can do some things!

GET onto the facts and you'll get off the fence

Right from the start Spurs let you know what you're smoking. Plain as day, on the back of the package, it says: "In Spur Cigarettes the good tobaccos from the Orient are properly mixed with Burley and other home-grown tobaccos."

In your language that means "good old-time tobacco taste." Haven't you just been hankering for it?

Those good tobaccos are rolled in satiny, imported paper—and crimped, not pasted. That's something to know, too. In smoker's talk, crimping means "easier drawing, slower burning, better taste." Examine a Spur and see how it's made.

And as the finishing touch, Spur's fragrance and freshness are sealed and delivered in a three-fold package—rich brown and silver.

Hop off the fence—and land on Spurs.

SPUD GROWERS HOLDING CROP

GROWERS SHOW INCLINATION TO WAIT AWHILE BEFORE SELLING THEIR CROP

Carlot shipments of potatoes from the northern potato shipping states have been a little less this season than to a corresponding date last year, notwithstanding the considerable larger crop this season. Apparently the growers are in no great hurry to market the crop on account of rather unsatisfactory price conditions. This impression is confirmed by reports from field representatives of the Bureau of Maretsk in various producing sections. The extended movement from the various producing sections, the advance in freight rates and the car shortage are mentioned as contributing to the reduction of current movement, which at present is about 20 per cent less than of this time a year ago.

Shippers in Maine mention the competition of Canadian imports and of home-grown supplies in northeastern markets. With the cost of production in Maine placed at close to $2.50 per barrel, many farmers are reported unwilling to sell at current prices, around $2. Much stock is held in storage with the hope that the markets may show the usual recovery preceding the holidays. Maine growers have been prosperous in recent years and many of them have provided storage space for their entire crop. 'Accordingly much of the curent selling is in small lots only.

In Long Island also the potato growers have been somewhat slower than usual in marketing the early crop on account of poor demand and price, and a large percentage apparently had not been yet shipped by the last of September. The potatoes are reported reasonably free from scab and rot.

Marketing Delayed in Michigan.

Shipments from Michigan have been moderate throughout September, although tending to increase recently. A considerable portion of the crop was still showing green vines in late September. Shipments have been chiefly of the early varieties.

Shipments from Colorado to September 27th were 1751 cars compared with 2535 cars to same date last season. Many growers, it is said, do not care to sell at present prices and are inclined to store their late potatoes unless the market improves. Yield of both early and late varieties is falling below expectations on account of blight appearing in some fields. Local estimates which were made last month placing the shipments from Greeley district at 4,500 to 5,000 cars have been cut at least 500 cars. Temporary shortage of ventilated cars has retarded the movement. If the car supply permits, shipments of early stock from that section should be cleaned up early in October.

Season's Crop Is Estimated

On Wednesday, October 20th, at the Auditorium, at 8 o'clock p. m., a joint political meeting will be held by Mrs. Bertha Dahl Laws of Minneapolis and Hon. Halvor Steenerson, our congressman. This should be the biggest political gathering of the year. Mrs. Laws is well and favorably known by all club women in Minnesota. She has been a worker in all important club work, war work, active in civic matters and is one of the most pleasing speakers in the state. She comes here upon the request of the Republican Women's State Central Committee. She is most highly recommended by Mrs. Bishop, vice chairman of the committee. Mrs. Laws will be the representative of the women voters on this occasion. The Women's Republican Club og this cicy is responsible for Mrs. Laws coming here at this time, and under the direction of Mrs. Richter, chairman, Mrs. Bottleson, secretary, and Miss Mamry, county chairman. The new club, 150 strong, will be on hand to register the convictions of this fine Republican organization, and to encourage, Mrs. Laws, the guest of honor. Chairman Michelet and B. O. Norby, secretary, will see to it that Congressman Steenerson is properly supported. A great crowd is expected. Congressman Steenerson will deal in facts, figures, logic and common sense. He has been in congress from the old reliable Ninth district for a long time. He knows he is representing an agricultural district. He knows he has represented it honestly and for the best interests of his constituents. We know he has represented us ably. Come to the big meeting October 20th, 1920, at 8 o'clock p. m. The band will play.

Mrs. E. J. Brandrup, Hon. Halvor Steenerson, Women's Republican Club, Young Men's Republican Club, Auditorium, the band will play. Come a runnin' Wednesday evening, October 20th, 8 p. m.

There was a time in the history of our beloved country when the word "liar" was not commonly used by our chief executive, neither did any man so far forget the dignity of the office or the high character of the man occupying the office as to question openly, defiantly and assertively the integrity of the president of the United States. We wonder is this an evidence of our standards or is there contributor negligence upon the part of the chief executive?

Frank Edwards, a new farmer near Viking, and recently from South Dakota, was in Frida yto make some purchases from Tribune cut price advertisers. Mr. Edwards has a fine 400 acer farm two miles west of Viking. He will engage in hog raising and mixed farming. He has made a fine success of this kin dof specialized farmin in South Dakota and will succeed even better here, where land is cheaper, feed more abundant and crops surere.

With all due respect for Mr. Hodgson, a fine gentleman, running for governor on the Democratic ticket, it must be apparent to anyone that Mr. Hodgson has no expectation of being governor. For illustration, he comes sauntering into Thief River Falls, stops a day, delivers a speech that he enjoys making; eases along over to Warren, visits around a day among personal friends, has a congenial time, addresses a fair audience in the evening, and inches along down to Crookston for a visit and an evening of enjoyment. He spends 10 days in this part of the state where the Non-Partisans and regular Republicans have ninety per cent of the vote. Larry is running on low during the high pressure period of the campaign. He is discharging the obligation he owes to his party by going out. If he thought he stood a ghost of a show both he and the Democratic voters would be putting on a whirlwind campaign with three and four meetings a day and activity everywhere. Larry is a fine man, he is having a good time; we hopes he gets a few votes more than the others on the ticket with him, but he is not going to be elected and he knows it.

The big Republican meeting at the Auditorium Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock should be and probably will be the largest political gathering to be held at Thief River Falls this year. Mrs. E. J. Brandrup speaks under the direction and upon the request of the Women's Republican Club. They'll all be there, so the meeting will be of especial interest to the new women voters. The meeting will give Congressman Steenerson his first opportunity for a long time to address a Thief River Falls audience. The meeting in fact has been planned to some extent as a compliment to Mr. Steenerson and in order that our people may show by their attendance and their cordial attitude their high appreciation or a time tried honest and most efficient public servant. Mr. Steenerson is our congressman, he has been on the job a good long time. He is thoroughly familiar with all our needs and these are many in this undeveloped part of Minnesota. He knows the ropes in Washington. He has the prestige and advantage of high position and influence at Washington and just now, when we all know a Republican administration is to be elected now of all times, is the time to have an experienced man there for us, for our part of Minnesota to have the Ninth district represented by a man who will be in perfect harmony with the Harding administration. A new political day is just before us. Let us have a man there that can do things. Your Uncle Halvor is the man. Attend the Steenerson meeting Wednesday night. Show your appreciation of the earnest work of a good congressman.

There may be a thousand good reasons for voting the Democratic ticket, but we can't think of a single one of them now.

George, Creel, the inventor of the wonderful 4th of July naval victory in 1917, might be a good secretary of the navy, if—Cox is elected.

CONGRESS ACTS ON PRESIDENTS REFUSAL

SHOWING THAT EXECUTIVE AUTOCRACY GOES ON WITHOUT ABATEMENT

Congressional action as a result of President Wilson's refusal to denounce existing commercial treaties as directed by the merchant marine act, now bearing the president's signature, was strongly hinted at in statements made in Washington this week.

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, Republican member of the committee which framed the law, described the president's act as another demonstration of autocratic power, while Hannis Taylor, former minister to Spain, and an authority on constitutional law, plainly suggested impeachment proceedings.

The president's decision to ignore the direction of congress contained in a law to which he has appended his signature is generally regarded as one of the most overt act sof assumption of power by the executive that have occurred in an administration noted for its encroachments upon the legislative branch of the government.

Mr. Taylor, who is one of the foremost authorities in America on constitutional law and author of the famous books, "Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," and "Origin and Growth of the American Constitution," and minister to Spain under Grover Cleveland, when shown President Wilson's declaration that he would refuse to execute the laws passed by congress, was aroused to great indignation and said:

"President Wilson says he will not enforce an act passed by congress and signed by himself; that is to say he will 'dispense' with a certain section of the act of congress approved of by him. It is the most dreadful assault yet made upon the constitution, even by the Wilson dictatorship, because it is a flagrant attempt to set up in this country an obnoxious form of tyranny known under the Tudor and Stuart despotism as 'the dispensing power.' That power was designed to be the right of the king for special reasons, 'to suspend a part or the whole of a statute, or a series of statutes in conflict with the royal will.' It was that form of tyranny that led directly to the expulsion of James II.

"As the revolution of 1688 made it impossible for that form of tyranny ever to reappear under English and American constitutions, President Wilson and his secretary of state, Colby, equally responsible, should beware. Any attempt of any executive or his advisors in the English speaking world to revive the hated 'dispensing power' of the Stuarts will constitute the greatest of all high crimes and misdemeanors. The house of representatives meets in December.

"As it is made plain that the motive for the exercise of the 'dispensing power' in this case is to strike down a law passed to give special assistance to ships flying the American flag, President Wilson evidently intends, in this way, to widen the policy by which, in violation of his solemn pledge to the American people, he made it possible for Great Britain to say to this government; 'You shall not exempt an American ship from the payment of tolls even when she is passing through your own canal, in your own territory.'"

Commenting on the action of President Wilson, Senator Wesley L. Jones, author of the measure, said the president's action would "bring rejoicing to the marine interests of our rivals for world trade."

Congress could abrogate those treaties by legislation, said Senator Jones, just as it did abrogate the treaties in the seaman's act

SENATOR HARDING REJECTS WILSON'S LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Senator Harding claims he wants no acceptance of the league of nations with reservations to clarify American obligations, but that the proper course would be to reject those commitments altogether. "I do not want to clarify those obligations," he said, "I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection that I am seeking." The senator also stated his program of a world association based on principles in harmony with the constitution and renewed his pledge to initiate the formation of such an action immediately after his election.

"Our opponents," he said, "are persistently curious to know whether if—or perhaps I migh say when—I am elected, I intend to 'scrap' the league. It might be sufficient in reply to suggest the futility of scrapping something which is already 'scrapped.' Whether President Wilson is to be blamed or thanked for the result, the fact remains that the Paris league has been 'scrapped' by the hand of its chief architect. The stubborn insistence that it must be ratified without dotting an 'i' or crossing a 't', the refusal to advise—that is, to council—with the senate in accordance with the mandate of the constitution is wholly responsible for that condition.

"The issue, which our opponents are endeavoring to befog, is singularly simple and direct. That issue, as made by the democratic president and the democratic platform and the democratic candidate does not present to the American people the question whether they shall favor some form of association among the nations for the purpose of preserving international peace, but whether they favor the particular league proposed by the president.

"The democratic platform and candidate have not declared for 'an' association, but for 'that' association, and it is that association and not some other which we are promised will be ratified within sixty days if the democratic candidate is elected.

"The platform, to be sure, approaches its endorsement with winding words and sly qualifications calculated to betray the innocent and entrap the unwary; but it does, nevertheless, endrose the league as its stand. It does not favor or advocate any reservation or amendments for changes of qualifications. It goes no further than to suggest that reservations will not be opposed which make clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the league.

"But there is no need of reservations of this character. The obligations are clear enough and specific enough. I oppose the proposed league not because I fail to understand what a former member of the democratic administration has said, 'We are being let in for,' but because I believe I understand precisely what we are being let in for. I do not want to clarify these obligations; I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation but rejection that I am seeking.

"My position is that the proposed league strikes a deadly blow at our constitutional integrity and surrenders to a dangerous extent our independence of action. The democratic platform rejects this position to quote the exact words, as utterly vain, if not vicious. The democratic candidate in his speech of acceptance has said, 'a definte plan has been agreed upon. The league of nations is in operation. Senator Harding as the republican candidate for the presidency, proposes in plain words that we remain out of it. As the democratic candidate I favor going in.' The issue, therefore, is clear. I do not want anyone to be misled. I will have no man's vote upon a misunderstanding and I am equally determined, if I can prevent it, that my opponent shall have no man's vote upon a misunderstanding.

"We have been told that we must ratify the proposed covenant in order to become a member of the league, and that if we do not we shall be obliged to stand with hat in hand and sue for admission hereafter. He who presents such a humiliating picture is singularly blind to the facts. We stand almost alone among the great nations in our disinterested relation to the problems of the world. Because of this the world is ready to recognize our moral leadership. Because we are able to approach the solution of the questions which continually threatened the peace of Europe as an unprejudiced umpire rather that as an interested party, the world will be glad to have us formulate the plan and point the way.

"To formulate a plan of international co-operation is a task of no small difficulty. There are many conflicting opinions among the people and among the members of the senate upon the subject. These opinions must be reconciled and harmonized if we are to have any international association for peace at all.

"I shall not risk embarassing the final solution of a problem so momentous by undertaking to lay down in advance specific details or plans. As soon as possible after my election I shall advise with the best minds in the United States and especially I shall consult in adanvce with the senate without whose consent on such international association can be formed. I shall do this to the end that we shall have an association of nations for the promotion of international peace, but one which shall definitely safeguard our sovereignity and recognize our ultimate and unmortgaged freedom of action."

The questions from the floor related to the Irish situation, the presence of the United States troops in Germany, the dominance of England in American affairs, a separate peace with Germany and the menace of Article X of the league covenant. On the Irish question Senator Harding told his questioner that he could not tell a friendly power what to do in a domestic crisis any more than he would permit that power to dictate to the United States. He said the formal declaration of peace he proposed would bring the boys out of Germany, and that they should be brought out. He said he would not have the United States government dominated by Great Britain. As to Article X, Mr. Harding declared that under it the United States would be obliged to obey the league in orders to go to war or be guilty of the grossest national dishonor.

NEW FEDERATION TO BE RECOGNIZED IN WAR-TORN RUSSIA.

Washington.—A new and powerful federation by which white Ruthenia, the entire Ukraine, the Cossack territory between the sea of Azov and the Volga and all the territory now held by General Wrangel will be organized into the United States of Russia, will shortly be announced, it has been learned officially here.

The territory thus embraced includes approximately three-sevenths of all the population of European Russia.

The first president of the new republic, it is expected here, will be General Wrangel, who proposes immediately the military forces of the various states are combined to make a general attack upon the soviets. For this purpose he will have approximately 350,000 troops to combat Lenine and Trotzky. General Wrangel will also have the active co-operation of General Semineff, now in command of al arge force in Siberia.

So intense is the interest of the United States in General Wrangel that it sent Admiral Newton A. McCully and Col. W. A. Newton to inspect his entire front. They have just returned to Constantinople.

The political result of the proposed federation, it was explained in official circles here today, will be the practical restoration of the Kerensky government under a more popular name. That government, which is still represented at Washington by an ambassador, Boris Bakhmeteff, in Washington, is the only one the United States has recognized since the days of the czar.

The United States and the allies are convinced that the psychological moment for the success of such a federation has arrived. The Lenine and Trotzky government is believed at the state department to be on the verge of collapse.

Information received by this government stated that the Russian army recently defeated by the Poles is refusing to fight against General Wrangel. "The entire soviet forces are said to be rapidly disintegrating and the next few weeks, it was predicted, will witness the most important developments in Moscow.

It was strongly indicated in official circles that the United States will morally support, if it does not actually recognize, the United States of Russia. It will insist, however, that the new government do its utmost to obtain control, as much as is possible, of the old Russian empire which the administration has announced would not be permitted to disintegrate.

That all the great powers are actively supporting the proposed new movement is made clear by the fact that within the past few days the entire allied diplomatic corps has compelled China to restore Prince Kudacheff, the Kerensky ambassador, to full power as the official representative of Russia.

MOVE ON PART OF PRESIDENT MAY FORECAST EMBARGOR ON IMPORTS

Washington, Oct. 15. — President Wilson has requested Governor Allen of Kansas to forward to the federal trade commission any information he has tending to indicate that the recent decline in what prices was due to unfair practices or competition or to other artificial causes.

A letter to this effect, sent by Secretary Tumulty, was in answer to many appeals for government action looking to an embargo on Canadian wheat. These were referred to the commission and the department of agriculture some time ago. Mr. Tumulty's letter to Governor Allen said:

"The president has received your telegram of Oct. 6 with reference to the wheat situation, and has received a number of others of similar tenor. He fully recognizes the importance of the questions you raise and he has, therefore, requested the federal trade commission and the department of agriculture to look into the matter at the earliest possible moment with a view to determining what, if anything, can be done. In the meantime he will appreciate it if you will be good enough to forward to the general trade commission any information in your possession which, in your opinion, tends to indicate that the recent decline in what prices is due to unfair practices or other artificial causes."

GOOD ROADS PLAN M[illegible]TS WITH I[illegible]VOR

AMENDMENT WILL [illegible]RY, AC-CORDING TO [illegible]RTS
OF STA[illegible]

Good Roads Amen[illegible] No. 1 is rapidly engaging in public favor as facts are reaching men and women voters thru the newspapers and speakers for the Minnesota Highway Improvement Association, St. Paul, Senator L. H. Nord, secretary, announces.

"Reports are encouraging," he said, "yet there is danger in over confidence. It should be remembered that Amendment No. 1 is handicapped by the requirement that a majority of all votes cast are necessary to its passage—which means that every failure to vote is the same as a vote against it.

"Opposition was created mainly by misrepresentations," continued the secretary. "It has been falsely stated that Amendment No. 1 would mean wholesale paving of trunk highways and that there is a plan to sell road bonds to the limit and force the taxpayers to eventually redeem them.

"The fact abut the paving feature is that should the amendment fail, counties would be forced by economy to do the same hard surfacing that the state will undertake under the proposed plan," said Senator Nord.

"The state will have approximately $10,000,000 a year of current revenue to spend on the trunk highway system. Proper maintenance of the entire system, which the state is bound to provide for first, will take the biggest part of the fund. Engineers are positive, however, that after this requirement is met, there will be money enough besides to grade and gravel 400 miles and hard surface 200 miles every year. In six years the entire system will be well graded and graveled and there will be 1,500 miles of hard surfacing where gravel maintenance would be excessively expensive.

"Good Roads Amendment No. 1 says nothing about types of roads and under it the state will use gravel, concrete macadam, brick and other kinds just as the counties are doing now. Roads on which the gravel is ground up and blown or washed away almost as fast as it is applied must be hard surfaced for economy, whether by the counties with increased tax funds of by the state with automobile savings under the Amendment No. 1 plan.

"Furthermore, with the present scarcity of labor and materials, engineers assert that $10,000,000 a year is all that can be economically and efficiently spent on the trunk system.

"The proposed plan will yield upwards of $25,000,000 a year without tax increases or bond issues, compared with the total of less than $17,000,000 this year. Counties and towns will continue to receive more than $15,000,000 representing all the state and other present tax receipts for use on local roads and no longer will carry the great burden of maintaining and improving the main roads.

"These facts prove the claim 'Every road a good road,' "continued the secretary. "Many farmers living off the proposed trunk system regard the plan as of greatest benefit to them because local roads will be improved as fast or faster than the trunk lines. They show the importance of getting the truth about Amendment No. 1 and refusing to credit mere rumors. The legislature of 1919 is almost unanimously on record as presentingGood Roads Amendment No. 1 as the best that can be devised and that endorsement alone is entitled to more weight with the thinking men and women voters of the state than prejudice or rumors.

"Important points to keep in mind are these:

"Steadily increasing traffic, and notably motor traffic, will force Minnesota to spend larger sums each year for road maintenance and improvements, regardless of the road program adopted.

"The big question is simply whether the automobiles and trucks will be allowed to pay for the damage they do to the roads or whether the bill will be placed on the general taxpayers —charged to the land."

The Minnesota Highway Improvement Asscoiaton, 1426 Merchants Bank Building, St. Paul, stands ready to answer any questions concerning Goods Roads Amendment No. 1 and to furnish complete inforation about the plan without cost to any citizen of the state. It was organized to place the proposal before the people on its merits and regrets to state that it will have been found successful when the votes are counted in the next election.

COMMUNITY GIRLS HAVE BIG MEETING

The opening meeting of the club season was held Monday evening, with a large attendance and an enjoyable session. The program for the evening was:

Reading, Miss Une Nelson.

Vocal Solo, Miss Meta Kieland.

Violin Selection, Mrs. A. Holmberg.

Dancing, refreshments and an evening of good cheer followed.

ATTENDANCE AT NOON LUNCHEONS ON THE INCREASE

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS TAKEN UP AT EACH SESSION OF CLUB

The best "feed" yet is the way everyone who partook of the noonday lunch at the Commercial Club yesterday voiced their opinion and there was a larger number out than at any preceding lunch.

Boston baked beans, brown and white bread and butter, scalloped potatoes, beets, coffee and pumpkin pie was the menu, which proved tempting to everyone and they all promised to attend next week and hustle around and get others to enjoy the meal and the business session following.

Mr. Pierce, an architect who is a specialist on fair grounds arrangement, was present and spoke in an interesting manner of how fair grounds could be changed to be more of an asset to the fair association and also how they could be made to appeal more to those who attend fairs.

T. W. Mosher, chairman of the committee to raise funds for the Minnesota State Highway Association, announced that his committee had not met with much success and called for voluntary subscriptions. Those present responded nicely and nearly $500 was signed up within ten minutes.

The question of the club receiving election returns election night was brought to the attention of the club by the secretary who stated the Western Union had offered to furnish them at a nominal figure, but when it was learned that the newspapers, the Princess theater and the Elks club were going to get returns it was deemed inexpedient to take on this expense as all the club members could get the returns at one of these places.

Drainage Board Meets.

The Red Lake Drainage Board met in this city yesterday at the court house and transacted such business as had come up since the last meeting. Nothing of especial importance was transacted, the allowing of bills and the regular routine work of the board occupying most of the time.

Pleasant Reception.

A very pleasant social event occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Paston on Friday evening last when Claud Poston and his bride and Elmer Soltau and his bride were tendered a reception. The evening was pleasantly spent in merry games, after which a fine lunch was served. The two young couples were severally presented with a cut glass dish as a token of the good will of the League. It is to be regretted that Mr. an dMrs. Claud Poston are to leave in the near future for their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Soltau are to make their future home here.

Republican Headquarters

We have sample ballots, conduct practice balloting and in every way possible desire to assist the women of Thief River Falls and vicinity to become familiar with the voting forms and the issues; We serve coffee and doughnuts. We have comfortable chairs. We maintain a real club and invite the voting public to call.

Mrs. J. J. Richter, Chairman.
Mrs. Andrew Bottleson, Sec.

STEENERSON MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED

CANDIDATE SETS FORTH FACTS AND EXPLAINS MANY ISSUES IN HIS TALK

The Republican meeting at the Auditorium Wednesday evening in many respects was most remarkable. The meeting was planned by the County Central Committee, Miss Hamry representing the women, Wm. Michelet the men and Mrs. J. J. Richter the Women's Republican Club. Promptly at 8:15 the meeting was called to order by Mr. Andrew Bottleson. She made some announcements about the Women's Republican Club, their room on Main Street, their plans, and then introduced Mrs. Brandrup, who occupied about 45 minutes in a very interesting and entertaining political talk. The speaker reviewed the history of the country and in a most convincing way featured the accomplishments of the Republican party during all of the years of its stewardship as a servant of the people in control of the government. She paid her respects to the Democrats, and especially referred to the few thousand votes that are to be thrown away on the Hodgson candidacy. Mrs. Brandrup is a highly intelligent woman. She is a good speaker and will be a great help in the campaign.

At the conclusion of her remarks, Mr. Steenerson was introduced by the chairman, Mrs. Bottleson. The inspiration of the introduction was most graciously acknowledged by Mr. Steenerson, who opened his speech by thanking the audience, the chairman and especially the Women's Club for honoring him with their attendance. The congressman made a forceful, able, honest speech and reviewed the last session of congress and its splendid accomplishments, by a Republican majority. He told about the drainage system in northern Minnesota, flood control and power conservation in the Red Lake river. He recited the Indian rights in the reservation lands and the relative rights of the Red Lake Indians and the White Earth tribe.

The speech was a masterly review by an able man, an honest public servant and by a man who has put in more than twenty years actively for the state, the district and the people he loves. If there was apparent a tinge of sentiment to the effect that honest effort deserves at least general reward and recognition, it was only human and charity forbids that we should criticise. Mr. Steenerson does not resort to the tricks of the demagogue. He bases the record he has made and defends it with the same honesty that prompted his official acts. We do not know what his opponent, or who they want to represent them in congress, but we do know that Mr. Steenerson possesses the ability, experience, force, influence and prestige with the next administration; that he is honest and capable and we believe that the voters of the Ninth district need the services of this great and good man at this time. We predict that he will be elected as he deserves to be.

Sidelights.

A cat ran across the stage, as an omen of a come back for the Republicans.

The congressman was well equipped with handkerchiefs. He had two in one pocket. He showed 'em, but he only used one at a time.

Chairman William Michelet ran true to form with a well arranged and well staged program. Everything went off fine. Fine audience, fine speeches, splendid results.

Prof. Selvig of Crookston keyed the audience up to a high pitch with a masterly appeal for the safety and sanctity of the home. He advised caution against loose talk, of the failure, the ne'er do well and the agitator. He said he did not wish to speak politically, but what he said was pure Republicanism.

Mrs. Andrew Bottleson, chairman of the meeting. Wasn't that fine? She did her part in presenting the speakers most graciously and admirably.

The Women's Club under the direction and able leadership of Mrs. Richter, registered one hundred per cent in attendance and deportment.

This suffrage thing is going to bring about a lot of changes and Mrs. Bottleson's speech and grace in her position as chairman is an evidence of what is coming. Mrs. Bottleson discharged her obligation out in front of the spot light, while Andrew Bottleson, mere man, occupied an obscure place in the back row on the stage, content and proud to be Mrs. Bottleson's husband.

Mrs. C. C. Way was honored by an invitation to sit on the stage. Mother Way is seventy-nine year old. She is going to South Dakota in a few days to cast her first Ballot for Harding for president, McMasters for governor and Norbeck for United States senator. She is sure, and absolutely so, that every one she votes for will be elected. She would not wish to reveal it, but she has four boys in four directions who would bet on the candidates of her selection.

Martin Widsten, professional politician and fixer for the Ninth district, slighted Thief River Falls on this occasion. Martin has been here before, when the cause was not nearly so popular as the Steenerson candidacy. Responsibility for the Steenerson candidacy, by the way, is a most honorable assignment for any man.

KILLED WHEN AUTO TUMBLES INTO RIVER

YOUNG MAN PINNED BENEATH CAR AND DROWNED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Arthur Nestvold, 18 years old, met death instantly Wednesday afternoon when the Ford car he was driving left the road fust east of the river bridge near Squaw Point and tumbled into the river, pinning the occupant underneath. Death was caused by drowning.

Young Nestvold had been to this city to get groceries and the supposition is that he reached back for a straighter out the groceries and that the car ran off the road and into the river before he had time to straighten it around. No one was near when the accident occurred and consequently none know just what happened.

The car, a new Ford, was not materially damaged as a result of the accident. The windshield was broken, the front fender smashed and the steering wheel twisted. As soon as the accident was discovered the authorities were notified and Chief of Police Erickson rushed to the scene and with the aid of others succeeded in turning the car right side up. When the car was righted Nestvold was in the car and was immediately taken out and attempts were made to revive him. The coroner was notified and after viewing the body ordered it removed to the undertaking parlors.

Young Nestvold was the eldest of four children and was the mainstay of his widowed mother, Mrs. Gena Nestvold. The family resides on a farm in Agder township and Arthur has been engaged in attending to the work around the farm since the death of his father some years ago. His untimely death comes as a severe shock to his relatives and many friends.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow and interment made in Silver Creek cemetery.

Every time he takes his hat off to Thief River Falls and admits we have a mighty fine town.

Football Sunday.

The city football teams meets the city football team from Fosston at the fair Grounds next Sunday afternoon and a hot game is looked for. The Fosston team is given credit for having a fine wire aggregation and the locals will necessarily have to look to their laurels in this game. If the football team Fosston is sending here equals the basketball team her legion is more than certain there is sure to be a bitter contest before the final decision is reached. Those who enjoy football will do well to attend the game Sunday.

MINNESOTA HAS INCREASE IN FARM HOMES

INCREASE OF 14 PER CENT IS GIVEN STATE WHILE OTHER STATES LOSE.

The bureau of the census reported the other day that the number of farms in Minnesota has increased from 166,137 in 1910 to 173,888 in 1920, of 144 per cent. In the same decade Wisconsin, on the east, gained only 6.8 per cent and North Dakota, on the west, gained only 4.5 per cent. South Dakota lost 4 per cent and Iowa lost 1.7 per cent.

Perhaps no one in Minnesota has a better understanding of farming conditions in the middle west than Prof. Andrew Boss, chief of the division of farm crops and farm management at University Farmp. "It is evident from the census returns," he said, "that people desiring to farm regard Minnesota as offering better opportunities than the surrounding states."

Replying to the question, "What advantages has Minnesota that make it look attractive to people who wish to farm?" Prof. Boss gives ten outstanding reasons as follows:

"A well drained, fertile soil that is easily tilled.

"Ample and well distributed rainfall for crop production.

"A soil and climate naturally well suited to the growth of the grasses, legumes and root crops, thus giving favorable conditions for livestock production.

"An abundance of pure spring and lake water, insuring healthful drinking water for people and livestock.

"A diversity of soil, vegetation and topography, offering wide range for selection of a home that suits.

"Well developed livestock and grain markets.

"Good credit facilities and favorable financial conditions.

"Highly developed co-operative movements among the farmers.

"Good transportation facilities, including dirt, gravel and hard surface roads and abundant material for road improvements with a constructive plan for road building in the future.

"A healthful, well developed agricultural educational policy on the part of the state, and favorable environment for farm families."

The census returns on the farms were especially pleasing to Prof. A. D. Wilson, chief of the agricultural extension division, who says:

"The splendid increase in the number of farms made by Minnesota in the last few years is very gratifying to everyone interested in the development of the state. The fact that Minnesota has gained many more in number than all the adjoining states combined is an indication of the new settlers' judgment of the opportunities offered here agriculturally.

"The absolutely dependable soil and climate, the progressive school system, the improvement of roads, the increased development of co-operative marketing, the beautiful lakes and trees, the sure crops and the progressive character of our people justify the settlers' conclusions that Minnesota offers not only good prospects of profitable farming but also attractive living conditions."

Giving Big Values.

The Simonson Meat and Grocery market is going into the fruit business on a large scale, handling carload lots of choice canning and eating fruit. A carload of pears was purchased the first of the week and are moving fast. A carload of peaches has been bought and are to be placed on the market at less than the usual prices. The buying public is given an opportunity to lay in a supply of choice fruits at a nominal cost. The Simonson Market is offering a number of other specials this week, which are advertised in this issue of the Tribune. Turn to their advertisement and look it over.

Soliciting for Amendment.

A committee is busy soliciting funds to help defray the expenses of speakers on the Babcock amendment who are touring the state explaining the inner workings of the proposed amendment. St. Hilaire and Goodridge long ago sent in their contributions to this fund and it began to look as though this city was to be the only one in the county failing to do its part in this work. However, the committee now in charge of this work will soon have a report to make and will show that this city is ready and willing at all times to boost any and every movement worthy of support.

O. R. Levin, of Warroad, was in this city on Tuesday attending to matters of business.

TABLE SPEAKER COMING ON NOVEMBER FIRST

Mrs. Theodore Wetmore, one of the ablest speakers connected with the women's department of the Republican state central committee, will deliver an address in Thief River Falls on Nov. 1. Mrs. Wetmore has just been released from a long speaking engagement for the national committee, during which she has appeared on the platform with great success in Indiana, Kentucky, South Dakota and several of the eastern states.

Those who hear her in this city may be assured that she will present the issues of the campaign in a forceful and intelligent manner that will be of interest to every voter.

FOURTH ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW NEXT MONTH

DATES SET FOR NOVEMBER 22, 23 AND 24—LARGEST IN THIS SECTION.

Pennington county will hold its fourth annual poultry exhibition at Thief River Falls on November 22, 23 and 24. The Pennington county show has been the largest in the northwest in the last two years and every effort is being made to make it bigger and better at this time. This organization has been a member of the American Poultry Association for the past two years and the birds are all housed in their Keipper coops, the best cooping system now on the market.

The boys and girls' department will be especially interesting this year and all members of the poultry clubs should plan on taking advantage of the premiums offered by the poultry association.

The Pennington show will be held the week previous to the Red Lake County Poultry Show so exhibitors may send their birds direct from Thief River Falls to Plummer that they can be exhibited at both places. Further information can be secured by addressing the secretary or president of this association.

Health Association Active.

The Pennington County Public Health Association will again carry on a seal sale from December 1st to 10th. Each township is organized with an executive committee and a township chairman who will have charge of this sale in their respective communities. Each rural and city teacher is asked to do the utmost in assisting in this work in their districts. Last year's record Christmas seal sale resulted from the most intensive campaign for public health funds ever conducted in the county. The use of these funds made it possible for a nurse to be held in the sible for clinics and public health demonstrations as well as other public county.

The headquarters for the seal sale is located in the Farm Bureau office in Thief River Falls, where further information may be secured in regard to how the sale will be conducted. Pennington county made a very notable record last year and in all probability will secure much better results this season.

Sewer Digging Progressing.

Coolsat Bros. and Drees, of Marshall, who have the contract for the installation of storm sewers in this city, are on the job and are making rapid headway with the work of installing the sewers. They are averaging a block a day under favorable circumstances and at this rate will soon have the entire system installed.

Additional Routes.

Whenever, either by reason of the creation of a new county, or by reason of the change of the county seat of any existing county, any city or village not a county seat at the time of the adoption of this amendment is lawfully constituted the county seat of any county, the legislature is authorized to add to the trunk highway system such additional routes connecting such newly constituted county seats with other county seats and other points in the state.

When after at least seventy-five (75) per cent of the total number of the miles of the routes embraced in the trunk highway system hereinbefore specified shall have been constructed and permanently improved, the legislature shall have authority to add new routes to such trunk highway system; provided, however, that no such new routes shall be added until and unless the funds available for the construction, improvement and maintenance of such additional routes shall be sufficient therefor in addition to the construction, improvement and maintenance of the several routes hereinbefore specifically described.

Section 2. There is hereby created a fund which shall be known as the trunk highway sinking fund. Said fund shall consist of the proceeds of any tax imposed on motor vehicles as herein authorized. The moneys in said fund shall be used for the payment of the principal and interest of any bonds which may be issued under the authority of this article; and any moneys in excess of such requirements shall be transferred to a fund which is hereby created and which shall be known as the trunk highway fund. The trunk highway fund shall be used solely for the purposes specified in Section 1 of this article, and when duly authorized by legislative enactment to reimburse any county for the money expended by it subsequent to February 1st, 1919, in permanently improving any road hereinbefore specifically described, in accordance with plans and specifications therefor approved by the commissioner of highways.

Section 3. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide, by law, for the taxation of motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways of this state, on a more onerous basis than other personal property, provided, however, that any such tax on motor vehicles shall be in lieu of all other taxes thereon, except wheelage taxes, so-called, which may be imposed by any borough, city or village. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any motor vehicle owned by a non-resident of the state, and transiently or temporarily using the streets and highways of the state. The proceeds of such tax shall be paid into said trunk highway sinking fund.

Section 4. The legislature may provide by law for the issue and sale of the bonds of the state in such amount as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of section 1 of this article, provided, however, that the amount of bonds which may be issued in any one calendar year shall not exceed, in the aggregate, ten million dollars, par value, and provided, further, the total amount of such bonds issued and unpaid shall not at any time exceed seventy-five million dollars, par value. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the state and credited to the trunk highway fund. Any bonds so issued and sold shall be for a term not exceeding twenty (20) years. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest and shall not bear interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum. In case of the trunk highway sinking fund shall not be adequate to meet the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may in its discretion, appropriate to such sinking fund moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Section 5. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the state of Minnesota inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT OF AMENDMENT.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to establish and provide for the construction and maintenance of a system of roads and highways in the state of Minnesota to be known as "The Trunk Highway System." The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to establish and authorize the enactment of laws, providing for the construction, improvement and maintenance by the state of the highways described in a general way in the amendment, which highways are to be more specifically and definitely located in a manner to be prescribed by law, but any such law must provide that in fixing a definite location of the various routes there shall not be any deviation from the starting point or termini described in the routes set forth in the amendment, nor shall there be a deviation in the fixing of the routes from the various villages and cities named in the amendment, and through which the routes are to pass.

If the amendment is adopted, the legislature will be thereby authorized to provide by law for the issuance and sale of the bonds of the state to raise money for the creation of a "Trunk Highway Fund", to be expended for the construction of the roads embraced in the trunk highway system. The legislature cannot, however, issue bonds in any one year exceeding in amount of the par value thereof the sum of $10,000,000, nor can the aggregate of all outstanding unpaid bonds ever exceed $75,000,000. Bonds cannot be sold for less than par or bear interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum.

The adoption of the amendment will also confer on the legislature authority to levy a tax on motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways, on a more onerous basis than other personal property is taxed. The proceeds of such tax will be credited to the Highway Sinking Fund, which is to be used to pay bonds issued as above; any surplus in the Highway Sinking Fund not needed for the retirement of bonds to be transferred to the Trunk Highway Fund. Motor vehicles taxed by any law passed by the legislature under the amendment, will not be subject to any other tax, except that a wheelage tax may be imposed on such vehicles by any borough, city or village, if they see fit to do so.

In case the tax on motor vehicles is not sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds issued, the legislature, in case of the adoption of the amendment, will be empowered to provide by law for the taxation of all the taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such Highway Sinking Fund any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

Chapter 531, Session Laws of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to section 7 of article VI of the constitution of the state of Minnesota. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. He shall be a resident of such county at the time of his election, and reside therein during his continuance in office, and his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint his own clerk where none has been elected; but the legislature may authorize the election, by the electors of any county, of one clerk or register of probate for such county, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. A probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction, except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "four" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office of probate judges will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

"It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of four years."

The purpose of said amendment and its effect, if adopted, will be to make the term of office of judge of probate four years instead of two.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

Chapter 532 Session Laws of the state of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to Section 1 of Article IX of the constitution of said state. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, as the legislature may determine: Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended said section will read as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools, implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs; and to authorize the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

The effect of the amendment, if adopted, will be to accomplish the purpose above indicated, to-wit: to authorize the enactment of laws by the legislature:

FIRST: Providing for the exemption from taxation, to such an extent and in such manner as the legislature may determine, of household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools, implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs; and to authorize the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

SECOND: Providing for the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

PROPOSED LAW RELATING TO THE TAXATION OF RAILROAD PROPERTIES.

Chapter 533, Session Laws of the state of Minnesota for the year of 1919, proposes an amendment to section 2236, General Statutes Minnesota 1913, and provides that said amendment shall be submitted to the electors of the state for approval or rejection at the 1920 general election. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situated within or partly within this state, shall during the year 1913, and annually thereafter, pay to the state auditor, in addition to all taxes and assessments upon all property within this state, owned or operated for railway purposes, by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1913, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st, next thereafter.

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st, next thereafter; and the payments of such sums at the times hereinbefore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon the property and franchises of such railroad company relating to this act, and be construed as modifying any agreement entered into between any municipality within the state and any railroad company relating to the payment of local taxes or assessments.

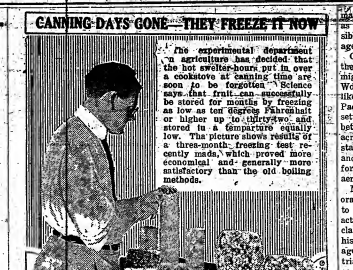
The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or reconfirmed."

If amended as proposed it will read as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situated within or partly within this state, shall during the year 1913 and annually thereafter, pay to the state auditor, in addition to all taxes upon all property within this state owned or operated for railway purposes, by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal of five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1913, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st next thereafter.

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st next thereafter; and the payments of such sums at the times hereinbefore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes upon the property and franchises so taxed.



The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or reconfirmed."

Under the present law the gross earnings tax paid by railroad companies is in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon property owned or operated for railroad purposes. Under the proposed amendment such tax will be in lieu of taxes only and railroad companies will become subject to assessments for local improvements in the same way that private persons and corporations, but paying a gross earnings tax, are subject to such assessments.

The purpose of said amendment is, and its effect, if adopted, will be to subject railroad companies, paying gross earnings taxes, to the payment of assessments for local improvements.

Yours respectfully,
CLIFFORD L. HILTON,
Attorney General.

CANNING DAYS GONE—THEY FREEZE IT NOW

The experimental department of agriculture has decided that the hot sweater-hours put in over a cookstove at canning time are soon to be forgotten. Science says that fruit can successfully be stored for months by freezing at as low as ten degrees Fahrenheit or higher up to thirty-two, and stored in a temperature equally low. The picture shows results of a three-month freezing test recently made, which proved more economical and generally more satisfactory than the old boiling methods.

NORTHERN PACIFIC IS VERY ACTIVE IN MATTERS OF STATE

Leading officials of northwest states who have been aggressively active in the development of their communities have heartily endorsed the broad plan of the Northern Pacific railway to co-operate, through its recently organized department of immigration and industry at St. Paul, with every federal, state, local or private agency which is seeking to improve the resources of the great northwest.

Several weeks ago announcement of the Northern Pacific's new, department was officially authorized by J. M. Hannaford, president. E. F. Benson, former agricultural commissioner of the state of Washington, was appointed manager. Mr. Benson and his staff are making a three weeks' tour of the northwest.

Governor Sam V. Stewart of Montana, immediately approved the plan, saying: "I feel that the railroads of the state can aid most materially in disseminating a proper degree of information to those who are seeking homes. In the old days the railroads seemed only interested in the price of a ticket. Now those who are behind the big railroad enterprises understand that the homeseeker must be intelligently directed, else there will be a ruction not only against the country to which he moves but against the railroad company got everyone having to do with his migration."

Governor Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, had this to say: "The Northern Pacific railway, with its department of immigration and industry, can undoubtedly co-operate most effectively through working with the (North Dakota) state department of immigration. Such assistance will not only be appreciated but will be desirable, in order that the resources of North Dakota may be exploited to the fullest extent possible."

Miles Cashoon, commissioner of agriculture for Idaho, is extremely interested in irrigation development. He said: "The Northern Pacific railway can render a great service to the state of Idaho and especially the southern section of the state. We have the water and the land agregating some 2,000,000 acres which is susceptible of irrigation. I am very familiar with the energy, ambition and practical sense with which the department of immigration undertakes its work and I shall be glad to tender any assistance within my power."

Ben W. Olcott, governor of Oregon, said in a letter: "I have read the announcement of the J. M. Hannaford, president of the Northern Pacific railway. The work of empire building along the line of actual development done by the late James J. Hill in the country thru which his railways pass stands in my mind as the greatest monument to the memory of that man. It gives me extreme pleasure to see that the Northern Pacific railway is not departing from the work which he started, but rather is maintaining and enhacing greatest success along this line—not it. I trust the company will have the only to develop its own interests but to develop the numerous and vairied interests of the many states through which it passes, including the state of Oregon. This state has never been lax in meeting and co-operating in such movements as this and I feel reasonably assured that the people of this state thru its various civic agencies will be glad to give assistance to this new movement where they can."

N. J. Holmberg, commissioner of the Minnesota department of agriculture, said: "I am sure that there is a large field of usefulness for such a department and that the state of Minnesota welcomes co-operation in development work from any organization that is equipped to carry on the work effectively. Minnesota has about 15,000,000 acres of undeveloped land, 3,000,000 of which belong to the state, 2,000,000 to the federal government and private corporations own the rest.

"The first thing we should know is what we are selling to the settler. A land classification would be a material help in placing settlers where they would have the greatest chance of winning out—and in every way giving a square deal to the man who must make our undeveloped lands into farms. The state is interested in

Your Neighbor's Wife

But that does not mean that she is the Boss or that he is henpecked—far from it. It is simply a part of an attractive plan they have adopted.

Every week he gives her a certain sum of money to be used for home expenses. She keeps this money in a checking account and pays it out as she thinks best for the things needed in the home.

And it is understood that any saving she can make from this home expense fund is her own money to be used just as she pelases.

That mother enjoys planning the home expenses and she also ejoys the extra pleasures for herself and the whole family that are made possible by her good management.

Do you have a general manager in your home?

More Light on New Railroad Rates

With the new rates, we can attract capital and give the service to your community to which you are entitled. Yet to the individual or individual family this rate increase is inconsequential.

To the public, these rate advances mean ample transportation for manufactured articles and products of the field, resumption of building activities and local improvements as well as a gradual lowering in the cost of commodities due to plentiful supply. Grain and foods of all kinds will reach points of purchase instead of being stored in elevators and warehouses.

Aside from the activities of so-called profiteers, the rate advance should result in more normal prices. We cannot govern the profiteer, but we can make his job harder by keeping the markets open and the supply of food stuffs plentiful.

That is what we will do now with the improved facilities made possible by our increased income. It cannot happen over night—the task is too great. There is much to be done. The Great Northern Railway will do its part: we ask the co-operation of all so that our work may be accomplished more quickly and your community benefited the sooner.

REPUBLICAN NEWS

With only a few weeks until election, the situation can be stated in a few words. The country is for Harding and against Cox.

Democratic managers in possession of inside knowledge are not deceived as to the outlook, though of course they naturally do not make public confession thereof. But well informed men of whatever party without interest for dissembling attempt no concealment.

Cox as he turns his back on the west will encounter in the east his chief leaders and advisers hopeless unless something not now in sight happens of some paramount new situation suddenly develops to rescue them.

They certainly have no hope that American opinion as to the League of Nations, now so settled against the unamended scheme of Wilson, can be either reversed or arrested where it is. The more it is discussed the more people discover of its actual nature and consequences and the more emphatic will be popular condemnation.

At Paris Mr. Wilson could shroud his designs in secrecy from the people and even from congress. Wilson had absolute control of the cables and an iron-handed censorship.

No suppression is any longer possible. The very text of the treaty after long withholding had at last to be delivered up. The people have now studied that amazing document. The net result is that they demand the amendments or "reservations" made by the senate. Gov. Cox started out to make his campaign turn on a denial to the people of those very amendments.

What can Cox do, what can the Democratic party do between now and election to reverse the popular mind which demands reservations to safeguard American interests?

AROUND THE WORLD BY AIR

The Aero Club of America and the Aerial League of America, working together through a special commission appointed for the purpose, have completed their investigation of the possibilities for an aerial derby around the world. It is proposed to make a test flight over the route before undertaking the big race.

The plane to be used in this test will be a Handley-Page, type W8, said to be an improvement of the class of planes now employed in regular passenger service between London and Paris. This plane has a ten-passenger capacity and it is proposed to send it on its way with the full number. Two experienced American aviators will be the crew.

The route of the flight is not definitely settled yet, but a tentative plan follows: The possibilities and makes fascinating reading for the many persons who follow all such adventures with keen interest.

Two routes across the Atlantic are suggested. One would go from New York to Newfoundland, to Ireland, and then across Europe through London, Paris and Rome. The other route, more than 800 miles shorter, would take in the Azores, Madeira and Gibraltar, going on through Asia via Cairo and Bagdad. The latter route would avoid the congested population areas of Great Britain, France Italy and Greece.

Stopping places over the rest of the world would probably include Delhi, Calcutta, and Rangoon, India; Bangkok, Siam; Shanghai, Yokohama, the Aleutian Islands, Seattle and other points in the United States.

The cost of this trip has not been estimated as yet, but work is being done on that phase of the test flight as well as on the arrangements for frequent landing fields anad airdromes. It is probable that the cost will be divided among the ten courageous passengers who participate in the big flight. The cost may be high, but with the money and the time who would not jump at the chance to circle the globe through the air, dropping at intervals into the great cities of the world and into little villages rich in folk lore and picturesque scenes, touching in remote and primitive centers and pausing in the busy centers of modern civilization? Let us hope that one of those ten lucky passengers possesses the gift of story telling, so that all of us may share the adventure afterwards.

A ROMANCE OF BUSINESS

It is a story of how the raisin producers of the San Joaquin valley of California pulled themselves up out of a slough of despond, debt, discouragement and a palsied enterprise by whole-hearted and efficient co-operation one with the other, and made themselves rich instead of insolvent, and their industry a stable and permanent activity instead of an experiment doomed to apparent failure. It is a romance of American business; it is a tract on how producers may become their own financial agents and get away with it.

If you should go to the San Joaquin valley today, particularly to that part of it of which Fresno is the capital and center, you would not be able to believe that eight years ago the raisin industry was sagging so low that bankers rated its credit very poor and that the growers themselves were hanging on only by their teeth, and looking for a soft place to light just beyond the bankruptcy comrts.

This year its crop is estimated at two hundred thousand tons, for which the growers—the growers, not some group of middlemen or jobbers or packers—will receive close to eighty millions of dollars. Land is selling —when you can get it—at from one thousand to twenty-five hundred dollars an acre; four millions is being spent on streets and roads in one county alone; credit is AA1; business is staggering; there is a nautomobile to every seventh inhabitant, man woman and child; the boys and girls are going to college; prosperity exudes from the well-nourished persons of the vineyardists; and some fifteen thousand acres of new land is being planted to vines every year.

The co-operative organization that made this miracle possible is not only solvent and on a firm and permanent financial and business basis, but it has a big surplus tucked away against the proverbial rainy day. It has ten thousand stockholders—not capitalists living in Pittsburgh or Edinburgh, but the growers and business men of the immediate district; and they will receive an eight per cent dividend on their holdings this year. It is important to note incidentally that there are no holders of the majority stock in this company either, for no man has within a quarter of a million shares of stock enough to dictate its policies and the bulk own three hundred of four hundred dollars' worth each. It is some farmers' company and it is going stronger every day!

In fact, it has become so highly successful and so much of a menace to the business of its competitors, who are private packers, that the latter are now complaining that the association is a trust and are asking the federal authorities to break it up. That, the San Joaquin valley growers say is a high compliment. And as they look back down the years and recall the early history of their industry the wail of the packers leaves them cold. Just now the packers are getting theirs, and San Joaquin opines that it is coming to them!

The above is from Wilber Hall, in the last edition of the Saturday Evening Post. The article is a very plain and concrete illustration of what co-operation among growers has and can do. The raisin growers, as stated by the article, were in distress and bankrupt; their trouble almost entirely coming from the "higher ups." They formed a marketing company, put in a fed hundred dollars each and took in ten thousand raisin growers. They increased the price of their product two or three times over. They raised the value of their land to $1000 to $2500 per acre. They earn 8% on their stock in the marketing company and they proceed from year to year on a sure thing basis. The grain growers and meat producers can do the same. Ultimately they will do it. Study carefully every co-operative of other marketing plan proposed and join somethings; anything beats nothing. The farmers must combine and control the price of their products.

Q. Where does a student of the state university, qualified to vote, who lives at Austin with her parents, vote?

A. She votes in Austin. Her temporary sojourn in Minneapolis for the purpose of attending the university does not result in a loss of her legal residence. She should write to the county auditor of Mower county for the blank form of application for ballots, as heretofire explained.

Q. Can she under any circumstances vote in Minneapolis?

A. Yes, if she acquires a legal residence there. If she came to the university with the intention of remaining there indefinitely and not of returning home at the end of the school year, then she might be deemed to have acquired a legal residence as well as a domicile in Minneapolis.

Q. How is a person's residence determined?

A. Residence is largely a matter of intention. It is that fixed place of abode to which, whenever absent, a person intends to return and from which she has no present intention of permanently removing. If you are in doubt as to your legal residence, consult the Republican county committee of the county in which you are living.

Q. Are there any persons under our Minnesota laws who cannot vote?

A. Persons convicted of treason or felony and not restored to civil rights, persons under guardianship, insane persons, non-citizens and citizens of less than three months' standing and family.

mixed and full blood Indians who have not adopted the customs and habits of civilization, cannot vote.

Election Districts or Precincts

Q. How large is an election district?

A. It should not have over 400 voters. Each town, each village that is separated from a town for election purposes and each cit yward is constituted by law an election district. When the number of voters exceed 400 the district shall be divided by the council or the town boards as the case may be.

Q. Where do people vote?

A. There is a voting place ordinarily referred to as "polls" in each election district. Your precinct committeewoman can tell you the location of your voting place. If you do not known who she is write to the Republican county committee of the county in which you reside for information. The city or village clerk or the town clerk can also advise you.

Q. How many counties are there in the state?

A. There are 86.

Q. How many senatorial and representative districts are there in the state and how large is the legislature?

A. There are 67 senatorial and representative districts. The number of representatives sent from each district vary, depending upon population and the legislative apportionment. The senate is at present composed of 67 and the house of 131 members.

Q. How many congressional districts have we in Minnesota?

A. We have 10. One member of congress is sent to Washington from each congressional district.

Q. Will candidates for United States senator be voted on at this election?

A. No.

Q. Is it necessary to register in order to vote?

A. No, not if you live in a city of less tan 10,000, a village or township. The respective boards of registration of such municipalities are required to meet in advance of the election and make duplicate lists of voters and at least 30 days before the election must cause copies thereof to be posted in three public places in the district. Any person, however, who is entitled to vote in such places may do so notwithstanding the fact that her name is not on the poll list by satisfying the board on election day of her right thereto. In cities of the first, second and third classes, which include all those having over 10,000 inhabitants, registration is a condition precedent to voting. A different circlar has been prepared for the use of persons residing in such cities and is available at the office of the undersigned committee.

Q. If you move from one district to another within 30 days of the election on November 2, do you lose your vote?

A. Yes. This is because of the constitutional provision which makes 30 days' residence in a district next preceding an election a prerequisite to voting.

Q. Must you declare your political affiliation when you vote at the general election?

A. No.

Q. Can a voter absent from the state or election district on November 2 cast her ballot by mail?

A. Yes.

Q. How is this done?

A. A blank form of application for ballots should be obtained from the county auditor of the county where the absent voter has her permanent residence. This form will contain complete directions. It must be filled out and filed with the county auditor not later than October 26, 1920.

Primaries.

Q. When, and how are candidates for elective offices in this state selected?

A. Candidates for all elective offices in this state, except presidential electors (who are chosen by conventions), are chosen at a primary election held on the third Monday in June each even-numbered year, except that candidates for town, village, school district and village offices in certain cities are chosen at elections held on different dates. At such primary the several political parties nominate candidates for party offices, and the voters without party designation select two nominees for each non-partisan office, that is, the offices whose incumbents are required to be elected without party designation.

Q. What offices are elective without party designation?

A. Members of the state legislature and senate, elective county officers, justices o fthe supreme court, judges of the district, municipal and probate courts and municipal officers in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth are elected without any party designation.

Q. Do the people vote directly for president?

A. No. They vote for electors. There are twelve presidential electors to be chosen in this state. Their names will be so gronped and arranged on the ballot that a voter may know whether or not they are Republican electors and she will be enabled to vote for all of them by making one mark.

Q. Who has charge of voting at elections?

A. An election board. Such a board has three judges. In cities they are appointed by the city council. In villages having but one district the members of the council are made by law judges and in towns the members of the town board are constituted judges in the districts in which they reside. The election board is also served by two clerks chosen by the judges. The three judges and two clerks constitute the election board and as such have complete charge of the conduc of the election in an election district.

Q. How is a challenger appointed and what are her duties?

A. Challengers are appointed by the chairmen of the authorized committee of the party she represents, and in the case of non-partisan candidates by the mayor whenever a proper petition has been presented to entitled toremain in the polls during election and may challenge any person suspected of not being a qualified voter. The judges thereupon will examine the person challenged. If such person refuses to answer the questions put to her she will be refused the privilege of voting. It is a criminal offense to answer such questions falsely or to vote when not qualified to do so.

Ballots.

Q. Can a person vote for more than one person for the same office?

A. No, except in certain instances, where is will be plainly indicated on the ballot.

Q. Will you receive more than one ballot at the polls on November 2?

A. Yes. You will receive several. A white ballot, headed "State Ballot," upon which the names of all candidates to be voted on throughout the state, including persidential electors will be handed you by the judges. You will also receive a pink ballot on which proposed amendments to the state constitution will be printed. If candidates for city offices are to be voted on, a "red ballot" will be handed you. Charter and municipal bond issue questions will be submitted on a lavendar ballot. A blue ballot will also be given you by the judges for marking and this will contain names of all candidates not appearing on the other ballots, that is, candidates for county offices, members of the legislature, members of congress, etc.

Q. How do you indicate your choice on these ballots?

A. By placing a cross mark (X) in the appropriate square opposite the name of the person for whom it is desired to vote. You should retire alone with the ballots given you to one of the booths and there mark your ballots. Each ballot should then be folded separately so as to conceal the face and expose only the endorsement on the back. You should then withdraw from the booth and hand the folded ballots to the judge in charge of the ballot boxes, who will deposit same. You will then be recorded as having voted.

Q. May one vote for a person whose name does not appear on the ballot?

A. Yes. This is done by writing in the name of the person for whom it is desired to vote in the blank space opposite the name of the office sought provided for this purpose on the ballot and by placing a cross mark thereafter.

Q. Must one vote for one candidate for each office?

A. No. Every voter should advise herself and be able to vote intelligently on each office and question to be voted upon. Failure to do so does not invalidate that portion of the ballot which has been voted.

PLAN SPECIAL TRAIN FOR BIG BEMIDJI HOLIDAY

LOCAL POST OF LEGION WILL RUN SPECIAL TRAIN TO THAT CITY IF POSSIBLE

Efforts are under way for a special train to be run to Bemidji on Armistice Day, November 11th, when the post of that city will hold a gigantic celebration. Members of the local post are requested to be at the special meeting to be held at the Commercial Club rooms in this city on Friday evening, October 29th, at which time arrangements will be discussed and the advisability of securing a special train for this trip also gone over. The cost of a special train for this day will be $723.81, or a guarantee of 125 passengers at $5.79 each. The local post will extend an invitation to all service men regardless of whether they belong to the post or not to accompany the party, and the general public will also be given an invitation to be part of the party.

The train, if secured, will leave this city at 7:30 in the morning and returning will leave Bemidji at midnight.As there will only be room for approximately 140 on the special, those who wish to make the trip should notify the secretary of the local post, G. Howard Smith, in order that reservations may be made in the order they come. The celebration at Bemidji is sure to be full of interest and will be well worth attending. Monster plans for one of the best and largest celebrations in the northwest are under way and the citizens of that city are to take part in making this a gala event.

"Bemidji's greatest celebration will take place Nov ellbertpmfyfwypwy take place November 11 when Armistice Day will be observed and a regular celebration which is being conducted under the auspices of the Ralph D. Grocie post of the American Legion will be staged.

"Great interest is being displayed in the Bemidji celebration by ex-service men throughout this part of the state and plans are being made by members of the post of Thief River Falls to come here to attend the celebration. It is expected that large delegations from other cities in this part of the state will attend because the Bemidji celebration is to contain many features, not the least of which is the boxing program, which will be absolutely the biggest event of its kind ever staged in northern Minnesota.

"Starting the program on Armistice Day will be a parade in which it is hoped all Legion men will appear in uniform. The parade will be under the direction of D. J. Mooer, captain of the Bemidji National Guard company. The first number on the program in the afternoon will be a football game between the Bemidji football team, contender for the state championship, and some other fast team of the state. All ex-service men will be admitted to this game free of charge.

"At 3:30 the boxing contest will take place at the Armory. There will be 26 rounds of fast boxing, the main bout being between Dick Franklin, Bemidji's heavyweight, and Farmer Lodge of Minneapolis, who will box ten rounds.As a semi-final a bout between Tommy Tibbets, of the Bemidji K-L Club and Gene Dwyer of Hibbing promises to be an exceptionally good match. This will be a six round bout. As a preliminary two fast boxers whose names will be announced later by the committee will appear in a six round bout, and as a curtain raiser Young Peterson, who participated in the last match staged by the Legion here will go four rounds with some other boxer of his class. Great interest thruout the northern part of the state is being shown in the boxing program and a feature of this part of the day's program is the fact that Mike Gibbons, the well known St. Paul pugilist, will act as referee for each of the matches.

"Following the matches a free lunch and smoker will take place at the rooms of the Bemidji association for the benefit of all ex-service men. In the evening a big dance under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary to the post will take place.

"Efforts are being made by the local post to make the program especially appealing to out of town persons and the comfort of those who will come here to attend the celebration is also being considered. The Legion is making arrangements to open rest rooms about the city where women who come here to attend the celebration may rest. The use of the Odd Fellows hall has been donated by that lodge for that occasion and the Legion is making an effort to secure other places. The rest room at the city hall will also be open all day as usual."

Bemidji is sending a committee of men to this city for the meeting to be held in this city on Friday evening, October 29th, at which time it is urged that every service man be present at the meeting and get as many more to attend as possible.

U. S. J. M. BISHOP TO SPEAK IN CITY NOVEMBER FIRST

WILL ADDRESS VOTERS OF CITY AND COUNTY AT AUDITORIUM ON ABOVE DATE

Plans for the big Auditorium rally, Monday evening, are not fully completed. As we go to press, one "top notcher" speaker has been engaged. It is hoped to have Mr. Moore, from Fargo, for a short talk and more important than all is the announcement that the local committee has been successful in securing Mrs. Bishop for this occasion. Therefore it will be the big spotlight occasion of the campaign and it will in a measure be an ovation and reception to our very much honored and deserving member of the Republican State Committee, Mrs. J. M. Bishop.

It's the women's big meeting of the campaign. It's their night, their plans will be carried out in every detail. All the women will be there and all the men.

With due respect for the fine ladies who have been here for both parties, Mrs. Bishop can and will deliver a political address much superior to any of them.

PRIZES OFFERED PUPILS IN BIG ESSAY CONTEST

GOOD ROADS ORGANIZATION INTERESTS BOYS AND GIRLS WITH CASH PRIZES

Boys and girls here as well as in all parts of the state may share in the $200 of cash prizes in a good roads essay contest opened by the Minnesota Highway Improvement Association of St. Paul, the voluntary organization supported by public subscriptions to direct the state-wide educational campaign on Good Roads Amendment No. 1.

Prominent educators have endorsed the contest as a stimulator for and spread facts of the good roads movement by rewarding the school children. Here are the prizes:

Five first prizes at $10 each, $50.

Ten second prizes at $5 each, $50.

Fifteen third prizes at $2 each, $30.

Seventy awards of merit at $1 each, $70.

Only high school pupils are barred; all other pupils in both city and rural grade schools are eligible to try for the numerous prizes. Superintendents of school are directing the contests in each county and school teachers are assisting.

Each pupil tells in not more than 300 words the more important benefits of good roads and outlines the Minnesota plan to obtain them under Amendment No. 1.

"The success of rural schools depends on consolidation and that will be hastened by good roads," said Jas. M. McConnell, state commissioner of education. "The remark brought to mind the imaginative mind picture of small children walking weary miles to school when good roads would mean consolidated schools and then autos for them. The contestants was thus developed."

Installs Blacksmith Shop.

The Thief River Marble Works of this city have installed a first class blacksmith shop in connection with their other interests for the shaping and dressing tools. The business of the local firm is increasing to such an extent that they find it impossible to run any longer without the addition of a shop for this work. This movement also saves much time, as the equipment for this work is right at hand and all tools and other work of this nature is attended to in short order.

DIRECTORS FOR ASSOCIATION ARE ELECTED

FAIR ASSOCIATION NOW TO BE MANAGED BY BOARD OF SEVEN DIRECTORS

The adjourned meeting of the fair association was held last Friday evening and but few attended. The action of those present was nothing more than to undo all that had been done at the last meeting, and this was predicted and expected, as the action of the last meeting was made with the full understanding that a board of directors was to be elected at the next meeting and that they would have full and complete charge of the affairs of the association for the coming year and would fix the salaries, select officers and otherwise attend to the duties of the association instead of always having these matters up for consideration at the annual meeting.

The meeting Friday was carried out to the letter as predicted and all that had been done at the last meeting was undone and the matter taken up by the directors. The directors organized at the last meeting of whom there are seven, of whom four constitute the present officers of the association, are as follows: Daniel Shaw, V. C. Noper, Emil Greibstein and the four officers including Herbert Fuller, president, Albert Johnson, first vice president, Fred Beiboyer, second vice president, and L. A. Lampert, treasurer. These seven men will have control of the association and will attend to all necessary details that have heretofore been handled by the stockholders in annual meeting. This will eliminate much wrangling back and forth and will also save considerable time. The directors will simply make their decisions and announce the same, thus saving a large amount of unnecessary argument and hard feelings among the stockholders.

The proposed amendment to the present constitution was adopted and will be incorporated in the minutes of the organization in the near future.

The amendment adopted and which will hereafter form a part of the society's by-laws reads in part as follows:

"That the amount of capital stock of this corporation shall be seven thousand dollars, to be divided into eight hundred shares of the par value of twenty-five dollars each, to be paid for in cash or other consideration of same value.

"That Article Five be amended to read as follows:

"That the highest amount of indebtedness or liability, other than stock, to which this corporation shall at any time be subject, shall be ten thousand dollars."

"That Article Seven be amended as follows:

"That the government of this society and the entire management of its affairs, shall be vested in a board of directors composed of not less than nine and not less than five, to be selected as follows, to-wit: That the president, first vice president, second vice president and treasurer shall be ex-officio members of said board of directors and that the balance of the board shall be elected from among the stockholders at the annual stockholders' meeting.

"That the president shall appoint from the membership of the board of directors superintendent of each department who will have charge of their respective departments.

"That the board of directors shall hire the services of a person to act as secretary immediately after the annual meeting with full power to fix the salary of said secretary, for the ensuing year."

This in part covers the entire proceedings of the association and shows the reorganization of the institution in the future. The board of directors is given the power to handle the affairs of the society in all matters of importance.

New Addition.

Frank Edwards and family, new settlers from South Dakota, drove in from Viking Saturday to meet their old neighbors, Frank Mahew and family, last spring. Mr. Edwards and family will spend a few days at the Edwards home while they buy a haul out place to the new farm.

Hallowe'en Party.

The Young Peoples' Luther League will hold a Hallowe'en party at the Trinity church, Wednesday evening, October 27th at 8 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

TO THE NEW VOTER

The following questions will necessarily be put to many of the new voters by the election judges:

Are you a citizen of the United States? Yes.

How long have you been a citizen of the United States? At least three months next preceding this election.

How long have you resided in Minnesota? At least six months next preceding this election.

How long have you resided in this voting precinct? At least thirty days next preceding this election.

How old are you? Twenty-one years plus.

Any woman appearing to be sui juris, not a blanket squaw, who thus truthfully answers the foregoing questions, can vote in Pennington county.

A woman born in the United States who marries a non-naturalized foreigner loses her status as a citizen of the United States. "This is automatically restored to her by the naturalization of her husband, or by the dissolution of the marriage, if she still resides in the United States.

Registration is not a prerequisite of voting in this county. It will save a great deal of confusion and time on election day if the names of all who want to vote appear upon the registers. Those whose names do not so appear, if otherwise eligible, may vote.

BIG FROLIC PLANNED BY LOCAL ELKS

ELECTION NIGHT TO BE PROPERLY OBSERVED BY ELKS OF THIS DISTRICT

The Elks of the city are planning a rip-roaring time on the evening of election day, Tuesday, November 2, when they will witness a real comedy for the amusement and edification of all members of the local order at the Lyceum theatre. The show will not start until 11 in the evening and following that and during the performance election returns will be received and read to them present. At 2 a. m. the entire body will adjourn to the Masonic hall where a dutch lunch will be enjoyed by the members and the returns from the election received.

Those in charge of the entertainment announce that this is to be one of the best programs offered by the local order. The comedy will be a lively one and is staged under the direction of Snowball Jack Owen, a member of the Cincinnati order who makes a specialty of producing playlets for the order of Elks. The cast is composed of stars and a famous Broadway beauty chorus will be on the job fro mearly in the evening until the finish and will do their best to make the evening's entertainment full of snap and interest.

The committee in charge of arrangements are sure this is to be the banner of them all and it is expected there will be a large number of the out of town members present for the big night. An invitation is extended to those who have applications pending to attend the big performance and together with the five hundred members now on the roll of honor there is every indication that a full house will greet the talented performers who are to present the evening's entertainment.

Mark the date on your calendar and be at the big show. It is worth travelling miles to witness and the fact that it is "big time stuff" will have a tendency to draw them from far and near, and in order to get in it will be necessary to be on time.

Directors of Fair to Meet.

The first meeting of the new board of directors of the Fair Association will be held on Thursday evening of this week in the Commercial Club rooms. This is the first meeting of the new board and it is expected the plans and arrangements for the fair for next year will be completed at this session, also the selection of a secretary for next year. G. Howard Smith, the present secretary, announces that under no circumstances is he a candidate for the office next year. He says he will not accept the position as he does not feel that he will have time in the future to devote to the duties of the office.

FARM SETTLERS PROMISE TO BE NUMEROUS

THIS IS PREDICTION OF THOSE WHO ARE WATCHING CONDITIONS

The sharp slump in prices for grain and stock may have an important effect upon the development of Minnesota farm lands, judging from various reports received during the past week from bankers throughout Minnesota for the weekly review prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and the First & People's State Bank of Thief River Falls.

Farmers from Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska and other states who have made one or more visits to Minnesota since Sept. 1st. Several have been quoted as declaring that they are considering purchase of Minnesota farms for several reasons. They hope to dispose of their highly developed farms at top prices and buy land in this state at considerably lower figures. Development of Minnesota's road system, convenience of satisfactory markets, fertility of soil and other favorable reasons were touched upon.

Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa farmers have been observing the progress which is being made along pure bred cattle and hog lines. While it is a fact that tight money conditions thruout the state have caused breeders to be conservative in their purchases, they have improved their herds since the county fairs started. Auction sales have started. Sales have been numerous at what buyers term "reasonable prices."

Many interesting notes regarding Minnesota activities were contained in the bankers' reports. Serious forest fires in northern counties were extinguished by two heavy rains. A silver fox farm, said to represent an investment of $50,000, has been started in Goodhue county. Many farmers had bumper apple yields and they disposed of the windfalls for about 25c a bushel, on the average, to automobile "bargain seekers." A Blue Earth farmer who purchased a tract of land last year sold it for $220 an acre, which meant a profit of $7,700. Some banks in southern Minnesota have increased the interest on time deposits to five per cent.

Money continues to be extremely tight with farmers holding their grain. A number of stock feeders shipped cattle and hogs. Pooling of wool has been resumed. A recent offer for the Minnesota wool in storage has been declined. Several counties have organized poultry associations and a score of county shows are planned for mid-winter. Several cities have included appropriations for parks in their 1921 budgets. Community makret sales proved a popular innovation in smaller cities. Merchants have bargain days at the same time. The car situation seems to be generally satisfactory. Duluth reported improvement in the coal situation and transportation facilities. Farmers who had bumper potato crops are storing them or selling them at the roadside. A number of cities which spent considerable money for paving this summer have collected part of their investment from reckless drivers.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO SUPPLY STATE CEMENT

PLANTS WOULD SUUPLY ALL ROAD BUILDING AND OTHER PUBLIC NEEDS

Minnesota will be authorized to build and operate state plants to make cement for road and other public purposes, thru the adoption of Good Roads Amendment No. 1.

An opinion to that effect, given recently by C. Louis Weeks, deputy attorney general, is proving an important factor in the good runds campaign and gaining for Amendment No. 1 the solid support of thousands of advocates of state ownership.

"The talked of plant has a strong bearing on people's attitude toward Amendment No. 1," said Senator Ivor Lee of Glenwood, who asked for the opinion. Senator Lee, it will be remembered, was one of ten members of the last legislature who voted against the bill to submit Amendment No. 1 on the pink ballot Nov. 2.

Opinion Points in Brief.

"The attorney general's opinion,

RETURNS TO BE GIVEN OUT AT COMM'RCIAL CLUB

TRIBUNE WILL FURNISH FREE ELECTION RETURNS AT COMMERCIAL ROOMS

Election returns for the entire city and county will be received at the Commercial Club rooms on the evening of election, November 2. The Tribune is furnishing these returns by Western Union telegraph without cost to the Commercial Club and will have a complete and accurate account of the returns from the beginning to the end.

Every person in the county is invited to be at the Commercial Club rooms on that evening and receive the returns as they come in. There will be easy chairs, coffee and sandwiches will be served and a general good time is assured all.

The Tribune wishes it to be understood that these returns are to be free for everyone and that a general invitation is extended every person in the city and county to be at the Commercial Club rooms on that evening and receive the returns from the state and nation as fast as they come in by telegraph.

The returns at this time are especially important and perhaps more than the ordinary amount of interest is to be manifested due to the interest of all parties. There is much rivalry in the state election and the Tribune will have the returns from the state as soon as any other institution in the state and they will be given out at the Commercial Club right of the bat. The Western Union service is especially equipped for this service and will have a large number of people employed together with the assistance of the news agencies all over the United States to gather the returns as fast as possible and to send them out at once. This will receive the returns from the state and nation as quickly as any city in the United States and will know the outcome as quickly as it is possible to gather the returns.

Remember, the Commercial Club rooms will be open to all on election night and the Tribune will furnish full and complete returns of the election.

FARMERS WAITING FOR RESERVE BANK ANNOUNCEMENT

REPRESENTATIVES ARE DEMANDING MORE LIBERAL CREDIT POLICY

Although the agricultural conference recently held in Washington for the purpose of obtaining more liberal credit situation is being prepared by ed its sessions, a committee remained in Washington awaiting announcement of the future credit policy of the federal reserve bank.

A statement covering the whole credit situation is being prepared by the federal reserve board and its agents in conference and it is expected to be made public soon.

On the committee which is looking after the interests of the farmers are representatives o feach of the 30 agricultural commodities represented at the convention. Some members of the committee were in favor of delegating representatives to confer with the American Bankers Association at their convention here in case the forthcoming policy of the reserve bank is considered unfavorable to the farmers.

Agricultural interests carried their fight for amelioration of credit conditions to Secretary Houston of the treasury department. They asked for rehabilitation of the war finance corporation to foster exports to Europe and were told by the secretary that it would not be in line with good business for the government to extend further credits to Europe, which would be the result if the request was granted.

The treasury would not be a party, Mr. Houston also declared, to the withholding of any commodity from the market in order to maintain artificially high prices.

Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina and other spokesmen for the delegates in urging restoration of the finance corporation declared in favor of extending credit to Germany. "Germany," the senator said, "must live. I see no reason why her bonds should not be accepted."

Later the delegation carried out its plan of asking for a preferential rediscount rate on agricultural paper at a hearing before the full membership of the federal reserve board. They characterized the situation facing the producers due to the falling markets as "alarming" and insisted that one of the main purposes of the federal reserve law was to furnish elasticity of currency for the agricultural interests in such emergencies.

"I ask one specific thing," Senator Smith, who was again the spokesman, said in summing up the case for the producers. "Give the agricultural interests a lower rate of discount in this distressing time than you do anybody else."

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 65TH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT

Having at the request of my friends filed as a candidate for re-election as Representative of this District, I hereby announce my candidacy and respectfully solicit your support and vote. In doing so I refer you to my past record, which I believe to be fully consistent with my platform of two years ago.

As agriculture is the basic industry of our country and the farmer the mainstay of the nation, I favor and shall, if re-elected, give my hearty support to all measures tending to benefit the farmer and to promote the farming industry, as anything that will contribute to the welfare of the farmer will in a like degree benefit all of the people of the District.

I am a firm believer in co-operation and favor such co-operative laws as will enable the farmer to co-operate to best advantage both in the line of production as well as marketing, to the end that the middlemen's profit may as far as possible be eliminated or minimized; so the farmer may receive the fullest rewards for his labor that he merits.

I favor Farmers' State Hail insurance at the lowest rate consistent with sound business policy.

I favor a reduction in the freight charges of common carriers, believing the present high freight rates as exhorbitant and discriminating to the farmer; and also favor the compulsion of the railway companies to live up to the state law of 2 cents per mile for carrying passengers.

In order that true prosperity may be had it is necessary in the operation of the manufacturing industries in the cities should go hand in hand with the production on the farm, and that the laborer who operates the wheels of industry should also be contented and prosperous. Such honest legislation should therefore be had as will tend to promote the welfare of the working class—laws that will give the laborer just redress for just grievances.

I am in favor of a just State Workingmen's Compensation insurance. I believe in the right to collective bargaining.

"Ignorance breeds crime," while education edifies and uplifts and is the foundation upon which our government rests; I therefore favor such laws as will tend to foster and promote education, and favor such liberal appropriations for school aid as may be necessary for the proper education of our youth. I favor such reasonable salaries to teachers as will tend to induce more students to prepare themselves for teachers, and to the end that the teaching profession may be kept in a high degree of proficiency. In the event that Amendment No. 1 should carry, I favor the enactment of most stringent laws governing the work to be performed thereunder, as well as the disposition of the funds thereby—laws that will effectually eliminate all possible graft, to the end that a dollar's worth of good roads will be received for every dollar expended.

I favor a state budget system and that the state government be run in an economic business way, to the end that the tax burden of the people may be lightened.

I favor a just and equitable tonnage tax, such as will make the mining corporations pay their just share of the taxes.

I was born on a farm in Goodhue Co. this state, more than fifty years ago, and with the exception of seven years spent at St. Olaf College, Northfield, and eight years as Deputy Clerk of Polk Co., when Red Lake and Pennington counties were a part thereof, I have always been engaged in farming, and have been a resident of this district for more than 20 years, so am thoroughly acquainted with and in sympathy with the needs of the District, and if re-elected it shall be my endeavor to serve the District faithfully, and to give every measure due and careful consideration, so as to be able to vote intelligently to the best interest of the District and the State.

Respectfully submitted,
MARTIN O. SORTEDAHL.

CREDIT PLAN FOR FARMERS IS PRESENTED

SUGGESTED THAT GOVERNMENT BORROW MONEY AND LOAN IT TO THE FARMERS

Declaring that "some one must" finance this year's crops, George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council wrote the federal reserve board suggesting that the board definitely decide making an effort to get its members to discount farm paper and warehouse receipts and the government borrow money and deposit it in national banks to be loaned to farmers at not more than one per cent in excess of the rate the government pays.

The farmers will thus be able, Mr. Hampton said, "to hold at least part of their crop until they can get cost of production plus a reasonable profit or until there is an effective consumption demand. Either the primary producer or those seeking to get control of the farm products and able to get credit from some source must finance the project," the letter said.

"The men seeking to corner agricultural products will not reduce the prices at which they will sell the crops any sooner than they have to," Mr. Hampton declares. "The law of supply and demand is unavailing in case these hoarders can not pay the embargo on farm productions as it is intimated they intend to do."

Bank credit "has been steadily available for the successive seasonal requirements of agriculture," according to a statement issued by the federal reserve board, designed as a reply to agricultural organizations which appealed to the government for a further extension of agricultural credit.

Recent disturbances in price and demand which have been manifest in agricultural markets are "inevitable and unavoidable derangements occasioned by the world war," the board's statement said.

It added, however, that gradual and regular movement of the crops from producers to consumers was to be expected.

IS HISTORY REPEATING?

Are the days of Sodom and Gomorrah returning? Are our great American cities becoming so wicked they must be overthrown before they can be cleansed? Newspaper men in our metropolitan centers of population are indefatigable news gatherers. Their "nose for news" has been sharpened and developed to the point where they have become the keenest detectives in the world. They are exposing rottenness and corruption to an extent that is appaling to all decent and self respecting people.

If one-tenth of all the stories they print are true the more popular sections of this country are a hotbed of financial filth and a mire of moral debauchery. When sworn officers of the law are "unable" to detect crime, the newspaper men go out, dig it up and expose it in the columns of their papers. But fortunately the reporter is not a policeman, and neither is he a court a jury. He cannot arrest, prosecute or sentence. And others do not in the most flagrant cases.

It is the old, old story of protected vice and corruption running rampant and defying all law, order and decency. If you have a son or daughter whose welfare you value, keep him or her away from the big cities. The smile of the deadly rattlesnake is no more dangerous than the streets where the bright lights burn and the bellhounds lurk for their unwary prey. The country town may be small and dull, but it is clean and wholesome. It is a better place in which to live than the modern Sodom or Gomorrah.

HOLM BATTLED WITH POVERTY

Candidate for Secretary of State Has Made Own Way Since He Was Only Twelve Years Old.

MIKE HOLM.

Working by day and studying by night, Mike Holm of Roseau overcame adversities that beset him in his youth and is today a living example of what America can do for a young man who is ambitious and industrious.

He came of poor, hard-working parents, who lacked the means to send the son through school. At the age of 12, he decided that where there is a will there is a way and ever since he has made his own way in the world.

Mr. Holm was born June 17, 1876. His early days were spent on his parent's homestead in Marshall County, where his father was one of the pioneers in blazing the trail of civilization through the wild wastes of that district. At the age of 11, the family moved to a farm in Roseau county. A year later, the young Mike decided he would strike out for himself and then began his struggle for a livelihood, without parental help.

County Coroner at Twenty-one.

He received most of his early education in the schools of Warren, working at various occupations when school duties did not demand his attention. After graduating in the public schools at Warren, he took a business course in the evenings and his application to his work won the praise of his teachers and laid the foundation for his later career.

His popularity among the older men of the county was widely commented upon and despite his objection he was made a candidate for county coroner when he was only 21. He was easily elected. Shortly after that he was made justice of the peace. He held the latter position for 7 years.

In 1902 he became a candidate for judge of probate and success again crowned his efforts. So excellent a public official was he that he has held that office ever since. During the last 10 years he has had no opposition at the polls.

He has always been most actively interested in public affairs and has held a number of positions of trust. Among these posts are: President of the Commercial Club; member of the village council; president and member of the school board for 10 years; president and secretary of the county fair association; secretary of the Commercial Club; trustee of the Presbyterian church; president of the Old Settlers' Association of Roseau county; director of the Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association and president of the Minnesota County Exhibitors' association.

Made State Fair Official.

For the last four years he has been a member of the Minnesota State Fair Board. This honor came to him in recognition of the work he had done in supervising the exhibits of Roseau county at the state fair each year. For four years, Roseau won the first prize for the best exhibit shown and last year, Roseau defeated all other counties by 88 points.

Prospective Purchasers of Pine Nursery Stock Warned.

This statement is made necessary by the fact that reports are being received by A. G. Ruggles, state entomologist and nursery inspector, University Farm, to the effect that agents are at work in the northwest selling white pine nursery stock which, they say, was grown by the state of Minnesota and is being sold by them for the state. It is reported, moreover, that these same agents, in order to stimulate buying, tell prospective purchasers that the Minnesota state nursery inspector advises fall planting of white pine. If the information received by Mr. Ruggles is correct, prospective purchasers of white pine nursery stock should be on their guard.

The facts are these: Before the war, at the forestry experiment station at Cloquet, a considerable amount of nursery stock was grown for the state forester. Before this could be planted, the war intervened and the forester found himself with perhaps 600,000 young trees on hand. Not being able to make use of these he offers them for sale. Apparently, from the reports received, it is some of this stock which is being put on the market. The state has no control over the sale of this stock and the state inspector has never advised fall planting. The inspector has merely passed on the stock for its freedom from insects and diseases.

Mrs. J. M. Bishop is making three and four political speeches a day in St. Paul, Minneapolis and the lesser cities in the southern portion of the state. She is honored everywhere by overflow meetings. There are more calls for her than any other speaker. She is doing all she can and making several appointments each day. Every resident of Thief River Falls, regardless of party, is proud of the splendid showing Mrs. Bishop has made. She has been honored by the National, State and District organizations and she has made good in every position. The Tribune is proud, indeed, that a Thief River Falls woman has earned a position of such prominence and importance. We trust we will be pardoned if we boast, that we knew it all the time.

Some queens at times exhibit symptoms of being almost human. She of England and the ladies of her court are said to be buying second hand gowns in order to make war on the prevailing high prices in London.

The boomerang and roorback period of the campaign has now arrived. Take it easy, do not get excited; vote your honest convictions and do not pay any attention to last hour fire alarm stories.

Jimmy Cox now having quarreled from coast to coast, the administration of Wilsonian autocracy may proceed.

"The Heart" looks more and more like a wish-bone, as we get nearer the election.

As Senator Knox has stated, by the "Truce of Versailles," Japan was given Shantung (a part of China). The League of Nations goes farther. It guarantees title and possession.

SOME STATESMANSHIP!

Following are excerpts from a speech made by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, in charge of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic national committee, at Muskogee, Okla., on October 13th, as reported in the Muskogee Democrat of October 14th:

"I was 14 years old before I ever saw a white Republican and I was 24 years old before I knew that a white man could be a Republican, and I sometimes doubt it now.

"A man who will appeal to race prejudice for votes will lick molasses from a dead nigger's lips.

"An independent is an independent 364 days out of a year and a Republican the 365th.

"It is a disgrace to the intelligence of the Republican party to let this man Herrold (member of congress and Republican candidate for the senate) out of his cage.

"Harding is a dear, delightful old grandmother who sits on his front porch in a hammock.

"Vote for Herrold if you want negro domination; vote for Ferris if you want a white man's country.

"The Republican party contributed three annexations to America's territory, Alaska and its ice, Guam and her polygamists and the Filipinos and their ice."

WRITING THEM OFF

Wade of St. Louis banker of national and international repute, who stood idle as a coin waiver, driver, has returned from Europe with the expressed conviction that we should cancel all the war and national debts that our allies in the recent European war are owing us.

This calls for some comment, particularly as Mr. Wade's eminent views have been given wide circulation. France, Belgium and Italy would actually be benefitted by such an action and were we to write off their indebtedness to us it would probably be to our advantage also, as it would stabilize exchange and put those countries in position to take the goods they need and which we have.

To cancel the debt that England owes us would be again to make England mistress of the seas, a title which she held for many years, along with that of being financial and commercial dictator of the world, because of her merchant marine on the seas. Germany went out to wrest that title from England and set the world on fire in making the attempt and brought on the great war that resulted in these great war debts being piled high, and in Germany being humbled and brought to her knees for all time to come.

To cancel the war debts that England owes us would be to put us at the mercy of England financially, industrially and economically, for all time to come. With all her troubles in Ireland, in India and elsewhere, England is far from bankrupt. Had she used good judgment prior to the war and had her statesmen used foresight and force, as well, the European war might have been averted or never permitted to foment. Secret treaties, economic and state blunders; refusal to take notice of the common people of the realm, an attitude toward Ireland that was sure to result in revolt; dark age treatment of India, could bring nothing but retribution.

Is America to pay for the blunders and the errors of omission and commission of England by cancelling all of the debts she owes us? Are we to throw up the supremacy we have secured thru living righteously and humanely as a nation? Are we to step back to our pre-war position of being a second fiddle player to England as a world power and in world trade?

Are we to be forced to see the financial center of the world moved from New York back to London and is England to be permitted to take toll of this nation because of her ownership of a majority of the ships that sail or steam the seas?

If we have come to hold the balance of power thru right living, thru magnanimity, thru dealing squarely and humanely with the world, thru keeping out of entangling alliances, shall we throw away these things, as Mr. Wade would have us do, thru cancelling of writing off the indebtedness of Europe to us?

RESENTMENT IS BITTER

The editor of the oldest agricultural journal in the world recently said: "The farmers of America are discouraged; they are filled with bitter resentment against conditions. Their list of grievances is a long one and each of them is real. They cannot be passed over lightly. They have tried the impossible task of feeding $2 corn to 14-cent hogs at a profit; they have lost millions in feeding high priced feed to cattle, and have stood helplessly by and watched the city consumers pay as high prices for their pork chops and beefsteaks as they did when cattle and hogs were bringing a living return to their producers. They have had to stand idly by while agents of city industries painted beautiful pictures of high wages and better living conditions in the cities. Everything the farm has to sell is comparatively low in price or there is no market and yet city consumers never paid such high prices. The farmers have had to bear their share of the high prices of clothes, but now when they have a crop of wool to dispose of there is absolutely no market. Nobody will bid on the farmer's wool. He has notes to meet, bills to pay, mortgages to liquidate and still he has to pay grasping prices. The farmen have paid high wages, bought expensive chemicals for sprayin, and have spent months getting ready for the harvest, only to find that the high price of sugar has seriously curtailed the market.

"The farmers were vastly more patriotic than they were given credit for. They raised a billion bushels of wheat and the government forced prices away below the market level, fixing it at a scale that barely paid the cost of production. The farmers were the only class of citizens forced to do this. Other industries obtained cost plus and the privilege to make the cost as high as they chose. The farmers grit their teeth when they read about 200 per cent, 300 per cent and 400 per cent dividends paid by manufacturers of shoes and textiles and sugar and other necessities. The farmers are now told that there is not money enough to finance the harvest."

FINANCIAL SPEEDERS

The speeder at the wheel of an automobile is considered a menace to society and is justly hunted by law. The financial speeder is even a greater menace, and yet he appears to be immune. The dastardly bomb outrage in New York recently was undoubtedly due mainly to bitterness against these financial speeders—a small percentage of the population who have accumulated most of the wealth of the country within a comparitive few years, leaving the remainder to be divided among a hundred million people.

These men have accumulated so much of the wealth of the country that they could produce a disastrous panic and plunge the country into the most appalling state of confusion merely by the wave of a hand or the stroke of a pen. The fact that they refrain from such action does not lessen the danger in the least. Their great wealth is drawn from the masses of people. In every walk of life, in every article we buy, we pay tribute to some one or other of these speeders.

Such tremendous fortunes are dangerous in a republic—firebrands in the midst of strife. They create too great a gulf between the elements of humanity and are a potent factor in fostering class hatreds which only too often lead to acts of violence. If the wealth of the country continues to gravitate toward a limited few, the time may come when we will return to the days of feudalism, when the "lords of the land" will be above the law and so powerful thru means of their gold that even the government itself would find itself impotent when in opposition to their will.

There apparently is but one remedy which offers practical results—levying the ills which now afflict us. That is for congress to place a reasonable limit upon individual or family fortunes. The man who can't live on five million dollars is too expensive a luxury for a democratic country. He should move on. In the meantime, hang every one connected with the New York outrage, even if the law has to be stretched as much as the rope in order to do it. Men who are loyal to the flag of this country will not quibble over minor details.

BULL FIGHTS AND BASEBALL

Bull fighting is the national sport in Spain. In the United States it is baseball. In Spain every one goes to see the matadore vanquish the bull from the king down to the humblest citizen. It is a gala day and the matadore is a national hero. In this country large numbers of people go to the ball game from the office boy to the head of the firm. The electric wires flash the result to the entire nation. The bull fight is clean, even if it is gory. Graft apparently has not entered into the sport, as the matadore could hardly "throw" the fight in favor of the bull without having his insides tossed all over the arena from the horns of the pain maddened bull. But baseball, the American national game? Honest lovers of the sport are sick, nauseated, holding their noses from the stench of the graft that is creeping in.

What will the future championship pennants mean? To the public they will be decorated with the emblem of the almighty dollar—the dirty dollar of graft—indicating that some Judas of the diamond has sunk his honor in iniquity and thrown the game for a filthy mess of gambler besmirched pottage. Unless the baseball world can be thoroughly and effectively purged of these grafting traitors and the honest players protected from suspicion, we might well consign the ball and bat to oblivion and have a few bulls and matadores from ancient Spain. The sport would be slippery with blood but the public would at least know that the laurels of the victor were honestly won.

A MILK UPLIFT

A town in Alabama has organized "A Quart a Day" club. This sounds alarming until you learn that it is the quart of milk that gives the titular signification to the club. The members call it a "league", a word that implies a proselyting career. A club is more definite and finite than a league. The latter has an all embracing unum character and we believe there is already another club at Pittsburgh.

Members of the Alabama organization bind themselves to drink a quart of milk every day. This should be encouraging to the dairying interests, but that is not particularly what the league aims at. It publishes its object as the "promotion of the drinking of fresh milk as a health-giving habit, and to secure fresh and pure milk for communities." If everybody drinks more milk there can't help everybody will be to see that it is good. It is not to be gathered that individuals are restricted to one quart. That is the minimum. There could be degrees. The gallon a day members may "exemplify the work" in the higher ranks of lacteal endeavor and there may even be "best" parties, milky bummelkanzes.

JUST A FEW FACTS

When a farmer ships a carload of cattle or a ton of hay or any other product away to the city market the money he receives becomes a part of the wealth of this community. It is upon the income from the products we ship away that we depend for the prosperity of our home people. That needs plain to every thinking person. Every article we consume or use must come from some source. If it is not produced here we must buy elsewhere. That, also, is a fact well known to all persons.

A retail merchant can buy the articles we want from the manufacturer or wholesaler for considerably less than we would have to pay if we ordered direct from the factory. That is the discount made by the manufacturers to all dealers. That is still another fact which requires no extraordinary amount of brains to understand.

If we send away ourselves for what we want all of the money paid for the article goes out of the community and helps to enrich some person in some other community. If we buy from a local dealer the wholesale profit only is sent away, the dealer's profit remaining in circulation as part of the wealth of our community. That is the most vital fact of all and yet it is a fact that many excellent citizens seemingly fail to comprehend. A home trading community is invariably prosperous. A foreign trading community is more often depressed. In either case, it is as we make it.

THINK IN TIME

A word of caution even to the wisest is not amiss at times. The season is approaching when all people will be making their Christmas purchases. The fact that money has been plentiful for the past few years has not removed the element of caution from our home people and neither has it blunted their desire for economy.

Caution dictates that we buy from a house that is known for its honesty and its willingness to guarantee the quality of its goods. Economy requires that quality be proportionate to price. The home dealer is known to you. He cannot afford to sell you a shoddy or inferior article because it would come back to him. He cannot afford to advertise you because it would put him out of business. But ethics honor and his business safety compel him to give you a square deal. Think this over before the rush is on. People who think twice before the ybuy once seldom make a mistake.

CRITICISM BECOMES SHARP

The report of the general committee of the farmer organizations, which met at Washington, D. C., claims that at the close of the war the world was short of agricultural reserves and that propaganda was inaugured in, urging the farmers to produce to the limit.

We were given to understand," says the report, "that no matter how great the production, we could not possibly met the needs of consumption and supply normal reserves in a single year and therefore that we could expect prices that would well repay the high cost of equipment, materials and labor. We are convinced that the situation was not overstated. The world supply is unusually small. The fact that we are facing prices today that are below the cost of production arises from the fact that, while the Federal Reserve system was found adequate to finance our allies and ourselves during the greatest upheaval the world has ever known, it is arbitrarily withheld from assisting the basic industry of this country to maintain a level of prices that at least meets the cost of production."

The report finds that the present situation is brought about "by the following official acts:"

1. Restricting of credits.
2. Raising the rates of discount on farm products.
3. Discontinuance of the war finance corporation.

Insisting that there was a short world crop of wheat and that many of the treaties in what are considered contracts calling for delivery of wheat for export, President J. R. Howard, of the American Farm Bureau federation, declares in a statement that there was no sound reason for the present low price of wheat, predicted that it would sell for from $3 to $3.50 a bushel before the next crop is harvested and justified this desire of farm organizations that credit be extended to them, so that they would not be forced to sell crops at a loss on an artificially low market, when the normal price would protect them from ruin.

"There is absolutely no justification for the present low grain prices," said Mr. Howard, "and, if natural forces are allowed to prevail, the price of wheat must rebound strongly in the near future."

"We must look the facts in the face and realize that there is no wheat surplus today. On the contrary there is a real shortage and those who have studied the situation closely freely predict $3 to $3.50 wheat before another crop is harvested."

There is to be a big reduction in clothing next spring. Only one more winter to wear newspapers under your vest.

Coal is beaten on the real issues of this contest. The presentation of his case has only made distinct and indisputable the American people's condemnation of it. His attempted evasion has failed. The fact stands out that the country disapproves of him, of Wilsonism, or of any possible administration representing the same ideals that they want a government of different methods and that they have decided on a change.

At this moment, each is the real situation. Whatever they may say, the Cox and Wilson leaders are not ignorant of it. They are discouraged as they well may be.

Mrs. Harwood, of Roosevelt, called at the Women's Republican Club headquarters this morning. She says this is the finest club plant she has seen anywhere in the state Pretty good.

PLANS UNDER WAY TO SUPPLY STATE CEMENT

which has the effect of law, is briefly as follows:

In case the so-called Babcock Amendment is carried, the state may engage in the manufacture of cement in plants constructed and operated by it, the cement to be used in the construction of roads, and may sell any surplus at not less than cost to the counties, towns and villages.

Commissioner C. M. Babcock, of the state highway department was one of the first to express gratification over the ruling.

"More than three months ago a letter from a concern in England brought forcibly to mind the proposal for a state owned cement mill," he said. "The assistance of the school of mines at the University of Minnesota was secured and an search started for the necessary raw materials on state lands.

Importance is Explained.

"It was pointed that because of the comparatively small amount of cement needed by the state for road building and because another constitutional amendment might be required, that the project promised to prove of little importance. Now the attorney general holds that Good Roads Amendment No. 1 will give the authority, and what is more important, that the surplus from a good sized mill or more can be sold at cost to the cities and counties for their road building and other needs.

"It certainly adds another big argument in favor of voting 'yes' for Good Roads Amendment No. 1. While the proposal to hard surface 200 miles of state roads each year will take only 640,000 barrels of cement, the larger output can b supplied to the cities and counties. Of course, there are certain heavy traffic roads which must be paved, because gravel surfacing means waste of money and that work will have to be done by the counties if the amendment fails to pass. But if it does pass, as we are confident, it will mean that added possibility to save."

The commissioner ordered the investigations speeded up in order to be ready to report findings to the legislature early in January in anticipation of the passage of Amendment No. 1 by a big majority.

I was not at home, the Mrs. answered the phone, she told the lady that we did not want a woman cook, and you know I never told her we did not want a woman cook, had not said anything about it. ### A Statement to the Voters.

(Political Advertisement.)

It has been informed that Mr. Soterdahl, who is a candidate for Representative from this District, has on several occasions stated that I supported Senate File No. 262 for a consideration. I brand this as a falsehood of the rankest kind and refer the voters to page 1079 of the House Journal for 1919, where the vote on this bill is recorded, and which shows that I did not vote for the bill at all, while Mr. Soterdahl did. There was no opposition to the measure in the House and it seems absolutely ridiculous that anyone should be accused of receiving a consideration for supporting a measure that was not opposed, even had I voted for it. I cannot but question Mr. Soterdahl's motive in circulating this absurd report, and hereby take the liberty to ask Mr. Soterdahl to explain, 1, why he vote to kill the primary election law; 2, why did he vote for the so called "Public Be Damned" law? 3, why he voted against state insurance under the Workmen's Compensation act and now claims to favor state insurance? # KNOWLEDGE OF STATE MAKES PREUS IDEAL MAN FOR GOVERNOR

WARREN G. HARDING
Your Kind of Man and-

The Next President of the United States

The Next President.

As certain as anything can be, in this world, is the election of Senator Harding.

To readers of this newspaper, the many family groups to which it comes a regular welcome visiter, Senator Harding's face shines as that of a friend.

Senator Harding, your next President, is your kind of man. You see him, hear a few words, and you know it.

He was born in a small town, has lived there all his life, lives there now, and will live there again when he leaves the White House with his work for the country done.

How He Lives.

He lives as you live, simply, in the old fashioned American way.

The main residence street in any little American town, boasts half a dozen homes more elaborate than Senator Harding's, and many as good.

Millions of men, believing in this country, devoted to its government, SATISFIED with the UNITED STATES, believe that the United States is able to deal with its own problems, and settle its own questions free from outside assistance or interference.

Those millions of men are men of the same sort as Senator Harding.

What Kind of Man.

Harding is a big American in physical size, thanks to vigorous farming ancestors. He is a big American also in heart, in understanding, in sympathy and in simplicity.

You read his speeches and know that he does not imagine himself created to tell all the world what to do. He believes in, and he understands the American people, his friends, neighbors of his own little town, Marion, Ohio, and the dwellers in thousands of other towns like it.

Your Servant, Ne Autocrat.

After you have elected him, you will find in Senator Harding an earnest, conscientious, straight thinking servant of the people, not an autocrat, but a man respecting the traditions of American government, and the Constitution of the United States.

Senator Harding understands that the people will elect him to be President of the United States, not President of the whole world. He will know that he is employed by the PEOPLE of this country to look after the interests of THIS country.

Born on a farm, living all his life close to farmers, he knows and sympathizes with the problems of the farm. Living in the average American way, in the average American small town, he knows the problems of the average American. He understands the printers he employs, and he knows their trade and sets type as they do.

His Ambition.

Senator Harding has no ambition to be called a political superman, or RULER of America. It is his ambition to be known as a good American, a faithful servant of those that trust him.

National politics are discussed this year less than at any election since the republic was founded. Why? Because men do not discuss, to any great extent, that which is DEFINITELY SETTLED.

And this national election is definitely settled as you read this. YOU know it.

But it is important that demonstration of the popular will should be of the most overwhelming kind. Therefore the good citizen will do what he can to increase the vote for Harding, should there be any doubtful votes within reach of his voice.

It is almost ludicrously difficult to find a man or woman that intends to vote the Democratic ticket this year.

But if you do find one, show him or her this picture of the next President. And express in your own way the reasons that inspire you to approve and vote for him.

What is Senator Harding's outlook upon life? It is YOUR OWN.

Read these extracts from one of his recent speeches:

> "This government is your government, not that of somebody who is placed in office."
> "You clothe us with authority. We are pleased to execute your will. And one reason I want the Republican party in power once more is because we are responsive to the will of the people of the United States and do not try to tell you that what one man thinks is necessary."

No hallucination there, no idea that Harding was made to rule, and YOU, who read this newspaper, made to be ruled, or preached at from above by your own elected servant.

The duty of the American, whether he be President or simple citizen, is not complicated in Mr. Harding's mind. He says:

> "As I said at the outset, government is a very simple thing, government is only a regulation of our relationships to one another. The government's first task is the protection of the minority against autocracy, or the domination of the majority that sometimes forgets the rights of the minority."
> "I am preaching the gospel of popular representative government in the United States, a government that does not know any class anywhere in all this Republic."

In his speeches and in his daily life, running for the Presidency or running his country newspaper, Senator Harding is just an everyday American neighbor. This is what he says, as he bids farewell to a crowd of friends:

> "I am very happy to see you all this morning. As I have said, I want you to know me, and I am delighted to know you. We are going to work together for the good of the United States, and we are going to hold America first in all our thoughts and in all our actions."

Women Voting.

Women especially have reason to congratulate themselves on the fact that Senator Harding will be the next President.

Their sons are taken in war. Their husbands and fathers are taxed to pay for war. They spend the lonely hours of dreadful anxiety, while the son is away.

They, above all, are interested in having for President such a man as Senator Harding.

He does not believe that foreign powers should be allowed to conscript American boys for war beyond the seas.

He does not believe that a Foreign Council should send to America for men and money to settle wars not of our making.

Senator Harding does not believe that this country should be taxed to finance the ambitions or the land greed of foreign nations, and as he believes, so the earnest men and women of this country believe.

When you cast your vote for Senator Harding, you will vote for YOUR KIND OF MAN, the intelligent, straightforward, unpretentious American citizen. President Harding will be an American President, not an international President.

You will have in the White House a man of constructive mind, a plain American with no dreams of world dominion, but with a settled determination to restore normal conditions and normal prosperity to this country.

After the War.

After a war that has destroyed old conditions, cost many lives, squandered many billions in reckless extravagance and dishonesty, and weakened respect for the Constitution, you need for President a straightforward, constructive American.

And you will have such a man in the White House after the 4th of next March for certain, that the President of the United States will be Warren G. Harding, your kind of man, one that you would gladly trust with your own affairs, and the affairs of your country.

FARM BUREAUS IN MINNESOTA GAIN MEMBERS

CAMPAIGN SWELLS ENROLLMENT IN ORGANIZATION TO 30,000 MARK.

Swelled by membership campaigns in progress in a score of counties, the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation has passed the 30,000 mark and is expected to be well along toward 40,000 members by November 1.

And the federation has been a permanent organization less than a year. Drives for members just closing have added hundreds of members to the county bureau enrollment in all parts of the state. Last reports from Aitkin county, for instance, placed the membership of that county's bureau at 925 and the drive has not yet closed. Cottonwood's bureau has 900 enrolled and the work not yet finished.

In addition to those counties which have reported progress in definite figures, there were drives going on in many other localities. Among the counties which are canvassing for members or are about to start work are Kittson, Lincoln, Le Sueur, Fillmore, Sherburne, Cass and Anoka counties. Hennepin, too, will begin a drive for big membership within a short time.

There is only one reason why the farmers are joining the farm bureaus under the new plan. That is because the farm bureaus are out to make the business of farming a better business for all concerned—and that means the whole people, in the view of the bureau members. They put it this way:

"The farm bureau is a county organization for the constructive development of agriculture and an agency thru which the farmers can help themselves."

Canvassers for members say that the last is the chief motive power. Their scheme is not socialistic; thru the farm bureau "the farmers help themselves." They work to develop and maintain the most permanent and profitable livestock and marketing problems.

Thru the farm bureau desirable seed is located and demonstrated; seed improvement, certification and testing are encouraged; crop rotation with clover and alfalfa is promoted; farmers' clubs, boys and girls clubs are aided; poultry raising by women is assisted; time and labor saving equipment is demonstrated; farm and building plans are helped along; live stock and breeding associations are promoted; household problems on the farm are tackled—but always with the farm bureau as an aid to the farmer thru co-operation, always with the farmer as a part of the work.

Working along marketing condition betterment, for instance, the farm bureau federation and allied organizations have just concluded a conference in Chicago which is expected to build up the farm livestock interest all over the country. It has a national application of such effort as has, thru co-operative effort in Minnesota, bettered livestock marketing in South St. Paul inc tual dollar and cent returns to the Minnesota farmers who have shipped co-operatively and sold in South St. Paul 80 per cent of the Minnesota livestock marketed there.

This is one of the farm bureau activities comprising a large part of the state. Locally the farm bureaus have been just as useful within their field. In Dakota county, for instance, the farm bureau has improved farm credit conditions thru local bankers. In Polk county the farm bureau got the potato farmers together and saved them more than $5,000 on their purchases of paris green. In Koochiching county the farm bureau increased the use of dynamite to three carloads a year, saving over $5,000. Traverse county's farm bureau promoted tile drainage and helped out on the farm labor problem to the extent of hundreds of hired men each year.

Commends Judge Dibell

Tribune:

Thief River Falls, Minn.

Dear Sir:

Judge Homer B. Dibell, who was not listed at the June primary for Associate Justice of our supreme court, has the endorsement of the Republican State Central Committee.

Judge Dibell was for some years in the District bench. His experience covered a wide range of cases and was very successful. In 1913 he began his services with the Supreme Court. His work there has been of splendid character. His personal qualities as well as his legal attainments make him one of the strong members of the court and a valued public servant.

His name will appear near the bottom of the state white ballot without a party designation, the office being a judicial one.

It is important to call the attention of all voters, men and women alike, to this fact. The interests of good government require the re-election of Judge Dibell, and the State Central Committee asks all Republicans to lend their active personal efforts in his behalf.

Yours truly,
Republican State Central Committee.
By Chas. R. Adams, Chairman.

WHEN TO SELL POTATO CROP FARMER'S PROBLEM

Whether to dispose of his potato crop direct from the fields or to hold it for possible increase in prices is a problem which confronts the farmer every fall. On the one hand is the buyer offering figures based on the quantity and other conditions of the market, the lightness of money and a number of related conditions which may depress the price. On the other, he is confronted with the expense of storing, shrinkage in volume, possibility of rot and the uncertainty of the number of bushels of potatoes which will be carried over by farmers throughout the United States to be thrown on the market during the winter.

It is a problem that has to be decided because the crop is there. It is a problem that the farmer must decide for himself.

Prices are naturally lowest in October when the crop is just out of the ground. A study recently made by the Bureau of Markets of the United States department of agriculture covering the last 10 years, shows that the average price rises very slightly until the 1st of January, and then more rapidly until the 1st of March, another sharp advance taking place between April planting season and June.

These are only averages, however, and may be varied by other conditions which the farmer has to study largely for himself. Reasoning about future prices is unusually difficult at the present time.

A study of the general tendencies of the market, whether up or down, must be based on facts pertaining to the country as a whole. The supply may be less than usual in certain counties, but if the total crop is large the size of this total crop will have a tendency to lower prices even in this country of short production. Prices may be high in that country but they will not be so high as they would have been if the total production of the country had not been so large. That is, the conclusions drawn from the local and general information may be modified by local conditions in each section, but it remains true that each of these sections will be influenced by the up and down tendencies which move over the country as a whole. A grower should know the general situation in order to make proper allowances for local conditions and he should not only study the potato market but should consider the sweet potato and other food crops which may influence the demand and consumption of white potatoes. He must watch, too, the trend of general prices, especially food prices. If general prices fall decidedly, then the price of potatoes might be carried lower than the year's production would warrant.

In comparing prices of one year with those of another, allowance must be made for the rapid decrease during the last few years in the purchasing power of the dollar. For instance, $1.61 per bushel in 1919 and 80 cents in 1911 do not mean that potatoes were twice as valuable at the later date. The increase in price may have nothing to do with the potato business. It may have come from the general rise which increased the price of wheat, clothing and machinery as well as potatoes. The effects of the general increase in prices must be eliminated from the calculation.

Before attempting to analyze the relations between the figures of production and stocks on the one hand and prices on the other, it should be mentioned that potatoes are not exported to any great extent, seldom more than 1 per cent of the crop being carried out of the country. Neither are potatoes carried over from one season to another, as is the case with some crops. That is, the potato crop is practically all consumed in this country and each season's crop is a separate problem in itself.

This is one of the large potato years and the way in which the question of time of marketing is settled by the individual farmer means an immense sum of money in the gross returns from one of the nation's leading crops. The wise grower will study every phase of conditions and will utilize the aids which are furnished by the crop and market reports of the United States department of agriculture.

DROP IN GRAIN PRICES TURNS FARMERS TO G. O. P.

The policy put into effect by the Democratic administration which lifted the import duties and opened the American markets to a flood of Canadian grain is among the causes which will put Minnesota in the Republican column Nov. 2 by a huge majority. Convinced that the party which framed a tariff that will cost millions is not the party to be continued in charge of the nation as it faces the problems of today, Minnesota grain growers have swung to Harding and Coolidge almost unanimously. They are determined to bring about a return of Republican rule and restore the party which since its foundation has given protection to the farmer and his products thru the protective tariff.

To get what he wants at this time the farmer should not only select a Republican president, but should back him up with a Republican congress and the Republican state ticket, whose head, J. A. O. Preus, has pledged immediate and whole hearted assistance toward the solution of farm problems thru official encouragement of co-operative enterprises owned and operated by farmers.

As Mr. Preus recently said, "The thought for agriculture and its needs is now uppermost in the public mind" and he invited the farmers to submit to the next legislature a full and complete program of what they require.

Now is the time for the farmer to get what is coming to him. The Republican party, which has always recognized and protected farming as the country basic industry, is the best organized and most powerful and effective agency thru which to work.

WHOLESALER PREDICTS CLOTHING PRICE FALL

FORECAST OF GRADUAL REDUCTION AUTHORIZED BY NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

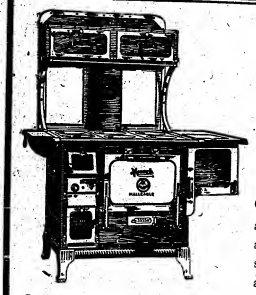
Chicago.—Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Wholesale Clothiers' association of Chicago, has forecast a reduction in clothing prices, which he said will be even more noticeable in spring goods.

Mr. Cahn asserted that manufacturers will make small profits this fall and asserted than many clothiers were foregoing profits and selling at cost. He predicted, however, that material costs would be lowered by spring and woolen mills have announced a cut of from 20 to 25 per cent for spring goods. With labor's co-operation in increased production he foresaw still further reductions in prices.

Mr. Cahn's statement, is was said, was authorized by the National Associatio nof Clothiers as the first authentic statement on the present clothing situation.



Mr. Cahn emphasized that the decline must be gradual, as a sudden slump freightens the retail buyer who reduces the amount of his orders. This cuts down production and a shortage of clothing results, Mr. Cahn said.

"Statement authorized by the National Association of Clothiers." Do you get it? The association authorized Mr. Cahn to say clothing would be cheaper by a stated amount and at a stated time. How do they know? Can they read the future, They do know. They control the price. Their statement admits it. When the people really become fully convinced that prices of commodities are controlled by the "higher ups" and greedy profiteers, they will in time do something about it. Please remember neither Coolidge nor Harding can do much to help us. We must organize economically.

Mr. Estlund made the statement at a recent goods roads meeting in Vasadale, Minn., and received great applause.

CALF CONTEST TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 5

PREPARATIONS UNDER WA[illegible] MOST IMPORTANT OF [illegible] COUNTY CONTESTS

The dairy calf contest wh[illegible] to be held in this city on Fri[illegible]ov. 5th, and which is being pro[illegible] by the First National bank of [illegible]ity, is growing in interest each [illegible]

The bank is making an [illegible]ctive offer to all contestants anc[illegible] which bas seldom been duplicated anywhere in the state. As a result, the entries promise to be of the best and interest to rank high. The movement is being conducted in connection with tbe Farm Bureau and it gives every indication at this time of being a winner. The time is short as there is just a week until the contest is to be held and contestants are reqnested to keep tbe date well in mind and to do their utmost to bring their entries up to the top notch of perfection.

A luncheon is to be given at the Evelyn Hotel to all club members by Mr. Hansen and in addition there will be fifty dollars given out as premium money. In addition to the premium money, Mr. Hansen is working to get the proper methods instituted in tbe county and as an inducement to get the proper system inaugurated he is loaning money to tbe dairymen of the county for the erection of a silo without cost to them. This is indeed constructive and should have a great influence on the part of the dairymen of the county in trying to bring tbeir herds up to a bigh standard.

All club members who exhibited at the eounty fair and others who have enrolled but did not exhibit should fit their animals in the best possible way for November 5th. The best five calves exhibited at this show will be sent to Crookston November 12 and 13 with all expenses paid for tbe member as well as the expenses of their calves. The two best from each county will be sent to the state show at St. Paul on November 17, 18 and 19. This is an ideal opporunity for club members to work for a free trip to the state contest where much in the way of valuable information will be secured.

The wedding took place at the bride's home near Hazel in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. J. B. Smith of this city was the officiating clergyman. The decorations were exceedingly tasteful and tbe repast left nothing to be desired. After the ceremony the young people left for Superior and will on their return, make their home at Grand Forks. ## TAXPAYERS ASSURED ON AMENDMENT

STATE SENATE GOES ON RECORD AS GUARANTEEING A CONSERVATIVE PROGRAM

Opposed to any road bond issues for new state construetion, a majority of the members of the Minnesota senate have gone on record as guaranteeing to the taxpayers of the statc the adoption of a conservative, common sense program upon passage next Tuesday of Good Roads Amendment No. 1. Senator L. H. Nord of International Falls, awake to the interests of farmers and workingmen in particular, polled the senate members on tbe subject

"Adequate—maintenaance to make every road a good road in advance of hard surfacing except where traffic is so heavy that gravel roads will not stand np," is briefiy the plan favored by the senators almost without exception.

The same senators, afte rstudying the plan during the last session of the legislature, state that they are satisfied that the new program can be carried out without bond issues. The statement is based upon estimates from engineers that $10,000,000 a year from automobile license fees and federal aid will provide good maintenance of every mile of trunk bighways and leave enough to grade and gravel 400 miles and bard surface 200 miles each year. The engineers show that will mean that the entire 7,000-mile system will be well graded, drained and graveled and more tban 1,500 miles will be hard surfaced where traffic requires, all in six years and witbout bond issues or the road tax increases which must come if Good Roads Amendment No. 1 fails to carry.

The senators now stand 60 in favor of and 2 against adoption of Amendment No. 1 and the majority willingly gave their views to assist towards its passage to "pull Minnesota out of the mud."

Concerning Your Telephone.

France has not as many telepbones as Chicago. Greece has not as many telepbones as some of the largest American office buildings. In twenty years the number of Bell manned and connected telephones in the Bell aystem has increased fourteen-fold. In 1880 there was one telepbone to 1000 persons; today there is a telephone to every nine persons. During the past year and a half more new telephonea were installed in American homes and offices than were in nse thruout Great Britain. America has only one-sixteenth of the world's population but nearly two-thirds of the world's telephoning is over the 24,000,000 miles of wire of the Bell system. The Bell system—that is, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. and associated companies, which in the extent of its public service has no counterpart anywhere, has been built out of the savings of bundreds of thousands of thrifty men and women.

Gets Car of Apples.

Chas. Fiterman has received another car of apples and is pntting them on the market at a fair and reasonable price. The apples are shipped in bulk, eliminating the expensive containers and barrels, and for thi reason Mr. Fiterman states they can be sold at a lower figure and he is giving the public the benefit of the saving. His advertisement appears on another page in this issue of the Tribune. Turn to it and note the bargains offered.

Ten Good Reasons to Vote "YES" on Good Roads

2. Counties and town will be relieved of tbe burden of building and maintaining the heavy-traffic highways.
3. With more than $15,000,000 a year released to them, tbey will be enabled to improve local roads.
4. A magnificent system of highways and roads will be constructed without any increase in general taxation.
5. Motor vehicle owners paying the cost will be more than reimbursed thru savings in npkeep, tires, gas, etc.
6. Minnesota will be enabled for the first time to take up and work out its road problems in a business-like manner.
7. Millions of dollars will be brought into the state every year by the added good rosds attraction for tourists.
8. Hundreds of millions will be added to the state wealtb thru reduced marketing costs and increased development.

10. Minnesota will get a wonderful road system withont tax increases in road tax levies—autos paying a just share.

LOCAL BANKER SEES LARGE VICTORY FOR REPUPLICANS IN APPROACHING ELECTION

C. L. Hanson, president of the First National Bank of this city, returned Wednesday morning after an extended trip of ten days thru tbe east, wbere be has been principally to feel out present conditions and to ascertain the sentiment along all lines.

The principal outstanding feature of Mr. Hansen's trip and the one which was brought forcibly to his attention was the sentiment of the public concerning the coming election. Mr. Hansen states that the country is strong for Harding and that on his entire trip he met only one man who was in favor of seeing Governor Cox elected to the presidency.

This opinion was gathered from the eastern states and shows how the wind blows with reference to the political situation. It is a very good indication of how the country is going to vote and in the opinion of Mr. Hansen, from the information gathered, the final result will be a landslide for Harding.

The present situation as it now exists is one that has been conceded by the Democrats and others for some time past with few exceptions and will undoubtedly have a direct inflnence on the vote of those who are not certain just where they stand and for whom they wish to cast their ballots.

An overwhelming Repnblican victory is the forecast from every state in the nation and is the general belief of those who are in closest touch with the aituation.

J. H. HAY ACTS FOR THE GOVERNOR

J. H. Hay, commisioner of agriculture for Minnesota, welcomed the commission members to the state in behalf of Governor Burnquist, wbo was out of the state.

Mr. Hay said the greatest problem with which commercial interests have to deal today is that of transportation. Prodnction, he said, was well able to deliver its end of the economic program. He told the commission members their deliberations were keenly appreciated by tbe people of Minnesota.—Tribune.

Prof. Hay is a handy man for all departments around the state house. We are certainly proud to see him making good in every way and on every occasion.

MUCH ACTIVITY RESULTING FROM CLUB LUNCHEON

YESTERDAY'S MEETING FULL OF INTEREST AND MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS UP

Oyster stew wa sthe attractive and tempting dish set before those attending the weekly noon day lunch at the Commercial Club yesterday and appeased the appetites in the good old fashion. The interest in tbe midday meetinga continuea to grow each week and undoubtedly when colder weather sets in the attendance will be even greater.

Following the meal a short business meeting was held, the secretary reporting that the Minnesota State Highway Improvement Association was agreeably surprised at the $900 sent in by the local commitee recently named by the club.

The secretary announced thet election returns would be furnished the club next Tuesday night by the Tribune and the news was gladly received by those present.

The matter of sending the Thief River band to Bemidjl with the local Legion post to the blg celebration there was bronght to the attention of the clnb, bnt no one present seemed sufficiently interested to advocate the move and the matter was dropped.

The federal government may before long appropriate the sum of $250,000 for peat experimentation purposes and H. W. Protzeller was named as a committee of one to place before Hon. Halvor Steenerson such information as would most likely be of value in securing for this city or immediate vicinity of whatever experiment station might be established The peat possibilities are almost unlimited and this city may yet become noted for the peat which some day may be shipped from here.

Dislocates Shonlder.

Chas. R. Penaluna is carrying his left arm in a sling as the result of having his left shoulder dislocated on Wednesday wben he was thrown to the sidewalk by a horse he was attempting to mount. The cause of the accident was due to a blanket falling under the horse'a feet; causing him to jump in the air just as Mr. Penaluna started to climb on board. As a result the tumble to the sidewalk will cause Mr. Penaluna inconvenience for a few weeks and will keep him on the shelf until the shoulder again rights itself.

Mrs. Harwood Visits City.

Mrs. Emma J. Harwood, editor and publisher of the Roosevelt Reporter, was in the city Tuesday. Mrs. Harwood has been out for the Republican State Central Committee, making speeches thru the central part of the state. She has had remarkable audiences, which indicates great interest in ber side of the argument. Mrs. Harwood is a very able woman. She is a scholar, a thinker and a splendid talker. She has rendered great service for the party during the present campaign. She relates many interesting and some amusing incidents. At one place, four young men—not boys, bnt men—had planned to annoy the speaker. Mrs. Harwood squelched three of them in a short time. The fourth continned to annoy the speaker in various ways. His principal stunt was to make faces. Can you imagine a full grown young man placed up in front and carrying out instructions by making faces at a lady? Can you beat it?

Women's Clnb Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Women's Club on Monday, Nov. 1st, under the lesdership of Mrs. Melgaard the seventh lesson on the study leaflet will be discussed.

A play entitled, "Voting" prepared by the League of Women Voters will be staged by the Community Girls. This play is educational and very amusing. A piano solo will be rendered by Miss May Bark. A full attendance of tbe club members is requested.

The meeting is open to everyone and an invitation is extended to sll, the women especially. Mr. Nelson will discuss the political situation from the workingmen's point of view.

DIRECTORS OF FAIR APPOINT SUPERINT'NDENTS

EACH DEPARTMENT TO BE ATTENDED TO BY ONE MAN—SAVE TIME AND MONEY

The directors of the fair association held their first meeting last evening at the Commercial Club rooms and much was accoplished with reference to the anagement of the fair for next year. Superintendents for each department were appointed and the work of the association outlined. Those appointed to act as superintendents for the different departments are: V. C. Noper, grounds and buildings; L. A. Lampert, concessions; Herbert Fuller, admissions; Daniel Shaw, police and traffic; Albert Johnson, agricultural; Fred Beerbower, live stock; Emil Griebstein, poultry.

These superintendents will have complete charge of these departments and will attend to all details in connection with the same. The next adjourned meeting, which is set for Saturday, Novemebr 13th, will be given over principally to the hearing of the budget worked out by the superintendents for eacb department. It is planned to work the entire fair next year on a budget system, eliminating much confusion and unnecessary time in bandling this work.

It was also recommeded at this meeting that tbe north fence, which runs along the Jefferson Highway, be taken down, as it blocks traffic in the winter months by large drifts of snow piling up and blocking the road. The president has recommended that the fence be removed and that the cost of erecting a wire fenee to take its place be secured and the work undertaken at once.

The selection of a secretary at the meeting last nigbt was laid over until a future meeting and nothing definite in this line is to be done at present.

New Lettering Process.

The Thief River Monumental Co. is now installing a line of machinery, called the "Scantlebury process," for the purpose of cutting letters and designs on granite monuments without the aid of chisels. This is the very latest word in modern monument shop equipment and will increase the capacity of the works to a considrable degree. Very few retail shops can nse this process because it requires a great supply of air, but owing to the large compressor used by the local granite works, they are able to use this process.

GIGANTIC PLANS FOR ENTIRE STATE

CONDITIONS OF MINNESOTA IMPROVING DAILY AND EXCELLENT PROGRAM PLANNED

Development of public, parochial and private educational institutions in Minnesota is being planned along sound financial lines. "Better roads and more adequate schools." This phrase seems paramount in nearly every county in Minnesota, judging from reports received from bankers and publishers for the weekly review of Minnesota enterprise prepared by the Merchants National Bank of St. Paul and the First & People's State Bank of this city.

Many of the utterances of Archbishop Austin Dowling, of St. Paul, made in eonnection with the campaign for a fund of $5,000,000 to improve and develop the educational resources of the diocese, are being repeated or indirectly referred to in other counties. A statewide campaign for $4,000,000 is being condueted for Carleton college of Northfield. Reports from upwards of 50 eounties have indieated that cities and county commissioners bave approved educational budgets which are considerably larger than any previously passed upon.

While it is undoubtedly true that development of educational resources in Minnesota was halted during the war, it is the opinion of bankers that many modern agencies have eontributed to an increased desire of parents living in cities as well as in rural districts to co-operate as effectively as possible in obtaining better schools and more of them. Many cities have reported a shortage of schools. Teachers thruout the state are reeeiving record salaries.

County reports received during the past ten days have not indicated any marked change in financial or agrieultural conditions. Marketing of hogs has been brisk in some sections, possibly influenced by stories of hog cholera in other sections of the northwest There have been numerous cattle and hog auctions, but bidding has been very conservative. Tight money conditions have been responsible for the lack of competitive bidding.

Marketing of cabbage crops has been well under pay. The crop was rather small and prices are not so high as last fall. Two pound potatoes have been on exhibition in many cities and village market centers. The potato crop was a bumper size but the sharp drop in prices proved a keen disappointment to growers.

Cement manufacturers in Iowa and other states have sent representatives thruout Minnesota to assure city officials, county commissioners and business men that the 1920 shortage will be remedied and that sufficient cement will be available to meet the needs of every description. The coal situation is somewhat improved, at least for the head of the lakes, according to the Duluth bank report. Two Harbors, which has a municipal dock, not only has an adequate supply but is publishing the fact that its residents will receive their quotas at bargain prices.

Reindeer meat has made its appearance in city meat markets. The meat was obtained from Alaska. Yellow Medicine eounty experimented sueeessfully with a peanut crop and the acreage probably will be increased in 1921. Husking machines were used by quite a number of corn growers this fall. Lyon county has become a leading fruit eenter and shipments have been made to dealers in several states.

Forest fires are practieally all extinguished. Heavy rains in the northern connties did the work. Damage included tbe destruction of a few hay crops. The north woods are attracting large numbers of hunters.

Minnesota's constantly increasing opportunities for homeseekers and investors were again reflected by the bankers' reports. A homesteader who came to Pennington county 18 years ago with sufficient funds to buy one horse and two cows sold a farm for $11,000 recently and has otber holdings of considerable valuc. In Le Sueur county a farmer estimated that his land which he originally obtained for $1,100 was worth at least $40,000. Another farmer in LeSueur county who atarted on a small scale paid $10,000 in Iowa for a prize boar.

Mild October weather caused many fruit trees to blossom and some reports stated that "lilac bushes were threatening to bloom." Indians living in the rice lake district north of Duluth have declared tbat many signs of nature forecast a mild, open winter.

Said fund shall be used for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the principal and interest of such bonds as may become due, appropriate it to said sinking fund and thereby guarantee the payment of said bonds at maturity.

Section 3. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the state of Minnesota inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing the issuance of bonds and the things hereinbefore authorized.

PURPOSE AND EFFECT OF AMENDMENT.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to establish and provide for the construction, improvement and maintenance of a system of trunk highways in the state of Minnesota to be known as "The Trunk Highway System." The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to establish and authorize the enactment of laws, providing for the construction, improvement and maintenance by the state of the trunk highways described in a general way in the amendment, such highways are to be more specifically and definitely located in a manner to be prescribed by law, but any such law must provide that in fixing a definite location of the various routes there shall not be any deviation from the routes in the terminii described in the routes set forth in the amendment, nor there shall be a deviation in the fixing of the routes from the various villages and cities named in the amendment, through which the routes are to pass.

If the amendment is adopted, the legislature will be thereby authorized to provide by law for the issuance and sale of the bonds of the state to raise money for the creation of a "Trunk Highway Fund" to be expended in the construction of the roads embraced in the trunk highway system. The legislature cannot, however, issue bonds in excess of an exceeding in amount of the par value thereof the sum of $10,000,000, nor can the aggregate of all outstanding such bonds ever exceed $75,000,000. Bonds cannot be sold for less than par and interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum.

The adoption of the amendment will also confer on the legislature authority to levy a tax upon motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways, and more onerous basis than other personal property is taxed. Moreover, all such tax will be credited to the Highway Sinking Fund, which is to be used to pay the bonds issued as above. Money in the Highway Sinking Fund not needed for the retirement of bonds is to be transferred to the Trunk Highway Fund. Motor vehicles taxed by any law passed by the legislature under the amendment, will not be subject to any other tax, except that a wheelage tax may be imposed on such vehicles by any borough, city or village, if they see fit to do so.

In case the proceeds of bonds issued is not sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the bonds, the legislature, in case of the adoption of the amendment, will be empowered to provide by law for the payment of all the taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet such deficit, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such Highway Sinking Fund any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

Chapter 531, Session Laws of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to section 7 of article VI of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 7. There shall be established in each organized county in the state a probate court, which shall be a court of record, and be held at such times and places as may be prescribed by law. It shall be held by one judge, who shall be elected by the voters of the county for the term of two years. In the county of Ramsey there shall be one additional judge of said court, and provision for his compensation shall be provided by law. He may appoint a clerk, unless one has been elected; but the legislature may abolish the office of clerk, by the electors of any county, of one clerk or more for any or all of such courts, whose powers, duties, term of office and compensation shall be prescribed by law. The probate court shall have jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons, and of minors under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction except as prescribed by this constitution."

The amendment simply proposes to substitute the word "one" for the word "two" so that the sentence prescribing the duration of the term of office of probate judges will, if the amendment is adopted, read as follows:

"it shall be held by one Judge, who shall be elected by the electors of the county for the term of four years."

The purpose of said amendment and its effect, if adopted, will be to make the term of office of judge of probate four years instead of two.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 3.

Chapter 537, Session Laws of the state of Minnesota for the year 1919, proposes an amendment to section 1 of article IX of the constitution of said state. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. All property shall be taxed upon the same class of subjects, except that the property of the state, municipal corporations, public school houses, burying grounds, public school houses, colleges, universities and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public libraries, and all property belonging exclusively to any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation; and personal property to a value not exceeding $200 for each household, individual or head of a family, may be exempted by law. Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation. Provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

DEFECTIVE PAGE

If amended said section will read as follows:

"Section 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, lunatic asylums, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for public purposes, may be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, utensils, implements and machinery and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs, to such an extent, in such manner as the legislature may by law prescribe. Taxes may be imposed on incomes, trades, pursuits and occupations which taxes may be graduated and progressive and the exemption of a reasonable amount of income from taxation may be provided, and such taxes may be in addition to taxes upon other classes of personal property so that the legislature may determine and provide that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and, provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

The purpose of said amendment is to empower the legislature to enact laws, to such an extent, and in such a manner, as it may determine, exempting from taxation household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs; and to authorize the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

The effect of the amendment, if adopted, will be to accomplish the purpose above indicated, to-wit: to authorize the enactment of laws by the legislature:

FIRST: Providing for the exemption from taxation, to such an extent and in such manner as the legislature may determine, of household goods, wearing apparel, agricultural products in the possession of the producer, tools, implements and machinery, and all real and personal property owned by county agricultural societies and used for holding agricultural fairs;

SECOND: Providing for the imposition of graduated and progressive taxes on incomes, privileges and occupations.

PROPOSED LAW RELATING TO THE TAXATION OF RAILROAD PROPERTIES.

Chapter 833, Session Laws of the state of Minnesota for the year of 1919, proposes an amendment to section 2236, General Statutes of Minnesota, 1913, and provides that said amendment shall be submitted to the people of the state for approval or rejection at the 1920 general election. Said section now reads as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situated within, or partly within this state, shall, during the year 1913 and annually thereafter, pay into the treasury of this state, in lieu of all taxes and assessments upon all property within this state, owned or operated for railway purposes, by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal to five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1913, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the State of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st next thereafter; and

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st, next preceding, and said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st next thereafter, and the payment of such sums at the times hereinfore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes upon the property and franchises so taxed.

The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation, until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized."

As amended as proposed it will read as follows:

"Section 2236. Every railroad company owning or operating any line of railroad situated within or partly within this state, shall, during the year 1913 and annually thereafter, pay into the treasury of the state, in lieu of all taxes upon all property within this state owned or operated for railway purposes, by such company, including equipment, appurtenances, appendages and franchises thereof, a sum of money equal of five per cent of the gross earnings derived from the operation of such line of railway within this state.

On or before August 15, 1921, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending June 30th, next preceding, and the said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on September 1st next thereafter; and

On or before February 15, 1914, and annually thereafter, each such railroad company shall make, according to law, a true and just return of all such gross earnings for the six months ending December 31st, next preceding, and said tax of five per centum thereon shall become due and payable to the state of Minnesota in manner provided by law, on March 1st next thereafter, and the payment of such sums at the times hereinfore set forth shall be in full and in lieu of all other taxes upon the property and franchises so taxed.

The lands acquired by public grant shall be and remain exempt from taxation, until sold or contracted to be sold or conveyed as provided in the respective acts whereby such grants were made or recognized."

Under the present law the gross earnings tax paid by railroad companies is in lieu of all other taxes and assessments, upon property owned or operated by railroad companies, and will be, if proposed amendment such tax will be in lieu of taxes only and railroad companies will become subject to assessments for local improvements in the same way that private persons and corporations, not paying a gross earnings tax, are subject to such assessments.

The purpose of said amendment is, and its effect, if adopted, will be to subject railroad companies, paying gross earnings taxes, to the payment of assessments for local improvements.

Yours respectfully,
CLIFFORD L. HILTON,
Attorney General.

A Statement to the Voters.

I have been informed that Mr. Soterdahl, who is a candidate for Representative from this District, has on several occasions stated that I supported Senate File No. 262 for a consideration. I brand this as a falsehood of the rankest kind and refer the voters to page 1079 of the House Journal for 1919, where the vote on this bill is recorded, and which shows that I did not vote for the bill at all, while Mr. Soterdahl did. There was no opposition to the measure in the House and it seems absolutely ridiculous that anyone should be accused of receiving a consideration for supporting a measure that was not opposed, even had I voted for it. I cannot but question Mr. Soterdahl's motive in circulating this absurd report, and hereby take the liberty to ask Mr. Soterdahl to explain, 1, why he vote to kill the primary election law; 2, why did he vote for the so-called "Public Be Damned" law? 3, why he voted against state insurance and for the Workmen's Compensation act and now claims to favor state insurance? Signed.

MAKES BIG HAUL OF BOOZE

Last Sunday considerable excitement was created by the discovery of a quantity of booze in the woods west of town by some children while on their way to Sunday school. Constable Ass was notified, who got busy and notified Sheriff Rise. Two sacks of booze were moved during the day from where they were seen during the morning. In the evening, however, two sacks containing booze were again discovered and along about daybreak the officers discovered considerable more, something like ten cases being taken to Rosean by Sheriff Rice Monday morning. We also heard later that another "plant" had been discovered, but the booze runners managed to keep that out of the hands of the officers. Booze runners are not having as easy sledding now as they had awhile ago. Their habits and tricks are being discovered and some of these fine days these law breakers will get it where the chicken got the ax. Prohibition is the law of the land now and it does not pay in the long run to be a law breaker.—Greenbush Tribune.

REPUBLICAN CHANCES

The 48 states have a total of 531 electoral votes. A majority necessary to the choice of a president is 266. Because the drift of sentiment in the country at the present time is unmistakably toward the Republican party it is much easier to figure a Republican victory on paper than to figure one for the Democrats. It is always easier to figure with the drift than against it, as every politician knows. Some times of course such figuring is misleading. Yet there are certain rock bottom conditions that can be taken into account with safety, even in advance of election, says a Chicago writer on the situation The Democrats, he says, have a solid rock foundation in the solid south, in addition to which they will carry a few other states, just how many is not certain, but not enough, as the case now stands, to menace the election of Harding. The estimate which follows gives them four—New Mexico and Arizona in the southwest and Utah and Nevada—all of these, it should be said, are claimed for Harding, but seemingly with not enough detailed proof, at this moment, to make the claims convincing. With the solid south they give Cox 149 electoral votes.

On the Republican side of the ledger, as against the 16 states credited to Cox, are put down 25 states as being rock bottom for Harding. Ohio is in the list, but if its 24 votes were taken out and given to Cox there would still be 286 for the Republicans or a majority of 20. The 13 votes of Minnesota might also be taken out without affecting the result.

In the doubtful list for the present are placed seven states, Colorado, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Montana and West Virginia. That does not mean a Republican estimate and that these sttes lean toward Cox; it simply means that, for the purposes of the estimate, they are not counted as leaning either way. Harding will in all probability carry four of the seven—Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. Harding has a better chance than Cox in one of the other three—Missouri, and Cox's chances are better in Montana and Colorado. If there is to be a Republican landslide, Harding will carry all seven and perhaps Utah, Nevada and New Mexico, credited in this estimate to Cox, according to the Chicago writer.

Speaking of the big Republican rally Monday evening, with Mrs. Bishop and Mrs. Clark as headliners, in the Minnesota campaign we can see the women will have the last word.

We sincerely trust the good women of Thief River Falls will make a record in the matter of voting. By voting, you help your town, your state and your nation. The voting right has been given to you. To be a real citizen you must vote. Vote and be proud of it.

The ladies have invited Hon. D. P. O'Neill to deliver an address at the big political love feast at the Auditorium Monday evening. The genial Daniel will deliver the goods as he always does. Dan is a Republican, an orator and a Lord Chesterfield among the ladies. We will all be there to see and hear our honored townsman and we will not be disappointed.

On Monday evening at the Auditorium, Mrs. J. M. Bishop, of this city, will address a Thief River Falls audience on the pending political issues, state and national. Mrs. Bishop is one of the best platform orators in the state. During the past three months she has been engaged with the state central committee of Minnesota and has been one of the real managers and planners of the campaign. Her book on rules of voting and information for women voters has been pronounced the most useful document the kind in circulation. Mrs. Bishop was at the national Republican convention, when Harding and Coolidge were nominated. She was at the state convention when Preus and Collins were nominated. She helped make the Republican state platform. She has been to Marion, Ohio, and in the Harding home as a guest. She has complete information on all the important issues of the campaign, accurate up to the minnte and correct information. She is our neighbor and an honored citizen of the old home town. She is coming from St. Paul to tell us all about it and we will all show our appreciation by attending.

President Wilson complains that the League of "Notions" has been made a party issue. The league might be all right, but Wilson claims he made it and that alone is enough. If ever a great nation was deceived and buncoed, the man who "kept us out of war" and now refuses to sign the peace treaty has been to us both bunk and bunco. The closing days of the campaign brings us the doleful news that the President has invited a great audience of league highbrows to an audience and has addressed them again, to the effect that Article X is "The Heart." That the European Alliance Treaty of Versailles is paramount to any issue, any party, the interests of any government of nation, and that the candidacy of no man (Cox?) may be thought of or considered in the election when the "solemn referendum" is pending. In this address, Cox is not mentioned. No appeal is made for Jimmy or the success of the ticket. The Democratic National Committee has given up hope of any possible chance of success. The betting in New York on Harding is seven to one and no takers. In Minnesota the only question about the Democratic vote it as to where it will go, to Preus or Shipstead.

* It is not necessary for the women of Thief River Falls to register in order to vote November 2. *

At the Auditorium Monday evening several local people will have a word to say. It is going to be a regular home coming good fellowship gathering. Mrs. J. M. Bishop, the principal speaker, will divide time with Mrs. Ida Sparks Clark. Mrs. Clark has lived for a short time in Minnesota. Before coming to Minnesota she lived for many years in North Dakota and knows all about conditions there under the Townley leadership and will tell it as it is. Mrs. Clark is an intelligent woman, has a good voice, a pleasing manner and tells in a plain, honest way the effects of Townley control in North Dakota. She offends no one, bnt makes her appeal based on first hand knowledge and facts. It is hoped to have here on this occasion Mr. Moore of the Americanization League. At any rate, at least three speakers will be present. The band will be out. This meeting is planned by the Women's Republican Club. Every club member will bring her family and neighbors and the men are all expected to come. It's going to be some meeting. Come early to secure a good seat.

No vote is the same as a vote "No" against Good Roads Amendment No. 1. Give yourself the benefit of any doubt and vote "Yes."

MINNESOTA STOCK WINS HONORS AT WATERLOO

Dairy Cattle Congress Bigger and Better Than Ever

(Northwest Farmstead.)

The Dairy Cattle Congress this year at Waterloo, Ia., came up to all expectations and perhaps a little better from the standpoint of the number and quality of dairy cattle entered. It was without question the best show of dairy cattle ever held at Waterloo.

Every year the fame of Waterloo as a center for good dairy cattle reaches a little farther and this year as in previous years, the crowds were made up of enthusiasts for good dairy cattle representing all parts of the world.

Last year the management decided to conduct the International Belgian Horse Show in connection with the dairy show. This year there were quite a few high quality horses entered but the horse show did not compare in number to that of last year. Many of the eastern exhibitors were unable to attend, due partly to the transportation facilities for getting their stock shipped. There were no exhibitors of horses from Minnesota, the majority of exhibitors being from Iowa, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana.

Holstein Show Strong.

In the dairy cattle show the Holsteins attracted the most attention, the exhibit being the largest from the standpoint of the number entered, and the quality was far superior to any previous show held at Waterloo, and, according to Judge H. C. Davis, of Yakima, Wash., it was the best group of Holsteins that he had ever seen assembled at one show.

Holsteins were entered from four states, the states and number of exhibitors being as follows: Minnesota, 16; Wisconsin, 20; Kansas, 11 and Iowa, 13. The Holsteins representing Minnesota were selected from the following herds: Grahamholm Farms, Rochester; Marlow & Randall, Mankato; Mayowood Farm, Rochester; A. J. Lashbrook, Northfield; H. W. Schroeder, Owatonna; John B. Irwin, Minneapolis; Victor Lohman, Lake Elmo; Martig Bros., West Concord; Mineral Springs Stock Farm, Savage; Egil Boeckmann, White Bear Lake; H. G. Miller, Northfield; N. P. Hanson, Detroit; E. G. Schroeder, Moorhead; C. L. Spaulding, Warren, and Minnesota Holstein Co., Austin.

Minnesota Breeders Prominent.

Last year the Minnesota Holstein breeders were successful in carrying away the majority of the honors and certainly had just cause for feeling proud, but the competition last year was not nearly so strong as this year. This year their winnings surpassed the record made last year and were made under much stronger competition. There was a total of $3,084.00 offered in prize money for Holsteins, of which Minnesota breeders won $1,363.00, very close to 50% of all the money offered.

Five banners were offered, three for grand championships and two for premier awards. All five went to Minnesota breeders. The Minnesota Holstein Co., Austin, received the two banners for exhibitor winning most money and exhibitor winning most money for animals bred by self.

In the bull class of 3 years and under 4, Johanna Glenda Lad, owned by the Mayowood Farm, Rochester, Minn., was easily the winner and later in competing for the grand championship was awarded the honors over Johanna Bonheur Champion 2nd, the bull exhibited by the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

In the bull class, 2 years and under exhibited by H. W. Schroeder, Owatonna, Minn., was first, winning over 3, Sir Hengerveld Pietertje Ormsby, the bull exhibited by the state hospital, Clarinda, Iowa. Sir Hengerveld Pietertje Ormsby clearly illustrates what the breeders should aim for in breeding Holstein cattle. This bull is not only a show animal, but is also backed by world's record production.

The only championship honor that was lost to Minnesota was that of the junior champion bull. This was won by C. W. McCoy, Valley Falls, Kan., on U. S. Korndyke Homestead Segis.

A Minnesota Grand Champion.

In the 4-year-old and under 5 cow class, DeKol Albin Princess 2nd, owned by N. P. Hanson, Detroit, Minn., was easily the winner and later on, when competing for the senior championship honors, was given the ribbon over Doctje Nellie Concadra, the cow exhibited by Aitken Bros., of Waukesha, Wis. She was then awarded the grand champion banner after defeating the junior champion, Grahamholm Corncopia Segis Lad.

Zelia Rose Ormsby, also exhibited by Mr. Miller, and Miss Canary Lunde Korndyke, were second and third respectively in the heifer class, 2 years and under 3.

Par Ogis Inka Homstad, owned by the Minnesota Holstein Company, was second in the heifer class, 18 months and under 2 years. Third honors were won by Mankato Ormsby Pietertje, exhibited by Marlow & Randall, Mankato, Minn.

In the heifer class, 12 months old under 18, composed of heifers not in milk, Grahamholm Corncopia Segis Lad, was given first honors. She later carried away the junior championship but lost to the 4-year-old DeKol Albin Princess 2nd, for grand championship.

In the heifer calf class, 6 months and under 12, Miss Inka Homestead, owned by the Minnesota Holstein Co., was first. Ondine Gretchen Colantha, owned by Mayowood Farm, Rochester, was third and Lizetta Beauty Segis Korndyke 2nd, was fourth. She is owned by John Grosser of Meriden, Minn.

Queen Segis Piebe Merceder, owned by C. L. Spalding, Warren, Minn., was third in a class of 15 heifer calves under 6 months.

In a class of cows having an official record begun at 5 years or over, South Side Inka DeKol, owned by the Minnesota Holstein Co., was first. In the breeders' young herd, the Minnesota Holstein Co. carried away first honors. Marlow & Randall, Mankato, Minn., received the third place. The Minnesota Holstein Co. also received first on the best calf herd and second on get of sire.

Minnesota Holstein breeders received second, third and fourth places in the class of produce of cow, as well as first on advanced registry cow and first on best dairy herd.

In the state herd Minnesota received first honors, Wisconsin second, Kansas third and Iowa fourth. The state herd was composed of 10 animals, the selections being made from the winners in the different classes.

There were approximately 48 Holsteins from Minnesota, representing 16 herds. Many of the breeders were represented by only one of two animals.

The barn where the Holsteins were housed was a busy place after the judging was over as well as before it started. Men could be seen scrutinizing one animal and then walking across the barn to see another from some other state that was to be entered in the same class, to compare them and give their reasons for placing one over the other.

It was also interesting to hear men from the various states discuss a certain class. As soon as one man could finish giving his explanation of why he thought the Wisconsin bull would win, some one from Iowa would tell where the bull from Iowa was much superior to any of the others, and then perhaps a man from Kansas would tell his tale and finally some Minnesota booster would happen along and tell them they were all wrong, the bull from Minnesota was the only one worth discussing.

Ayrshires Increase.

The Ayrshires, although greatly outnumbered by the other breeds, staged a very good show. There were but four exhibitors, showing a total of nearly 70 head. Most of the honors were won by the Adam Seitz herd, Waukesha, Wis. The senior champion bull was Cavalier's Lord Roseberry, owned by Adam Seitz. The junior and grand champion honors were awarded Cavalier's Sterry Redman, also owned by Mr. Seitz.

Guernseys Looks Good.

Twenty herds were represented in the Guernsey class, eight of which were from Minnesota. The 12 head representing Minnesota were sent as a state herd. Although the Minnesota Guernseys were not as successful in winning honors as their black-and-white friends, they deserve much credit for their showing, considering the competition they met from the old established show people from Iowa and Wisconsin.

In the cow class 4 years and under 5, Suds of Skillet Creek, owned by E. R. Frizzel, Hopkins, Minn., captured the first honors. Judge J. B. Fitch, Manhattan, Kan., placed the awards.

Jerseys.

In the Jersey class some excellent individuals were brought out. The seven exhibitors came from five states, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, Colorado and Missouri.

Fashionable Fern, Lad, the bull shown by Longview Farms, Lees Summit, Mo., was easily the best individual in the senior division. He lost the grand champion honors to the junior champion, Wolff's Chieftan 2d, a bull from the same herd.

The female classes brought out real competition. The same results were obtained as in the bull classes, the senior champion cow, Westfield Girl, entered by A. M. McClenahan, Greely, Colo., lost to the junior champion, Raleigh's Miriam, owned by Longview Farms, for the grand championship.

Prof. J. A. McLean, Vancouver, B. C., did the judging.

Brown Swiss.

This year brought out the best show of Brown Swiss cattle that has ever been shown at Waterloo. The breeders of these cattle are certainly making good headway as many of the individuals shown of this breed were just as typy and dairy looking as anything a person would want. Some of the entries were plain, but taking the show straight thru it was very good. There were 78 head, shown by five exhibitors.

Howard C. Barker, Tiffin, Ohio, did the judging.

Venus of 18,000 B. C. Drawn on Bone.

Paris.—The first known representation of the human form has been discovered in the caves of Lolombiere, near Poncin. It was scratched with flint on bone and is as exquisite a drawing as any representation of Venus. It is 20,000 years old. The drawing is being shown by Dr. Mayet a lecturer of Lyons university, who discovered it, and shows a woman kneeling before a man in a graceful posture.

The American Legion and Politics.

Political activities of various parties and candidates make proper a restatement of the attitude of the American Legion toward politics. Section 2 of Article 2 of the national constitution, and the same section and article of the department constitution, reads as follows:

"The American Legion shall be absolutely non-political and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles, or for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment. No candidate for or incumbent of a salaried elective public office shall hold any office in the American Legion or in any department or post thereof."

While a candidate may, if he deems it proper and in good taste, refer to his membership and activities in the American Legion in presenting his qualifications for office to the voters, any attempt to use the American Legion organization directly or indirectly for the circulation of campaign material or of literature intended to influence voters, or for any direct appeal to American Legion members as such to support a candidate because of his membership in the Legion, is in violation of this constitutional provision.

While the American Legion is absolutely non-political, this does not mean that its members should not be interested in politics. Every member "shall perform his full duty as a citizen, according to his own conscience and understanding." (Sec. 3, Article 3, national and state constitutions.)

The "full duty" of a citizen includes participation in elections and the party or other political machinery which names the candidates who are presented to the voters, in accordance always with the individual's conscience and understanding.

The American Legion is interested in certain principles and policies, such as legislation in behalf of the disabled, war risk insurance, adjusted compensation, soldiers' preference, the military policy of the United States, Americanization work, punishment of slackers, instruction in civics, patriotism and American history in all elementary schools. Its policies are set forth in the American Legion Weekly of October 15 and in the proceedings of the department convention at Duluth.

It is not only proper but desirable that ex-service men and women and especially members of the American Legion in considering the qualifications of candidates for office, consider their record and declared attitude toward these policies and principles for which the American Legion stands, and which can only be carried out by the selection of public officials who will make such principles and policies effective, either by the enactment of necessary legislation or by the sympathetic administration of existing laws.

BRYAN LAMBASTS COX, WILSON AND WETS

Progressive Element Submerged, Reactionaries in Saddle, the Commoner Avers.

Lincoln, Neb.—William Jennings Bryan again emphasized the fact that in the present campaign he is a good deal of a free lance and bemoans what he declares is increasing evidence that the progressives have no chance in the Democratic party this year.

In a recent issue of the Commoner, Mr. Bryan, while declaring his continued allegiance to the Democratic party, lets it be known that he refuses to be bound by party ties under existing circumstances.

Mr. Bryan maintains that the masses of the Democratic party are progressive whenever a line can be drawn between the two elements, but right how they have no titular leader whom they can follow.

Taking a rap at President Wilson and inferentially at Governor Cox, he says: "The administration presented no economic issue upon which a division can be made. Those who spoke for the president made the endorsement of the treaty without reservations the dominant abiding faith. On this nothing could be done or said that could in any way reflect upon the administration or as any suggestion of improvement. At San Francisco the delegates who were willing to trade the constitution and the ten commandments for a glass of beer were just as willing to let Wall street have its own way on every subject. A man who will take the side of the liquor traffic against the homes of the land is not likely to take a firm stand in favor of any righteous cause or against any other form of oppression"

One Man's Experience

One day a man came to the bank and told us confidentially that he had a chance to buy some shares of stock in a manufacturing concern near Chicago and that it looked good to him. But he wante dour advice.

Of course we urged a careful investigation so we wrote a letter to the First National Bank in the town where the factory was located, asking for the information needed.

That bank wrote us to let the stock in this company alone because its affairs had been seriously mismanged and that failure was almost certain before many weeks. A few weeks later they went broke.

So our patron did not lost his money. We often help some patron with problems like these.

More Light on New Railroad Rates

With the new rates, we can attract capital and give the service to your community to which you are entitled. Yet to the individual or individual family this rate increase is inconsequential.

To the public, these rate advances mean ample transportation for manufactured articles and products of the field, resumption of building activities and local improvements as well as a gradual lowering in the cost of commodities due to plentiful supply. Grain and foods of all kinds will reach points of purchase instead of being stored in elevators and warehouses.

Aside from the activities of so-called profiteers, the rate advance should result in more normal prices. We cannot govern the profiteer, but we can make his job harder by keeping the markets open and the supply of food stuffs plentiful.

That is what we will do now with the improved facilities made possible by our increased income. It cannot happen over night—the task is too great. There is much to be done. The Great Northern Railway will do its part: we ask the co-operation of all so that our work may be accomplished more quickly and your community benefited the sooner.

Minnesota State Bonns.

The following information has been issnd to show the present status of bonus claims, after preliminary survey by the chairman of the bonus investigating committee and the department commander of the American Legion:

Present Status— Claims received, 110,000; claims not yet received, 1,500; total, 111,500. Claims approved and paid, 80,000; claims approved, not paid, 35,000; claims being investigated, 25,000; claims not yet received, 1,500; total, 111,500.

Promptly as unpaid claims are approved for payment the bonus board has agreed to notify the claimants to that effect. This will enable claimant, to be as desirous to secure co-operation of some bank in securing payment.

A request for additional information will be mailed applicant if such information is required. In the meantime applicant should not retard the work of approving claims by inquiries. Failure to receive notice of approval or request for additional information simply means that claim has not been reached for investigation and approval or disapproval. Requests for additional information should be answered promptly and fully. Thousands of claims are being held up because of claimants' failure to give necessary information in spite of repeated requests from the bonus board.

Cause of delay in payment of approved unpaid claims is the fact that funds are not available because the interest rate on bonus bonds provided by the bonus law is so low that the bonds cannot be sold at par and the state is not permitted to sell the bonds at a discount.

The American Legion state convention recommended that the next legislature raise the rate of interest so that bonus bonds can be sold and that interest be paid on claims from August 1, 1920, (date when payment ceased) to date of payment of bonus. It did not approve any plan for asking claimants to discount their bonus claims.

Banks in many communities are buying bonus bonds at a sacrifice on condition that the money be used to pay bonus claimants in their communities the full amount of their bonus claims.

TITAN 10-20: World standard, most popular of all tractors. Equipped with economical slow speed engine; operates on kerosene. Built for three plows; equally satisfactory at belt and drawbar work.

President of France Pays Tribute.

Europe Honors the Titan

The Italian government some time ago purchased many American tractors to be sold to farmers in an effort to stimulate food production. Of these thousands were made by the International Harvester Company. We are now informed that not one International Harvester tractor remains unsold, but that government still has on hand 500 of one kind, 250 of another, 475 of another and 200 of still another make.

Furthermore, Italy could have sold a thousand more International tractors had they been available. Dispatches state that the Italian government, being very desirous of disposing of the less popular remaining tractors, is offering them at reduced prices.

There are factors of quality, reliability and economy in International Harvester tractors which give them leadership the world over.

The 10-20 Titan tractors are cheaper today than before the war. A written guarantee is given with each tractor sold now to the effect that providing a decline in price should take effect before next season, a refund of such decline in price will be made to each one buying a 10-20 Titan tractor, so no one could wish for a better and more fair and square deal—because of the fact that the 10-20 Titan tractors are cheaper today than before the war; an advance in price is quite possible before next year. Therefore buy today the best tractor at the best price and the best proposition.

ENTIRE REPUBLICAN TICKET GIVEN LARGEST MAJORITY IN HISTORY OF PARTY

Landslide to Solid South Over 7,000,000 Plurality

G. O. P. Breaks Into Harding Receives

It was a genuine Republican landslide. Senator Harding has swept the nation and with him have been carried into office substantial Republican majorities in the senate and the house. Even candidates for state, county, township and city offices throughout the great range of states carried by the Republicans have been greatly benefited and many carried into office by the tremendous Republican victory.

The expected happened. Harding's victory was anticipated by practically all intelligent observers. There were men and women who wanted Cox to win (the returns show that there were some at least) but it was hard to find anyone who expected him to win.

There is a big task ahead for the new president. There are problems, harsh ones, large ones, difficult ones, to be handled by Mr. Harding. The problem of international relations and foreign affairs is not an easy one. Mr. Harding will have the task of securing changes in the league of nations so that it will appear to justify his position in the campaign favorable to an "association of nations" when he leads America into it. He will feel bound to make a showing in this direction even if it be a superficial one rather than real. Perhaps the domestic problems will be even more difficult. The industrial problem is a difficult one. The problem created by the many groups and classes now existent in America is a large and complicated one. There are of course business problems of finance and taxation which do not appear as difficult as the industrial and class problems.

The great Republican victory has placed the presidential office, the senate and the house in complete control of the Republican party. There will therefore be complete and undivided responsibility upon the Republican party for the conduct of national affairs. This situation will be conducive to the successful carrying out of party measures and the party program.

It is the general expectation that Mr. Harding will name a strong cabinet. He has undoubtedly plenty of exceedingly able men in the Republican ranks from whom to choose.

The Republicans will have an easy working majority in the next senate, practically complete returns from Tuesday's elections assured.

With senatorial races in two states —Nevada and Arizona—still in doubt, Republican successes in twenty contests increased their seats to 54, while ten Democratic victories gave them a total of 40 seats, with two remaining in doubt.

The following were elected to the senate:

Alabama, Oscar W. Underwood (long term), Democrat; Thomas J. Heflin (short term), Democrat; Arkansas, in doubt; Arkansas, T. H. Carraway, Democrat; California, Samuel Shortridge, Republican; Colorado, S. D. Nicholson, Republican; Florida, Duncan H. Fletcher, Democrat; Georgia, Tom E. Watson, Democrat; Idaho, F. O. Gooding, Republican; Illinois, William B. McKinley, Republican; Indiana, James E. Watson, Republican; Iowa, A. B. Cummins, Republican; Kansas, Chas. Curtis, Republican; Kentucky, J. C. W. Beckham, Democrat; Louisiana, Edward Bronssard, Democrat; Maryland, O. E. Weller, Republican; Missouri, Selden Spencer, Republican; Nevada, doubtful; New York, James W Wadsworth, Republican; North Carolina, Lee S. Overman, Democrat; North Dakota, E. F. Ladd, Republican, nonpartisan league; Ohio, Frank B. Willis, Republican; Oklahoma, Scott Ferris, Democrat; Oregon, G. E. Chamberlain, Democrat; South Carolina, Ellison D. Smith, Democrat; South Dakota, Peter Norbeck, Republican; Utah, Reed Smoot, Republican; Vermont, W. T. Dillingham, Republican; Virginia, Carter Glass, Democrat; Washington, Wesley L. Jones, Republican; Wisconsin, Irvin Lenroot, Republican; New Hampshire, George Moses, Republican; Connecticut, Frank Brandegee, Republican; Pennsylvania, Boise Penrose, Republican.

The returns from the state on congressmen are incomplete at this time but it is certain that the Republicans will have a working majority of over one hundred.

In Minnesota Volstead from the Seventh district is winner by nearly 2,000 plurality and Steenerson in the Ninth district will be elected by a safe plurality.

LEGION BOOKS EXTRA FINE ATTRACTION FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12

November 12 is to be a big day in local circles as one of the really high class attractions of the season will appear here under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion. The Bel Canto Quintette, headed by Ida Hagen Pitman, dramatic soprano, has been giving universal satisfaction and is certain to make a hit with the people of Thief River Falls.

Four of the members are Scandinavians and will give several selections in that language. With the company is Hazel Bryngelson, an impersonator of unusual ability; Edna Lee, violoncello; Vera Andrus, flutist, and Fern Van Bramer, harpist, all of whom are artists of note and who bear the reputation of being the best possible to secure.

TRIP TO BEMIDJI NOVEMBER 11 SEEMS CERTAIN

SALE OF TICKETS PICKING UP LAST FEW DAYS AND SPECIAL TRAIN SEEMS SURE

Elmer J. Eklund post of the American Legion is making preparations for the trip to Bemidji on November 11 to help that city celebrate Armistice day.

It is believed at this time that there will be sufficient tickets sold to insure the running of a special train, and after much deliberation the members of the local post have decided to make a desperate attempt to secure enough people interested in the matter to secure the train. G. Howard Smith, secretary of the local post is receiving reservations by mail from out of town parties and his advice to all those from out of town is to mail their remittance of $3.75 to him in order that there will be reservations made for those desiring to make the trip.

The Commercial Club at their noon meeting yesterday decided to send a committee of three along with the local boys to invite Bemidji to this city next year and they also are going to appoint a committee of three to help the local members sell the tickets about town.

A proposal to hold such a celebration at some town in the district each year will also be part of the job of the committee from the Commercial Club and the designation of this town, that is to hold the celebration is to be announced each year at the meeting in advance so that there will be plenty of time to prepare and make the necessary arrangements for the celebration.

There is little question in the minds of the members of the local post but that there will be sufficient tickets sold. The post at Bemidji has offered to stand upwards of two hundred dollars of the expense of bringing the special train and the sale of tickets will undoubtedly be sufficient to take care of the balance of the expense. It is hoped to sell enough so that there will be no reason to call on the Bemidji post.

Fire Wednesday Night

The fire department was called out about 1 o'clock Wednesday night to quench a fire in the alley just off Knight avenue. Mrs. Chas. Peterson, 714 Knight avenue, noticed the fire and turned in the alarm. The fire started from ashes that had been thrown into a wooden barrel setting the barrel on fire and endangering buildings in the immediate neighborhood. A high wind was blowing and it might have resulted in a serious conflagration but for the prompt arrival of the fire department. Mrs. Peterman threw dirt on the blaze and held it in check until the department arrived. Fire Chief Midderigh wishes the attention of the public called to the fact that it is unlawful to throw ashes all over the neighborhood, and especially is it unlawful to place burning ashes in a wooden barrel.

Music Section to Meet.

The music section of the Women's Club will meet on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, at 8:00 at the home of Mrs. G. Halvorson on LaBree avenue. A fine musical program is being prepared and all who contemplate joining this section will please come prepared with a current event.

West Side Mission.

Rev. N. E. Carlson will preach in West Side Mission church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Evening services at 8 o'clock.

CALF CONTEST ON TODAY IN FULL BLAST

INQUIRIES BEING RECEIVED BY STATE OFFICIALS AS TO THE PURCHASE OF REAL ESTATE

Pennington county's calf contest, which is on today, is one of the interesting exhibits of the year and has been instrumental in bringing exhibits from every corner of the county. The exhibits are all high grade and are sure to commend admiration from every point. The judges in today's contest will find they have as fine a bunch of calves to judge as has ever been brought together.

The entries include all members who participated in the sheep contest of last year and every member of a year ago who exhibited in the sheep contest has entered the calf contest this year.

In connection with the calf contest the Citizens Bank of this city is holding a sheep contest and the entries are equally as heavy as last year.

The winners in the calf contest will receive fifty dollars, in prizes which the First National Bank of this city is offering. In addition a banquet is being given by the bank to all entries, which will be held at the Hotel Evelyn. The First National Bank is responsible for the exhibit and is doing its utmost to bring about better conditions in the raising of stock in Pennington county.

The bank is furnishing money for the erection of silos to dairymen of the county at no cost and this should be sufficient inducement to all interested parties and be the means of the erection of several additional silos in the county. The movement is noteworthy of mention and shows the enterprising spirit of the First National Bank.

Complete details concerning the exhibit of calves and sheep in the contest and the winners will be published in Tuesday's issue of the Tribune.

Hading Not Exultant.

Marion, O., Nov. 3.—Senator Harding and a few personal friends received the returns at the Harding home. Near midnight when his advisors told him that his election was certain and he was importuned to make a public statement, he said:

"Assuming that the early returns are wholly dependable, I do not hesitate to say that I am pleased, of course, I am happy to utter my gratitude. It is a reverent expression of confident Americanism, and a national call to the Republican party.

"It is all so serious, the obligations are so solemn that instead of exulting I am more given to prayer to God to make me capable of playing my part and that all these calls to responsibility may meet the aspirations and expectations of America and the world.

"I am sure the people who have voted the Republican ticket will understand my feeling that I should make no unstudied statement of policies at this time, beyond the expression made throughout the campaign."

POULTRY SHOW TO BE HELD IN THIS CITY SOON

DATES SET FOR NOVEMBER 22, 23 AND 24—MUCH INTEREST IS MANIFESTED.

The fourth annual poultry exhibition of Pennington county will be held on November 22, 23 and 24 this year.

The exhibition will be held in the auditorium and from the interest being manifested at the present time the exhibit will be one of the best since the organization was formed.

The exhibition last year was a humdinger and the exhibits were unusually fine. The officers of the association expressed themselves at the time as being highly pleased with the results and only hoped the association could do as well every year. This year they are to do equally as well if not better and the exhibits will no doubt run much larger than last year.

The Pennington County Poultry Association is a member of the American Poultry Association and will hold its show under the rules and in accordance with the 1915 edition of the standard of perfection. At this show will be offered by the American Poultry Association one of its handsome special medals for the best cockerel in a group to consist of the American, Asiatic, Mediterranean, English, Polish, Hamburg, French, Game and Continental classes. The Tribune election returns Tuesday evening, which were received at the Commercial Club, met with the approval of the public and great interest was manifested thruout the evening and until well toward morning. There was a large crowd present to hear the reports as they came in and while the news was pleasing in the main to all present there was very little excitement or much in the way of demonstration over the returns.

Wednesday noon the Tribune was on the street with an extra giving the result of the election to the present time and the papers were sent over the city by carriers and by mail to the entire county.

This service was appreciated by everyone and gave the people of the city and county the result of the election at least twenty-four hours ahead of any other newspaper in the county.

John Aos Home.

The Tribune is pleased to state that John Aos, whom it was reported had gone to Warren for an operation for ulcers of the stomach, is home again and fortunately did not have to undergo the operation. The physician in charge states that Mr. Aos will soon be on the road to health again without an operation, which fact will be good news for the many friends of Mr. Aos in this city.

FARMERS FROM OTHER STATES TO LOCATE HERE

Minnesota farmers and twin city bankers and business men are regarded as the best authorities on agricultural, financial and mercantile conditions in the northwest. Bankers, grain and cattle men, wholesale and retail merchants and even city officials have constantly looked Minnesotaward for guidance in business transactions this fall, judging from statewide reports obtained during the past week for the weekly review of Minnesota enterprise.

Bankers in a number of counties reported that they and their farmer depositors —have been receiving letters from farm bureau agents, cattle breeders, wool growers and grain men in the Dakotas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and other states. Most of the letters asked for information as to Minnesota activities in the marketing of wheat, potatoes, wool and cattle. A few asked questions regarding the advisability of making real estate investments this winter.

Traveling salesmen representing St. Paul firms who have visited every state in the northwest and central west, have brought back many personal requests from merchants for "conservative suggestions" regarding the winter trade and money outlook. As a rule these merchants have been buying very cautiously. Minnesota bankers, with few exceptions, have pointed out that rural merchants have exercised even greater caution in laying in winter stocks than have members in the cities of the state.

Despite the marked decrease in buying by merchants—partly the result of inability to obtain loans—a feeling of optimism was reflected in a number of reports.

"Farmers would be dumping their grain on the market if they were not certain that better prospects are ahead," said one banker.

There has been an influx of labor in the iron range country, partly as a result of the industrial let-up in Detroit, Mich. Agents for lumber companies have been active, hiring many of the new arrivals who were not qualified for mine work. The supply of labor for lumbering in Koochiching, Roseau and Beltrami counties was reported considerably improved.

The turpentine industry probably will be vigorously developed in the northern countites in 1921. Several factories are now under way. Stumps are the raw mateial. Land clearing activities in the north have been pressed since spring and in most cases farmers obtained adequate dynamite supplies thru their county farm bureaus. The farm acreage will be increased considerably as a consequence.

Bankers did not discuss the political situation in October reports. The general trend of many weekly reports was that the farmers were moreconcerned with their grain and cattle problems than with the state or national elections. Several bankers forecast opinions that their depositors expected rising prices for grain and cattle after January 1.

Little has been heard about the coal situation of late. Some districts seem to have all the fuel desired. Others are expecting delayed shipments.

Mild October weather was responsible for various quips of nature. Apple trees burst into blossom. Lilac bushes began to bud and the broad areas of blueberry lands in the north assumed a June aspect.

The labor situation in Minnesota seems to be better than in adjoining states. Applications for employment came to the state recently from Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa, but public employment agencies in the Twin Cities have noted a movement of labor from the Pacific coast.

Ninth District.

Polk County (Crookston)—Junior livestock show at Crookston Nov. 12 and 13. Entries expected from several counties. Farmers in various counties contributing toward livestock pavilion to be erected at Crookston. Late epidemic caused decided decrease in yields of canning. Blue Stem and Preston wheats. Farmers saved $5,000 by pooling orders for Paris green thru farm bureau.

Marshall County (Warren)—Deposits at standstill; heavy demand for loans; several cattle shipments. Farmers almost to it mon holding their grain. Successful farm bureau drive. Land near Stephen brought $125 an acre.

Kittson County (Hallock)—Farm-

Farmers' Exchange Saves $2,000 By Keeping Informed of Market Conditions Reported by Federal Bureau of Markets.

Two thousand dollars may no longer seem like a small fourtune, yet if a person can secure that amount of money simply by reading a few words the reward may be regarded as well worth the effort expended.

The South Jersey Farmers' Exchange, of Woodstown, N. J., recently addressed following letter to the Bureau of Markets, United States department of agriculture:

"On or about June 26 this exchange received quotations covering cottonseed meal showing delivered prices of from $73 to $74 a ton for 36 per cent meal.

The Market Reporter of the same date which came to our attention contained a very interesting article covering the cottonseed meal situation, stating that stocks were heavy, and giving other interesting data.

"We decided, therefore, to wait with the placing of our order and bought part of our requirements last week, which meant a saving of something like $2,000 on ten carloads.

"We consider the information contained in the Market Reporter relative to feeds of very great value to farmers and feeders, and request that you send us this periodical regularly."

To know whether he is receiving a price for his produce in line with prevailing prices generally, the grower must keep in close touch with market conditions. In the old days the grower received this information mostly from commission houses that had a personal interest in furnishing it to him. Today the grower can secure market information which he knows is absolutely correct and totally unbiased.

The Bureau of Markets has some 700 representatives throughout the country, a part of whose duty it is to report daily market conditions. In addition the bureau has arrangements with the superintendents of some 474 railroads whereby they furnish information as to the daily car-lot movement of fruits and vegetables. Practically all the live-stock market information at the four largest national live-stock centers now disseminated thru the daily press and by telegraphic commercial news agencies is furnished by the Bureau of Markets. Thousands of producers use the bureau's daily and weekly market reports on fruits and vegetables, live stock and meats, dairy and poultry, hay and feeds, seeds, grain and cotton and the bureau receives many letters from growers, who say that the information is of decided benefit in protecting them from the possibility of fraud and in marketing their crops to best advantage from both a pecuniary and economic point of view.

Accurate market information and the standardization of farm products are essential factors in food distribution recognized on a basis better to meet the nation's requirements, say specialists of the Bureau of Markets.

Standardization means simply that the specifications for the various farm products be the same everywhere. In the grain trade before the enactment of the grain standards act much confusion existed because of the multiplicity of conflicting standards. Growers were restricted in the marketing of their crops to a few outlets. If they shipped their grain to distant markets dissatisfaction was the likely result, for the prices paid were based on prices with which they were unfamiliar and standards, moreover, that might be changed almost overnight. Today specifications for the various grades of grain are the same everywhere. A grower can ship his product to any market and know that the purchase will be made according to those standards. An important grain dealer recently advised the Bureau of Markets that since its administration of the grain standards act the grain marketing business has been on a sounder basis of grading and inspection than at any previous time in the nation's history.

The Bureau of Markets has fixed sttandards for wheat, shelled corn and oats; American upland, Sea Island American Egyptian cottons; and standards for climax baskets and containers for small fruits, berries and vegetables. Permissive standards have been fixed for white potatoes, Bermuda onions, sweet potatoes and strawberries; and tentative standards formulated for other fruits and vegetables. It is hoped that eventually all farm products will be standardized, so that when farmers and dealers transact business they will meet on a common ground of understanding.

The Bureau of Markets will be glad to give producers assistance with regard to standardization practices and furnish them with authoritative market information.

When the Child Is Sick

Who has not felt the pull at the heart-strings when the little one's cries of distress and pain rent the home? We do what we can to bring relief. Often there is much guess work—and local treatment is given for temporary comfort.

But to bring permanent relief we should go back of the effect and strike at the cause and invariably it is found in the spine. Thousands of children needlessly suffer from spinal defects which press on the nerves that supply life energy to some part of the body. It is this pressure that is the cause of ailment now and in later years.

Parents who exercise forethought in preparing their children for an abundant, healthy future, will have the young and growing spines examined regularly by a competent Chiropractor. If any spinal defect is found, don't hope for the child to outgrow it, because it invariably grows worse; but have the defect corrected in time and save much future trouble.

CHIROPRACTIC

is wonderfully successful in children's cases. Many weak, puny and undeveloped children have been brought back to health and strength through the aid of Chiropractic (ki-ro-prak-tic) spinal adjustments. Investigate Chiropractic and you'll immediately recognize its merits.

ROSEWOOD

ROSEWOOD PEOPLE HURT WHEN CAR TIPS

A Ford touring car run by John Nakken and containing besides himself Thom. Thoreson, Otto Ranum, Selmer Sorenson, Alfred Rafteseth and Johnny Hanson on their way to Thief River Falls last Saturday evening, capsized a short distance south of town, badly bruising several of the occupants and doing considerable damage to the car. Those receiving the worst injuries appear to be Mr. Ranum, who was badly crushed about the breast and had to be taken to Thief River Falls for medical attention the same evening, and Mr. Thorsoon, who was badly bruised about the face. Mr. Sorenson was injured about the head. Concerning the accident, it appears that Mr. Nakken, who was at the wheel, had been going at a lively rate of speed south of town where the road is very smooth, and upon coming further down where the road makes a turn he had attempted to slow down but found that the foot accelerator had stuck and reached down to release it while holding the steering wheel with his left. While doing this, however, the turn in the road had been reached at great speed and striking some partly frozen ruts the front wheels tuned and the speed of the car threw it to one side where it made a somersault. Luckily there is no ditch at that point which would have made the accident so much the worse; as it was the occupants of the car can consider themselves lukky that no serious injuries were sustained. The car which belonged to Mr. Nakken, was taken home with horses Sunday and can be repaired with the purchase of a few new parts and the straightening of others.

WOMEN ARE REVOLUTIONIZING INDUSTRY

Throughout the country the women are launching forward into new fields of activity that were previously monopolized by the men. A very striking example of this is the case of Mrs. J. Campbell, a ranch woman near Richardson, Texas (shown above with her daughter), who has introduced a comparatively new breed of cattle in the southwest, the Shorthorn, through her own efforts she has not only raised her own pure-bred herd, but has been instrumental in organizing the Texas Shorthorn Breeders Association which is becoming a large factor in restocking the southwest with new breed.

The War Is Over---Let Us . . . Have Peace . . .

(By D. P. O'Neill.)

The balance of the world cannot understand the American people, how we can become all het up over elections every four years and as soon as the returns are in, we all settle down and acquiesce in the verdict and unite to get behind the winners and assist them in making their administration the best possible for all the people. In that lies our great strength. Perhaps no election since the Civil war has been fraught with such far reaching consequences as the one just decided. We think every sane thinking person realizes the necessity for some kind of a working agreement with the other nations of the world. We must not think for a minute we can retain the position we now hold as the leading nation of the world and shut ourselves in from the balance, but the trouble with the plan worked out at Versailles was that America was represented by men with high ideals, unselfish, with nothing but one idea in mind, to form a combination of nations so strong, with such financial and material resources that they could say to all the balance of the world: Be good or we will spank you. While on the other side of the table sat the representatives of the war torn nations of Europe, with all the hates and quarrels of centuries each one struggling for advantage and supremacy over the other. But the election returns in the United States carries across the Atlantic by wire notice to those back door, secret conference European statesmen that we are not only willing to stand behind our legal but also our moral obligations and that while we are willing to enter into the league or conference, that we insist at all times be free to act for ourselves in accordance with the standards of right and justice that have always been adhered to by us.

In regard to state and local politics, it must become self evident to every student of economics that for the last four years in all the Mississippi and middle west states that the Republican and Democratic parties have ceased to be the majority and minority parties, but that there has been a realignment of parties, with those who believe in government under the constitution in the interest of all the people, or a government by classes in the interest of their own particular class. On the one side stands those who believe in private ownership and private initiative. On the other side stands those who believe in public ownership, not only of all public utilities but all means of production as well. I say the Socialist is correct that unless the lands are owned collectively by the workers, as well as the shops and tools, that they would be unable to exist as a group. Let no one deceive themselves. The fight for supremacy is on between those who believe that no nation can exist without having its feet firmly planted on the principles of equality, justice and laws enacted in the interest of all the people, and not for certain classes or groups, and those who thru no fault of their own perhaps and without seriously looking forward to where their bark is drifting, find themselves arrayed with that other keen sharp united group who would rather govern than work. Those, as the history of the world shows, when once given authority, exercise it more arbitrarily in order to carry out their own personal ideas than any czar or emperor ever did. We have a so-called Farmers and Laborers organization, attempting to get control of the law making and political machinery in this state. Now in all fairness, if there is fusion between the Socialist workers in the large cities and the farmers of the state, can it be possible that there is not a Republican farmer in the Ninth congressional district, who is a member of the Non-partisan League, who would be qualified to represent this strictly agricultural district in congress, or would we as farmers be better represented on a Socialist engineer whose selfish interest as a consumer cannot be identical with the producers of food? When they are defeated the keen, sharp brains of that class, that would rule, comb the district over to select a farmer that they might win, but they are very careful to select one of their own class, a Socialist and not one of Republican antecedent. In the two state campaigns, they have practically ignored the farmers, just as though there were not brains enough among them in the state, where they have a membership, including the women, of approximately eighty thousand. Now that the issues are clearly drawn between these two classes, there is nothing for the people to do but to line up on one side or the other and forget the old party names, Republican and Democratic, because in the last analysis principles stand above parties.

In conclusion let me say I am very much gratified by the vote given to Amendment No. 1 not only as a director of the good roads association, but as an advocate of good roads all my life. A few years from today, when Thief River Falls has its streets paved and there are good hard surfaced roads leading into the city from every direction, there will not be found one farmer in all of Pennington county who will admit that he voted against the amendment and I want to thank all and particularly the women for their splendid efforts in its behalf. From a political standpoint, with long years of experience, I want to give credit to that splendid organized body of women workers for the Republican party, from Miss Hanny, the chairman, and Mrs. Richter, president of the Women's Club, down to the chairmen of the different precincts of the county. They certainly have made good and have justified every promise made by us who have worked in their behalf for years. Alive, dignified and alert, they were an inspiration to the men. God bless our noble band of women!

Your Canadian provinces, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Nova Scotia, recently voted dry to be bone dry. The city of Winnipeg voted wet by more than 5,800 but the country vote throut the province overcame this majority.

Your Neighbor's Boy

That boy of your neighbor's will surely win success. In fact he is practicing for success now.

It is a good plan to practice if you want to learn to do anything well—so this boy is training for success.

His parents know that it costs money to keep this lad in clothes, etc. They find it is a good scheme to give this expense money to the boy and let him plan how to get the best results with it. It he spends too much one month he feels the pinch during the month that follows.

So he is learning how to manage and he rejoys it.

He is anxious to earn all he can. He thinks before he spends and a neat savings account is growing as further proof of the happy future of the boy.

And a program like that will bring larger success to anyone who really desires to win. How about your own boy? Think it over.

WHY THIS GREAT SURPRISE?

It is highly amusing to note the surprise expressed in the Times regarding the upset of the primary vote in Thief River Falls.

During the progress of the campaign the Times took no stand and printed nice things about the Republicans, Democats and Nonpartisans, clearly showing they were waiting to see which way the wind would blow. When it came to the last issue before election the Times cast its lot with the Democrats and made the rash prediction that Cox would carry Pennington county and that Preus would run third.

It has now developed that Harding carried Pennington county and Preus was a strong second in the governorship race. Had the Times taken a consistent stand during the campaign and kept in touch with things politically in the county there would have been no occasion for their expression of surprise at this time.

As political floppers the Times takes the cake.

REDUCE THE TAXES

Washington Post: The present taxes are extremely burdensom, both directly and by discouraging enterprises and thus throttling new sources of revenue. If the country were less tied down by the red tape of taxation and the unwise effort to pay off the whole cost of the war within a few years, there would be unprecedented activity in the United States and the new sources of wealth would yield a large share of the taxes. The United States is better able to pay the war debt now than it was in 1918, because of the increased population and wealth, but it will be still better off ten years from now.

The European governments are refunding their debts as fast as practicable, converting them into long-time obligations which will be carried in part by posterity. That is the common sense method to pursue, since the benefits of the war will chiefly be enjoyed by posterity, while it is the present generation that suffers most from all kinds of losses and sacrifices.

It is not wise to continue the present burden of taxation. The country suffers from it in more directions than can be specified or demonstrated. If it were possible to figure up the total earnings of possible new enterprises strangled in their inception because of the present taxes, an idea would be gained of the handicap imposed upon the present generation by saddling upon it too great a proportion of the war debt. Excessive taxation is paralyzing the building industry, which is not meeting the imperative demands of the new population of this country. The people need more houses, more factory buildings, more public buildings, more business blocks and more railroad terminals and more warehouses. Hundreds of thousands of new structures should be building, but they are in the blue-print stage because of the wrong policy pursued by the government in handling the nation's money problems.

Smaller taxes would mean a possibility of making money on smaller profits. The high cost of living would be struck a deadly blow by reducing government taxation. Building operations could be resumed on a large scale, which would mean increased employment, diffusion of money among the people, reduced rentals and greater public and private comfort. These building operations would encourage the extension of trolley lines, electric light, water, telephone and gas systems and public roads. Thus many branches of industry would be invigorated and made to yield wealth, which, in turn, would yield taxes.

THE HAPPIEST PEOPLE

Ohio State Journal: One needs to read the stories of the desperate plight of millions of people in European countries to get a right view of the happy conditions that surround the people of the United States. This country has foodstuffs in quantities almost unlimited, and with prices tending downward. One-third of the people of the war stricken lands abroad are on bread rations, so Herbert Hoover has made public. Here there are money, medical skill and supplies to meet any sudden need. Abroad there is lack of funds, lack of adequate medical skill and supplies. Here there is employment at the best compensation in the history of the country, so those who face war prices may yet fight their way to victory and care abundantly for those dependent upon them. Abroad money is scarce, labor opportunities meager in most places, while in sovietized Russia labor has been nationalized, men and women being sent where some government officials fix, and what they may earn, what they may eat, what they may purchase or wear all are dictated by soviet officials.

Economically, there is no land in the world which has conditions comparable to those in this country. We have abundant justification for being the happiest people on earth. We have conditions that vex and annoy but they are curable and they are minor, not major conditions. It takes a view of European troubles to show us, relatively, how happy is our condition.

THE SEA WALL

One of the gigantic attempts of modern days to overcome the dangers of unleashed natural forces is to be found in the new sea wall which is being built on the Gulf side of Galveston Island.

As now planned, this wall will be more than five miles long when completed and the proposal has already been made to extend it another two miles. It is of concrete and is said to be one of the greatest pieces of concrete work in the United States. Its purpose is to protect the city against possible destruction or damage to life and property which a mighty hurricane can accomplish. The wall is 17 feet high, 17 feet wide at the base. It is built upon a strong foundation of round piling, topped with sheet piling and a concrete base 20 feet wide.

The tools which are at work on this big piece of engineering include two big pouring machines by means of which 200 linear feet of wall are completed each week.

Behind this wall there will be a fill 200 feet wide and eventually the entire city will be graded above possible high water.

There are natural forces which mankind so far has proved unable to cope with. But man is no coward and undaunted by disasters of the past. The erection of this mighty sea wall at Galveston is an example of man's progress, not in conquering nature, but in adapting his ways to conform to certain natural laws. Flood and fire and earthquake have wrought terrible destruction many times, but through them men have been compelled to study and work along lines which have sterially advanced the well being of the whole race. Canute could not stop the incoming tide, but modern science can protect a great city from its destructive force.

WHEN THE LAST SUN

Anatole France: When the last sun goes out—a catastrophe that is bound to be—mankind will have long ago disappeared. The last inhabitant of the earth will be as destitute and ignorant, as feeble and dull witted as the first. They will have forgotten all the arts and all the sciences. They will huddle wretchedly in caves alongside the glaciers that will then roll their transparent masses over the half obliterated ruins of the cities where men now think and love, suffer and hope. All the elms and lindens will have been killed by the cold and the firs will be left sole masters of the frozen earth.

The last desperate survivors of humankind—desperate without so much as realizing why or wherefore—will know nothing of us, nothing of our genius, nothing of our love, yet will they be the latest born children and blood of our blood. A feeble flicker of the vital intelligence of nobler days, still lingering in their dulled brains, will for awhile yet enable them to hold their empire over the beasts that have multiplied about the subterranean lurking places.

Peoples and races will have disappeared beneath the snow and ice, with the towns, the highways, the gardens of the old world. With pain and difficulty a few isolated families will keep alive. Women and children, old men, crowded pell mell in their noisome caves, will peep thru fissures in the rock and watch the somber sun mount the sky above their heads; dull yellow gleams will flit across his disk, like flames playing about a dying brand, while a dazzling snow of stars will shine all the days long in the black heavens, thru the icy air. This is what they will see, but in the heavy witlessness they will not so much as know that they see anything.

One day the last survivor, callous alike to hate and love, will exhale to the unfriendly sky the last human breath. And the globe will go rolling on, bearing with it thru the silent fields of space the ashes of humanity, the poems of Homer and the august remnants of the Greek marbles, frozen to its icy surface. No thought will ever again rise toward the infinite from the bosom of this dead world.

JOHN C. KELLY

Watertown Public Opinion: In the news jumble of the past week consequent on the closing of the presidential campaign, came a brief announcement of the death of John C. Kelly, owner and editor of the Sioux City Tribune, the dean of the middle west's greater journalists. Mr. Kelly was one of the very few remaining outstanding examples of personal distinction in newspaper making; one of those sturdy figures represented by such types as Nelson, Perkins or Watterson. His passing, therefore, leaves a void; he will be sorely missed by scores of editors in the northwest who have long been accustomed to study the Tribune for guidance and inspiration.

Perhaps no more forceful recognition of Mr. Kelly's worth will be expressed than the tribute paid him by the Sioux City Journal, competitor of the Tribune, which for years joined issue with him in matters political. Of Mr. Kelly the Journal says:

"No man can labor in the position which Mr. Kelly occupied for forty years in Sioux City without distinction. He was not a man who coveted distinction, but distinction was conferred upon him by the very nature of his duties and their relation to the public and the life of the community. He was a man devoted to and absorbed in his task. He had little liking for activities apart from his business. Always deficient in physical strength, he conserved what he possessed for his newspaper work. He was constrained, too, by diffidence and modesty from appearing often in the public view. He shrank from the limelight, preferring the seclusion of his office and his home and he never spoke at a public meeting without reluctance.

"Mr. Kelly was diffident and retiring only in his personal life. As an editor, giving daily expression to his principles and the belief based upon his principles, he was bold, fearless and aggressive. He was strongly rooted in principle, refusing to be bound by party or other ties. Thus thinking, he could not remain a partisan and from the violent political conflicts of the last 25 years—conflicts which split parties into factions and which caused new parties to arise—he emerged an independent thinker, worshiping at the shrine of no party, acknowledging subservience to no man, but pursuing his own way, guided by the beacon light of his own high thinking. At times he may have seemed an opportunist, eager to ride the ground swell of popular opinion, but that he was not an opportunist is revealed by the fact that often he was found to be committed to the unpopular side, the losing side, of public questions.

"The influence that Mr. Kelly exercised upon the public thought of this section of the country during the 40 years of his work in the Tribune office cannot be calculated. He aroused antagonisms, some of them violent. No man of his bold and aggressive temperament could do otherwise. Often he seemed bitter and unsparing in his criticisms of public men. But the important thing is that he caused people to think and anyone who has done that has rendered an important public service. It is not important that people shall always agree; but it is vastly important that they shall do their own independent thinking.

"Mr. Kelly was a good business man. He came to Sioux City with meager material possessions; he has left behind him, the result of the labor of his life time, a well established, vigorous, prosperous newspaper property. What he gained materially was the result of indefatigable industry. What he owned he owed to himself. He began life as a printer and on that sure foundation built his success in journalism. His life illustrates what indomitable resolution in association with industry will accomplish. He labored all his life under the most severe handicap of ill health and limited physical strength, and yet he never surrendered to his infirmities, but ever was the master of himself, the captain of his soul, the architect of his own career.

"Mr. Kelly was a journalist—a newspaper builder as well as a newspaper editor. He remained a printer, with a printer's interest in his job, to the day of his death. He acquired rare facility in the use of the English language, writing with clarity and vigor unexcelled. His mental attitude toward his work may be described as exact. He was eager for excellence always—excellence in all the departments of his newspaper—and he spared no expenditure to achieve what he desired. He was a man of ideals, which he pursued diligently, and he was quick to adopt suggestions for the improvement of his newspaper when their reasonableness was made clear to him. The Tribune is a monument to his aggressive and progressive spirit.

"The side of Mr. Kelly's character least known to the public was his personal side. He lived quietly and humbly and somewhat in seclusion. In all his personal relationships, social and otherwise, he was agreeable and delightful. He was a just employer, kindly, generous and approachable. Having been a workingman himself, he was able the more readily to get the employe's point of view. He was public spirited, was frequently enlisted in the public service and gave generously of his means in all public matters requiring contributions of money.

"Mr. Kelly has left behind him an institution in which his work, his ideals and his influence will be carried forward and perpetuated. Young hands and young hearts stand ready to take up the burden he has laid down. But the benediction of the daily presence, the inspiration of his voice, the warmth of his smile and his wise counsel, will long be missed by his intimates and associates and all those in his personal circle."

THE FARM BUREAU DRIVE

The state membership drive of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, which is being led by J. S. Jones and F. L. French from the headquarters at the University farm, is gathering considerable momentum.

Eight solicitors, working five days in Kittson county, in the extreme northwestern part of the state, have enrolled 825 new members in the federation. Every farmer in Svea township, Kittson county, joined the movement; 29 out of 31 farmers in Skane township and 49 out of 51 in Red River township.

Polk county has turned in a membership of 1200 and the drive in that county is barely under way. Pine county has been canvassed and 1,108 members obtained. Cottonwood is in the same class with Pine county and has 1,120 members. Watonwan county, one of the small counties of the state, has 980 members. LeSueur county has 700 members and many more will be added. Lincoln county has 600 members with the drive barely started.

When the National Farm Bureau federation is fully organized in all the states, as it soon will be, including not thousands but millions of members, all intent on the one purpose, to obtain for the farmer a square deal in his marketing relations with the man to whom he sells his flour that comes back to him in flour; his hogs that come back to him in smoked meats, lard and packing house products: the hides he sells that come back to him in shoes; the wool he sells that comes back to him in clothes. When the farmers are organized, as they will be under the National Farm Bureau plan, when they have an accredited board and officers on the job at Washington all the year around, our ablest agriculturists, economists and highly specialized business men, representing the farmers, a board authorized to speak for the farmers, authorized to bargain for them, authorized to demand and threaten as the capitalists, manufacturers, shippers and as labor do. When the farmers apply brains and add force and unity to the job of bettering their condition and thru the American Farm Bureau they will get somewhere. We are advised that the campaign for members will be conducted in Pennington county immediately after election. The farmers should study this plan in advance. It is economic and not political.

MANY people see no further that the surface of things.

On rainy days they are full of gloom, forgetting that tomorrow may be 100 per cent sunshine.

In business, thinking must be more fundamental. Advertising, the power which makes a business grow, should be increased when days are cloudy. In football, when the competing team relaxes its efforts, that is the very time to buck the line.

Prominent Local Workers In The Republican Party

MRS. J. M. BISHOP

Mrs. Bishop, as second vice chairman of the Republican Women's Club of Minnesota, has rendered invaluable service to the entire ticket. Her work has been along constructive lines and we feel safe in saying has been recognized by everyone as being of the highest degree and extremely helpful. Mrs. Bishop has made an enviable record for herself, the state and the city of Thief River Falls.

WILLIAM MICHELET

Chairman of the Republican County Central Committee.

Mr. Michelet accepted the position of chairman upon the unanimous request of the committee and upon the earnest solicitation of the State central committee that he take up this work in the county during this important presidential year. The work is not new to William. Politics and organization is music and harmony to him. He likes the work and knows how to do it. His plans have been complete and perfect in all matters pertaining to the campaign. It has not been an easy thing for Mr. Michelet to sacrifice his time, energy and money, as he has almost continuously for the past sixty days, for the good of the party and the cause of Republicanism in the state and nation, but he has done it and for this splendid unselfish service he has the thanks of a grateful constituency and the honor of having done a good job well.

MRS. J. J. RICHTER

President of the Women's Republican Club.

The Women's Republican Club of Thief River Falls has made a very wonderful record. Abont four weeks ago the club was organized with 65 members enrolled the first night. Mrs. Richter was made president and Mrs. Andrew Bottlseon secretay. The club has been a real organization They entertained Mrs. C. A. Severance at a banquet dinner as the guest of honor and speaker. They joined in the Preus-Collins meeting. Incidentally at Red Lake Falls they kidnapped Tracy Bangs and ex-Governor Sarles of North Dakota and put them on the Auditorium platform here as an added attraction. They made the meeting for Halvor Steenerson and Mrs. Brandrup. Under their supervision the splendid meeting and reception for Mrs. Bishop was staged Monday evening. The club rented a room. Kept open house every day, all day and evening till ten. They have canavassed the city. They have kept records, distributed literature, conducted a school of voting. They have served lunches. They have helped the amendments, the candidates and the Republican party. The work of the Women's Republican club has been able, intelligent, honest, conscientious and constructive. With some knowledge of things of this kind, we are free to admit that this club has been one of the most effective organizations of the kind that we have ever seen. Prominent men and women from all parts of the state have made this same honest comment. The ladies have everything to be proud of and the party is deeply indebted to them. This splendid resul thas been accomplished because of the officers and workers of the organization.

B. O. NORBY

Secretary of the County Central Committee.

Mr. Norby has been before the people of Pennington county on many occasions. In fact, when anything is wanter, especially in the eastern part of the county, Mr. Norby is the first man they think of. He is the "Let George do it" on all occasions. This sometimes results in a man being imposed upon. No so with Norby. He is so good natured he does not know when he is imposed upon. Just the same, he is a "go getter" and a live wire all the year around. He has made an admirable secretary and we are all proud of him.

MISS EFFIE HAMRY

Miss Effie Hamry has been chairman of the Republican County Central Committee during the present campaign. Without admitting any effusiveness in the matter in any way, we are sure that every Republican in Pennington county believes and honestly so thatMiss Hamry has been the most capable officer at the head of any county organization in the state. At any rate, she has managed the campaign with unusual ability and diplomacy. We do not know what Miss Hamry wants, if anything, at the hands of the Republican party, but whatever it is, she is entitled to it. We suspect she wants nothing other than the confidence and respect of the members of the party and that she has one hundred per cent.

RIBSTONE SILO

We have taken the agency for the RIBSTONE silo manufactured by the Minnesota Cement Construction Co., of Fergus Falls. This has the hearty endorsement of users in Northwest Minnesota and the Dakotas and is essentially a quality silo.

A RIBSTONE stave tests at the center an average of 1712 pounds before reaching breaking point whereas a dry tamped stave tests only 718 pounds. Hence this silo is nearly three times as strong as the ordinary dry tamped type. All staves are made of wet mixed, steam cured concrete. The silo has a hinged door. This silo is a monument to the good judgment of the builder. Come in and see us and look over the sample stave in our office.

VOL. 20 No. 72 THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1920 Official Paper of Pennington County

BUREAU MEETING TOMORROW IS VERY IMPORTANT

STEPS WILL BE TAKEN TO AFFILIATE WITH STATE FEDERATION IN NEAR FUTURE

There will be a meeting of the officers and directors of the Pennington County Farm Bureau at the office in the Auditorium tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock to decide whether or not the local organization shall become affiliated with the state federation of farm bureaus.

Every officer, director and member is requested to be present as there will be ther business of a very important nature discussed, not the least of which is the plans for the farm bureau membership drive to be held in this county next month.

The affiliating of the local farm bureau with the state association is one that the entire membership expressed themselves in favor of last year, but owing to the fact that the application for membership was not sent in promptly last year the local bureau was not able to become associated with the state bureau and this important step was necessarily postponed until this year. It is expected there will be no question but what the members will unanimously decide to affiliate with the state organization, thereby receiving the co-operation and assistance of the state association and the American Farm Bureau Federation also, which is national in its scope.

J. H. Hay, deputy commissioner of agriculture for the state of Minnesota, will no doubt be one of the representatives to represent Pennington county at the annual meeting to be held in St. Paul on November 19 and 20, and J. J. McCann of this place will also be at the meeting to represent the local farm bureau.

The decision of the directors concerning the drive for membership in this county next month is one that will also undoubtedly be passed in short order. Several counties nearby have been conducting intensive campaigns for the past few months and several new members have been added as a result of the drive being made. At the present time there are something like three hundred members in Pennington county and it is hoped to at least double this number by the drive to be made next month.

The farm bureau is doing much for the farmer. It is strictly a farmers' organization, devoting its entire time to helping the farmer decide the more important questions that arise in the proper management and farming of the better sort. Thru the farm bureau the farmer will be able to overcome many of his difficulties and The Tribune is glad to add its endorsement to this worthy organization.

BIG ATTRACTION UNDER AUSPICES OF LEGION TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

The Bel Canto Quintette, which appears this evening at the Auditorium under the auspices of Elmer J. Ellund post of the American Legion, is given the reputation of being one of the best attractions possible to secure of this nature and one which will without question prove very enjoyable to all who attend.

The program is full of interesting numbers and music lovers will find much here of a high grade as well as some of the more popular hits of the day. The feature of the program is Ida Hagen Pitman, who no doubt be remembered as one of the company which appeared here a year ago with the America First Concert company. The program is also strenghtened by the addition of four other members of rare ability who have given instant satisfaction in every instance.

Four of the members, who are of Scandinavian birth, will render several selections in that language.

Community Club to Meet.

The Girls' Community Club will meet next Monday afternoon in the Commercial Club rooms. An interesting musical program will be given and an address by some local authority on civic affairs will also be among the headliners on the program.

M. E. Ladies' Aid.

The Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church will meet in the church basement on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 17, entertained by Mrs. Manther, Mrs. Biddick and Mrs. Poston.

ATTENDANCE AT CLUB LUNCHEON YESTERDAY SHOWS BIG INCREASE

The matter of placing danger signs at various places in the county where the same are needed was discussed at the noonday lunch of the Commercial Club yesterday. The subject arose as a result of numerous fatal and near-fatal accidents which have occurred the past season.

Ordinarily the auto clubs have sponsored such a movement but at the meeting yesterday it was thought that the auto club was not alone interested therein, but that the city and county as a whole were more directly concerned in taking steps which might avoid similar accidents in the future.

Accordingly a committee composed of Lorin Johnson, G. Streeter and Geo. L. Stearns was named to wait on the city council and county commissioners at an early date with a view of having the proper steps taken.

HAS CLOSE CALL IN BOLSHEVIST RUSSIA POGROM

DR. FRED BREGEL, BROTHER OF MRS. C. J. BROWN OF THIS CITY, HAS CLOSE CALL.

Dr. Fred L. Bregel, of Fairfax, Minnesota, a brother of Mrs. C. J. Brown, of this city, and now stationed in South Russia, narrowly escaped death when Captain Emmett Kilpatrick and two nurses were brutally killed during a Bolshevik cavalry raid on Salkovo station on Novemebr 9th.

Dr. Bregel, whose name appears with those of twenty other Red Cross workers, is believed to be safe. He enlisted in the Twenty-sixth, Minnesota unit three years ago and was stationed at a base hospital in France until the end of the war. He then obtained his release and joined the Red Cross in France, leaving for Siberia with the mission.

The excellent surgical work and the hospital organization work of Dr. Bregel is brought out in a letter from Lawrence C. King, one of the American Red Cross deputy commissioner, and Miss Mary L. Matthews and Miss Beatrice Charlotte Mann of the Red Cross mission, to Mr. Bregel.

No news has been received from Dr. Bregel by his relatives for some little time, but the last news was to the effect that he expected to be home around Christmas.

LOCAL YOUTH NAMED VICE PRESIDENT OF UNIVERSITY SOCIETY

Roy M. Barzen, of this city, a student at Marquette University, Milwaukee, has received distinct recognition from the student body of that institution, being recently elected vice president of the Minnesota club formed among the twenty-seven men from this state who attend Marquette. The Marquette Tribune, the university paper, has the following concerning the organization:

"Twentyseven men from Minnesota formed the Minnesota club of Marquette at a meeting in the Union House last Friday evening. At the first meeting of the men from the North Star state is was decided that Minnesota should have an organization second to none in the school.

"Plans formulated call for a pin for members of the club, regular smokers and during this winter, the possibility of a special car for Marquette Minnesota students during the Christmas holidays and the enrollment of every student from the state in the club.

"It is estimated that there are about fifty men in school from the Gopher state and it is the aim of the officers and members of the club to make every one of them a booster for Marquette and a booster for the club. To this end W. C. Pitzer was appointed booster in the dental department, R. B. Barzen in the economics department, G. E. Freeman in the law school and H. J. Olsson in the school of journalism.

Officers were elected by the club as follows: Gordon P. Arper of St. Paul, student of economics, president; Roy M. Barzen, of Thief River Falls, economics, vice president; R. Haggerty, of Rochester, dental student, secretary, and E. W. Kartak, of St. Paul treasurer.

LOCAL DEALERS PROTEST AGAINST COAL COMPANIES

ARE PRACTICALLY FORCED TO TAKE HIGH PRICED SOFT COAL TO SECURE HARD COAL

A very peculiar situation in the coal market that calls for some little enlightenment exists, and it is one that the public has long suspected and which it has felt should be looked into but for which nothing has been done in the way of relief.

Local dealers state they are being requested to buy large shipments of soft coal at an advanced price with the assurance that they will be given one car of hard coal for every four cars of soft coal they purchase at the advanced price. This on the face of it is nothing short of highway robbery as it is forcing dealers to buy the soft coal at high prices when they are well supplied with soft coal in order to get a small shipment of hard coal.

A great many of the dealers have simply set their foot down and have refused to be forced into taking more soft coal at a higher rate. They have, in fact, decided to go without hard coal before they will be forced into paying the high rates asked for soft coal. As one dealer puts it, the local dealers, if they accept the proposition, will be forced to sell hard coal at from three to five dollars a ton more than they should in order to break even, in addition to selling soft coal at the same high price.

The public of course is the goat in the matter and is the one that must pay the bill. The coal companies attempting to force the sale of fuel at these high prices care nothing about the public or the dealer, but are intent on making hay while the snow flies, realizing that this is perhaps the last real haul they will be permitted to make from the public pocket of any consequence for some time to come. It is to be hoped that steps of such a nature as to forestall for all time the robbery being perpetuated by the coal operators will be taken soon. The public is getting mighty sick of the affair.

MIDDLE RIVER BOY FOUND AFTER SEVERAL DAYS

ACCIDENTLY KILLED AND BODY NOT FOUND FOR ALMOST TWO WEEKS.

The body of Arthur Schenkey, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schenkey, was found Friday afternoon in a thicket about thirty rods north of the Schenkey home at Middle River.

The boy had been missing since Wednesday, Oct. 27th, when he left home at about noon accompanied by his nine-year-old brother and carrying a 30-30 rifle and four shells. The younger boy returned to the home shortly afterward. He reported that Arthur had asked him to come back and had given him his pocketbook. He said too that Athur had shot one shell at hawk before he left him and had seen a deer at about the time he left and started northwestward after it. The boys had gone northwestward when leaving. Before the little boy reached home he heard another shot. Mr. Schenckey was at Breese's sale that day and on returning home after about 5 o'clock and finding that Arthur had not returned went to Nels Johnson's and Robt. Thall's, two of his neighbors, looking for him. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson went with him into the woods carrying a lantern and a gun which they fired several times hoping to get some answer from Arthur. Being unable to find the boy that night the search was taken up the following day and for two or three succeeding days, several of the neighbors helping Mr. Schenkey in the search.

Mr. Schenkey, then thinking that Arthur must have ran away and gone to some neighboring town looking for a job, hired a automobile and drove successively to Thief River Falls, Warren, Argyle, Stephen and the Roseau county towns, remaining up the second week for a week. No trace of him being found, the sheriff was asked to come and organize a searching posse and thoroly search the woods and vacant land close to the Schenkey place. The request to the sheriff was made on Thursday last and he came to Middle River that evening. Thru the means of a general telephone call in the several country lines running out from town a force of about 100 men was gotten together at the Schenkey place by 10 o' clock Friday. The party lined up with military precision and traveled in straight lines thru the woods, the men being only ten feet apart in the lines, and after thoroly going over about a section of land found the body at about 2 o'clock within thirty rods of the Schenkey place in a northerly direction.

The body was left where found on order of the sheriff until the coroner arrived on Saturday. An examination showed that Arthur had been shot squarely in the top of the head by his own gun, as the bullet found in his lung by Dr. Spinks corresponded with those in the gun and an extracted empty shell was found near the gun, which lay 19 feet from the body. There was no hole in his cap which lay near by on the ground.

County Attorney Eckstrom and Court Reporter Braggan were present at the examination. The little nine-year-old brother was subjected to a searching examination but told a straight story which he maintained thruout. The coroner's jury, composed of A. C. Kvenes, S. Loveid, B. O. Gressile, Lenny Olson, Richard Sjoberg and Henry Young, rendered a verdict of Arthur's death being from a rifle shot, cause unknown.

The funeral occurred yesterday, interment being in the Norwegian cemetery adjoining town.—Middle River Pioneer.

LYCEUM NUMBER FOR NOVEMBER 18th WILL BE BEST OF SEASON

Special attention is called to the fact that the first number on the Lyceum course booked by the Women's Club of this city is to appear here on November 18 and not on the 19th, as advertised on the placards and window cards. This mistake in dates will no doubt cause some confusion but the public is asked to remember the date is the 18th instead and to make arrangements accordingly.

The first number, the Redpath Orchestra, is sure to please everyone who hears them. They are a high class organization and will without a doubt prove to be one of the most popular attractions of the season.

BREAD PRICES TAKE BACKWARD TUMBLE WITH NECESSITIES

The high cost of living is slowly but surely taking a tumble backward, to the delight of all, especially the housewife who has been hard pressed for some time past to make the dollar stretch anywhere near as far as it formerly did.

In an advertisement in this issue of the Tribune will be found an announcement by a local bakery where bread will be reduced to ten and fifteen cents per loaf. This is a reduction of three cents per loaf and while it does not seem such a large amount at first thought still the sum total mounts very rapidly in a family of any size where the majority of the bread is bought from the bakery.

Other commodities are slowly but surely hitting the toboggan and while it will take some time for the necessities of life to reach the normal state again, it is believed that eventually the present high prices will look sick and the dollar will once more be able to show somewhere near like one hundred cents in purchasing power.

ELECTION RESULT CREATES MUCH STATE OPTIMISM

REVIEW OF CONDITIONS SHOW RURAL DISTRICTS PLEASED WITH OUTCOME.

A noticeabel wave of optimism is spreading from the cities into the rural districts of Minnesota as a consequence of the election outcome, judging from comments made in reports from various counties received during the past week.

More comprehensive reports regarding election developments are expected this week as a number of the bankers did not have an opportunity to make a special report on election incidents.

The national situation seemingly brought more satisfaction than any other phase of the election, judging from the early comments. For many weeks Minnesota wool growers have been shipping their products to Chicago for storage. Potatoes, wheat and other grains have been going into storage. Cattle and hog shipments have seldom been heavy, because of unsatisfactory prices. A feeling that the Republican landslide will change these conditions has been forecast.

Passage of the good roads amendment elicited considerable comment of a local nature. It was known that a number of important summer resort building projects depended to a certain extent upon the adoption of the liberal good roads program. Activities of the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota Association with headquarters in St. Paul, and tremendous tourist travel in every county this year caused various merchants, hotel keepers, bankers and other persons interested in Minnesota summer resorts to plan improvements for 1921 providing conditions are favorable. Several of these improvements would have been started this year had building and labor conditions been more favorable.

There were many indications in the mail of data received last week to give weight to an assertion that 1921 will be noted for building activities in Minnesota from the Canadian boundary to the Iowa line. Hundreds of farmers have put in orders for cement with the hope of starting their building programs as soon as the frost is out of the ground. A great deal of improvement work is planned by cities and civic organizations in many districts. At least fifteen cities contemplate erection of attractive information headquarters either in parks or at a strategic point in the business district.

Real estate men in a number of cities are preparing to start sales campaigns. City real estate has been quiet on the whole. Shortage of houses has been reported from nearly every city in the state.

POULTRY SHOW PROMISES MUCH OF INTEREST

EXPECTED TO BE ONE OF THE MOST SUCCESSFUL OF ALL SHOWS—LARGE EXHIBITS

As the date for the fourth annual poultry show of the Pennigton County Poultry Association nears, interest grows apace. Many inquiries are being received daily by those in charge of this year's show as to the program for the exhibit and the rules and as a result the officers of the association have every reason to expect this year's show to eclipse all former shows and to be classed as one of the important shows in northern Minnesota.

The dates for the show this year are November 22, 23 and 24 and from all indications the exhibits will be much larger than heretofore and will be high class in every respect.

C. E. Brown, of Crookston, will act as judge and exhibitors are especially reminded of the importance of having the birds on exhibit early. The association insists that all birds be in the hands of the secretary by 10 a. m. on November 20th. The exhibition room, which is to be located in the auditorium, will be open to receive all entries on November 21 at 9 a. m. and every exhibitor is requested to have all exhibits in at that time. The judging will start promptly at 1 p. m. on November 22 and those desiring to have entries exhibited at the show this year will be able to get entry blanks and all further information from J. J. McCann, secretary of the association.

There are many worth while prizes offered this year to winners and it is expected that the exhibits will run large. The premium list will be mailed out in the course of a few days so that all desiring to enter birds may become familiar with the rules and regulations of the local association.

DIRECTORS OF FAIR ASSOCIATION TO MEET TOMORROW EVENING

The directors of the Pennington County Agricultural Society will meet on Saturday evening of this week in the Commercial Club rooms.

The purpose of the meeting primarily, is to select a secretary for the coming year. C. Hossfeld Smith, the present secretary, says he is not a candidate for the office, but will gladly lend his support to the organization in any capacity he may. Just who the new secretary for next year will be has not been decided and in fact the board has not as yet been able to decide the question among themselves, but hope to straighten out the situation next Saturday evening.

There are other important matters the board will take up at the meeting Saturday evening which will be a great help in the conducting of the fair for next year. Many matters are to be straightened out for the same advance, one of which will be the selecting of a budget for each department and operating the fair on a different basis than any of those tried out in the years past.

Legion Dance Successful.

Shall We Have a Traveling Library?

Shall Rosewood benefit by the state department of education's recent inauguration of traveling libraries for small villages, towns and communities of Minnesota? This question has arisen the last week and several of the community "bookworms" have answered it with an emphatic "yes." The plan of traveling libraries which is now securing a strong foothold over large parts of the United States and wherever it is tried out is pronounced a decided success, inasmuch as it is filling a long felt need in supplying rural communities with books and literature of both the older and up to the minute publications, suitable for home study, education, reference and fiction at a reasonable expense. The Minnesota traveling library, an outgrowth from the state department of education, has at its head as director Clara F. Baldwin, Supervisor Harriet A. Wood, Librarian Lillian E. Cook and Reference Librarian Margaret M. Doty. The general library contains books mostly on fiction, but also on such subjects as science, biography, travel, literature, history and agriculture in the English language, besides books by popular authors in the following languages: Finnish, French, German, Polish, Scandinavian and Spanish. Books are loaned at the rate of 25 or 50 volumes to the case and may be retained by the community for six months. In addition any six volumes may be had additional in any foreign language. The department reserves the right to select titles, but the different communities may request any certain line of study and the books sent will be the best available along that line. Special children's, agricultural and school libraries may be obtained upon request, as well as special books on any desired subject.

It is the desire of the department of education to inaugurate these libraries in all communities where the larger public libraries are not available and the requisites for obtaining them is not difficult. An application card is furnished by the department and as a matter of good faith and to constitute the library association is required the signatures of ten taxpayers within the community, these appoint a librarian to have charge of the books and a secretary to assist in the keeping of the records. The books are furnished without cost but the borrowers must pay the transportation charges, which for the 50 volume set is $2. This fee must accompany the application card and the books are delivered prepaid. The association is responsible for the loss or the damage beyond repair of any book.

Mrs. A. S. Holm is heading this movement and it is hoped the entire community will give her their backing. A meeting will be called at Rosewood soon and all lovers of good reading matter should not fail to be present and give the undertaking their support. Remember there are not attachments, the books are loaned free and the transportation charge will be but a few cents and in return the public is privileged to the use of more than 50 books for a period of six months, at the expiration of which the set is returned and a new supply obtained. The appointed librarian has charge of all books and the place of keeping must be open for certain hours every week for the convenience of the borrowers.

GREAT BRITIAN ORGANIZES FOR A STEEL WAR

FIRMS COMBINE TO MEET THE UNITED STATES-GERMAN FRENCH CHALLENGE

London—Challenged by the gigantic U. S. stell industry which has allied itself with great German and French steel firms to seize European trade and to oust British steel from other overseas markets, Bitish steel magnates are preparing for the gigantic conflict.

They have formed the British Empire Steel Corporation, a consolidation of interest which they are confident is formidable enough to withstand the threatened onslaught in the premier key industry.

Roller Over Rivals.

Judging from the production figures given by the Iron and Steel Institute here, the American-German-French alliance will be in a position to steam roller all rivals. These are the statistics of output of pig iron and steel ingots by the four countries involved in the steel war:

United States, 1919, 85,000,000 tons; Germany, 1913, 38,244,281 tons; France, 1913, 9,888,063 tons; Great Britain, 1913, 17,923,000 tons.

The Britishers are alive to the fact that the coming fight is to be a real one. They know that no machinations will be omitted by either side and that no trade strategy or business tricks will remain unutilized in the struggle.

"Will Hold Her Own."

F. W. Harbeard, probably the greatest steel expert in the British empire, is confident that Britain will hold her own. In an interview he said:

"While the United States had every opportunity during the war to secure world trade, at the same time the reputation of the English steel trade and the quality of their product was such that I do not believe the United States Steel Corporation or any other foreign customers, can take away our customers, but the difficulty here is in obtaining sufficient supplies of raw materinl. During the war large quantities of pig iron were imported, chiefly from the United States.

"I consider our new consolidation one of the biggest steps forward taken for many years in the steel trade in this country. I am well acquainted with the plants of both the Dominon Steel Corporation of Canada and the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company.

Opens New Supply.

"It should be of the greatest help in enabling various finishing mills in this country to be kept going at top speed.

"It opens up a new source of supply of raw materials for the United Kingdom for many years to come as the resources controlled by the British Steel Corporation are not only among the largest known deposits in the world, but mining costs are exceptionally low and shipping facilities almost unique.

"The steel masters of Great Britain are alive to the situation and do not intend to allow foreigners to keep their hold, won while we were at war, on the supremacy of a trade that has made England famous in the past in the commercial markets of the world."

CO-OPERATIVE GRAIN ELEVATOR MUST FILL ECONOMIC NEED

MUST BE CONDUCTED EFFICIENTLY IN ORDER TO BE A REAL SUCCESS

A co-operative elevator company, like any other business organization, must first rest upon some substantial economic need, say specialists of the United States department of agriculture, in Department Bulletin 880, on the organization of co-operative grain elevator companies. An organization may come into existence by means of propaganda and enthusiasm engendered in order to serve a political, frandfernal or ideahstic purpose, but unless some substantial benefit or service is secured to the community such organization eventually must fail. The value to the community of any enterprise or undertaking is measured in direct proportion to the need therefor.

The plan of organization must be sound. This means that something more is necessary that mere statements of the high purposes of the association. It means a definite and practicable plan of action, a plan which anticipates so far as possible to anticipate the practical problems and difficulties to be met with in actual operation.

A co-operative enterprise in order to be successful must be conducted under efficient management and in accordance with a well defined business policy. There has been too much tendency in the past to employ as managers men who are merely industrious and honest and who may not have that keen, discriminating judgment and tactful address so necessary in managerial positions.

In the United States three distinct forms of farmers' elevators are found, namely, (1) joint stock companies and unincorporated societies; (2) ordinary private corporations of the capital stock form; and (3) co-operative associations incorporated under special co-operative law.

RURAL POPULATION STILL MORE THAN HALF

The census bureau's recent statement on the total population of the United States in 1920 contained the following statement:

"Of the 105,683,108 persons enumerated in the fourteenth census, preliminary tabulations show that 54,816,209, or 51.9 per cent, are living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and 50,866,899, or 48.1 per cent, in rural territory."

We are all aware, of course, that there is a constant stream of young people passing from the rural towns and farms to be lost amid the smoke and din and hardships and heartaches of the big cities. Nevertheless, we are convinced that more than half of the population still lives in "rural territory"—not 48.1 per cent, but well over 50 per cent.

What is rural territory: The census bureau assumes that towns of over 2,500 inhabitants are not in rural territory, which is, of course, absurd. Practically every town up to 10,000 or even 15,000 is as rural as the 2,500. In nearly all American towns of up to 10,000 or even 15,000, the residences come down into the business sections, fronting even on the central square, or park, or commons. In such towns you very frequently will find small farms almost within a stone's throw of the town hall. Why the census bureau calls such places outside of "rural territory" is a mystery to us.

We are going to find out the truth of this matter. The Publishers Autocaster Service, in which this paper holds a franchise, is at present investigating at Washington into the correct proportion of the rural population and we will print the results as soon as they ae obtained.

A Dear of a Man.

Let there be more women driving downtown hordes, I am reminded of an Indian whom I saw purchasing ten cents worth of cheese in the general store of Cross Village, Mich. The grocer, having in mind the cost of cheese, the high cost of living and the necessary margin of profit, sliced neatly and wrapped up the segment. The Indian contemplated the tiny wedge and grunted:

"Ugh! Come near missin' it."

Most women know no more about the police regulations and the hazy code of courtesy than the dear old lady knew about golf. Asked if she played the game she replied:

"Dear me, no! I have never had a caddy in my hand!"

But let there be more women drivers, for after all, the study of mankind is woman. George Moore, ever a celebrator of women, wrote in his "Memoirs of My Dead Life" these true words:

"Woman is the legitimate subject of all men's thoughts. We pretend to be interested in other things. In smoking rooms I have listened to men talking about hunting and I have said to myself: 'Your interest is a pretense; of what woman are you thinking?' We forget women for a little while when we are thinking about art, but only for a little while. The legitimate occupation of man's mind is woman."

So let 'em drive. What if they do kill off a small portion of the citizenry? We are a big city. They won't be missed.

Give women the ballot and the steering wheel; give them cabinet portfolios and desks in the senate, give them the White House if they want it. What they do is sure to be wrong, but it is sure alive to be amusing and this is a very dull world.—Al Weeks, in the Detroit Motorist.

OUT OF THE MUD!

St. Paul Pioneer Press: It is the solemn judgment of this newspaper that the people of Minnesota, in passing the good roads amendment—as they apparently have done—have taken the most progressive step in the history of the state.

The great modern problem is transportation. Here in Minnesota the Pioneer Press believes we have settled it. We are going to spend the enormous sum of $100,000,000 on a 7,000 mile system of all-weather roads, constructed to carry any traffic they can be called upon to bear. It is actually difficult to comprehend the full significance of this tremendous decision. At one stroke, to to speak, Minnesota steps from a place in the rear into a place in the vanguard of American commonwealths. She has met her biggest problem, and has met it magnificently, and this newspaper, which was first in advocacy of the so-called Babcock plan, congratulates her people from the bottom of its heart.

Much remains to be done. The roads are not yet built. That is a huge task. Buvts have confidence in the legislature and in the state highway department and we feel sure that both will measure up to the great responsibilities which now confront them. The campaign for the amendment was without the slightest regard to partisanship and the carrying out of its provision should be on a similar plane.

There will be occasion hereafter to discuss the many and important questions which are to arise in connection with the construction of this great highway system. On this day, however, we shall content ourselves with congratulating the people of Minnesota on their great decision and the state highway improvement association upon its intelligent and effective dissemination of the gospel of good roads.

WHAT OF A DRY NIGHT UNDER THE BRIGHT LIGHTS?

New York Herald: No election night throng has ever wandered up and down a dry Broadway. No crowd of bulletin watchers has ever stood for hours far from the hospitable doors of a whistle wetting establishment. No great concourse of Americans has ever yelled itself hoarse over the result of an election with a kind of stimulus which cannot be won from ice cream soda.

Tonight New York is promising itself a great outburst of enthusiasm. That Broadway will be as arid as our white ribbon friends would like to have it is open to reasonable doubt. The sly bootlegger will be on the job. Here and there will be a man who knows a little place. All hip pockets will not be empty. Yet by and large the evening will not be wet and for most of the celebrators it will not be even damp.

Can a pretty girl muster up courage enough to throw a handful of confetti in the face of a cold sober gentleman whose sole introduction to her is the fact that he is walking down Broadway near the old country club? How will the same young woman act if an utter stranger without the excuse of an alcoholic exhilration shoves a miniature feather duster in her face? And will tea and coffee and near beer support the spirits which in the past were kept high by other spirits?

New York is going after its first prohibition election evening with faith and sustaining memories. We hope it can make good.

MINNESOTA AND THE ROADS

The state of Minnesota has taken a most advanced step in solving the good roads problem. Having had several years of experimenting during which it has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars upon trunk highways and secured some gratifying results, Minnesota has evidently come to the conclusion that the only ultimate solution of the highway question is hard surfaced roads. At any rate the people have authorized the expenditure of $100,000,000 to be used in building about 7,000 miles of thru state highways.

It is obvious that when Minnesota completes this road program or long before, she will have the best highways in the United States. What the specifications are for the new roads has not yet appeared, but it is assumed they will be paved with concrete. The cost seems large, but it will be paid for over a long series of years by the users of the highways and there is no doubt whatever that Minnesota will reap rich dividends upon this investment.

It takes some imagination for the motorist to conceive all of the advantages Minnesota will offer when these new roads are constructed. Think of 7,000 miles of paved road! Think of what it means to the farmers to whom transportation of their crops has ever been a big factor in production and marketing. Think further of what it means in development of Minnesota's farming interests.

With these roads in use, Minnesota will be the most desirable farming state in the union, and the increase in the price of her farm land will be more, far more, than the cost of the highways.

South Dakota will soon take notice of this forward step by Minnesota. We cannot long afford to labor under the disadvantage of having Minnesota's concrete highways connect up with our mud roads. There can be no such barrier to our progress set up on the eastern boundary line.—Watertown Public Opinion.

DRIVING A CAR.

It may have been thought that when one acquired certain fundamentals of automobiling that he should drive his car. Generally, people were of the opinion that, given a knowledge of the steering apparatus, the handling of the clutch, the brake and the few other things, lights, switch-key, etc., they might honk-honk their joint and several ways hither, thither and yon. But this is not so.

Really, one should carry with him a learned lawyer, one especially gifted in the matter of statutes duly passed, approved and finally interpreted by the higher court.

This legal addition to automobile accessories is for something the automobile driver of the future must take into consideration. And every tool box should be equipped with all the latest municipal ordinances and state laws of the territory traversed. This will help wonderfully in keeping out of jail.

For there are more automobile laws in existence today than the average motorist could read in a month of Sundays.

Which isn't the worst.

The Nation's Business says 5,000 new automobile measures will be introduced in the 42 state legislatures meeting in January.

And no doubt when the legislators get into action they'll think of a lot more laws to hurl at the motorist. They always do!

David Jameson, president of the American Automobile Association, makes and earnest and much needed plea for uniform laws and uniform registration fees "which will permit the man from California to travel anywhere else in the United States without a covert feeling that somehow he is breaking a law of some sort."

Uniform laws and better enforcement are of greater importance than another hatful of new laws. This should impress itself upon 42 state legislatures this winter.

THE TASK BEFORE HARDING

Chicago Tribune: By the will of the American people registered in a national election, the administration of the government of this republic is to be changed. The regime of Woodrow Wilson and of his party is to be ended and the great powers and responsibility of government will pass out of his masterful hands and into those of Warren G. Harding.

The exultation of a well deserved victory and a sense of the high honor conferred upon him will, we believe, be tempered in such a nature as President-Elect Harding by a consciousness of the task confronting him. For the task is such as few of our presidents have had to undertake and Mr. Harding professes no infallibility and no transcendental powers.

But that, we think, in his strength and the promise of success amid difficulties. The man most humble among our great men, the man most willing to take counsel, brought the nation thru the gravest of its perils and is cherished today highest among our statesmen. We have had nearly eight years of the contrary spirit and practice, and the nation has turned eagerly back to wiser and better ways. Mr. Harding has put himself before his countrymen not as a superman, but as a believer in common counsel. He has not been a great popular leader. Admirable as his words and carriage have been, he has been chosen not because of striking qualities played part in the election, because of a solid humanness which has given assurance to the people that American government and policy will undo him return to its own.

The wisdom of common counsel has been the text for Senator Harding's most telling utterances and we trust he will give early proof of his sense of the great weight of the responsibilities confronting the ablest cabinet obtainable. Common counsel must be the best counsel if the nation's needs are to be adequately served; egotism and ever wakeful jealousy of power and prerogative which have been so costly during the outgoing regime will be happily absent from the executive office under Mr. Harding. The country hopes for a cabinet of a character which at once commands public confidence. This is not a disparagement of Mr. Harding's qualities, but the impulses which he himself has felt and candidly expressed toward an abolition of a one-man government, of one-idea policy and its replacement by an executive large minded enough to make use of the best talent in public life. A cabinet of small men would not make Mr. Harding seem great. To choose none but the first rate men would mean that he did not fear comparison, but thought only of his duty and the nation's need.

The first duty of the new administration wil be to demobilize the army of democratic job holders. It is hoped now that the election is over the process may be begun before March 4, but at best it will be difficult and inadequate. If the taxpayers and productive industry of the country are to be materially relieved budget reform must be made more than a statute. But it will remain merely a statute unless Mr. Harding makes it a reality. If they can see beyond the ends of their political noses the republican leaders will loyally support him. Real reform i nthe process of government appropriation and expenditure may not furnish occasion for lofty rhetoric, but it will make a burden bearing people thankful. Of rhetoric and towering visions we have had a plenty and are paying for the fact that to be a competent executive was too humble a task for the architect of a new world. We hope and believe Mr. Harding's aspirations are more modest.

As for the league of nations and ou rrelations to it and to Europe, we think the American people can wait in patience for the adoption of a course of action. Mr. Harding has promised conference with leading Americans to advise what steps to take respecting the treaty and the delayed peace. Such conference may determine to recommend adoption of the Lodge reservations or others or to invite international consideration of a revised peace and amended form of international co-operation for peace. In any case we shall be safe from any agreement ignoring American interests and safety and from binding moral pledges to undertake the defense for all time of the decisions of Versailles.

That there is something doing in regard to the extension of the electric line from Goodridge east is self evident to the settlers out in that country. Deals have just been closed for four gravel pits out in that district and if we have the hope straight, an application will be made to the county commissioners at an early date for permission to use the grade on Judicial Ditch No. 25 as a right of way.—Spooner Northern News.

Why Do You Advertise?

This seems to be a very natural question, the answer involves the discussion of a vital policy of this business—a policy that is fundamental.

If we were building a business for today our policy would vary from day to day with the temporary changes with which every business has to contend.

But we are building for time to will become many times greater than it is today. Without the proper foundation it would undergo violent changes dependent upon temporary national, local or even imaginary conditions.

If we should permit ourselves to become inflated with self-confidence when business conditions are favorable, restricting our selling and advertising activities and go down in the dumps when conditions are not favorable, this business would not amount to any more than the existing conditions would make if it.

We say right now, without reservations, that we hope, regardless of how aggressive and efficient our manufacturing department may be, that it will never be able to catch up with our selling organization.

If our efforts should be halted in the middle of the road in times of liberal buying to wait on the manufacturing department; there might come a time when the manufacturing department might have to suspend operations while waiting on the sales organization.

With such a policy we would be running around in a circle, disorganizing one day and reorganizing the next.

The greater the demand for our product, the quicker the turnover for merchants; and the more frequent the turnovers the larger is the volume of profit.

In this business advertising is a sales policy—the same as our policy of maintaining a sales organization and we might as well consider the elimination of one as the other. Neither will be eliminated, as this business needs both if we are building for the future.

We have constantly in mind that the American people are much more concerned in their own affairs than in ours, and if we should restrict our selling and advertising activities they will begin to forget us—and this would be our fault.

We are going ahead with the idea of increasing the present momentum in favor of our goods, and if conditions should turn face about, our dealers and ourselves will be in a better position to handle obstacles than if we originated a policy for each condition as it arose.—Joseph Dixon Crucible Co.

NEW DISASTER RELIEF PLAN.

Continuance of Heavy Work Abroad Deemed Necessary to Protect United States—$21,000,000 Less Than Last Year.

A program of relief and service toward which appropriations of $48,200,000 have been made has been outlined for the American Red Cross for the fiscal year, July 1, 1920, to July 1, 1921, according to official announcement by national headquarters of the organization ot Washington. The figures for 1920-21 are $21,000,000 below those of 1919-20, in which $69,400,000 was spent.

Important among the items of the budget for the present year is the appropriation of $31,500,000 for relief in foreign lands, which includes $11,000,000 in purchased supplies on hand and not distributed.

Must Protect United States.

This will enable the American Red Cross to continue its humanitarian effort to aid stricken peoples to re-establish themselves, to fight the disease epidemics which threaten many countries and to effects largely the remaining traces of the blight left by the World War. It is regarded as social as well as physical sanitation on a large scale that will have a direct bearing on future conditions in America.

Central Europe, the chief sufferer from the conflict, today is facing another winter of famine, pestilence and ruin. Typhus decreased much during the summer months where last winter it had its greatest stronghold, but physicians who investigated the situation at the behest of the League of Red Cross Societies have given their unqualified opinion that this coming winter will see a recurrence on an unprecedented scale. The Red Cross feels it must continue preventive measures abroad to keep this and other deadly maladies from the United States.

Millions for Work at Home.

When the disease was sweeping Central Europe last winter the American Red Cross, with the aid of the governments of afflicted nations, undertook the fight against it. Hospitals were established wherever possible and food and clothing were distributed to the undernourished populations, who by reason of their undernourishment were easy prey to the epidemics. Where disorganization contributed last year to the great inroads made by the disease, by virtue of its knowledge of the disease and the presence of well established hospital centers, the American Red Cross this year will undertake the work with o new confidence.

Including the total of $11,000,000 in supplies left from the last fiscal year, the $31,500,000 is $21,000,000 less than the expenditures for 1919-20.

Appropriations for domestic activities total $16,700,000.

The largest item of this "home" budget is $7,800,000 for civilion relief work. This includes service and assistance for families of soldiers, sailors and marines, and work incidental to disaster. Of the total appropriation for civilian relief, $5,000,000 is held in reserve for the carrying out of actual disaster relief.

Reduced Overhead Expense.

The Red Cross invariably is the first thought of o community visited by calamity. With this in mind, it was determined by the Executive Committee in preparing the budget of 1919-20 to have a fixed reserve fund from which to draw in these instances.

For assistance to soldiers, sailors and marines in hospitals and in camps this year $1,000,000 has been set aside. Four million two hundred thousand dollors has been appropriated for improvement of health and prevention of disease throughout the United States during the current twelve months. The Red Cross is co-operating fully with the United States Health Service in this work and through its Junior Red Cross is doing much to spread among children the principles of sanitation. An appropriation of $1,000,000 has been made for developing the peace time program of the Red Cross by service to its chapters in all regions.

The appropriation of $48,200,000 is exclusive of the local expenditures of the 3,000 or more chapters.

Administration expenses this year will be $1,800,000. Last year they were $2,800,000.

HAIR DRESS BY DAME FASHION

Hare is a striking example of what a short span of years will do to Milady's hair. The pretty dark-eyed girl says, "you make a straight part down the right side, smooth it down to the ear, where you screw the ends into a tight curl, and pin them in a bunch right over the ear." The lady in the inset evidantly doesn't agree with her system at all.

WAS SHEVA LAVINE "TOO MODERN" OR "TOO HOMELY?"

WAS RUSSIAN GIRL'S SUICIDE TRAGEDY OF UNATTRACTIVE IMMIGRANT?

Boston—Why did Sheva Levine kill herself?

Here was a girl steeped, her rabbi bridegroom asserts, in the modern ideals of New Russia. She came to America to marry her old time sweetheart, Joseph Louwisch, of Poughkeepsie.

In almost the first breath of her confidences to him, he says, she confessed to a renunciation of religion, of belief in God even. She rejected the ideals of old fashioned love, marriage, motherhood. She wanted freedom, self-expression, money and the stimulus of "progressive thought."

Amazed and shocked, he says, at the change in his gentle sweetheart of ten years ago, the Rabbi Lunswisch demanded and obtained from Justice Morschauer an annulment of marriage.

Only Civil Rite.

The civil rite only had been performed. Sheva herself, the rabbi said, had refused the orthodox Jewish religious ceremony, at which in her new found atheism, she laughed.

And so, Sheva went to her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Rabalsky of Boston.

There she wrote a note to Mrs. Rabalsky, tore her bed sheet into a rope and hanged herself from a transom.

Why did she do it?

Why prefer death to the free road before her, that she is said to have so coveted?

She was a highly educated young woman, knowing many languages.

She "did not believe in marriage." Why then did not the adventure of self support appeal to her?

The "old fashioned orthodoxy" of her finance had repelled her and caused her to sneer and jeer, he says.

Why should she grieve, then, at the loss of one whose type was antipathetic?

It is useless to ask these questions of Rabbi Louwisch. He did not know he said.

"Case Isn't Ended."

So I asked Sheva's aunt, Mrs. Rabalsky, whose lawyer husband insists that the case is by no means ended, but will be "completely cleared up" and with the rabbi's version somewhat altered.

Rabalsky declares with feeling that—

"Louvisch blames the annulment of their marriage upon the girl's 'bolshevist ideas'—it is common prectice to blame everything on bolshevism."

Sheva's aunts are equally positive that the reason for the girl's pathetic ending of her life was disappointment and humiliation.

"I cannot live any longer," she writ esin her last note, "after this experience. Tell my people at home that I died naturally."

Mrs. Rabalsky said:

"Sheva was far from pretty. She was undersized and stout and not attractive. She realized this.

"She did not complain even when she returned to me from Poughkeepsie alone and penniless. She was proud. She kept her sufferings to herself. Only—when it got too bad, she quietly ended it—in that terirble way."

"And she had no 'bolshevist' belief?"

Sheva's aunt smiled sadly and shook her head.

"Life in Russia," she said simply, "has been hard in the last four years. She probably suffered much—and learned much—perhaps had more liberal ideals than in other times. But as for being a 'dangerous radical' or a bad girl—I would never, never believe it. She was just a poor, little thing who disappointed her good looking sweetheart—that is all. And she couldn't bear the thought of the lonely, forsaken life she felt was before her.

"Why else should she have killed herself?"

Why, indeed?

Christmas Sale of Seals.

More than $50,000 worth of Health Bonds will be offered to the citizens of Minnesota during the 1920 Christmas Seal Sale, which opens December 1 in every community in the state, officials of the Minnesota Public Health Association announce.

They are the equivalent of the famous penny Christmas seals which for nearly two decades have financed the fight against tuberculosis thruout the United States. They are sold to persons or firms who wish to make substantial contributions to the public health fund, but who do not wish to use as large a number of penny seals as the amount they desire to "invest in health" would buy. Large amounts of the Health Bonds were sold in every state last year, the first time they were offered.

Health Bonds this year are in denominations of $5, $10, $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. They are the equivalent of 500, 1,000, 2,500, 5,0000, 10,000 and 100,000 Christmas seals. They each bear ten coupons which pledge the use of the funds obtained thru them to specific service to the community, state and nation in the fight against tuberculosis and other deadly but preventable diseases.

Minnesota's quota of the national fund is $250,000 this year. County and local quotas are on the basis of 10 cents per capita.

Junior Live Stock Show Nov. 17-19.

A state wide exhibition of young live stock second only to that held at the state fair will be put on at the junior livestock show to be held at South St. Paul, Nov. 17, 18 and 19. Boys and girls from 30 counties are feeding about 700 calves for the county and state contests. The two best yearlings and the two best calves from each county will be shown at South St. Paul and on Nov. 19 more than 100 head of the finest beef stock ever produced in Minnesota will be sold at auction. Juniors of 22 Minnesota counties are feeding about 600 calves for the dairy calf contest. Hundreds of other boy and girl club members are getting pigs and lambs in the best condition possible for exhibition at South St. Paul. The annual live stock judging contest for juniors will be held at University Farm on Nov. 17, the opening day of the show.

CARNEGIE HERO MEDALS AWARDED

TEN LOSE LIVES IN DEEDS RECOGNIZED—33 MEDALS ARE DISTRIBUTED.

Pittsburgh—Ten persons, some of them mere boys and girls and one a girl stenographer, lost their lives in deeds of heroism which have been recognized by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission at its regular fall meeting here.

Thirty-three medals were awarded by the commission which, in addition to minor financial appropriations, recognized seven heroic acts by appropriating $10,000 for the education of those responsible. An additional $10,000 was applied for the liquidation of indebtedness and to other worthy purposes for heroes.

The young woman who lost her life was Karin S. Lundeberg, 19 years old, of 12 Chadwick Ave., Hartford, Conn. She was drowned in the Farmington river while attempting to save Evelyn M. Anderson July 5, last. A silver medal was awarded to her father.

To the others who lost their lives bronze medals were awarded in each case. They were:
